No Party Bar On Able Men Says Manion

Proposes Joint Rallies Pick Candidate With Service First

OTTAWA, Jan. 31—(CP).—Conservative Leader Manion announced today that if he is called upon to form the next Dominion Government he intends to take in representatives of "both the old parties and, if practicable, all important parties in the House of Commons."

This was his answer, Dr. Manion said, to a "flood" of approving messages he had received as a result of his National Government proposal of last Friday, many of them asking for more details.

Dr. Manion suggested that in those constituencies where nominations have not yet been made, the National Conservative Party get together with other political groups in open conventions to select candidates who will put service above party and who will command the support of all groups.

"My idea is that at this time of world crisis and national danger our people do not want petty bickerings of party continuously sounding in their ears," Dr. Manion said.

"My own feeling is that we must all put country above party or personal preferment." Dr. Manion said no outstandingly able man would be kept out of his proposed National Government because of his political affiliations.

Elaborates On Plan.

The statement follows:

Regarding my proposal published Friday—the day after Mr. King impulsively and unfairly dissolved parliament—that if elected I would form a National Government, I am being flooded with letters, telegrams and telephone messages of approval. But accompanying some of these messages, and also in some of the press, is the suggestion that I elaborate my plan. There I gladly do so in this brief press release.

My idea is that at this time of world crisis and national danger our people do not want petty bickerings of party continuously sounding in their ears. They do want, when this election is over, a government of the best men available, irrespective of politics, to handle our war effort so that such evils as patronage, favoritism, and extravagance will be wholly eliminated.

Now that we are in the war beside Great Britain and France, they want real leadership instead of the half-hearted and dilatory methods of Mr. King and his government. I am convinced that this is the desire of the vast majority of the Canadian

London, Jan. 31 (CP)

PRIME MINISTER Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today that the Admiralty will become responsible for all Britain's merchant shipbuilding and repairs effective tomorrow.

In announcing an arrangement similar to the one adopted in the later stages of the last war, Mr. Chamberlain said Sir James Lithgow would be controller of merchant shipbuilding and Sir Amos [illegible] director of merchant shipping.

England, France To Get Fight They Asked, But Can Never Whip Reich, Boasts Hitler

Hinting New Phase Of Violence To Break

BERLIN, Jan. 31 — (AP). — A new phase of violence in the war was predicted by Nazi commentators to-day on the strength of Adolf Hitler's declaration that "England and France will get the fight they asked for."

Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, stressed this quotation in a page-one headline over its account of his address in the Sports Palast last night.

German observers, after studying the text of the address, concluded that the Fuehrer intended to make a finish fight of the war that will be five months old on Saturday.

They detected a note of reliance on Soviet Russia and Italy, when he said the Russian ties made Germany's position safe "from the rear" and that the Reich was buttressed by unchanged, "close friendship" with Italy.

"On our battle for national existence, we have grown so strong that nothing will be able to defeat us," Hitler boasted.

His closest approach to definition of Germany's war aims was the general remark that the Reich was not fighting for anything lost in the past, but was fighting "for all the future."

While he spoke with his usual bitterness of Allied leaders, hearers held the opinion that he added no concrete factor to the word-war which has been conducted simultaneously with the physical conflict at sea and in the air. The talk apparently was a "pep talk" for domestic consumption.

Hitler spoke at an arranged Nazi rally of 25,000 picked demonstrators to mark the anniversary of his accession to the German Chancellorship Jan. 30, 1933.

Until Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels made the introduction the uninitiated and radio listeners in Germany did not know even where the meeting was being held. The British radio, however, announced the locale in advance.

The cold, snowy streets of blacked-out Berlin were devoid of demonstrations.

(Noises frequently interrupted reception of the speech in the United States, and some radio engineers attributed this to "jamming" from some unidentified source.)

Shortly after Hitler's address, it was claimed semi-officially that German fiers had destroyed seven more British merchant ships and damaged three other vesses.

(One Nezi plane was destroyed and another damaged in the attack on merchant shipping. One British merchantman was known to have been sunk).

In Hitler's first formal address since he narrowly escaped death in the Munich beer cellar explosion of Nov. 8, he described Germany's relations as follows:

Great Britain and France:

In 1939, the western powers dropped the mask and sent Germany a declaration of war, despite all our attempts at an understanding.

"To-day they admit an understanding with Poland might have been possible, but they did not want it. They wanted war. I can only tell England and France, they will get the fight they asked for."

Soviet Russia:

"Through centuries Germany and Russia were friends—why not now? As a result of my efforts, we now have our back clear. We have nothing to worry about any longer from the rear on account of our alliance with Russia."

Italy:

"For years Germany has pursued a common policy with Italy. This policy has not changed. Both states are intimate friends. Their common interests can be reduced to common denominator."

German Patrols Keep French Batteries Busy

The sector, roughly bordered by the Saar and the Warndt Forest, sprang to life Tuesday following a six-weeks lull enforced by wintry weather. Supported by day-long artillery fire, the Germans attempted two raids against French outposts, the first with 60 men, the second with 30. Both were repulsed.

The miniature German offensive apparently waned with night, at least temporarily. This morning's official communique advised there was "nothing to report" from the front.

AT AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Jan. 31—(CP).—"Now there's a fat prize," said the destroyer skipper.

He pointed ahead at a sight that would have gladdened the heart of any U-boat commander. It was a sizable British tanker, carrying the oil so vital to the Allied war machine.

The captain of the Royal Canadian Navy was speaking to newspapermen, permitted aboard his ship so the Canadian public might be given a picture of Canada's destroyer-navy operating.

The captain looked at his watch. "Time to turn back," he announced. Then, aside to the first lieutenant "Give 'em a bit of helm on this one." The first lieutenant smiled, and barked a command to the helmsman.

They "gave her a bit of helm" all right. For a few seconds, nothing happened. Then, the rudder bit into the churning sea. The stern whipped around and the starboard rail went awash. On the bridge, it was every man for himself.

The ship was in the dead centre of the channel as she passed through the gate in the submarine net at the harbormouth. There was lots of other traffic through the gate. A tanker was directly ahead, and several other ships were coming up at

WHITBY, Ont., Jan. 31.—(CP)—Toronto real estate was refused as bail at its assessed value in police court here yesterday when Crown Attorney Allin F. Annis stated "my experience with Toronto property is that it is over-assessed as far as its sale value is concerned."

The question arose when five Toronto youths appeared on various charges of breaking, entering and theft. Defence counsel was prepared to furnish bail in Toronto property. Mr. Annis, in objecting to that form of bail, insisted that by personal experience he knew that Toronto property is usually assessed at 25 per cent above its actual sale value, and that a house brought before the court by accused' lawyer as assessed at $2,300 would be worth only $1,500 as bail.

Magistrate Ebbs declared he felt $5,000 bail was not out of place and the five went back to jail while counsel went to attempt to arrange it. They gave their names as Bruce Rodden, 20; James Tomlinson, 20; Leonard Eloner, 18; Robert Weir, 23, and Irwin Green, 18. A sixth accused, wounded by an intended victim's shot, is in Toronto General Hospital. He is Dayton Platten, aged 19.

Surprise In Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 31—(CP)—"First time I ever heard of anything like that," said Assessment Commissioner [illegible], commenting on the action of Crown Attorney Annis, Whitby, in refusing to accept Toronto real estate, at its assesed value, as bail.

"I'd like to know what he knows about City of Toronto property," the Commissioner added.

Looted Safe, Car Thefts Stir London District

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 31 (CP)—A looted safe and two auto thefts over night sent provincial police on the trail today of what they believe may be the remnants of a robber gang which operated in western Ontario late in 1939.

Pond's store, at Lucan, north of London, was entered, the safe smashed and $20 taken from the box. The raiders are also blamed for the theft of a car owned by Dr. W. T. Banting, of Lucan.

Another auto was stolen from Hogg's Garage at Thamesford, on No. 2 highway east of London. Police say the robbers may have switched machines, or split up into two cars.

"No Faltering For Canada" McNaughton

Stanley, Eden, Ironside Attend Dinner Honoring Canadians

LONDON, Jan. 31 (CP Cable)—Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton general officer commanding Canadian active service force, told a Canada Club luncheon meeting today there was no doubt that Canadians had decided "the menace which hangs over Europe and the world must be set at rest for ever," and heard two ministers of the British Cabinet voice thanks for the Dominion's assistance and loyalty.

"We are in this war beside the peoples of these Islands and France with grim determination to see it through to the end," the Canadian Commander said before a brilliant gathering of British and French statesmen and soldiers and upwards of 300 of Canada's most prominent residents in the United Kingdom. Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden said Canada once more had earned the unbounded gratitude of all France and the Empire, and had "given inspiring example to freedom-loving people everywhere."

Not kinship or sentiment alone made the Dominion answer the call, he added. Rather it was the realization that "everything that is a Briton's heritage is at stake."

The soul of Nazidom was servitude. It was not civilization but a beast of prey, and the Dominions Secretary said he wanted to apologize to the beasts for mentioning them in the same breath as Hitlerism.

Oliver Stanley, making one of his first speeches as war secretary, told General McNaughton and 50 other officers of the First Division present that their present and record in the last war made the Allies confident that "we shall fight with the same courage, the same loyalty, and, in the end, the same result."

The determination and unity of the Dominion—as shown by the presence of large numbers of French-Canadians in the C.A.S.F. — had greatly impressed the British people, Mr. Stanley said. Because it was realized that Canadians 3,000 miles away, were less immediately threatened than people in the old country, their decision as a free people to stand shoulder to shoulder against the enemy and for fundamental truth was all the more welcome.

"We not only welcome Canadian words of support," he added, "but their army of support."

The commander-in-chief of the station announced the arrival, adding that "he felt sure that the citizens of Plymouth will wish to welcome her."

Following message was sent to the Ajax by the Board of Admiralty: "Their Lordships are glad to welcome H.M.S. Ajax home and congratulate you on your safe return after two years' service abroad culminating in the memorable action against the enemy. They hope you will soon enjoy a well-earned leave."

Several Cabinet Ministers Due For Senate?

OTTAWA, Jan. 31 —(CP). — The Cabinet holds its second meeting of the week to-day to discuss the Government's election campaign and possibly decide additional appointments to vacancies in the Senate, the Government service and the Judiciary.

Six Senators were appointed Monday, and it is understood the remaining seven seats will be filled shortly, with the possibility that one or more Cabinet ministers might be sent to the Upper House.

Parliament Hill has returned to a semblance of normalcy after the surprise over the dissolution of Parliament, but the national headquarters of major political parties are humming with activity.

The campaign will lack much of the old-time gatherings on the hustings. Electors will acquire their inspiration, so far as Liberal policies are concerned, largely from the newspapers and loudspeakers of their radios.

Tour Within 2 Weeks.

Conservative Leader Manion will probably start out within a fortnight on a tour which will take him before the electors in cities, towns, and, smaller communities across Canada.

But Prime Minister Mackenzie King and most of his colleagues, preoccupied with the task of conducting a war, will confine their rhetorical efforts largely to the radio although it is expected there will be many outstanding exceptions to this general rule. Prime Minister Mackenzie King might make a radio speech soon.

Hon. W. D. Herridge, Leader of the New Democracy Movement, has yet to announce publicly the part he will play in the campaign.

Only 30 Sick In 30 Trains Of Troops Rogers Flings Back At Manion

OTTAWA, Jan. 31—(CP).—Defence Minister Rogers, in a press statement today described as "totally untrue" the charge of Conservative Leader Manion, that many of those who enlisted in the Canadian Active Service Force became ill because of lack of proper clothing and blankets.

(Dr. Manion made the charge in a press statement issued yesterday. He also made a similar charge in the House of Commons last Thursday).

"I felt it my immediate duty to make an immediate investigation of this serious charge," said Mr. Rogers. "On the evidence of responsible military authorities bith in British Columbia and at eastern ports of embarkation the statement made by Dr. Manion was found to be totally untrue."

The Defence Minister said that "out of some 30 train loads of men of all units arriving at the port of embarkation from various points in Canada only 30 all told were required to go to hospital instead of proceeding overseas, and all types of illness were represented in this hospital list."

Some Quoting

Mr. Rogers' statement follows:

My reply to the statement issued yesterday by Dr. Manion does not require many words. In his speech in the House of Commons last Thursday Dr. Manion made the definite charge that "I know of one battalion from British Columbia which was dressed in cotton underwear and cotton underclothing. These men crossed this north country in the middle of December and continued across the North Atlantic in the same kind of weather. I say, again without fear of contradiction—this information comes to me from doctors in charge of these militia regiments—that many of these men are sick and large numbers have been sent to the hospital because of lack of preparation and because of lack of vision on the part of this Government."

I felt it my duty to make an immediate investigation of this serious charge. On the evidence of responsible military officers both in British Columbia and at eastern ports of embarkation the statement made by Dr. Manion was found to be totally untrue. The only battalion to which his charge could have referred was the Seaforth Highlanders for this is the only battalion which as yet left British Columbia for overseas.

All Fully Equipped.

The district ordnance officer for British Columbia reported that every man was issued with woollen underwear, battle dress and great-coat before the units left British Columbia for the port of embarkation. I may add that every unit of the First Division went overseas with similar equipment.

The embarkation officers at eastern ports reported that the men

93,000 Killed, 8,800 Hurt In U.S. Mishaps At Cost Of $3,300,000,000 During 1939

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 — (AP).— Accidents killed 93,000 persons in the United States in 1939, injured 8,800,000, and cost an estimated $3,300,000,000, the National Safety Council reported today.

These figures represented a saving of about 800 lives and a one per cent. reduction from the 1938 toll. The 1939 accident rate of 71 deaths per 100,000 population was the lowest since 1900, with two exceptions—1921 and 1922.

Leading the list were motor vehicle accidents, which accounted for 32,600 deaths, 18 more than in 1938, and caused approximately 1,150,000 non-fatal injuries. Economic losses were estimated at $1,500,000,000.

Ranking second were accidents in the home. They killed 32,000 persons in 1939, two per cent. more than in 1938, injured 4,700,000, and cost an estimated $600,000,000. Falls were blamed for 17,000 of the home deaths.

Finns Retake Pitkaranta In Far North

Report 2 Red Divisions Foodless Week, Wait Till Shells Gone

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 31 (AP)— The Finns, in a sharp thrust North of Lake Ladoga, have recaptured the important city of Pitkaranta, 10 miles southeast of Kitela and about 20 miles from the Soviet Russian frontier, it was reported unofficially today.

Recapture of Pitkaranta, occupied by the Red Army early in the invasion of Finland, was described as an effective gain in the encircling move against Russian divisions trapped in the Kitela sector.

An observer from the Lake Ladoga front reported two of the Soviet divisions there had been without food for more than a week, although they still had ammunition.

According to this source, the Finnish strategy now is one of waiting until the Russians run out of bullets, at the same time keeping up thrusts against the Russian positions.

He said the Soviet offensive northeast of the Lake had been technically broken for some time, but that the Finns, because of numerically inferior forces, must bide their time before taking full advantage of the victory.

The same informant said evidence had been found by the Finns that Russian dead were being disposed of through holes in the ice so as to conceal the extent of the casualties.

Jap, Red Experts Disagree, End Border Talk

TOKYO, Jan. 31 — (AP). — A communique was awaited to-day to provide details of the split between Japanese and Russian experts seeking to mark permanently the battle-scarred boundary between Manchoukuo and Outer Mongolia.

Announcement that the commission had disbanded without reaching agreement was made last night by the Foreign Office spokesman, Yakichiro Suma.

A telegram, arriving at the Foreign Office during Suma's press conference, merely said that both sides had signed a declaration of their intention to abandon the talks.

Boundary difficulties have been at the seat of serious military clashes between Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces and Russian or Mongolian troops in 1938 and 1939.

Meanwhile, Japan's self-imposed electric power "famine" reached a critical stage. Manufacturers stood to lose millions of dollars and workers expressed bewilderment over enforced idleness.

The partial shutdown begun yesterday for a proposed 14-hour period was expected to continue in the industrialized areas of Kobe, Ykoto Andoska and newspapers reported the order would be applied in Tokyo and Yokohama.

Expect Hepburn Budget On February 8

TORONTO, Jan. 31 — (CP). — Amending bill to the Succession Duty Act will be discussed in committee stage in the Ontario Legislature today, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced as the House adjourned yesterday.

The measure, designed to facilitate the collection of levies on estates, was scheduled for committee of the whole yesterday, but the Premier said certain representations were being heard by the government in connection with it.

Reports current at Queen's Park indicated the budget might be brought down by Premier Hepburn on Thursday, February 8.

The Treasury Department, of which the Premier is minister, has speeded its work since dissolution of the Federal Parliament last week. Until that time, the Provincial Government had awaited announcement of the Dominion budget before settling its own taxes for the year. Chamberlain Reassures All Neutrals

Rights Unquestioned, Allies Fighting For Any Oppressed

LONDON, Jan. 31 (CP)—Prime minister Chamberlain, strongly defending Britain's attitude toward neutrals, today declared the Allies do not question the right of other countries to "go into the conflict or to stay out" and want only to live in "peaceful and friendly" relations with neutrals.

He reminded them, however, in a speech at the Dorchester Hotel to the committee for national defence and public interest, that it is becoming clearer every day that Britain is fighting "for every country that feels itself oppressed by the fear that some day they may find themselves in the position successively occupied by Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and now by Finland."

The Prime Minister declared Britain had sunk no neutral ships and had never "wittingly sacrificed a single neutral life." Emphasizing the safety of British convoys for friendly commerce, he announced that only yesterday the Germans had attempted their first Submarine attack on a convoy in a long time and that the U-Boat had been sunk.

Progress of the War

In an outline of the progress made thus far in the Empire's war effort, Mr. Chamberlain enumerated the following points:

1. "At home, in France, in India and in other nations overseas along our vital lines of Imperial communications we have upwards of 1,250,000 men under arms."

2. With the first contingent of the British Expeditionary Force, "already we have sent over to France for their sustenance many thousands of motor transport vehicles and nearly 500,000 tons of munitions and stores."

3. The Royal Navy, "is to-day, as it always was in our history, the first line of defence of these islands." The field of sea battle is "wherever British ships sail upon the seas that cover two-thirds of the earth's surface."

4. The manpower employed in aviation construction is seven times what it was in 1935-36. Experience has proven that the quality of machines and personnel leaves nothing to be desired.

As regards the Empire air training scheme, "there will be established in Canada not less than 67 training schools, amounting to no less than 40,000 of staff, and they will be provided with upwards of 80 new or enlarged airdromes."

5. Concerning equipment for the British force: "In order to secure raw materials required we made arrangements by which we purchased

Press Points To Napoleon, Kaiser In Answering Hitler's Rantings

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(CP)—Adolf Hitler's speech yesterday at the Berlin Sportspalast contained little truth and much abuse of the Allies and of democratic ideals, British newspapers said today.

"Hitler Sneers At Chamberlain!" the Daily Express exclaimed. "He calls him a 'Bible preacher!'"

"Now that is a very fine description of a good man and a wise leader. Hitler is right. He has given a description of our Prime Minister which we might well adopt."

The Times said: "Hitler devoted his customary anniversary speech in Berlin yesterday mainly to sarcastic abuse of the democratic ideals of the British Empire, and in particular of Mr. Chamberlain. . . .

"Last night's tirade of threats, whines and hatred is interesting only as an example of the systematic mendacity upon which German morale apparently is built. . . .

"He declared that Mr. Churchill had said that Germany must be destroyed. 'What Mr. Churchill and other government speakers have said is that there can be no peace until the armed might of Germany is destroyed.'.

Get Your Seats Folks

Referring to current reports that Hitler has royal and imperial ambitions, the Daily Herald said:

"Prepare for April 20th (Hitler's birthday)! Buy your swastikas and book your seats! For on that day, the Nazi papers tell us, Hitler is to make his triumphal entry into London.

"He will then be proclaimed King of England, Emperor of Germany, Emperor of Austria, and King of Poland!

PARIS, Jan. 31—(AP). — Semi-official circles today said France received Adolf Hitler's speech with "calm indifference."

The Paris newspaper Le Journal declared the speech was that "of a man made helpless by the appearance of the police he had not expected; the speech of a man who in order to justify his own crimes accuses his adversaries."

LONDON, Jan. 31. — (CP).— The North Sea continued to cast up new casualties of the quickening war in the air and on the waves.

Sixteen survivors from the sunken British steamship Giralda, 2,178 tons, were reported today to have drowned within a quarter-mile of land when their lifeboat capsized. The bodies were washed ashore on one of the Orkney Islands.

Two lifeboats of the 1,467-ton British steamship Eston were washed ashore near a northeast port. The Eston and her crew of 18 were believed lost.

Other losses reported yesterday included the 8,501-ton British tanker Triumph, the 4,563-ton collier Coryton, the trawler Algoma and the 2,881-ton British freighter Stanburn. Twenty-six of the Stanburn's crew of 28 were lost.

A statement issued in London said "No less than 20" German bombers took part in yesterday's attacks. The raids were aimed at the east coast, destination of more than half of Britain's normal inbound shipping.

people. Only a few hide-bound politicians differ. My own feeling is that we must all put country above either party or personal preferment.

When I form this government, I intend, so far as possible, that both the old parties, and, if practicable, all important parties in the House of Commons, shall be represented in it—at any rate no outstandingly able man would be kept out of such government because of his political affiliations.

Break For Labor

Leaders in business and industry would necessarily be included. Incidentally, it is time that the Labor department, for example, should have at its head some outstanding labor man who understands the problems of this large body of our citizens, just as the great industry of agriculture is usually, and should always be, represented by a practical agriculturist. These departments are merely mentioned as illustrations, for the purpose of clarifying my intention.

With a whole-hearted desire to serve our country, our empire, indeed to serve all the principles of liberty for which we are fighting, I suggest most respectfully that in those constituencies throughout Canada were nominations have not been made for the coming election, the National Conservative party make a patriotic endeavor to get together the people of all groups at open conventions with the object of exploring the possibility of nameing some loyal, able, high type of citizen, of whatever party, as candidate — one whose character would make him capable of fulfilling the requirements implied in these sentences, and who would be above merely using the national government proposal as a means of entering the House of Commons.

the north and west of an exceptionally wide "no man's land" studded by French and German outposts well in advance of their respective main lines. In between the lines are a number of "ghost cities" which, before the general evacuation, housed up to 16,000 people. The abandoned houses constitute an ever-present threat to patrols checking up on enemy operations.

Until operations were paralyzed by bitter cold, the Germans had constantly attempted to override the small French outposts, hoping thereby to eliminate the danger of sudden attack.

Yesterday's operations were started at 10 a.m. with an overland attack against French positions brought under heavy sellfire by German guns. French artillery immediately went into action to help repulse the raiders.

Heavy German guns, continuing their barrage long after the German troops had withdrawn, pounded the French outposts steadily until dark. French batteries maintained return fire.

Air operations continued on a minimum scale. A lone German plane carried out a reconnaissance flight over eastern and northern France, returning to Germany by way of Belgium.

Only One Plane Lost.

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—(AP).— The German High Command's communique to-day said:

"In the west, only minor fighting activity.

"The navy during the last few days increased its U-boat defences by augmenting a number of U-boat chasers and other U-boat defence measures.

"German air force units were put into active service also during Jan. 30 for reconnaissance over the North Sea and along the English coast from the Orkneys to the mouth of the Thames.

"In this connection, as already announced by a special bulletin, seven armed commercial ships were sunk, one other damaged severely and several lightly. Besides that, two British patrol boats were sunk.

"Despite the heaviest anti-aircraft defence by all ships that were attacked and although numerous pursuit ships were employed, only one of our planes is missing."

All Tired Out Before Day Half Over

Women who should be strong and healthy become weak, run down and worn out, and are unable to attend to their household duties. They get up in the morning dreading the day's work ahead of them.

Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of shattered nerves, impoverished blood, and an exhausted condition of the entire system.

Women will find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills the remedy they need to supply food for the exhausted nerve force, and one that will help them back to sound, perfect health again.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

If past performances mean anything new British air attacks on German coasts may be expected within the next few days. Every German air venture against Great Britain so far has been followed by a return attack and Monday the Nazi Air Force sent 20 or more aircraft against coastal shipping. Further raids followed yesterday.

The destruction unloosed on Finland by the Russian Air Force on Monday is an example of what the British people might have to endure were it not for their air defences.

The Finns estimated 200 Russian planes dropped 1,000 bombs on Finnish towns and cities, killing more than 30 people and wounding a greater number.

The Finnish claim that 21 attacking Russian planes were shot down indicates the vulnerability of bombers to effective fighter squadrons.

If Germany sent 200 bombers to raid Great Britain their losses probably would be considerably greater because of the opposition they would meet. That is undoubtedly the reason German air attacks so far have been confined to the coasts and have tended to concentrate on undefended shipping.

The fact that the Germans are fully aware of the price they must pay for an effective air attack on Great Britain will not mitigate the severity of the attack, when and if they decide to launch it. Rather it will result on the employment of the largest number of planes practicable in order to achieve the most substantial results possible while the attackers enjoy the advantage of surprise.

Hospital Board Asks City Grant Of $9,600

With cost of all requirements soaring because of the outbreak of war, Nicholls Hospital Board looked forward to an increase in expenses totalling more than $10,000 in 1940, when they held their annual meeting this week.

The Board is asking the City Council for the largest grant in its entire history—$9,600—to offset in part the increase in cost of operation. Last year the oBard asked for, and received, a grant of $2,400.

Increase Cost.

In her report to the Board, Superintendent Mrs. E. M. Leeson told of increases all along the line in hospital requirements. For example, she said that a conservative estimate of increase in gauze and cotton is 20 per cent; catgut advance is $2.50 or 10 per cent., with no price guarantee; soap surgical advance is $1.00 a gallon, or 27 per cent.; baby soap advance $2.00 a gallon, or 60 per cent.; lysol, very difficult to buy, no price quoted; alcohol (pure) advance $6.50 a gallon or 60 per cent; cod liver oil, advance $1.00 a gallon or 20 per cent.; castor oil, difficult to procure.

All narcotics increased from 10 to 20 per cent., and still going up. All mercury products, such as Bichloride of Mercury tablets, Mercury Potassium Iodide, used extensively for disinfecting, and also Carbolic Acid, have increased in price and the supply is uncertain. Bismuth, Iodoform, Quinine, Ergot, all have increased. Ergot ampoules have advanced from $10.80 to $19.25 a hundred, almost 90 per cent. Rubber tubing and hypodermic needles both have soared 20 per cent. Mouth thermometers have advanced $11.00 a gross or 30 per cent.

Up 300 Per Cent.

Greatest increase, however, was in surgical instruments. Some that were formerly bought at $6.50, now sell for $19.25—an advance of 300 per cent. All have advanced from 25 to 50 uper cent, and best quality articles are difficult to buy. "We endeavor to buy all our commodities from English firms, but even now the order is frequently cancelled or supplied only in part. You will note by this that prices generally are on the increase and the war has just begun," Mrs. Leeson warned.

Secretary-treasurer E. B. Fowler prepared an account of estimated increases due to the war. Also attached is costs that must be met including a cash shortage of $1,400, new equipment, and an estimated shrinkage in the Government grant. Last year the grant was $5,479, approximately $1,000 below the previous year, and further paring is looked for in 1940. The statement follows:

Dietary—Food only	$18,700.00	5%	$ 935.00
Alcohol	420.00	60%	525.00
Drugs and Surgical Supplies	11,200.00	20%	2,240.00

the whole output of Empire wool for the duration of the war and a year after that. We purchased £85,000,000 worth of textiles.

1,000 Firms Making Cloth.

As against nine firms manufacturing khaki cloth at the beginning of September there are now more than 1,000 in England.

Since the beginning of the war production of guns of all calibres has at least doubled. In some cases it increased eightfold. Production of shells also at least was doubled. In some cases it is now 10 times what it was after five months of the last war.

Of trade relations with the United States he said:

"We have been in the past the largest customer of the United States for their agricultural produce. As soon as the war began we were compelled to curtail our imports of things which were not essential to us that we may concentrate our dollar resources upon the purchase from the United States of those enormous masses of munitions and equipment which it is necessary for us to have in order to carry on the struggle.

Not Indifferent to Losses

"But let no one suppose that we want to use the measures we have taken for any purpose other than the prosecution of the war; nor that we are indifferent to the losses which neutrals may thereby sustain."

Mr. Chamberlain praised Britain's reciprocal trade treaty with the United States, which he said "pointed the way to better things in international trade."

He said that the "policy we have in mind when the times comes to turn once more from war to peace" will be restoration of international trade.

Of the Anglo-Japanese dispute over the seizure by a British warship of 21 Germans from the Japanese steamship Asama Maru on Jan. 26, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"Nothing could more distress us than that the Japanese government or the people should feel that we have exercised our belligerent rights with any want of courtesy or respect for them."

Japan has protested to Britain over the incident and the subject now is under diplomatic discussion in Tokyo.

Of neutral countries generally, Mr. Chamberlain said Britain had no desire "to affront a neutral country with which we want to live in peaceful and friendly relations."

"It is becoming clearer every day from the actions of the Germans themselves," said Mr. Chamberlain, "that we are fighting not only for ourselves but for every country that feels itself oppressed by the fear that some day they may find themselves in a position successively occupied by Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and now by Finland."

Marler Claimed By Death At 63

MONTREAL, Jan. 31 — (CP).— Sir Herbert Marler, former Canadian Minister to the United States and Japan, died to-day in Royal Victoria Hospital where he had been a patient since last June. He was 63.

Sir Herbert, who was Canada's first minister to Japan, enjoyed a long record of public service and was a former member of Parliament. He served in Japan from 1929 to 1936 when he was appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States. He resigned this post in September, 1939, because of ill-health.

His death closed a period of public service that began when he was appointed to the Quebec Province Education Council. In 1917-18, during the First Great War, he was Fuel Administrator for Quebec.

A former Cabinet minister, he was elected to the House of Commons for Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George riding as a Liberal in 1921. He was sworn to the Privy Council of Canada and called to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's Cabinet in 1925, but he was defeated in the general election of that year and resigned.

Sir Herbert was created a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in 1935. In 1934, he was awarded the Cross of Merit and the Red Cross Society of Japan.

The year after his election to Parliament he was named chairman of the Parliamentary Committee on Soldiers' Pensions and Civil Re-establishment. He served also as chairman of the Committee on Transportation in the negotiations which resulted in the trade agreement between Canada and the British West Indies in 1925.

who were ill were not allowed to proceed overseas but were removed to a military hospital. Only two men of the Seaforth Highlanders were taken off the trains and put in hospital. Neither of these men suffered from any illness attributable to cold or lack of clothing. Out of some 30 train loads of men of all units arriving at the port of embarkation from various points in Canada only 30 all told were required to go to hospital instead of proceeding overseas, and all types of illness were represented in this hospital list.

Instead of admitting his error and expressing regret for it, Dr. Manion has seen fit to indulge in personal abuse and then to submit to me a list of general questions bearing on the conduct of the war during the past four months.

Doubt if any useful purpose would be served by prolonging a newspaper controversy at this time. The statement made by Dr. Manion and reports from responsible military officers speak for themselves. It has been quite evident that the Minister of National Defence would be one of the chief targets for attack by Dr. Manion.

For my own part I am prepared to regard these attacks as one of the minor hardships of war. So far as general questions on the record of the Canadian war effort are concerned, I intend to deal with them fully from time to time in the course of the election campaign. In due course a fair-minded electorate will decide the issues on their merits.

were published without comment today in the Italian press. Space was equally given to the reception it was given in Great Britain and France.

Fascist political circles were said to be convinced that Germany's threatened "total war" against the Allies would soon be started.

Hitler's failure to mention the future status of Polish territory now occupied by German troops was interpreted by Italian observers as indication the Reich intends simply to annex all conquered territory.

Dissatisfaction was expressed here over Hitler's attempt to justify his co-operation with the Soviet Union, but this was counterbalanced for Italians by the emphasis he placed on the community of interests still existing between Germany and Italy.

Hitler's denunciation of the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations and his theories on "have" and "have not" struck a responsive chord in Rome.

F.D.R. Sanctions Cannibal Isle Expedition

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Those footloose Fahnestocks, mamma and her two strapping sons, are heading for little-known Cannibal Islands of the South Seas with President Roosevelt's blessing.

They sail today on a two-year voyage aboard a 137-foot racing schooner with Diesel engine, a two-seater aeroplane and powerful radio equipment for broadcasts to America.

A letter from President Roosevelt is already framed and on prominent display on board ship. Addresses to "Dear Bruce and Sheridan," it says:

"I am terribly interested in your projected expedition to the South Seas to record primitive music and to bring back scientific data for the American Museum of Natural History. I hope you will keep me advised as to your progress and your needs in connection with this trip."

Bruce, 29, and Sheridan, 26, already renowned as two of the best light-sail men in eastern waters, explained that the President has also approved plans to survey little-known islands in the Pacific for the United States Navy.

Sixteen young men and grey-haired, plump Mrs. Bruce Fahnestock are the crew. "Mama," who achieved fame six years ago—after the death of her husband, a noted inventor—by running away to sea with her boys, is chief cook. She has twenty-three tons of food aboard.

Charger Still Alive.

Chairman at the luncheon was Lord Mottistone, who served almost four years with the Canadians in the First Great War and commended the Canadian Cavalry Brigade with distinction. He related that only this week he visited the charger he used in France on its 31st birthday.

Lord Mottistone read a message from the King thanking the club and its guests for their "loyal message of good wishes on the occasion of the luncheon to the distinguished Commander of the Canadian Forces."

The Earl of Bessborough, former Governor-General of Canada, sat at the head table, as did Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Hon. Vincent Massey, General Sir Edmund Ironside, and the Duke of Devonshire.

The Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada during part of the last war, sent a message expressing confidence that "we have with us a division that will be worthy successors of those who distinguished themselves for all time" at Ypres, Vimy, Passchendaele, and elsewhere.

There was a tone of paternal pride in General McNaughton's voice as he told the gathering of the composition of the First Division, that every officer was qualified for the rank he holds by reason of his attendance at Canadian Military Schools. Staff officers were products of Camberley, Quetta, or other post-graduate military colleges.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 31. — (CP).— Late weakness at Chicago left wheat futures prices ¼ cent lower on Winnipeg grain exchange to-day after moderate export sale sof Canadian wheat had boosted them as much as ⅛ cent early in the session. May wheat closed at 84⅜, Juy 85⅛ and October 86¼ cents a bushel.

In the cash wheat market offerings were freer and buyers backed away after obtaining their allotments. It was estimated in some quarters that about 600,000 bushels, made up of Nos. 2, 3 and 4 Northern, No. 5 wheat and No. 2 garnet, had been sold to exporte for shipments from the lakeheads at the opening of Great Lakes navigation.

CAMPBELLFORD

Railroads Ready To Give Greater Service

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31. — (ENS).—Interesting facts regarding the Canadian National Railway and the part it is playing in the war were revealed in an address delivered by M. S. "Gus" Mowatt before Rotarians at their luncheon on Monday. Mr. Mowatt served as despatcher at Lindsay for 20 years before coming here as station agent in 1931.

The despatcher is the man who gives the orders to the engineer who accepts them without question. Though mistakes in other jobs may means the loss of dollars and cents, his mistakes may be added up in the loss of human lives. The speaker explained that is was the despatcher's job to know where trains going in opposite directions on a single track line would meet, and it is he who gives the instructions to the engineer, whose duty it is to carry them out. Even including the human element of error, the chance of mistake with the system now in use is exceedingly rare.

By comparison with the system as it was during the last war its efficiency is increased by 50 per cent, although Mr. Mowatt recalled that between 1914 and 1918 traffice rose 50 per cent. above pre-war levels. Today the system has been co-ordinated to such an extent that there is no comparison between the system now and what it was then. The main line now connects every important sea port and is serving Canada at a cost lower than most other countries in the world.

To appreciate the strides made in the C.N.R. during the last 21 years one has merely to look at a table of comparative figures which shows the weight of steel used in rails in 1914-18 has increased from 80 to 85 pounds to 100 and 120 pounds; the largest locomotive has grown from 52,000 pounds to 90,000 pounds; the average speed of a freight has increased from 10 to 18 miles an hour (including all routine stops), or an increase of 70 per cent. Operation costs have also been cut as indicated by the fact that in 1914 it took 160 pounds of coal to move 1,000 pounds of freight one mile, while to-day the same amount of freight is moved the same distance on 120 pounds of coal. The capacity of a freight car has been increased from 33 tons to 42 tons, with the new type of steel car decreasing the amount of rolling stock while at the same time increasing its efficiency. Rotarian Earl Bell moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his interesting address.

A report of the Carnival held on Friday was given by Bert Taylor, who was in charge of the program. He made a motion asking the secretary to write a letter of thanks to Harold Dunk for his assistance in arranging the hockey games and races.

Springville Y.P.S.

The Y.P. of Springville held their regular meeting on Sunday night. The meeting was in charge of the Fellowship convenor, Mary Staples. "What A Friend" was sung followed by the scripture, read by Jim Hunter. A story entitled "At Martin's Door" was read by Clairemont Morgan. "Breathe On Me Breath of God" wa sung, followed by a Circle of Prayer. A "Quiz" contest followed with Mrs. G. McIntosh's side being the winners. "The Day Thou Gavest" and the Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

Mosley Men Sent To Jail

EXMOUTH, England, Jan. 31. — (CP).—Two members of Sir Oswald Mosley's Union of Fascists pleaded guilty here today to charge of securing and circulating information directly or indirectly of use to the enemy and were sentenced to six months' imprisonment each.

The two were Claude Felix Pierre Duvivier, a naturalized Briton of Belgian origin, who was also identified as a charter member of "The Link"—an Anglo-German cultural organization dissolved when war broke out—and William Alexander Crowle, a dockyard worker of Devonport.

It was established that the two men met in May of last year and had been corresponding since. One letter from Duvivier to Crowle, written September 28, included the following passage: "Whenever you have an interesting spot of news, drop me a line. Yours till the day."

On October 23 Crowle replied, referring to "Winnie" in a context which indicated he meant Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and continuing: "You can draw your own conclusions from what I am going to tell now. The (battle cruiser) Repulse is at Devonport. My sister corresponds with a young sailor aboard her and she received two letters from him, but since the sinking of the Royal Oak has not received a line."

The two patrolmen, Garret Gregory and Elroy Stevens, both 21, are believed to be the first coast guardsmen to cross the ice by foot to the mainland in mid-winter.

Material Aid

Bergen, Norway, Jan. 31 (AP) TWO HUNDRED United States-made warplanes for the Finnish air force were landed here from United States steamships today and started by rail for Finland.

The planes arrived on the Mormacsun and Mormactide.

It was impossible to tell what type the planes were as they were kept in packing casts with no revealing marks.

(With Washington's approval Finland was given prior right to purchase planes in the United States originally intended for the United States Navy.)

Old Indian Fighter Arizona Bill Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 31.—(AP).—Arizona Bill, who hated beds, died in one yesterday. The 96-year-old army veteran had fought Indians from the Rio Grande to the Rockies. Always he had insisted on sleeping out doors.

Born Raymond Hatfield Gardner at Logansport, Ind., he was captured by Commanches who raided his father's wagon train in East Texas. At eight he was traded to the Sioux for nine ponies and five blankets.

He stayed with the Sioux until he was 13, then ran away.

At 15 he was in the United States army, and later rode for Wells Fargo's pony express out of St. Joseph, Mo., when that palled, he went back to the army as a scout.

MustHave Seized Nazis Says Japs

TOKYO, Jan. 31 (AP).—The foreign office announced that Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita in a conference today with the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie, declared the return to Japan of 21 Germans seized by the British navy from the Japanese liner Asama Maru was "essential."

In a 2½-hour conference, Arita and the ambasador discussed "every angle" of the Asama Maru case. The vessel was halted by a British warship Jan. 20 Yokohama, and the 21, seamen returning to Germany, were taken off. They have been interned in Hong Kong.

Sir Robert and Arita agreed to meet again tomorrow.

The foreign office statement was considered interesting because heretofore the Japanese government had simply "reserved the right" to demand the return of the Germans. Hence the new position was interpreted as a stiffening of Japan's attitude.

The foreign office statement said the ambassador requested today's conference. It was agreed that the British note replying to Japan's protest over the incident would not be published immediately.

The Japanese government "meanwhile is preparing a considered reply," it was stated.

The newspaper Asahi said the Soviet Ambassador, Constantin Smetanin, had conferred for an hour today with Arita over the questions of Russian - Japanese trade and Japanese fishing rights in Soviet far eastern waters.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31—(CP).—More than 21,000,000 one-cent pieces were issued at the Royal Canadian mint during the calendar year 1939 a report from the Mint showed today.

Total value of all coins issued was $3,329,632, including 1,220,732 pieces, 28,000 50-cent pieces, 3,469,600 quarters, 5,619,000 10-cent pieces, 6,428,000 five-cent pieces and 1,460,000 one-cent pieces.

The output of one-cent pieces was stepped up late in the year as the Mint worked overtime to meet the demand for bronze coins needed for change in the Christmas retail trade.

Middle Of The Road

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31 — (AP). —Leaders of the strong, wealthy International Typographical Union, under suspension from the American Federation of Labor, indicated to-day it would follow a middle-of-the-road policy until labor's civil war was settled.

In Miami, Fla., yesterday the A. F.L. executive council imposed the suspension for the I.T.U.'s failure to pay a special assessment, levied upon A.F.L. affiliates more than two years before, to raise money to stop the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

U.S. Society Lady Starts Canteens For Paris Army Of Air Defenders

BOSTON, Jan. 31 — (AP). — A woman worth millions in her own right, who left the ballrooms of society in the last war to scrub hospital floors and nurse French soldier, undertook to-day — as her "bit" in the second Great War—the task of establishing canteens for anti-aircraft troops defending Paris.

Mrs. Larz Anderson, 63, world traveller and philanthropist, author and playwright, announced she had received a permit from the United States officials and authorization from the French Government to raise funds for canteens for the watchers of the sky "to keep up their morale."

The French Army, she said, "does not provide canteens for these posts where soldiers live in barracks, huts and dugouts. There are, she added, about 500 air defence posts around Paris.

The work of organizing canteens is nothing new to Mrs. Anderson. More than two decades ago, in Washington, she organized and equipped the first for the United States Army. Scores of others set up in France were patterned after it.

Refusing to take a vicarious part in that war, Mrs. Anderson abandoned the society to which she was accustomed to preside over a canteen in France. Later, she joined the Red Cross, ministering at the Front to wounded French soldiers for eight months. Two of the hospitals in which she worked were damaged by shellfire. France gave her the Croix de Guerre, Belgium the Medal of Elizabeth. Both Japan and the United States have decorated Mrs. Anderson.

Widow of a former United States Ambassador to Tokyo and Belgium, she will serve as chairman and treasurer of the new American canteen organization, and work with a committee already formed in France.

A new portrait of Sid Dudley Pound, admiral of the fleet and chief of the naval staff at the British admiralty. A hard-bitten sailor who learned his trade the hard way, Admiral Pound is, in the opinion of many Britishers, the ideal man for the job once held by Britain's greatest sea hero, Lord Horatio Nelson.

Canada's Troops Impress French Writers

By GLADYS M. ARNOLD
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

PARIS, Jan. 31 — (CP). —Arrival of the first contingent of the Canadian Active Service Force in the United Kingdom was front page news in France. Many nowspapers sent staff writers across the English Channel to report the arrival, while all commented in glowing terms on Canada's loyal response to the call for men.

"They were all in the finest good humor in the world with complexions like the famous apples of their country and it was a great sight to see them debarking to the strains of 'O Canada,'" said Jean Oberle in Le Journal.

"Gaiety and good humor is the mark of these young men whose fathers fought in the First Great War and proved their mettle with exploits which showed them to be absolutely with a sense of fear. Today they sing with a marvellous optimism 'The Beer Barrel Polka.'"

"It was truly a splendid day in England. We were informed that more than a tenth of the men in this contingent were men who actually fought in the years 1914-1918. Instinctively one searched them out and when one passed, a face more serious, gravity in the eyes, the cheers burst forth. And all those big fellows, sculptured in the forest sand farms—trappers, fishermen French-Canadians — yes, even a number of 'Redskins,' all wearing the Canadian Scottish bonnet."

Prove Empire's Unity.

"In a freezing fog we waited several hours, the arrival of the troops from the other side of the ocean who have come to prove once more on the battlefields of Europe that the British Commonwealth of Nations is truly a community of men under one King, with same culture, the same ideals, the same aspirations and the same conceptions of human liberty and dignity."

The songs, but more especially the cries in unison of province, hometown or college, surprised the French journalist. In France the custom of college yells is unknown.

Says Paul Gordeaux, in Paris-Soir: "Admirably equipped, comfortably costumed, like a group of sportsmen—skiers— each man carried his gun and a large individual sack in which to keep his personal belongings. On the exterior was written his name in large black letters, I searched for the name of a French-Canadian—somebody from Montreal or Quebec perhaps.

"'What,' I said impatientaly, 'is there no one from French Canada?'

"A fresh voice replied with a strong accent. 'There's me, for one. My name is Jean Eudes Marcou, 24, native of Quebec, house painter,' and he continued laughing. 'I hope to help my comrades with a little job over there—we've come to twist the neck of our dear brother adolf.'"

Much space is given to the veterans who are remembered with a great depth of affection.

"Who could imagine that when we saw them three years ago at Vimy that they would be back again so soon?" one says.

Commuters Give Food, Shells Rail Preference

LONDON, Jan. 31—(CP).—Trust the British to handle this business of wartime train inconveniences with their customary politeness.

On the high iron fence in front of Charing Cross station this ingenious sign appears: "Food, shells and feul must come first. If trains are crowded, do you mind?"

It's another way of pointing to the manner in which the railways have been affected by wartime demands. More than 5,500 special trains for the conveyance of troops and munitions were run during the first three months of the war, but passenger service of a sort still was maintained.

Take the London North Eastern Railway, for example. The line is running 80 per cent of the pre-war service. The morning rush of commuters has compressed itself from 7-9.30 to 7.30-9 and that means bigger loads for fewer trains.

"The early morning service is affected adversely by the blackout and one late train may mean many late trains," said Col. H. H. Mauldin, divisional general manager for the L.N.E.R. southern area. He held out the hope for more punctual trains in spring, "but it all depends on what other conditions may be like by then."

War conditions have brought some new wrinkles in the freight business. For instance, transport of gas cylinders for barrage balloons has created an entirely new type of traffic. The railways use special cars, known as "lowfits" whose sides and ends drop. Road vehicles are run directly on the cars with their load of cylinders and this obviates load transfers.

A large number of freight cars—called goods wagons over here—have been converted to carry explosives. Much ingenuity has been displayed in the methods adopted in designing and adapting fittings, such as special racks for shells and bombs.

Mexico is threatened with a shortage of cigarette paper because of the war.

Jap Oil Sailings Drop Sharply

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Jan. 31. — (AP). — Japanese tankers, which have been loading oil at Southern California ports on the average of five a week, have only three sailings scheduled next month.

Shipping sources could offer no reason for the abrupt drop. An agent for a number of the tankers, confirming a scarcity of bookings, said he had received no explanation.

A shipment of 1,350 bales of raw silk went toward New York by train to-day in another reversal of policy. For months, Japanese express liners have carried silk through the Panama Canal.

Shippers suggested increased water freight rates, decreased rail tariffs on the commodity and war risk insurance for ocean ships might explain the move.

Endorsed Mr. King

How seriously is that Hepburn resolution passed at Toronto which censured the King Government going to be taken by the Liberals? It may be the major portion of the answer was furnished by the Brant Liberal Association which passed a resolution saying there was complete confidence in Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and his administration in the prosecution of the war.

But that was not all. Hon. H. C. Nixon, the provincial member, comes from that riding of Brant, and Mr. Nixon voted with Premier Hepburn when censure was passed on Mr. King and his government. The average individual looking at the situation from the outside would be inclined to say they can't have it both ways. A Liberal association could not endorse Mr. King and still remain on speaking terms with a provincial member who had voted against Mr. King. It looks like one of those problems which does not add up to give the right answer.

Reading the report from Brantford, though, one finds there was no disposition to quarrel with Mr. Nixon. One of the members had telephoned Mr. Nixon the day before the meeting and informed him of the resolution, and this member reported:

"He (Mr. Nixon) made no objection to it. As a matter of fact he said we should as an organization, stand behind our Premier. It was our place to do that."

Other speakers stated that the resolution endorsing Mr. King had nothing whatever to do with Mr. Nixon or the way in which he had voted. They were not even discussing him, and the resolution was not meant to be a let-down for Mr. Nixon.

There may be much in that situation which is difficult to work out with a yard stick or an adding machine, but it is evident as can be that the Liberal association in Brant has decided to stand behind Mr. King and at the same time be on good terms with Mr. Nixon. We do not believe the combined Hepburn-Drew attack has bothered Mr. King's standing with Liberals in the country at large. It is more likely that if there is to be a split it will be found in provincial politics.

Finland Wanted Them!

Some of the reports coming from the war front of Finland are positively amazing, and we believe that word amazing is correct. We take the case of a Soviet aviator, Capt. Aleksei Klimstov, now a prisoner of war with the Finns. He is a member of the Communist party, and had been informed when called up for war that the people of Finland, like the people of Poland, wanted the Russians to come over and help them. He was certain the rest of the officers believed the same thing, and he was amazed to find that every Finn was against them.

When Klimstov was called to his squadron he was given an old plane with one machine gun in front and another in the rear, but it was no machine for actual warfare. He was ordered on a flight, but he realized it was almost impossible. It was dark and the Finns were firing at him. It was necessary to drop bombs in order to lighten the machine. He crashed in the woods and was captured.

Other officers of infantry told somewhat similar stories. They wished the people at home knew the actual state of affairs and that Finland was actually fighting against Russia. They argued that because Russians did not know the truth they had been easily led into traps and slaughtered by the Finns, and that assertion at least appears to be reasonable.

But what a commentary on the mentality of a nation as great as Russia, where the world was informed a plan was being operated to make life pleasant, safe and equitable for all people. They can know little or nothing of what is going on in the outside world, and that which they do know is likely to be wrong because it has not been adequately stated. It is presented only as the blundering government wishes it to be told. And what a price Russians have been paying for the asinine attitude of their government!

Time To Quit

There is going to be an election; it has been announced for March 26. Mr. Hepburn if he feels so disposed is at liberty to go on the hustings, but meantime he prefers to use the time of the Ontario Legislature. Looking over his most recent utterances we find he had gone back to the days of the Royal visit in Canada and his reference to Mr. King was:

"Mr. King's head appeared like a mud turtle. Every time we wanted to see them (the Royal couple) we had to look at him."

The Examiner has stated previously it was certain Mr. Hepburn has been talking too much. And now we are certain he is getting down to small talk and mean talk and talk in which there is no dignity and which gives no evidence that it comes from the Premier of the greatest province in the Dominion.

Writing And Spelling

When the Ontario section of the Canadian Bar Association was in session at Windsor there was something said about the young men now entering the profession. E. L. McCarthy, K.C., the president, had seen some of the examination papers, and while he was not critical of the answers given he did not like the way students wrote and the manner in which they did their spelling. He classed these as disgraceful.

Of course if he is going to improve penmanship in this country he will have to include many more outside of those who approach law as their future. It would be right enough to take in many men in responsible positions whose delight seems to be to so sign their names to letters or documents that it is impossible to identify the individual.

Only recently we saw a resolution which had been signed by a number of persons and there was no good penmanship in the thing from top to bottom. Contrast such writing with that done fifty or seventy-five years ago in this country and it is possible to see how much we have dropped along the wayside.

Spelling is something which requires the work of the individual apart from school instruction. One encounters new words almost every day and after the encounter he does one of two things, (1) knows how to spell them, or (2) does not know.

It was rather significant that Mr. McCarthy thought it important to bring these old questions before the Bar Association. They could with equal reason be brought up a good many places.

This Seems Strange

Political speeches will have to go through the official seive before going over the radio in the coming Canadian election. If one is going on the air it will first be necessary to submit the text to the censor where there will be a search for anything which contravenes the Defence of Canada Regulations.

That may seem sufficient, but it does look like a plan by which a good many of the smaller fish could get through the net. Suppose two speakers had in mind saying just about the same thing, and one was going to use the radio and the other was going to hire a hall. The radio speaker would have to submit his copy to the censor and it might be the censor would mark out certain statements as objectionable.

The man who hired a hall could go ahead and say the same thing, and it would need action afterward to take any measure against him, and meantime the damage—if there was any—would have been done, and he might deliver his address in a dozen different places.

Famous Sayings

The generally accredited origin of famous sayings is not always correct. There is that one about "government of the people, by the people, for the people," and as a rule that will be credited to Abraham Lincoln or Robespierre.

Roman Collar, writing in the United Church Observer, says both guesses are wrong. He puts it this way:

Go to your library; get a copy of the Bible in the English of Wyckliffe's translation, of pre-Reformation times; read the introduction; there in the course of it you read:

"The Bible shall make possible a government of people, by people and for people."

And that, claims the writer in the United Church paper, is where both Lincoln and Robespierre got that saying.

There Is No Change

Although prospects of a Dominion-wide election appeared only a few days ago, political organizations the country over have been touched into action. One can pick up a paper coming from almost any direction and see where candidates who have been named are starting to bestir themselves. A meeting has been called; committees are being named, and business is going on as usual.

And almost without fail there is the statement that a Liberal at present sitting will again contest the seat; the same with the Conservatives. In other places the Conservative candidate has been nominated previously, and the C.C.F. candidates are also being groomed and made ready for the starting gun.

Right here is the difficult point when it comes to securing what some people refer to as a National government. It is hardly possible to make a National government out of Liberals, Conservatives, C.C.F., and the Social Credit members who will come from the West. In order that a National government would have a mandate from the people it would be necessary to put a Nationalist candidate in each of the ridings where they could receive the endorsation of the people to a sufficient extent to elect them. It might be desirable enough but we have not the machinery or organization in existence to elect such a government.

From the way in which political wheels are moving at the moment it seems that people are regarding this election just the same as any other. They are nominating Liberal, Conservative and C.C.F. candidates, and from these politically nominated individuals we will elect a government.

A government produced under such auspices could not with sincerity be a National Government. It would merely be a Liberal, Conservative or group government under another name.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One of the safest rules for running a bank would be to lend money only to those who don't need it.

The Mayors' conference will not be held until the general elections are over, and possibly in the interests of a peaceful conference that is a wise decision.

One Russian prisoner in Finland said that Berlin was the capital of France. Probably the poor fellow had been listening to the German department of information.

Russian papers say the Finns desire to conquer Leningrad and restore the Romanoff dynasty. Just how that would be done after the Reds butchered them all needs some explaining.

It has been difficult to find space to ship Ontario onions to the Old Country, and perhaps that is one reason why Mr. Hepburn does not think much of Mr. King.

A. W. Neill, one of the B.C. members of Parliament, recalled a fitting little ditty when the session died so soon:

"If so soon I would be done for,
What on earth was I begun for?"

Ralph Standish made one statement to the Peterborough Rotarians which will stand repeating. Just this—that it is time the people learned to quit running to governments for things which they are capable of looking after themselves.

An Examiner reporter aptly referred to our "Saturday benumbed outdoor market." The year through it is open to any whim of the weather, and so far our only corrective measure has been to talk about it now and then.

Tribe of 600 Cree Indians in Manitoba gives notice it will need no more government relief, preferring the money to be used for war purposes. Might think of that next time you grumble about paying a tax on tea or coffee.

We noticed the picture of Hon. W. D. Euler in the paper, and the story was that he was likely to be "elevated to the Senate." More likely he will be going over the hurdles with the rest of them on March 26.

At the first of the year a gathering in London of the Friends of Ethiopia sent greetings to Haile Selassie. We'd almost forgotten that he was one of the first victims of the expansionist movement.

WEE ANGUS

¶ Wee Angus got a pair of skils, since when there's lumps upon his knees, and more upon his head; there's bruises on his shoulders too, and they turn green, and black and blue, he shows them going to bed.

¶ When he plays hockey it's the same, he limps but says he isn't lame, he asks no pity then; they're trophies of a rugged fight, when he came sailing through all right, lined up with sturdy men.

¶ When he plays football in the fall, he never feels his bumps at all, and cuts don't bother him; it never seems to set him back, when he goes out and gets a whack, that barks most all his shin.

¶ Wee Angus says he's getting tough, don't mind a bit when things get rough, won't whimper when he's hurt; when I inquire about new bumps, or on his head see where there's lumps, he answers rather curt.

¶ When he goes riding down the hill, and comes upon a sudden spill, perhaps he'll shed a tooth; and when of blood a speck he'll spit, he says it doesn't hurt a bit, assures me that's the truth.

¶ But when I mention sawing wood, his answer's not so very good, I think it's somewhat slack; he says when he saws for a while, and tries to cut a little pile—it always hurts his back.

How The World Forces Line Up In Present War

FROM BRITISH WHITE PAPER

WHAT ARE the forces of aggression now ranged against us?

The enemy dominates about 110 million people.

Over a quarter of these are Poles, Czechs and other victims of aggression, who are simply under military occupation, as the Belgians were in 1914-18. The Nazis in fact have to reckon on widespread enmity within their own camp.

Himmler, chief of the Nazi Secret Police, has confessed that they cannot even be sure of their own people. Their opponents in Germany, crushed and silenced during peacetime, may well prove a source of danger now that war has come.

In Europe, where they are strongest, the Nazis command well under a quarter of the population. Outside Europe they have hardly any support at all. They have cleverly exploited the bogey of Russian support. We shall see later what this support amounts to.

What are the forces ranged on our side?

Citizens of the British Empire alone outnumber the population of enemy territory by more than four to one.

For every person dominated by Hitler SIX have already come in on our side. For every person living in Hitler's territory there are EIGHTEEN outside.

The balance of man-power is already tilted heavily against the Nazis. What is their strategic position?

As long as they kept the peace, the Nazis held a key position on the Continent. As long as they kept the peace, they were able to wield a powerful influence over their neighbours. As long as they kept the peace, they could draw essential food supplies and raw materials from the far corners of the earth.

By their own acts of aggression, the Nazis have now destroyed their own security. Faced by the immense forces of the Allies, they are shut off from resources without which they cannot possibly win a prolonged war. A short war is their only chance of survival for, as time goes by, Hitler will find himself beaten by hard economic facts. Every leaf torn off the calendar means greater danger to the Nazis. Every day that passes brings us greater strength.

Unlike the Nazis, we can draw manpower and war resources from every continent. All over the world people are working for the Allies. Wheat farmers and lumberjacks in Canada, rubber planters and tin miners in Malaya, aircraft workers in Australia—all these men, and millions like them, are throwing their weight behind the Allied cause.

Above all, our command of the sea is beyond challenge.

In the Great War of 1914-1918 we were unable, for political reasons, to use our sea power to the fullest possible extent. For two whole years, therefore, Germany obtained large supplies of food and materials from neutral countries.

This time our mastery of the sea can be and is being used to the full, and from the very start.

When at length in the last war our blockade of the Central Powers could be made really effective—in 1917—German resistance began to break down. The Germans themselves have admitted that they were beaten mainly because of this stranglehold. At that time they were masters of four times the territory they now control, including Roumania and large areas of Russia.

The aims of the Soviet Union were declared by M. Molotoff in a speech on October 31, 1939, to be "a free hand in international affairs, the continuation of neutrality, and the cessation of the war."

This decision came as a bitter disappointment to the Nazi leaders, who had been confident of Russian military support. It meant the collapse of Ribbentrop's plans.

The United Sates have also announced their determination to remain neutral. And this decision does not mean that they are altogether impartial in their feelings. Many months before war broke out President Roosevelt had put the American attitude plainly:

"There are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people. At the very least we can and should avoid any action, or any lack of action, which will encourage, assist, or build up an aggressor."

President Roosevelt's Neutrality Bill became law in November, 1939. This measure repeals the neutrality legislation of 1937, under which the President was compelled automatically to apply an embargo on the supply of arms and munitions to Powers engaged in a war. It replaces the old legislation by a "cash and carry" plan. This plan permits all countries to obtain war materials from America—provided they pay cash and carry the goods in their own ships.

Britain and France, because of their command of the seas, can now get large quantities of arms and munitions from America. Germany cannot.

Mr. William Bankhead, Speaker of the House of Representatives, voiced the feelings of the majority of Congress.

"You cannot place an embargo on man's mind and heart," he told the House, "thank God we are still entitled to express our views and our preferences for the democratic liberties of France and Britain to the rule of the concentration camp and the firing squad."

ACTS OF KINDNESS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Among the many fine editorials we read on that page of the "Examiner" there is one in the issue of 29th inst. entitled "Farmers Have a Good Way."

The editor says "Why keep on referring to it?" But it is a very good idea to repeat such stories whenever they come to hand: of how the neighbors of a farmer who has been taken ill, or met with an accident, during seeding time, haying or harvest has been helped by his neighbors organizing a "bee" in most cases and finishing his spring seeding or cutting and hauling in his hay and grain crops, or doing his fall plowing as the case may be.

The editor says "we cannot do such things for our unfortunate neighbor in the city," and then proceeds to enumerate some things we could do, and would do if we were animated by the same spirit as that of a club the writer knew of in the good old town of Barrie.

This club was started by a generous spirited man, a barber by trade, and was dubbed "The Woodcutters." There were no initiation fee or ceremonies, passwords or secret signs. They made it their business to find out any poor family in the town who might be in need of fuel to keep their little home warm in the cold days of winter. Having located one such, a cord of wood was purchased and sent to that home during the day. Then as the shades of night fell, these merry men with their sawbucks, bucksaws, and axes, would appear out of the darkness, set to work with a will upon the woodpile. When it was reduced to stove length, split and neatly piled; these hot-gospellers of peace on earth to men of good will, would raise their voices in song to serenade the old folk they had so acceptably befriended, and betake themselves to their several homes.

Every autumn they would put on a concert to raise funds wherewith to purchase wood, and this concert was sure to be well patronized by the people of the town, who appreciated the good work done by the club.

We wonder who received the greater satisfaction from these fine efforts of neighborliness—the recipients, or the donors. But this was many years ago.

CHURCH REPORTS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I read in the paper these days about church meetings. I mean annual meetings. I do not get out much in winter time now but for many years the house of the Lord was a dear spot for me on Sundays and mid-week. My happiest days were in the Methodist church when evangelism was on top, when we had class meetings before the morning service and told of the journey it had been since last we met. God was praised there openly and sincerely.

But these reports tell me so little of what I want to know. It does not matter much that $5,000 or $10,000 was raised during the year, and it is of no great importance that two dozen people have been named as officers for the coming year. It is something the same when I read about what they call "activity" in all the various organizations, how many meetings they held, how many sales of work and bread and cake, perhaps getting past the mark of 76 years has dulled my interest.

I can tell you mister, that I am waiting to read of a church report that will tell me how many souls were saved during the year, and how many church members by plain word or personal appeal recommended their Master to others during the year. That would be the kind of reading I'd like to see instead of so many signs of dollars and cents and buns and socials.

I'd be much intereted if I came across a report which told me how many hungry people were fed in the Lord's name and how many people in jail had been visited and prayed for. I have not yet come across such reports and I am wondering if that kind of work is vanishing or drying up or is being shoved to one side. There will not be many more years left for me to look over these annual reports but I'd like to see one which told about the work of the Master before I am through.

GETTING ALONG.

• The Scots and Their Religion

Even in a somewhat irreligious age the Scots, particularly of the older generation, are a religious race and devoted to the kirk. The village of Keiss in Caithness-shire is a sprawling one, recalls the St. Thomas Times-Journal, but it has three churches, one the Free, another the Church of Scotland and the third a Baptist. On Sundays a special bus goes around collecting up those who want to go to their respective churches. They mingle sociably during the journey, but by mutual agreement one subject is taboo—religious subjects are not discussed.

In religious and church matters the Scots are disputatious race. They will argue longer and more bitterly over religion than any other topic. Forty years ago the Free Church of Scotland amalgamated with the United Presbyterian Church and a small body of die-hards of the Free Church fought the case all the way up to the House of Lords. They claimed to be the rightful owners of all the Free churches, manses, colleges and other property and all the funds of the Free Church. They finally won, and a mere handful of recalcitrants got legal title to everything the Free Church possessed, worth millions of dollars. However, about five years later, there was an adjustment by Act of Parliament.

The Scottish tendency to argue about religion is incurable, hence it is a wise provision to ban religious controversy in the Keiss bus, else many unseemly fights would occur on the Sabbath day. There is a story which has foundation enough for it to be true, that an old Scot lay dying in his bed. His wife sent for the minister to give him last consolation. "Here's the meenister come tae read a few religious words oot o' the Bible tae ye," she announced. The old fellow brightened up and said: "I dinna want tae jist listen tae him; I want tae argue."

• Algoma Advises Our Wolf Hunters

James Curran in Sault Ste. Marie Star

THIS COLUMN notes with solicitude that Peterborough has organized a wolf club, and regrets that its first essay on lupus resulted in a miss. But in our gratification the disturbing thought impinges: Are there going to be enough wolves to go round, now that the grisly terror is to be harried in the south as well as in the north? Art Kennedy, to encourage the organization, assures it on the word of Algoma that nobody is going to be et, and thus that it will be safe enough to take chances. Mr. Kennedy it seems didn't tackle the wolk pack himself; he merely sent a handy reporter to take in the sport. Of course what is a reporter for if not to step into danger and perhaps furnish a tasty dinner for the pack. Most editors are indigestible anyway.

But as there were no casualties on either side, all happened for the best. The thing to have done for the Toronto photographers, who comprised a considerable portion of the crowd, was to have followed the Soo example on its first hunt and brought along a wolf. The Peterborough affair was not managed in Mr. Kennedy's usually efficient manner.

May we caution the new club about attempting some of last season's stunts in Algoma, for instance Cap. Hollingsworth's capture of a wolf barehanded to settle a bet for a bottle of pop. He chained it to a tree, just to show he could do it, but this column never noted the Cap being so nimble before as when the animal sought to sink its teeth into his bush stepins. Also Jack McDonald and Bill Bradshaw dragged a wolf to their car and sought to instal it in the back seat with a guest, who kicked, it seems, because there wasn't enough fresh air in the compartment for a mixed party.

The Peterborough club will have to get over the idea that it is safe to take an hour off for lunch. The one thing these fierce marauders (we mean the wolves) are always longing for is food and there's no use tempting fate too much. Besides a wolf hunter can run faster if empty.

Moreover, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea; and were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea; and did all eat the same spiritual meat; and did all drink the same spiritual Rock that followed them; and that Rock was Christ.

The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? For we being many are one bread, and one body; for we are all partakers of that one bread.—I Cor. x. 1-4, 16, 17.

School Children Forced To Parade To Keep Warm In Rooms Heating System So Inadequate

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31. — (ENS)—The Board of Education lost little time in getting down to business at their initial meeting held Monday when members realized that something would definitely have to be done about the heating syatem in the public schools. Though plans to install central heating have been shelved year after year, members finally decided they must reconcile themselves to the situation which would mean the probable outlay of anywhere from ten to twenty thousand dollars. Actually it was the report of the caretaker, C. C. Massie, which brought the matter to a head though the Board has known for the past four years that the time was coming when something would have to be done. However, it was probably news to some members that certain of the classes in the public school have had to march around the room dressed with coats, spending anywhere from an hour to an hour and a half singing to keep warm. As one member put it, "It must be like Finland." The caretaker spent close to twenty minutes outlining the condition of the three furnaces. He said that it required both furnaces in what was the old high school to heat two rooms when the outside temperature got below freezing. From his chart he traced the temperatures on various mornings during the winter, emphasizing the fact that on January 8th after firing three furnaces in the main building from 3 a.m. until nine o'clock in the morning the temperature in five of the rooms averaged 59 degrees.

Using More Coal.

During the discussion of the heating it was revealed the present heating equipment had been installed in 1887 and 1889 when the schools were built. According to Mr. Massey the furnaces should have been re-set at least every ten years but have only been re-set actually twice, the first time in 1906 and again in 1917. He estimated that he had already used from six to eight tons of coal more than had been used up to the same time last year.

Despite the fact that several members of the board felt the matter should be shelved temporarily, J. A. Irwin urged that action be taken immediately. "I don't think there is any doubt but that this board should settle down to the matter of getting a new heating system for the schools immediately," he declared. "The buildings are good and if the heating system was good there would be very little to complain about in the Public Schools."

Major G. H. Free, retiring chairman, made a motion that a delegation attend the Council meeting next Monday to take the matter up with that body.

Extra Help for Caretaker.

A motion authorizing extra help for the caretaker and also providing for repairs to doors that fitted poorly was made by W. R. Loucks. Major Free indicated that there was a hole in one of the basement doors "large enough for a cat to walk through" and also that there was a space of about three inches under one of the main entrance doors. It was felt that some effort should be made to make repairs at once.

During the opening portion of the meeting A. G. Thompson, last year's vicechairman was elected chairman of the board and he presided for the meeting. Committee chairmen elected were as follows: Vice-chairman, Dr. H. O. Richardson; Bus Committee chairman, Ralph Locke; Finance Committee, A. J. Armour; Internal Committee, F. C. Bonnycastle; Property Committee, W. R. Loucks.

The board's appointment to the Library Board was left unfilled till the next regular meeting. The secretary read the annual financial statement and also the minutes of the last meeting, at which it was announced W. J. Burgiss had been appointed to the staff of the High School at a salary of $1,300.

The secretary also reported that he had interviewed the various insurance agents holding insurance on the schools taking up with them the matter of installing fire extinguishers of the powder type. He stated it was the opinion of the agents that this type of extinguisher was only of value at the immediate outbreak of a fire and was recommended only as a secondary measure providing the board found it impossible to install regular water standards. Their installation would not affect the present level of premiums, he said.

Request Paper Towels.

Two Public School pupils, Evelyn Stephens and Francis DeCarrol, speaking in their capacity as members of the Junior Red Cross, requested paper towels be placed at the disposal of pupils in the washrooms. They pointed out that the lack of towels was a particular hardship to those who remained at the school for lunch and had no means of drying their hands following their noonday meal.

"These pupils have made a very competent appeal," said Dr. Richardson, making a motion that the towels be supplied.

G. G. Stephens, on behalf of the Seymour Agricultural Society, drew attention to the splendid display of art which had been fostered at the annual fair last year as a result of the competitions in art being opened to school students in both primary and secondary schools here. Last year the lists had been divided equally between the general public and the schools and it was decided this year to leave the entire field open to the schools, which would result in creating increased interest in art locally. According to the position advanced by the society the prizes would be given on a fifty-fifty basis with the board paying one-half the cost of all prizes taken by the students. The competitions would be open to all Public, Separate and High School students with the boards of the respective schools paying fifty per cent. of the prizes in each case. Those entering the competitions would not have to pay a membership fee as was the case in other competitions.

The board felt the proposition would do much to stimulate interest in art and a motion was passed providing for a committee comprising Dr. H. O. Richardson, F. C. Bonnycastle, Miss K. B. Ferris, and C. Stephens to meet with the Agriculture Society to prepare the lists and arrange other details.

The report of the inspector of the Home Economics Department in the High School indicated there were 60 pupils taking the course in Grades IX. and X., and paid tribute to the work being done by the High School staff, all of whom were declared very competent.

The secretary read a letter from the town clerk requesting that the board prepare their requisition for the year and present it at the next meeting of the Council was received and filed with members expressing the opinion that it was next to impossible to prepare an accurate estimate in such a short time.

H. A. MacArthur made a motion urging that the Public School teachers be granted the use of one of the unused typewriters in the Commercial Department of the High School which was carried with the added proviso that the machine be returned when the Commercial Classes at the High School were instituted.

Following the passing of the accounts the board adjourned.

Small Committee Of City Council To Study Financing Of Equipment

Financing for replacement of equipment, in other words allowing for depreciation, was proposed to the Board of Works Tuesday night by Alderman Ovens, citing the practice of Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston and Brantford. As a result of the discussion, Alderman Dutton moved, seconded by Alderman Stocker, that a sub-committee composed of Aldermen Cotton, Bradburn and Ovens consider the idea more intensively and report to the council. They were instructed to call in any of the city officials including City Treasurer Shaver and the auditor, Ed. Humpage, at an early meeting.

Alderman Ovens said he had written to a few cities for information regarding their accounting of equipment that eventually has to be replaced, and his comments indicated that he was also thinking of office property and fixtures. Kingston, he said, borrows money for new machinery by issuing debentures of from three to ten years, depending on the expected life of a machine.

Hamilton makes a depreciation charge on all Board of Works equipment; Brantford borrows from the bank for new purchases and extends payment over three years at least. Toronto has its own repair shop, and new equipment is charged in the year's estimates.

"Why should the taxpayers of 1940 be charged for the entire cost of equipment which the city will continue to use for five, ten or twenty years?" Alderman Ovens asked.

Annual depreciation for trucks might be 25 per cent, he remarked merely as illustration, fire truck 10 per cent, street flusher and grader 25 per cent, incinerator equipment 10 per cent., furniture and fixtures 10 per cent.

"If we are buying a piece of equipment we could issue short term debentures up to ten years, three to ten years, depending on the price of it and sell the debentures to the City Trust, and the citizens would simply be paying the interest charge to themselves."

Alderman Ovens said he believed that in three years the ratepayers would find a real improvement in their tax rate.

No Capital Account.

Members of the Board did not oppose the Ovens idea, but decided to transfer debate and further consideration to the special committee. Alderman Dutton agreed with Alderman Wilson, who remarked that in municipal financing a capital account is not set up as it is in business. Any firm finances for replacement by providing a certain amount each year for depreciation of plant and equipment.

"We are not in that position," Aldeman Dutton said, "but at the same time I think the principle is a good one."

Alderman McIntyre declared that that the city had arrived at a happier condition by the pay-as-you-go plan, avoiding borrowing, and buying things as permitted by the available current funds. He also questioned whether the idea was really legal.

Morley Shaver, city treasurer, said that five years ago he would not have been in favor of the debenture plan and allowing for depreciation because the bank rate was too high. "You are planning to buy a new pumper for the Fire Department," he said. "You look on the department as a kind of insurance, protection again fire, and at the same time you are going to pay for that insurance in advance, and pay all of it. You wouldn't do that with your own personal insurance, paying it all in advance. You pay for it so much a year."

Crescent Street Job.

When the Board was later talking about building a curb on the inside margin of the Crescent street pavement, Mr. Shaver said that job need not be paid for out of this year's revenue, but could be financed by debentures.

"Well, I think it is bad business just the same," Aldeman McIntyre remarked.

"The council has done a good job down there so far," said Alderman Dutton, "and we should finish it right."

As to the purchase of a small road roller for ironing out new pavement Alderman Ovens asked that it be held out of the estimates for the present until the council gets a report from the small committee appointed to consider the Ovens financing change.

No Aid To Countries In Europe And Asia Says United Mine Workers Resolution

Columbus, Jan. 31 (AP)

THE U.M.W., in a resolution adopted today, opposed any United States government loans to Finland.

The resolution expressed sympathy for "heroic Finland and other victims of aggression," but said it would be better policy for the United States to withhold "any money or participation directly or indirectly in wars in Europe and Asia."

"Peace must be preserved, but congress should not do anything to involve the United States," the resolution added.

LOCK CO. EAGLES LOSE DISTRICT HOCKEY DECISION IN LINDSAY

Shore Traded To Amerks For Wiseman

EDDIE SHORE EDDIE WISEMAN

Eddie Shore and the Boston Bruins have come to the parting of the ways after many arguments, and Bruins' Manager Art Ross has announced that Shore has been traded to New York Americans for Eddie Wiseman. Shore's many arguments with the Bruins' officials reached a climax this season when he became a club owner himself, through the purchase of the Springfield franchise in the International-American Hockey League.

1. A ten-minute penalty shall be imposed on any player, and the circumstances shall be reported to the O.H.A. for further action, who uses foul or abusive language to any official or is guilty of gross misconduct during the progress of a match. In such case a substitute shall be allowed.

A penalty of one minute shall also be given to a goal-tender who uses a stick over 3½ inches in height and the stick is to be discarded.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It happened on Ice No. 4. It was the last end of the schedule game between Darcy Davis and Bill Archibald. Bill had delivered his last stone and as the stone was about half way down the rink it picked up something that caused the stone to stop dead. By the rules of the game Bill loses that stone; but Darcy, real chap that he is, ran down the ice and insisted that Bill replay the stone. This piece of sportsmanship was not overlooked by the boys on No. 8.

Cards are up on our blackboard announcing the next open bonspiel. It will be held on Wednesday, February 7, and it is for the Canada Packers' Trophy.

We were told last evening, and believe all we hear, that Charlie Westbrooke is seriously considering writing a book on "Curling."

We are glad to announce that the condition of Tommy Doughty, one of the popular young curlers who was operated on at Nicholls Hospital last Saturday morning, shows improvement this morning.

One chap walked into the rink last evening along about 9.15 and he says, says he, "Well fellows, believe me or not, I was in the show tonight with my wife—the first time since the curling season opened." And then people wonder why there are so many divorces.

Bimstein Whips Godoy's Cold With Fish Oil

SUMMIT, N.J., Jan. 31 — (AP).—Whitey Bimstein, a short blond fellow who probably weighs 180 pounds even with a half-dozen of his favorite beers in him, had an easy time of it over the past week-end. He only had two men's work to do.

The name of Whitey Bimstein probably doesn't register on the over age fight fan. But to those on Bash Boulevard, Whitey is as important as the fighter's cut of the gate. He is generally recognized as one of the top five trainers of boxers in the country.

In the last five weeks, he has had three fighters on his hands here at Madame Bey's training quarters — light - heavyweight Fred Apostoli, who tangles with Mello Bettina in Madison Square Garden on Friday night; Arturo Godoy, the big rough Chilean , who hopes to surprise Joe Louis on February 9, and lightweight champion Lou Ambers, who invades the welterweight department against Al Davis on February 23.

Godoy had a cold over the week-end, and immediately a lot of boys rushed to the camp to find out about it.

"What's all the fuss?" Whitey greeted them. "He had a cold, a slight sore throat. So I gave him some fish oil and put him to bed for a day. He's not a bad-looking sick man now, is he?"

While he was speaking, Godoy had climbed into the ring for a session with Jimmy Smith. Godoy is a crouching, bobbing type of fighter, who may give Louis trouble because he would have to punch downward to fight him.

Nova Scotia Star Leads English Loop

LONDON, Jan. 31—(CP).—Rugged Joe Beaton, Nova Scotia's only representative in English hockey, collected nine goals and eight assists to top the point-getters in the four-team National Tournament, according to statistics just released.

Graduate of Charlottetown, P.E.I., in the Maritime "Big Four" circuit which produced the Allan Cup winning Moncton Hawks, Beaton proved a healthy contribution to the victory of his Harringay Greyhound team-mates in this second round of Old Country hockey.

Racers won the season's opening tournament—the London Cup. The final fixture of the National League program, now under way, has seen the revival of a fith club, Wembley Monarchs. There is talk of still another round of play to be called the London Provincial League which would include teams from Brighton, Nottingham and Bristol and possibly several teams from the Canadian Active Service Force at Aldershot.

Also Classy

While Beaton amassed the best total, a couple of Winnipeggers, displayed the best marksmanship with Alex Archer, Wembley Lions, notching 11 goals, and Dunc Cheyne, Greyhounds, 10.

Canadians still dominate the top of the points column, but some of the native players, inserted in the game this season to make up for a dearth of overseas stars dut to the war, are adding some impressive totals. Take young George Greene, 23-year-old product of Wembley's junior development program. With five goals and four assists he ranks above many of his "colonial cousins" supposed to be born with skates on. And George, whose big ambition is to take an English team to Canada and beat the hockey Dominion in its own rinks, have never seen natural ice except for the fleeting shell forming sometimes on Hyde Park's Serpentine.

Another Englishman, Maurice Simon, showed the best net-mining record, allowing only 17 shots to penetrate his barrier. But the Racers out in front failed to take advantage of his example and the team only stayed out of the cellar by one point.

Hudson Threatening Hemmerling's Mark

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 31.—(AP).—Tony Hemmerling of New Haven better look out or Ronland Hudson of Indianapolis will catch him. While Hemmerling tallied only once to hold the lead among International-American League hockey scorers, Hudson rang the gong three times in the past week and his 38 points total is only two behind the pace-setter.

The official statistics released yesterday showed Norm Schultz of Springfield with 33 points as the only serious threat to the Hemmerling-Hudson race. Bill Summerhill, listed third, was drafted several weeks ago by Montreal Canadiens.

Killed By Propellor

LAC MEGANTIC, Que., Jan. 31.—(CP)—Rodrigue Lavoie, 39-year-old owner of Le Manoir Du Lac, was killed yesterday when he slipped and fell against the revolving propellor of a snow glider.

Lavoie, president of the Lake Megantic Ski and Toboggan Club, was preparing to leave home for nearby Sandy Bay when Arthur Morrissette asked him to give his glide a push. Lavoie applied his weight to the machine and slipped. The propellor, fixed to the rear of the glider, fractured his skull. He died en route to hospital.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

There was something of a mixup in Kemptville last T.V.L. tussle when Marmora lost to the Norwood Hornets. So we're asked to go on a district broadcast and request (a) that spectators just spectate and don't go on the ice, and (b) don't get too personal with the players as they might have friends in the stand who are liable to part your hair with a hunk of planking. Oh, well, fans will be fanatic, and it's no skin off our double chin—but the Thump Valley Loop is no deb party and there's no use of forcing the poor provincial cops to work overtime every game to keep order, huh? Madoc meets the Hornets—they tell us Dude Brady there is the hottest thing since Sally Rand burned 'em up at the World's Fair—this Wednesday p.m., as Bata goes to Stirling and Tweed is at Campbellford.

* * * * * *

As a follow-up on our tale of the puck feud betwixt Honey Tompkins and the Jackson brothers of Deseronto, the Quinte scribe says the right story is that Tompkins clipped Bill Jackson and loosened some teeth last winter. The writer claims that the Redmen blamed Crowe for the clipping in a game mixup and the rest of the season they tried to ride the hard-hitting defenceman at every opportunity. But—and this is the Belleville slant, not ours—it seems word seeped back to Deseronto (where the three boys hail from) in the spring that Tompkins had banged Jackson. So, the two brothers forgot Crowe and have been gunning for Honey ever since. It's all very confusing and calls for an aspirin.

Yep, 9½ A Game

In six league games to date, those pucking Petes have scored 57 goals, with 23 against them. The Fliers in five frays have rung the bell for only 19 markers, with 21 on the red side of the ledger. Whilst the lowly Redmen bulged the hemp 22 times but Goalies Watt and Hinton saw 34 shots whistle through their pads. It shows that the speedy locals have scoring punch, while the Airmen are strong defensively but score few goals, even when winning. It also shows that a goalie must have a few hockey players in front of him, as witness the 54 markers against Belleville.

* * * * * *

Fighting it out with Collingwood for top place in the strong northern O.H.A. intermediate "A" group of six teams, Owen Sound Trappers come here this Friday to tackle the Petes in an exhibition joust. A fine offering, and you must admit the Petes are out to improve themselves by picking classy opponents in exhibition tilts—Generals, Goodyears and now Trappers. To lend it a local touch, Father Spratt — who coached the Greys when Shrimp McDougall led 'em to a Canadian title—is pilot of the Sound squad, and our own Red Creighton is one of their main snipers. He'll be out to show the local folk how he is going this season, and the Petes—in friendly rivalry—will be out to stop him cold! 'Tis hoped there'll be a big crowd out, making a noise like thunder in the arena and a noise like folding money at the box office.

* * * * * *

Crowd Stayed Home

There was no traffic congestion in front of the Brock St. rink last night and the 80 or 90 cash customers present for the junior joust looked positively lonesome. The size of the crowd made the arena appear big. Colts copped a 14-5 win o'er a lighter Lakefield gang, one which was minus three of its best puckists—Morrison, Cauley and Giardino. A fair sort of struggle, but one-sided the last half, with play fast and quite clean. Colts took a 4-2 edge in the first and led 7-3 to end the second. At times the Colts—who aren't serious enough about their game always—were a bit careless and committed some glaring errors, but other times they clicked in fine style. The gallant Lakefield lads hustled every minute and made it a battle.

* * * * * *

Neither defence nor goalies put the snatch on the spotlight in this tussle, the forwards showing up better. The Rochetta-Craig-Nichols line played heady hockey and looked quite good for over 2 periods. They kept trying passing plays, and checking well. The Wade-Foster-Pammett trio was checking well but disorganized on the attack for half the game, but when they got going they sure rattled 'em in fast and furiously. J. Stewart and Calhoun caught our eye with some fine hockey throughout the piece for the visitors. The losers will be up against nothing but "C" teams in future and should make a very fair showing, too, whilst the Colts have stiff "B" opposition ahead.

A Battery Outburst

Lock Co. Eagles were shot down by the Lindsay Battery last gloaming in the Scugog sector by an 8-4 burst of firing. It was a District Puck Loop fixture and the bolstered Battery earned the win in a neat encounter. Had a margin the last half, but the Eagles kept tearing in and making it hot enough for the Lindsay gang. Stew Williamson turned in a fine effort for the victors, while White, Watkins, Giardino and McNabb were about the pick of the Peterborough pucksters. Dunno when the next game in this circuit is—but our Colts have an exhibition melee with the Hawks on the large Omemee ice surface tonight.

It's Industrial Hockey League night tomorrow (Thursday) at the Brock St. bump emporium. A triple-header like this: Westclox vs. Canada Packers at 7.30, Raybestos vs. Quakers at 8.30, and Marines vs. Watercrafts at 9.30. To usher in the first day of February and another promising set of puck numbers. Lots of action and some good hockey expected, and fellow-workers at these shops should drop in to see their pals play and view four-bit hockey for a small hunk of silver. Quakers and Westclox lead the race at the moment with Marines next, then Brintons, with Rays, Packers and Watercraft in a tie down the ladder a spell.

Scugog Battery Wins 8 to 4 In Lively Fray

In a District Hockey League fixture staged before a fair-sized crowd of fans last night in the Lindsay Arena, the local Lock Co. Eagles lost an 8-4 decision to Lindsay Battery.

With their star goalie, Davidson, back after a two weeks' absence with a hand injury, the Artillerymen presented a much-improved squad to earn the decision. They had a 4-3 margin in a tight first period and shaded the Eagles 2-0 in the middle chapter. Play was fast and clean throughout, with some good hockey shown at times. The loss is a serious setback in the Eagles' drive for a top spot in the abbreviated league.

Williamson Good

Stew Williamson, Ted Cook, Wright and English starred for the Lindsay outfit with a fine showing. Giardino, White, Watkins and McNabb were probably the pick of the Peterborough team, the other players working hard, too, all through the contest. The teams:

Eagles: Goal, McNabb; defence, Dundas and Giardino; centre, Mortimer; wings, White and Watkins; alternates, Johnson, Wildman, Gilbert, Burke and Prete.

Putting The "Ouch" In Hockey

Indians Shower Teno Under 7 to 1

(By The Canadian Press)

Harvey Teno's goal tending record which has been just about the best there is in the International-American Hockey League, doesn't look quite so good to-day.

Teno, who minds the nets for the Pittsburg Hornets, had the misfortune to step up against Springfield Indians while they were hot last night and ended with seven goals inside his cage. The score was 7-1.

Before last night, Teno shared the best goals against record in the league with Moe Roberts of Cleveland, 81 apiece. Roberts' team was beaten, too, losing 2-1 to New Haven Eagles, but the Cleveland goaler now has the best record in the circuit.

Alf Thurrier and Tommy Filmore counted five goals between them for the Indians, Thurrier scoring three and Filmore two. Egan and Corrigan scored the other Springfield goals. Hank Goldup saved the Hornets from a shutout.

Don Willson scored the winning goal for the Eagles in the third period. In the second period Willson had had a hand in the opening goal, scored by Tony Hemmerling. Earl Bartholome scored the equalizer in the last period.

JUNIOR COLTS GRAB A VICTORY OVER LAKEFIELD PUCKSTERS

Young Petes Run Up A 14-5 Score Against Lighter Rivals In Fair Tilt Before Small Crowd

The local Colts swept through for a 14-5 O.H.A. junior "B" victory over Lakefield Cubs here last night before less than a hundred fans in the Brock St. arena. After a fairly tight first half, the Weir-coached crew rammed home seven goals in the third stanza to win handily against their lighter opponents.

It was a fair game to watch, fast and clean, but somewhat one-sided. The visitors were minus several of their best men and on strange ice, while the bigger and faster Colts—a "B" team against a "C" squad—got clicking the last half to go in good style. At times, the young Petes played indifferent hockey, too, but on the whole it was a fair exhibition of junior hockey, and remarkably clean.

The score was 4-2 for the Colts in the first period, and they had a 7-3 edge going into the third. Lakefield proved fast and game, with plenty of nice passing plays, and they checked back hard to bother the homesters plenty the first two frames. Only three penalties were handed out, all coming to the Colts in the third period. One Lakefield goal was tallied on a penalty shot.

All Went Good

Birch, Calhoun and J. Stewart were probably the pick of the visitors, with Connelly, Bullock and Jewell going good at times, too. The rest all worked hard against tough opposition and made a good showing. Of the Colts, the first line of Rochetta, Craig and Nichols fairly sparkled the first two heats to look better than the second line—Nichols playing a fine game all evening. The Wade-Foster-Pammett line clicked good in the third to rattle the hemp plenty of times. The others turned in a fair chore.

Lakefield pressed for a time in the fast, even first frame, Connelly and Calhoun coming close. Then Rochetta counted in close on passes from Nichols and Craig. Bullock even it up when he rapped home his own rebound but Nichols came back fast to score on Rochetta's pass. Rochetta got another on Nichols' rebound, and then J. Stewart's hot shot was deflected into the home net by a local puckist. Near the end of the lively stanza, the Colts made it 4-2 when Foster bulged the twine at close range, Wade and MacDonald aiding. There were no penalties.

Nichols Scores

Play was hot for a time in the second with Nichols getting the first goal near the halfway mark on Craig's pass. Wade and Pammett made a neat try but were blocked out as the Colts kept pressing and showing a fair margin on play. Jewell rapped home another Lakefield counter on a fine effort in close. Craig got it back shortly on a forward pass inside defence from Nichols. Two minutes before the finish, Foster banged the puck in on a neat play with Wade. There were no penalties again.

It was wide-open in the third with Craig counting early on Beggs' assist. Wade score another with Foster and Pammett helping. Big Nels notched the next one on a scramble in close with a backhand drive. Wade was gated for cross-checking, and Lakefield pressed hard to cash in when J. Stewart scored on a long pass from Calhoun. Cournyea kicked out several, robbing Connelly, before Wade got back. Pammett's hot shot on Wade's pass fooled the losers' goalie and then J. Stewart scored a whistler on a penalty shot with MacDonald going off for boarding. The Colts argued it was not a trip and deserved no penalty shot. Nichols notched another nice one when shorthanded and play was wild and woolly for a time till all were back. Then Pammett blazed in another angle shot on a pass at defence from Wade, the locals dominating play at this time. Rochetta scored in a scramble with Craig assisting near the finish, and DeCarlo was penalized for playing the puck without a stick just before the final gong.

The teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Morison; defence, Graham and Birch; centre, Bullock; wings, A. Stewart and Jewell; alternates, Chappell, Connelly, Calhoun and J. Stewart.

Colts: Goal, Courynea; defence, Beggs and Mason; centre, Rochetta; wings, Nichols and Craig; alternates, Wade, Foster, MacDonald, Vitarelli, DeCarlo and Pammett.

Americans Paced By Shore Whip Canadiens

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Down, down, down into the National Hockey League depths the once-proud Montreal Canadiens have slipped, until there doesn't seem to be a ray of cheer to light the way to a possible playoff position.

Ernest Savard, president of the once-flying Frenchmen, issued a statement last night to "end a lot of rumors that are driving me crazy." He said he wouldn't consider trading his scoring star and most consistent player, Hector (Toe) Blake, "unless it will mean strengthening the club as a whole, and I don't mean financially."

Eddie Shore

Then the Americans, bolstered by aging Eddie Shore, kicked the Canadiens around to a 4-1 defeat at New York and left them three points down in the cellar of the league standings. But rumors are driving Savard crazy.

Blake Only Prize.

It is rumored—and only the statistics exist to confirm it—that of their last 18 games the Habitants have won two and lost the rest. It is also rumored that the only sound piece of trading material on the club is Blake, who led the league in scoring last season, and the fans would be on Savard's neck if he let Toe get away for anything less than a flock of high-class reinforcements.

The Canadiens, potential victims for anything resembling a scoring machine, presented Shore with a capital chance to make good in any uniform other than Boston's. Old Eddie, driving up from the defence and throwing his weight around as he did in his heyday with the Bruins, revelled in the going before 9,000 customers.

He started the play that brought the Americans their first goal through Johny Sorrell in four minutes. He was still the roaring ice general when Murray Armstrong completed the scoring 40 seconds from the game' send.

In the meantime Buzz Boll and Harvey Jackson scored for the Americans and Bill Summerhill poked in the Canadien goal. Ironically enough, Summerhill was carried from the ice with a leg injury in the late stages.

It can go on indefinitely. Unable so far to entice promising amateur stars to their fold, the Canadiens have rejected blocks of players in exchange for Blake. When next year comes they won't have any means of strengthening, either, unless they build a farm system in an attempt to catch up with the other clubs in the matter of developing men.

Last Sunday in Chicago the Black Hawks gave the Canadiens an 8-1 drubbing, the worst defeat any team has taken all season.

Bruins Blank Hawks.

And last night in Boston the Bruins walloped the Black Hawks 5-0. Everything that happens makes the Canadiens look worse. As for the Bruins, they were seething from a tie with the Hawks in the teams' last previous meeting. That draw marked the only time in 14 games that Chicago had earned a point against Boston. So the Bruins, after being held scoreless for one period, rapped in three goals in the second period from the sticks of Mel Hill, Woody Dumart and Bill Cowley. In the third period Roy Conacher and Milt Schmidt completed the scoring and put a dent in the string of high-class goaltending performances Paul Goodman has given the Hawks.

In the second period the Bearcats went into a two goal lead, with Prout tallying from Thompson for the first goal of the period, and then Thompson banged in a hard drive.

Farnsworth cut down the lead in the early part of the last period when McCaw took the puck from a scramble to tally. The Bees tied the count in the closing seconds of play, with D. Palmateer back-handing the puck into the nets.

Sayers handed out several penalties in this period, with Thompson getting two, E. Gunning, R. Palmateer, Emerson, two; Tufts and McCaw, all for tripping, going to the box.

Line-ups:

Plainfield in the second period increased the lead when Dunning tallied on a lone rush. Mattis and Parks went to the box for tripping.

In the last period, Imperials scored when Mattis, unassisted, banged the rubber behind Pennington Parks was handed a five minute penalty when he left the ice after being handed a penalty by the referee. Vance and H. Hart also got minor penalties for boarding. Both goalies played well, and kept the score low.

Harmony Secret Of Little Yanks

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31 — (AP). — Singing the safe, sound melodies in harmony has enabled St. Louis Flyers to keep their American Hockey Association opponents at a safe distance from first place.

There are no soloists on the "Little Yankees," now on their way to their fourth straight A.H.A. championship, no galaxy of stars to outshine the opposition by individual prowess.

Neither does Manager Johnny MacKinnon claim a hocus-pocus wand that taps out victories. He says it's much simpler than that:—

"We play a safe and sound game of hockey. There isn't a clique on the club. The boys have a lot of fun playing and they get along well together. That's the best answer of all—Harmony."

The Flyers have won 28 league games while losing only six. They have lost only one association game on home ice in a year. They won 12 games in succession during January. In one of the dozen they scored 16 goals—an all-time association record.

However, the Flyers hit a sour note with the best of prima donnas. They're in a slump now—lost two games out of three. The Flyers are optimaistic and only 14 contests be-vantage and only 14 contests before the playoffs.

Just Loafing

Mike Karakas, deposed Chicago Black Hawks goalie, turned down a $75-a-week offer of the Providence club. Karakas said Providence wanted to buy him but refused to boost his salary unless they owned him outright. Providence is a minor league farm for the Black Hawks. Karakas said he would return home and just loaf rather than accept the seventy-five per week.

Mack Perks Up With McCoy On His Payroll

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (AP)—The acquisition of Benny McCoy seems to have given 77-year-old manager Connie Mack of the Athletics a new lease on life.

Imbued with the notion that a championship team will once again hold forth in Shibe Park to the tune of his mimitable score card signals, Connie is sure McCoy will provide the rejuvenating spark.

McCoy, a $45,000 investment at 22, is going to play second base and occupy a "key position in the batting order," Mack said.

And Benny, cut adrift from the Detroit Tigers by edict of Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Landis,, is "glad to be settled again." "Maybe I got a better break than I deserved," observed the young infielder. He added that he intended to salt away a good part of the $45,000 bonus and two-year $10,000 annual salary involved in the deal.

"I'll go out on a limb and predict that the Yanks will finish third in the American League this year," he said with eyes twinkling.

He declined to venture what teams would beat out the champions, but asserted his 1941 Athletics would be a pennant contender.

Port Hope Gas Company Quits After 83 Years

PORT HOPE, Jan. 31—The active life of the Port Hope Gas Company Limited which was incorporated on February 13th, 1857, at the petition of enterprising citizens will terminate on February 29, 1940, officials of the company announce. The important decision was reached at a meeting of the board of directors held Monday, Mayor H. R. S. Ryan presided at the meeting at which Mr. H. R. Stratton and F. L. Curtis, directors, were present.

The Port Hope Gas Company Limited, was incorporated with the object of "supplying the said Town of Port Hope with gas light" the Declaration of Incorporation reads. "The amount of capital stock of the company shall be ten thousand pounds, divided into two thousand shares of five pounds each." Continuing, Schedule A reads "The duration of the Company shall be fifty years." The five directors appointed were John Smart, Robert Wallace, Duncan McLeod, Hiram Gillett and Robert McIntyre.

The Declaration of Incorporation was registered in the East riding of the County of Durham and was signed by N. Kirchhoffer, D. McLeod, Samuel Hatton, H. Gillett, R. McIntyre, Robert Wallace, John Smart, Jn. Donovan, J. F. Boulton S. R. Beamish, Wm. Anderson, W. R. Russell, John Spalding, J. Haggart, Lewis Ross, John Read, Geo. Perks, Geo. A. Stewart, Geo. C. Ward, Geo. Brogdin, R. C. Montgomerie.

The above men and the town of Port Hope were shareholders in the original company.

The life of the company was limited to fifty years which normally would have terminated in February, 1907, but for some reason the charter was not renewed until April, 1908, when the life of the company was extended to the fourteenth of February, 1957.

In the preamble of the Act which re-incorporated the company the capital is shown at $40,000 divided into 2,000 shares of $20 each. At that time the corporation owned 687½ shares with the par value of $13,750.00.

The directors of the company when its life was revived in 1908 were John Mulligan, James Craik John Wordsworth Clemesha, Donald J. McLennan, Robert Gray, and William H. Giddy, the latter through his office as the mayor of Port Hope. Bonus or dividends were limited to ten per cent. per annum and all profits of the company which accumulated on account of the limitation of dividends were to be used in improving the plant and reducing the cost of the public service the company rendered.

Switch Holiday

QUEBEC, Jan. 31—(CP)—John Gorman, president of St. Patrick's Literary Institute, announced after a meeting last night, that celebrations marking the feast of St. Patrick here, will be held April 3, instead of March 17—the day the Irish usually honor their patron saint. The coinciding of Palm Sunday and St. Patrick's Day this year had kept celebration plans indefinite.

The press party completed its day with the navy when the destroyer's gangplank was put ashore.

During the day, they had seen a convoy made up and dispatched; had inspected a minesweeper, and seen the men of Canada's navy in training ashore. The destroyer trip was the climax.

Lining Up a Convoy.

There, a group of naval officers supervise the work of getting the convoy under way. The newspapermen were permitted to see this being done.

The telephone rang soon after the press party entered the room.

"Signal's up, sir," a voice said. "Right," said the officer in charge. "See if you can speed them up a little, will you?" "Them" being any number of freighters and tankers in whose holds was the life's blood of the Allied war effort.

The officer explained that some time before a convoy is slated to move, all incoming shipping is stopped outside the anti-submarine net. All ships within the harbor with the exception of tugs and ferries, are ordered to remain where they are. The navy is taking no risks of collisions within the harbor having vivid memories of what happened in Halifax in 1917.

The convoy was taking shape. The ships fell into line like so many toys. Finally, they stretched away to the horizon in a great, slow-moving chain.

When the last ship passed through the gate, this show, for the men in the "eyrie" was over.

Later, on the destroyer, the captain said that the safeguarding of convoys is a job for the air force and the navy in co-operation.

"We know now," he said, "that one branch of the service can't do a thorough job. We have to have the thorough co-operation of the air force, and we're getting it."

He said that enemy action on this side of the Atlantic isn't really expected until the spring. Present winter conditions make it extremely difficult for a submarine or small surface craft to make an Atlantic crossing and return to its base.

announce tomorrow a 30 per cent. restriction on power consumption in the Osaka and Kobe regions, and a 35 per cent. cut in Tokyo and Yokohama for a 10-day period starting February 10.

Should coal be obtained in sufficient quantity at the end of that period, the agency said, restrictions would be eased.

Munitions and other war industries, as well as communications and public utilities, were not affected in the Osaka region, but the power reduction curtailed output of textiles, fertilizers, beer and foodstuffs. Power in some factories was reduced nearly 60 per cent below normal, it was said. Tokyo and Yokohama have been operating on a partially reduced power for some time.

The partial industrial paralysis was credited principally to delays imposed on transportation of coal by wartime demands on shipping, together with drought which affected hydro-electric production.

Dr. Manion fired a shot in the campaign Tuesday when he issued a press statement reiterating his charges of mismanagement in the war effort and claiming soldiers were suffering illness and incapacity because they were exposed to the rigors of winter improperly clothed. Dr. Manion made a particular attack upon Defence Minister Rogers who has held his present portfolio since mid-September and who was Labor Minister previously, claiming he failed in both departments.

Leopold Macaulay (Con., York South), said there were so many lights on the highway that a motorist could go cross-eyed watching them. Mr. McQuesten agreed there might be too many, and added he was considering reducing them.

Discussion came during a general bill amending the Highways Traffic Act. Included was a clause to extend the maximum permitted over-all length of passenger buses to 35 feet. Present permitted maximum is 33 feet. Mr. McQuesten said many 35-feet buses now bring tourists from the United States.

The government yielded another points as its bill to provide a two-year term for municipally-elected bodies came out of committee stage. The bill which is to be effective Feb. 1, 1941, provides any municipality may vote itself out of its provisions. The original measure provided that a vote be taken on direction of the council or on a petition of 10 per cent of the electorate.

Down to 5 Per Cent.

Toronto members argued that the 10 per cent. was too high. When the bill was last up, Hon. Eric Ross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, consented to this being dropped to five per cent. Yesterday he agreed to another amendment that the five per cent need not exceed 5,000 names. The bill now stands for third reading.

The House had a division yesterday—an oral one that happened so quickly the clerk of the House, Major Alex Lewis, missed it as he chatted with the Premier. The division was on whether members are to be requested to explain the purpose of bills when they introduce them or whether explanation could wait for second reading.

Speaker James Clark said the practice had been to require no explanation on first reading. Premier Hepburn said the members were entitled to know and cited an Ottawa precedent. The Speaker, after a moment or so called for the yeas and nays as to whether the practice should be changed. The yeas had it.

School Law Changes

The School Law Amendment Act, 1940, was introduced by Education Minister Simpson and given first reading. One clause sets up a difference in continuation school grants between schools with a large attendance paid for by a county and schools with fewer such pupils.

The amendment would base the township grants to such schools on the net cost to the continuation school section concerned of running the school. Another amendment provides machinery for setting up township school boards in unorganized districts.

Attorney-General Conant brought in a bill amending the Ontario Income Tax Act to bring it into conformity with changes made in the Federal legislation in the past two years. One amendment makes it mandatory to include in the total of income assessable for taxation, annuities or other annual payments received under the provisions of any will or trust irrespective of the time at which the trust became effective and notwithstanding that the income so received may be from capital funds.

Mr. Conant said this and other amendments established no new principles nor did they impose new taxation.

Introduced by the Attorney-General also was a measure to extend the authority of the Law Society of Upper Canada. Provision is to be made for suspension by the Law Society for suspension of any barrister or solicitor found to be mentally ill or incompetent, or who has failed to pay his Law Society fee.

Increased penalties under the Trade Schools Regulation Act are proposed in a bill introduced by Dr. Simpson. It would provide penalties for persons who sell or offer for sale trade school courses which have not been approved by the Department of Education. Penalties would be from a maximum of $1,000 for the first offence to a maximum of $2,000 or subsequent offences. In the case of a company, a magistrate would be empowered to increase the fine to $25,000.

Finns Retake

24 instances hospitals and churches were bombed.

(Indication that Finnish air force soon would be further strengthened were seen in the announcement by the Moore-McCormack steamship line in New York that 11 American pursuit planes had arrived at Bergen, Norway, en route to Finland.

The steamship line said the freighter Normactide had arrived with a cargo of planes, ammunition, and guns. Other military equipment is en route).

At barracks in the snow-swept northwest, Finnish-Canadians and Americans were outfitted in native uniforms for training before going to the front as volunteers.

The volunteers may yet see action in the Salla sector, where military observers believed the stage was being set for a decisive battle. The Finns said 45,000 Soviet soldiers already were in the area but that fighting had been confined to patrol clashes.

Official sources said Soviet aerial activity Tuesday was considerably less than on Monday and was aimed chiefly at Northern Finland, "where a few peaceful rural communities were bombed with slight material damage and three persons were reported wounded."

Meanwhile, fresh troops from Russia were reported pouring into the Salla front, above the Arctic Circle, in an effort to turn the tide against the Finns in the north.

With the Red army's positions virtually unchanged after 10 days of fighting, the Finnish Arctic army faced what military sources believed was its hardest test on a forested ridge above Markajservi.

The Finns said they believed the reinforcements, possibly totalling a full division, indicated the Russians still hope to cut Finland in two this winter.

A new display of Finland's own aerial power was seen in official reports that a Russian harbor had been bombed and enemy ships struck.

(Estonian authorities were investigating the nationality of eight planes which were reported to have dropped 34 bombs on Estonian soil near the Russian air base on Dagoe Island. Windows in some buildings were shattered but no serious damage resulted, it was reported).

In a survey of bombings since the war began November 30, Lieut.-General Saivo, chief of the Finnish civil air defences, said that 300 Russian planes had been shot down and at least 800 Soviet airmen killed.

A. J. Throop Is Elected Head Hospital Board

A. J. Throop was elected chairman of the Nicholls Hospital Board at its annual meeting yesterday, taking the place of the late E. F. Mason. Mr. Throop was honorary secretary last year and his post is now filled by C. F. Kitney.

Serious overcrowding of the hospital occupied the attention of the board together with soaring costs of operation, details of which will be found elsewhere in the Examiner today. The hospital ran at capacity nearly every day in 1939, with a total of 2,157 patients being treated, it was reported. That meant an average of 74.8 patients each day. Only 16 short of a thousand operations were performed, and births totalled 333. Deaths in hospital were 105.

The year was one of the busiest in the hospital's history and board members looked to 1940 for further problems because of overcrowding.

The hospital showed a net loss for the year of $11,142.58 the financial statement revealed.

War 25 Years Ago

JAN. 31, 1915—Allies checked German drive in the Argonne and regained ground in the region of the La Bassee. Russian forces in the Carpathians withdrew before reinforced Austro-German troops.

Police Removed Man From Train On Theft Count

On instructions from the Peterborough police department, Jack Webster was arrested at the Belleville station Tuesday night on the arrival of the Peterborough train.

He is accused of having been the man who allegedly stole $10 from the till in the office of the J. K. Hughes garage earlier Tuesday evening.

Police were informed that the man had come into the Hughes garage and asked permission to use the telephone. While the attendant was busy servicing a car, the visitor is said to have helped himself to $10 and departed.

The local police were notified and Constable C. J. McGillen learned that a man answering the description of the wanted individual had tried to buy a ticket for Cobourg at the C.P.R. station and had been referred to the C.N.R. station. Inquiry there showed that the man had bought a ticket for Belleville and had left on the evening train. The Belleville police were communicated with and the arrest followed. Sergt. John Thompson and Officer W. R. Piercy left for Belleville this morning to bring the man back.

Seek To Make Names Legible

To give legibility to the names on the war memorial in Confederation Square of the Peterborough men who died in the Great War, as requested by the Canadian Legion, the Board of Works asked City Engineer Parsons last night to write to the March Company who cast the bronze figures for advice.

Mr. Parsons said he had considered using a lead paint "on a few names to see how it would work," but was dubious of the effect.

"As it is now, it is a poor way of honoring the memory of the Peterborough boys who gave their lives in the last war," Alderman Dutton commented. "It is no credit to anybody."

Bronze tablets bearing the names were suggested as a permanent inscription, but Alderman Dutton said that plan would probably conflict with the sculptor's plan.

It was said that the original intention of W. S. Allward was to omit the carving of names on the memorial, and their subsequent lettering was a concession to local sentiment. Mr. Allward is the artist who designed the Canadian war memorial on Vimy Ridge.

Lt.-Col. J. Tyndall Will Visit City

Brig. F. J. Riches will conduct the meeting, assisted by Mrs. Tyndall, who is League of Mercy secretary for Canada. The Temple Band under Gerald Routly will provide the music.

Estimated expenditure of $102,175 passed under the review of the Board of Works Tuesday night, and was sent forward to the Finance Committee for revision Thursday night.

The proposed outlay is slightly more than the appropriation and expenditure in 1939 when the council allotted $97,000 to the Board for its year's program of work on streets and bridges and boulevards. The amount actually spent was $93,235.87, leaving a credit balance of $3,664.13.

Alderman Wilson presided at last night's meeting, the last of the series in the preliminaries of compiling the city's budget for this year. The requisitions from the various committees, Board of Education, City Trust Commission and other civic bodies drawing funds from the city treasury, will be considered by the finance committee Thursday, and it may be that the council will be in a position to strike the tax rate next Monday night, although the reports from the city hall have indicated that a later special meeting will have to be called for that purpose.

City Engineer Parsons' proposed expenditure as submitted to the Board in a detailed statement totalled $96,875, but certain additions were added in the course of the discussion amounting to $6,300. This sum comprised an extra $800 for repairs to pavements, $1,500 for the purchase of a sand pit, $2,000 more than the estimated cost of removing snow from the streets and sanding them, an additional $500 for road oil, and $1,500 which Mayor Hamilton suggested for further improvement this year of the city's water front at McDonald's Point. His Worship was not present at the meeting. He was in Ottawa on city business with J. J. Duffus.

Other work authorized as projects for this year are the construction of a pedestrian bridge over the river at London street for which the ratepayers have voted $10,000, and curbs and gutters on King street from George to Park street and on Chamberlain street from Park to Monaghan Road.

Some Street Costs

One of the larger items in the estimates was the sum of $14,000 for the completion of the retread surfacing of Stewart street from Charlotte street south to Wolfe street, and on Reid street from Charlotte street south of Sherbrooke street.

The cost of cleaning and repairing streets was set at $5,000, and $5,000 was included for crushing stone at the city's gravel pit.

Removal of snow and sanding streets cost $18,346.76 last year as follows: cutting channels along curbs $3,239.55; removal of snow from streets $9,369.01; snow plowing $1,869.45; sanding streets and sidewalks $3,262.62; shovelling $607.13. The appropriation for this work a year ago was $10,000, indicating the unreckonable expense of an adverse winter. Mr. Parsons asked for $10,000 again this year, but in view of the outlay of $18,346.76 last year, the Board decided to increase the appropriation to $12,000.

New equipment listed in this year's expense consists of a road roller especially for finishing pavements costing $2,500; a motor grader at $4,000 and a new truck to cost $1,500.

Sand Pit Needed

The Board last year set aside $1,500 for a sand pit, but City Engineer Parsons reported that of various properties offered for sale none was acceptable, and the money wasn't spent.

"But we buy sand some where," Alderman Dutton remarked, "and we might as well make another effort to get our own supply."

Alderman Ovens mentioned a pit six miles east of the city where the owner sold sand at ten cents a load.

Alderman Dutton moved, seconded by Alderman McIntyre, that the $1,500 appropriation for purchase of a pit be renewed.

The surfacing of the road east of the canal from the old Norwood Road bridge to the C.P.R. cost $10,679.67 as compared with the $6,000 allowance for this work from the federal Department of Transport. Alderman Bradburn pointed out that the department had not signed the agreement with the city for that job, although the city had signed, and there might be some question as to the government supplementing their grant to cover the entire cost incurred by the city.

Alderman Wilson replied that Mr. Duffus had assured the council that council would be reimbursed in full, and said he had no doubt about the government making up the difference of $4,679.67.

Memorial Park

Building of a curb along the concave side of the Crescent street pavement to prevent motor vehicles and wagons from trenching into the new boulevard extending out to the top of the rip-rap was suggested by Alderman Bradburn as an improvement that should not be deferred.

Alderman Stocker enlarge the plan for the future of that work of beautification by pointing out the need of laying a water service to keep green the grass that has been planted. "It will be as brown as Armour's Hill if you don't," he said. This work may be considered later if it is to be paid by issuing debentures.

An item of $2,000 for a road at the north end of the Memorial Park of Armour Hill prompted Alderman Dutton's question as to whether a definite plan was being followed. Mr. Parsons replied that this amount was to provide for a road leading off McFarlane street up to the top of the hill connecting with the present road from Hunter street.

Alderman Dutton suggested that there should be a complete plan of the Memorial Park prepared, and moved, seconded by Alderman Stocker, that the Ontario Department of Highways be requested to allow Harry Moore, its scenic expert, to visit Peterborough to consult with the council regarding the further beautification of the Memorial Park, the Crescent street boulevard, and the McDonald's Point site.

A comparatively few minutes after his automobile was in collision with a C.N.R. train at Aylmer and Perry streets last night, Alderman McCannan was urging the Board of Works to make driving safer by sanding the streets at approaches to such crossings.

He told the Board that he was driving north on Aylmer street from St. James Church, to which he had taken a supply of bowls for a carpet bowling tournament.

"I saw the train coming from the north," Alderman McCannan said, "and I put on my brakes, but the tires wouldn't hold on the icy road. My car slid on toward the tracks and swerved against the side of the engine. I wasn't hurt but I was lucky, and I'm grateful that I wasn't injured. I might have been killed, although the train wasn't going very fast. It stopped in a hundred feet or more."

Alderman McCannan said his car was damaged. His request was for sanding of streets wherever the railways diagonally cross streets.

Queen Alexandra School Heads List Of City Schools In Bank Deposits

Queen Alexandra school climbed into tenth place in all the province in percentage of pupils depositing money in the Penny Bank of Ontario during the months of November and December. Ninety-five per cent of pupils at the school deposited every week in that two-month period.

In only 47 schools in all Ontario did 80 per cent or more pupils deposit regularly during that time, and two Peterborough schools were among them. The other was King Edward school, with 84 per cent. However, when all Peterborough schools were taken into account, the average dropped for down the list into 46th place with an average of 55 per cent of all the city's public school children making regular deposits. The aggregate for all Ontario, however, was only 40 per cent.

The Penny Bank now reaches 206,000 depositors and at the end of December there was on deposit $1,408,139.59, with 522 schools depositing.

In Peterborough the total on deposit at the end of December was $17,316.73, some $443 less than at the same time in 1938.

The percentage in Peterborough and vicinity was reported: Queen Alexandra, 95; King Edward, 84; Central, 60; Queen Elizabeth, 57; King George, 52; Queen Mary, 45; Confederation, 41; Prince of Wales, 31; May's, 30.

Charles D. Cook Passes Away After Long Illness

Charles David Cook, publicity director of the De Laval Company of Canada, died at 3 o'clock this morning at Nicholls Hospital. Mr. Cook was in his seventy-third year.

Mr. Cook had been in ill-health for several years and retired from active business in August, 1938.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cook of Peterborough; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Cook Drenan, of Keene, N.H.; a stepson, Arthur H. McClure, Detroit, Mich., newspaperman, and a sister, Mrs. John Spear of Charlotte, Vt.

Mr. Cook was born in Charlotte, Vt., June 21, 1867. He was the son of Charles D. Cook, a breeder of thoroughbred horses, and came of an old New England family. Mr. Cook was educated in the public schools of Charlotte and at the Vermont Academy.

26 Years With De Laval.

Mr. Cook joined the De Laval Company in Montreal 28 years ago after having been associated with the Stoddard Manufacturing Company of Rutland, Vt.; the Stickney Engine Company of Boston, International Harvester Company and the Canadian Dairy Supply Company.

With the De Laval Company, Mr. Cook served as sales manager for farm equipment lines and as publicity director, a post in which he was probably better known. His bulletins to agents and his "Front Line" editorials were unsurpassed in their witty and interesting presentation of salesmanship ideas. His work will be missed by thousands of De Laval employees and agents in Canada and the United States who profited by his humor and facts.

Since coming to Peterborough in 1913, Mr. Cook had been active in civic affairs. He was a past president of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club and one of its earliest members. Mr. Cook had been a director of the Chamber of Commerce and publicity manager of the Peterborough Health Association and of the Industrial Exhibition.

Mr. Cook was a member of Trinity United Church and of Royal Arthur Lodge, A.F. & A.M.

There will be a private service for members of the immediate family at the Cook residence, 615 Weller Street, at 9.30 o'clock Friday morning, followed by a public service at Trinity Church at 10.30, after which the remains will be taken to Mr. Cook's boyhood home, Charlotte, Vt., for burial.

Mr. Cook was an inspiration to his associates in any public effort. Never robust, he was a standing challenge to many of greater physical strength.

Park Trustees Ask City To Build Road

With the intention of confining their expenditure to their program of improving the entrances and the gates to Jackson Park, the Nicholls Park trustees requested the Board of Works on Tuesday night to assume the cost of repairing the mile of road within the park.

The letter from Dr. J. E. Middleton, secretary, said that the scenic road is a popular driveway, and traffic over it has left it in need of resurfacing. City Engineer Parsons roughly estimated the cost of the work at $2,000. He was asked to give the Board a report on what the rebuilding of the road would cost the city.

Plan Check Up On All Aliens

Kiwanians in this district may soon start a move toward co-operation with local police and the Government in apprehending aliens who have defied wartime law by failing to register. "We have them in thousands who have not yet registered and who evade the law by being constantly on the move," a memorandum from Kiwanis stated. "We do not know where they are now, where they came from, or whither they are bound."

Kiwanians here have "re-dedicated themselves to the task of generally acquiring throughout Canada, a greater appreciation of the individual privileges and responsibilities in a Democracy." A resolution calling for such action was recently passed at a district convention in Oshawa.

As a result, a special War Service committee was appointed by the Peterborough club to co-operate with other agencies and carry out such efforts as may present themselves. A suggestion, which is being acted upon by many War Service committees, has come from International headquarters of Kiwanis, that Kiwanians in both the United States and Canada can devote themselves to no better public affairs objective than the enactment and rigid enforcement of registration laws.

Traffic Officers Prosecute Their Own Cases

The practice of requiring Provincial traffic officers to prosecute cases under the Ontario Traffic Act instead of having the Crown Attorney act, drew the fire of T. J. Carley, K.C., in Police Court this morning.

Mr. Carley, acting as defence counsel in a traffic case, took strong objection to the fact that Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton, who prosecuted the case, went into the witness box to give evidence.

"I don't like this practice of the Department," said Mr. Carley. "If they want their traffic officers to act as counsel they should not be used as witnesses."

"I don't like it myself," said Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., "but we can't do very much about it."

Careless Driving.

The objection arose in a case in which Arthur Eggleson, 20, of Mount Pleasant was charged with careless driving, following an accident at Fowler's Corners on January 15.

Eggleson was finally acquitted of the charge, the Magistrate deciding that the Crown had not established sufficient lack of care or lack of consideration for others to justify a conviction.

James S. Morrison, a Belleville traveller for a Montreal firm, was the principal Crown witness. He said he was driving west on Highway 7, and near Fowler's Corners, noticed a car coming out of a driveway on to the highway. He had blown his horn twice, but the car kept coming on to the highway and witness said that he had no chance of passing in front because of the snow on that side of the road. He had tried to go to the rear and had skidded into the machine which was driven by Eggleson. Morrison said he was travelling at 28 miles an hour.

Car Skidded.

In cross-examination Morrison admitted that his car had skidded to his left side of the road and the impact took place on that side.

For the defence Eggleson said that he had stopped at the gateway coming out on the laneway. He noticed a car coming from the east 1,000 feet away, and pulled out in low gear toward the highway, intending to make a right turn. He was struck when his front wheels were five feet south of the centre line and his car was motionless. Morrison's car was travelling at 40 miles an hour, he said.

Melville Johnston, an eye-witness, corroborated Eggleson's evidence and Ray Fee testified that the marks showed that the collision took place on the south side of the road.

Cobourg Man Fined For Careless Driving

Pleading guilty to careless driving, following an accident in which his car skidded into the ditch off Highway 28, James Ling of Cobourg was fined $5 and $2.50 costs in traffic court here this morning. The charge was laid by Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure.

It cost J. Sturenegger of Smith Township $10 and costs for driving without a license, while Percy Rowe paid $5 and 75 cents costs for failing to come to a stop before entering a through street.

Value Of Charm And Grace Is Emphasized

An interesting guest in the city this week was Mrs. A. J. Stewart of Toronto. Although the mother of four young people, Mrs. Stewart, who was at one time house matron of a large girls' school in Chicago, successfully combines the many duties connected with her office as secretary-treasurer and executive head for Canada of the New Testament Missionary Union with her responsibilities at home.

Chatting to over two hundred girls and their mothers on Monday evening at a Mother and Daughter banquet in All Saints' Sunday School Hall, Mrs. Stewart emphasized the value of always appearing charming, well-groomed and beautiful in a world where all nature's surroundings are beautiful. There is one thing we all want, she said, and that is an inward as well as outward grace, and quoted the Scripture passage, "The Grace of our Lord Jesus be with you." He will give us grace if we tune our lives to the things which are pure, honest, good, she continued. The Lord will give us grace that will show in our lives and make us the women we ought to be.

The work of Lillian Perkins, a missionary in South America, and the difficult conditions existing in connection with this work because of the many different languages spoken, were outlined. In Brazil they speak Portuguese, and in other parts Spanish and Indian tribal languages. In the interior there are great stretches of land which are simply marked on maps as "unexplored." "Pass on the words of the Gospel," Mrs. Stewart urged. "If there are people around you who do not know of the Lord, some day they will be blaming you. We are soldiers of Christ. He has given us all a commission in His army—woe betide us if we are not faithful to it."

KEENE, Jan. 31 — (ENS). — The third in a series of sermons was presented at Keene United Church last Sunday, namely, "Devotion to Our Ideals." There are many ideals in our Christian faith, but Paul refers to three in his letter to the Church if Philippi. Worship God in the spirit, rejoicing in Jesus Christ and have no confidence in the flesh," Rev. Murray said.

During these winter days the attendance at church is well maintained. Next Sunday the topic of the sermon will be "The Need For Friendship." As a weapon of our Christian faith none is more needed in this world torn asunder by spite, jealousy and greed.

Girls' Club Formed

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31 — (ENS).—The "Busy Bees" is the name of a newly formed organization in Christ Church whose membership will be limited to girls from six to fourteen years of age. Mrs. A. Hollings, who has been responsible for the society's formation feels that it will not only provide valuable training for these younger girls but also fill a long-wanted need by giving them early training in sewing, crocheting and knitting which will be their principal occupation. The group will meet each Tuesday after four. Officers were elected as follows: President (who will be designated Queen Bee), Verna Hardy; 1st. Vice-President, Ruth Barker; 2nd Vice-President, Violet Abernethy; Secretary-Treasurer, Helen Lambert and Yvonne Beatty.

Bethel Church Reports Good Year

The annual congregational meeting of Bethel United Church was held recently. The Rev. George Murray presided, and after devotional exercises reports were presented by the various organizations which indicated much progress had been made during the year. There is an increased interest as is evidenced by the large number attending public worship each Sunday. The treasurer reported that after all obligations had been paid there was a balance on hand. At the last Communion ten new members were received into the church on profession of their faith in Christ. At the close of the meeting lunch was served.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 1.

An active and interesting day, with personal engagements dominating the activities, is read from the predominant planetary configurations. The accent seems to be on social, domestic and affectional affairs of those business interests involved in catering to such happy functions. All artistic pursuits are under good auspices, and the mystical or psychological expressions of creative talents find splendid stimulus under this rule. However, in connection with all such idealistic experiences, there may be sudden and surprising disruptions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of extremely lively experiences in social, domestic, artistic or emotional activities. A mystical or intuitional element may be involved. There may be a unique original or modernistic expression in poetry, music or art. Romance may be absorbing and cause sudden or entangling upheavals or changes.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with all the social, emotional, artistic, and romantic graces and talents, and have a gentle, genial and sympathetic nature. It may also have strong intuitions or some form of mystical or subtle creative depths, perhaps in poetry or music.

DOROTHY DIX

Fed Up With Too Many Relatives? Then There Is Only One Thing to Do and That Is to Be Firm in Your Demands for Less Frequent Visits From Them.

Nothing is more common than to hear a prospective bride or bridegroom say: "Well, anyway, I am not marrying Mamie's or Tom's family." There speaks the voice of inexperience. For after the ceremony is over they find to their surprise that they are just as much wed to each other's fathers and mothers and sisters and brothers as they are to each other.

Now sometimes in-laws are curses and sometimes they are blessings. There are trouble-making mothers-in-law who, according to statistics, are first aid to more divorces than all other causes combined. There are bossy mothers-in-law who feel that they have a right to run their sons' and daughters' homes and tell their children's husbands and wives where they get off and on. There are mothers-in-law whose chief indoor sport is picking flaws in their children's husbands and wives and making them dissatisfied with their bargains.

And there are other in-laws who take the boys and girls their children marry into their affections and treat them as if they were their very own. There are in-laws who never meddle in their children's pies, but always stand ready to help. There are in-laws who buck their own children up to do their duty and are largely responsible for making their daughters good wives and their sons husbands who keep their wives on their knees thanking heaven for their luck in getting them.

But whatever faults or virtues the families of the newlyweds have, there is one trait that they seem to have in common, and that is a mania for visiting their children that amounts to a positive obsession. They are never content to stay at home and apparently it never occurs to them to go anywhere except to Mamie's or Tom's. They are forever popping in—morning, noon and night—without the slightest regard for the convenience of the newlyweds, or how much they are running up the grocery bill, or how bitter are the thoughts of Tom at having to sleep on a cot in the bathroom because Mother has flopped down in his bed.

Seemingly it never dawns on the minds of their families that Mamie and Tom got married in order to be able to live by themselves and be alone together, and that they would like to have a little privacy, and their house to themselves without being cluttered up by relatives. One of these poor unfortunate victims of their in-laws sends me this SOS call. He says:

"We have been married about two years and live in a two-room apartment: My wife's people live six miles in the country and her father and sister come in town for work every day and they eat lunch with us. They come so early in the morning that I have to dress in the kitchen and they sit around while we eat breakfast. On Sundays they all descend upon us, so that we never have any of the privacy that one's home should afford in which to rest.

"I do not want to be unreasonable or inhospitable and I realize that marriage is a give-and-take proposition, but I think we would have a much better chance at happiness if my wife's family would let us alone a little and understand that it is best for a young married couple to live their own lives, in their own home and not be thrown with either of their families too much.

"I have not been rude to my wife's people, but I have shown them that I was not overanxious to have them with us all the time, but they won't take the hint. We are moving soon to a nicer and larger apartment and I am afraid that this is going to make bad matters worse and that her sisters will come to spend their nights and even have their dates at our place. What would you advise me to do?"

Well, I would certainly advise you to move into a smaller instead of a larger apartment, because if you don't your worst fears will be realized. Your in-laws will never go home at all, and it is a cinch that your sisters-in-law and their dates will keep you awake half the night. Furthermore, I would suggest to you that you observe the tactics that women use in defending themselves against their in-laws. You never see a husband's family have the run of the house. Maybe the wife feeds them on cold shoulder is the reason they don't come back for a second helping.

DEAR MISS DIX—I don't hold with what you say about women not hating to be called old maids. Matrimony is a woman's sphere, and if she doesn't get a husband she feels that she has failed, no matter what else she has accomplished. Speaking for myself, I would marry any kind of a man if he could even gasp out "yes" at the altar just to have MRS. attached to my name. Look at the dignity it gives one. Go into any shop and you may see a quet-looking spinster asking to have her purchases sent home. The clerk writes "Mrs." and looks up to get the name. The customer says "Miss" Brown, and the color rushes to her cheeks at the clerk's contemptuous look. Why? Because she hasn't a husband.

VERBUM SAP.

ANSWER

Well, doesn't this sound like something that came out of the hair trunk in the attic? It has been years and years and years since I have heard a woman declaring that she would marry any kind of a man just to write MRS. in front of her name. I thought my sex had outgrown that particular bit of idiocy.

Of course, time was when a husband was a badge of respectability that a woman had to flaunt in public. But nowadays whether a woman is proud of her husband and honored to bear his name depends on the manner of man he is.

If you think that just being able to put Mrs. before her name confers such a distinction on a woman, how do you account for it that so many of the prominent women call themselves Miss even after they are married?

Keep Your Respectability

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been married for ten years to a man whom I love dearly and to whom I have been a good wife. I have helped him in his profession. I have made him an attractive and pleasant home. I have kept myself a good-looking, interesting woman. Now I have found out that he has been unfaithful to me and everybody has known it but myself. So I have come to the conclusion that if I went out and made the fool out of my husband that he has been making out of me I would, at least have the satisfaction of being even with him, although the thought of doing this repels me. What do you think GRISELDA.

ANSWER:

Don't do it. You would get no happiness out of revenging yourself on your husband. It would only make you the more miserable, because if you betrayed him as he has betrayed you, you would lose your self-respect. You can live without him and hold up your head and look the world in the face, but you could not live without your own self-respect. The shame of having degraded yourself to his level would kill you.

Lakefield Church Reports Good Year

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 31.—(ENS).—The congregation of St. Andrew's church, Lakefield, have passed a very successful year as the reports showed when given at the annual meeting, held in the church basement on Tuesday evening.

Rev. J. M. Young led in the devotiona lexercises and was also appointed chairman for the business period.

J. M. Simpson, clerk of the Session, gave a most comprehensive report of the branches of the church, showing that each had made progress during 1939. He reported twenty-eight families who attend service with sixty communicants taking communion, given twice during the year. There were four baptisms and one marriage. Eight members joined during 1939.

The financial report, given by Mrs. J. M. Simpson, treasurer, showed that there is a balance on hand of $34.68 after the expenses of $878.42 had been paid from the receipts of $903.10.

The Sunday school report showed the receipts to be ..56.54 with $53.96 expenses.

In the absence of Mrs. A. H. Clerk, financial secretary, Mrs. A. Davis read the report of the Women's Association. This group of ladies has done splendid work in aiding the financial end of the church work. During the year they raised the sum of $291.14 by means of Burns' supper in January, afternoon teas and sales of homecooking, pie and ice cream social, royal visit pictures, and a collection raised toward the missionary cember.

Mrs. T. W. Chaplin reported for the W.M.S., showing that $18.03 had been raised toward the missionary cause. This was an increase over last year's receipts. The society had packed and shipped a bale. Ten regular meetings were held during the year.

The two leaders of the Mission Band reported splendid work of the band during the year as the report given by Mrs. J. M. Young showed. They have twelve regular members and have held two meetings each month, except during July and Augusst. They donated to the W.M.S. bale a cot quilt and several other articles suitable for Christmas gifts. The band sent $4.79 to the presbyterial treasurer.

The Young People's Society report read by Miss Ethel Blakely in the absence of the secretary, Miss Jean Clark, through illness, showed that this society also stood on the right side of the ledger with a cash on hand of $9.75 after all obligations had been met. During the year eleven regular meetings were held and three executive meetings and an average attendance of eighteen members.

Messrs. A. H. Clark and J. W. Ridpath were re-elected to the board of trustees.

The two ushers appointed are Orville Moore and Bill Clark, and the auditors re-appointed are Messrs. T. W. Chaplin and A. H. Clark.

Hearty votes of thanks were extended to Rev. J. M. and Mrs. Young for their untiring efforts during the year and for all those officers who have so faithfully served the congregation.

Stretch Your Dollars to Beat High Prices

Banish Worry by Budgeting

"Gee, honey! Do you mean you've got a budget plan that licks rising prices?" John asks excitedly.

"You bet I have!" Sally smiles back at him. "And we won't have to give up a thing!"

First Sally split up the family income so she could see what proportion needed to go to shelter, food, clothes and so on.

Now she doesn't try to squeeze out of FOOD those items that belong under HOUSEHOLD OPERATING—telephone, gas, electricity, soap, service. And since she knows just what she can spend on three wholesome meals a day, she steers clear of out-of-season fruits and vegetables, avoids last-minute telephone orders.

Sally made GIFTS TO PERSONS OUTSIDE FAMILY a separate item, too, instead of an unplanned expense upsetting their budget for necessities. And she and John make their gifts to each other clever little surprises that come under the head of RECREATION.

How to beat higher living costs when your income stays the same? Our 32-page booklet gives a budget plan easily adapted to your needs and desires. Tells how to buy; how to save. Includes ruled pages for a year's budget entries.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO BUDGET AND BUY FOR BETTER LIVING to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them an effective, dependable remedy for distressing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well known for its effect on throat membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 1½ ounces of cough remedy, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

Cemetery Board Heads Named For Hastings

HASTINGS, Jan. 31 — (ENS). — The annual meeting of the Trent Valley Cemetery Board was held in the Council Chambers on Monday evening, at 7.30.

Mr. Alex Wilson, 85 years of age, and the oldest native resident of Hastings, who has been secretary for 13 years, was again able to fulfil his duties.

Mr. William McEachnie interviewed the board on behalf of the Hastings Council in regards to again buying wood for relief purposes. No action was taken.

Interesting Debate

A debate, "Resolved that Canada should have a complete state of medical service," to choose winners for the Presbyterial competition of the Young People's Union, was held in Trinity United Church on Monday evening.

The debate, the second of the series for Hastings, aroused keen interest between Norwood and Hastings societies.

Upholding the affirmative were Mr. David McNeil and Miss Laura Metcalfe of Norwood, while equally able arguments for the negative were advanced by Miss Helen Collins and Mr. Kitchener Smith of Hastings. Judges were Mr. S. S. Brecken of Norwood, Mr. Grant Sine of Hastings, and Miss Jessie Hay as the neutral judge.

Decision in the debate was given in favor of the affirmative.

The meeting opened with orchestra selections, then the singing of hymns led by Rev. J. E. Glover.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Philanthropist Harkness Dies

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(CP).—Edward S. Harkness, 66, who once donated $10,000,000 to found a trust for "promoting the future well-being of Britain by helping the country's present needs," died last night.

Harkness never made a public speech or gave an interview although he gave a total of $100,000,000 to various institutions.

The $10,000,000 donation was for the founding of the Pilgrim Trust, devoted to the furthering of Anglo-American understanding and friendship.

He donated $200,000 to the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

The fortune of Harkness, a native of Cleveland, O., stemmed from that of his father, Stephen V., whose early partnership with John D. Rockfeller, Sr., in founding Standard Oil brought millions to the family.

He was inherently shy, and many of his philanthrophies were kept in deepest secrecy.

He died of a pacreas infection. At his bedside was his widow, only close survivor. Spokesmen for Mr. Harkness, the former Mary Stillman, said the funeral would be private.

Harkness made almost a business —but an extremely quiet one—of philantrophy, keeping a staff of secretaries to hunt out new and deserving outlets for his wealth.

He travelled frequently in Great Britain. On June 10, 1931, he was received by King George V and Queen Mary in private audience. On that occasion the Times said the reception "may be accepted as a Royal expression of the gratitude felt by the British people for his benefactions, distinguished no less by the grace with which they were given than by their generous extent."

St. Mark's Church Holds Vestry Meeting

A good attendance marked the annual vestry meeting of St. Mark's Anglican Church at Zion, held on Tuesday afternoon in the church, with the rector, Rev. T. H. Floyd, in the chair.

The meeting opened with prayer, after which Mr. Floyd called upon the vestry clerk, Mrs. Graystock, Sr., to read the minutes of the 1939 vestry. Mrs. Graystock was re-elected vestry clerk.

The financial statement was presented by the people's warden, W. Robinson and showed a very favorable report and quite encouraging to the congregation. The missionary giving showed a gain of approximately forty per cent over the previous year.

Mr. Floyd reappointed John Collins as his warden, and W. Robinson was re-elected people's warden.

The church auditor and treasurer of St. Mark's Cemetery, R. Dixon, gave the cemetery board report.

The Sunday school report was read by Miss Pickell, in the absence of the superintendent, Miss Alma Robinson. The Women's Auxiliary report, read by Mrs. Graystock, Sr., in the absence of Mrs. John Collins, treasurer, said, "I feel that special mention should be made at this time of the Women's Auxiliary, who not only met their fees and pledges in full for the past year, but made a most substantial donation to the churchwardens." This the rector pointed out, is most gratifying and appreciative and he thanked the member for this endeavor.

Before the adjournment of the meeting, Mr. Floyd gave a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. John Collins, ogranist, for her faithful services during the year.

First White Settler In Lethbridge, Dies

EDMONTON, Jan. 31—(CP). — Howard F. Greenwood, 92, first white settler in what is now Lethbridge in Southern Alberta, died in hospital here yesterday.

Born in Halifax of a pioneer family whose predecessors were among the first settlers in North America, Mr. Greenwood, former accountant for the Hudson's Bay Company at Montreal and Winnipeg, came to Southern Alberta in 1883 by oxcart.

Mrs. Greenwood, daughter of the late Col. Fraser Stewart, one of the first chief factors of the fur company's Winnipeg Post, and her husband, lived in the first home built in Lethbridge which was known then as coalbanks. They were parents of the first white child in Alberta, Peter, who was born at Macleod.

They were hosts to Lord Lansdowne, former governor general of Canada, and Lady Lansdowne, during a visit of their excellencies to Lethbridge late in the 1800's.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE" By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE.

FABIENNE sat in the big cherry-red wing chair beside the hearth and leaned her head wearily against the back, closing her eyes.

"It's good to be back," she said, and sighed contentedly.

Ellen cast an eye at the clock and then looked at the girl opposite. With her eyes closed, Fabienne showed the ravages of her illness sharply. The thinner lines of her svelte figure showed clearly beneath her frock and there were new planes and shadows on her young face.

Ellen said, "Fab, I think you ought to go somewhere and get a lot of rest and sunshine." She was going to add, "and peace," but she didn't know why she wanted to say that, so she said no more.

"All I want to do is get back to work," Fabienne said, opening her eyes. "Don't you want me here?"

"Of course I do! I'll take your bag in and hang up your dresses. I suppose the trunks will come back later."

Fabienne said, "Don't go yet. I want to talk to you." But when Ellen sat back, calmly waiting for her to speak, Fabienne fell silent again, her eyes roaming around the room. It was a nice room, a little shabby and without comparison to the drawing room of Gertrude's apartment, or the big spacious living room that spread across the front of the house in Maryland. There were books and plants and hearths in those rooms, too, but this room had an air of being lived in by peaceful people. And it was rich with the memory of quiet hours here with Bill, with unsung melodies.

"I had a row with mother," Fabienne said suddenly.

"Is that the only reason you came back?" Ellen asked, smiling ruefully.

"I thought it was," Fabienne answered honestly, "until just this minute. It suddenly occured to me that I've been happier here than I've ever been before in my whole life. How would you account for that, Ellen? I've lived in some very beautiful places — villas in Italy, castles in the Tyrol and Gertrude's little house in Paris is really something. And yet everywhere else I've ever lived, including Aunt Edna's in Maryland, has always been a between-stop, if you know what I mean."

Ellen nodded. "This is a home you've earned. You pay your share here, Fab. Maybe that has something to do with it."

Ellen colored swiftly and stopped her, saying, "Please, my dear, we never owe each other any explanations. We're friends."

Fab's eyes opened wider. "It wasn't anything important. I was only going to tell you about the row with mother. I want you to know it wasn't her fault. I'm just the wrong kind of a daughter for her. I always have been. The world's full of girls who would love to be the kind she wants. She's ambitious for me. Only I prefer to be ambitious for myself. We're just two opposites who meet and then the sparks fly. It must be chemical!"

Ellen kept quiet, knowing that Fabienne was trying to talk something out for herself.

"Take Nicky"—she was not looking at Ellen and so did not see her drop her eyes—"I'm pretty fond of Nicky and if mother hadn't interfered, made it so clear that she wanted me to marry him, it might have gone on to just that conclusion. But as soon as she said I should marry him, I got up in arms.'

"Perhaps it will work out the right way, now, Fab," Ellen said.

"And then there was the matter of Bill," Fabienne went on as if she had not heard Ellen. "That's what got my ire up this time."

"What about Bill?" Ellen asked, eagerly.

"Mother wanted to cultivate him. She can't get over seeing young men as puppets. It feeds her ego to do something for them.' I could just hear her saying to her friends, 'I've found the most WONDERFUL young surgeon! Bob Whiting says that he's one of the rising people. You MUST have him look over Ogden's tonsils.' She'd have him around to dinner night after night and dropping in for tea . . sitting at her feet while she was sweet and helpful. And then, when these proteges of hers got famous, it's all dear Gertrude who's done it. It makes me sick. I told her so and then . . . well, here I am."

Ellen picked up a small object on the table beside her and regarded it thoughtfully. "Maybe your mother's ambition is sincere for you, Fab. Maybe she thinks that—that you and Bill—"

"Oh, no!" Fabienne said emphatically. "She didn't think anything of the sort. Besides, I told her that I—I didn't have any interest in Bill that way. And I was very clear about Bill's lack of interest in me except as a fellow worker and patient." There, she's almost done something very wrong. Ellen must not think anyone would think Bill was interested in her.

Ellen sighed. She guessed it just wasn't any use in hoping such things for Bill ad Fab.

She got Fabienne's big bag and took it into the bedroom. "This is too heavy for you," she told her. "Have you had dinner?"

"No, I thought you and I could dine together if you hadn't already had yours."

Ellen bent over the bag, keeping her face from Fabienne. "Have you heard from Ni—Mr. Barlett?"

Fabienne put a dress on a hanger and hung it in the closet. "No, not yet."

Ellen said, "You've brought three evening dresses. Planning a social whirl?"

Fabienne nodded, taking the dresses from her. "You won't see as much of me around the apartment as you used to, darling. I'm going to persuade Nicky to stay here for a while. And my other beaux are complaining because I've been out of circulation so long."

"You'd better talk to Bill before you make very many plans for late hours."

"Fabienne laughed. "Oh, Ellen, don't you know that other girls don't take Bill as seriously as you do Bill simply can't give ME orders, because I won't take them. There isn't any reason why I should," she finished, making each little word of the last sentence stand out emphatically, trying to make her feelings toward Bill quite clear.

Ellen shrugged, knowing the uselessness of trying to convince Fabienne when she was in that mood.

"Bill thinks you are an angel." Fabienne volunteered. "Your ears should have been burning after we left you last night. Both Bill and Nicky outdid themselves complimenting you."

The door bell rang sharply and panic assailed Ellen, making her forget that Fabienne had been saying.

She fled to the bathroom. "Fab, will you go to the door, please?"

Fabienne crossed the room, pressed the button that opened the lower door, and waited. She opened the apartment door.

Ellen heard her say, "Nicky! You darling! How did you find out that I was here?"

Nicky's voice was low, but Ellen heard him clear his throat and mumble something about calling her at her mother's.

Ellen went out. She held out her hand. "Hello," she said. "It's nice to see you again."

"Isn't he sweet?" Fabienne said, beaming at him. "He's come to take me to dinner—to take US to dinner. Haven't you, Nicky?"

Nicky's glance found Ellen, hoping she'd understand. "Sure," he said. 'That'll be just jolly."

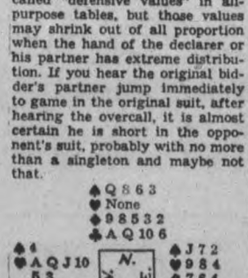
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT GOOD DEFENSIVELY

HANDS WHICH richly justify an overcall do not necessarily have good defensive value, even if the holder was vulnerable at the time he made his bid. His hand may contain high cards which are called "defensive values" in all-purpose tables, but those values may shrink out of all proportion when the hand of the declarer or his partner has extreme distribution. If you hear the original bidder's partner jump immediately to game in the original suit, after hearing the overcall, it is almost certain he is short in the opponent's suit, probably with no more than a singleton and maybe not that.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

West's hand on this deal certainly constitutes a sound vulnerable overcall of 2-Hearts over South's 1-Spade. When North jumped at once then to 4-Spades, he advertised the type of hand he held for all to hear. Came then South's 4-No Trumps (Blackwood), North's 5-Diamonds, showing one ace, and South's 6-Spades.

This passed around to East, who doubled. South was Alfred E. Haeussler, who knew East as a player given to psychics, calls which he believes may mislead a declarer in the play, and "intuitive" doubles—or something. So he redoubled enthusiastically. Later East explained that he thought the double would make South play him for strength he did not have, and so enable his partner to beat the contract.

That bright idea cost his side 910 points. The heart A was led and trumped, two others of South's hearts ruffed, and the diamond Q discarded on clubs, making an overtrick. So besides the rubber bonus, the side got 1870 points when it made the redoubled contract instead of the 960 it would have produced if not doubled.

Chamberlain Rejects Labor Plea

Refuses To Establish Economic Post, Fears Dictatorship

LONDON, Feb. 1 (CP) —Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons today rejected an opposition demand that he include in his war cabinet a minister to coordinate economic activities.

Replying to a motion by Herbert Morrison, labor, for such a change—a subject of political controversy—the prime minister said:—

"It seems to me the existence of a minister who would be the dictator over all (economic) departments the right honorable member described would change the position of the prime minister and I do not see what the prime minister would have left to do by the time this gentleman had given his orders to all departments."

Plan Export Council

Mr. Chamberlain said an export council would be set up under the president of the Board of Trade with leading businessmen helping in the effort to increase exports. He said the council would include officials of trade unions, representatives of the Treasury, and of the Ministries of Supply and Economic Warfare and the Foreign Office. Lord Stamp, noted economist, will be a member, Mr. Chamberlain announced.

"I think we may look forward to a very considerable concerted drive in order to take the greatest advantage of the opportunities of export trade which are open to us," the Prime Minister asserted.

Of the opposition proposal, Mr. Chamberlain declared: "I have reached the conclusion that this is no time for a change of this sort. I ask the House to support me."

Mr. Chamberlain earlier announced that terms of a financial

Poderjay Freed After 5 Years In Bigamist Cell

AUBURN, N.Y., Feb. 1—(AP). — The door of Auburn prison swings open today to eject Captain Ivan Poderjay, who served five years for bigamous marriage to a bride who disappeared on her honeymoon.

The former Yugoslavian officer faces only a semblance of complete freedom, however, as immigration officials wait to hold him for deportation.

Agnes Colonia Tufverson, brilliant corporation lawyer, resigned her job in 1933 to become the 43-year-old bride of Captain Poderjay, international bon vivant.

The marriage took place in New York's Little Church Around the Corner, and the happy bride prepared for their European honeymoon.

Poderjay, at least, sailed. Agnes' sisters were mystified by her strange farewell telephone call the night of

Last Minute News Flashes

HELSINGFORS — (AP). — Tallinn despatches said the Soveit air base at Baltiski was taken completely by surprise and that several hangars and planes were destroyed by Finn airmen. Now Russia has ordered all important bases and cities in Estonia blacked out at night, it was said. The Russians were repulsed with heavy losses after making several attacks on an island held by the Finns on the north-eastern shore of Lake Ladoga, the communique reported.

LONDON, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Sinking of the 4,450-ton British steamship Bancrest, formerly called Ambassador, and the Swedish freighter Sylvia, 1,524 tons, as the result of torpedo and bomb attacks was disclosed to-day.

The Sylvia was bombed on January 27, and the Bancrest was torpedoed.

A French vessel, the 1,782-ton Honfleuraise, also was attacked, but reports did not say whether she was damaged or sunk. One member of the Bancrest crew was lost and 33 were saved.

Over 12,000 Russians Slain In Finn Invasion 300 Planes, 800 Fliers Shot Down, 400 Civilians Killed By 20,300 Air Bombs

SOMEWHERE IN FINLAND, Feb. 1 — (AP). — The Finnish command summarized the second month of the war to-day in a statement which said the invading army of Soviet Russia had lost "huge numbers of men and an immense amount of booty."

It did not give exact figures on the Soviet casualties, but army communiques have specified a total of more than 12,000 Russian dead to date, and unofficial reports have placed them far higher.

(Some neutral observers have remarked that the reported Russian casualties are far in excess of those in other wars on the basis of numbers engaged.)

General Hugo Oesterman, Finnish Army commander, received foreign correspondents at his field headquarters yesterday, but was silent on the number of Russian and Finnish casualties.

After two months of fighting, the Chief of the Finnish civil air defences reported on Tuesday that 300 Soviet planes had been shot down and 800 Russian airmen killed.

Finnish civilian casualties were given as 400 dead and 930 wounded in 642 raids in which 20,340 bombs were dropped on 207 localities.

Fifteen were killed and 60 wounded in a raid by 27 Soviet bombers on Rovaniemi in Northwest Finland yesterday.

Numerous communiques have listed thousands of pieces of armament and tons of ammunition and other equipment captured from the Russians. Five hundred tanks were reported captured or destroyed through mid-January.

Notably brief Russian communiques usually have reported that there were "no developments" or that the Red army made advances "in all directions." They have listed 70 planes of Finland's small air force as shot down.

An official Russian summary of casualties for the first three weeks of the war was issued December 23, listing Finnish dead at 2,200, and wounded at more than 10,000; with Russian dead 1,823, and wounded 7,000.

The Leningrad command reported that during the first three weeks, 1,302 Finns were taken prisoner, including 123 commissioned and non-commissioned officers. It made no mention of any Russians taken prisoner.

In a communique January 13, the Red army acknowledged the loss of 900 men on the Suomussalmi front, but said most of these were victims of the cold weather. It denied reports that 14,000 men of the 44th Division had been killed. It was not made clear whether the 900 listed as dead were included among the 1,823 reported December 23.

Huge Shipments Of B.C. Copper Going To Russia

VICTORIA, Feb. 1.—(CP)—British Columbia copper is being shipped in large quantities to Russia, provincial mine officials here said Wednesday.

They explained the copper from some British Columbia mines goes to Tacoma, Wash., where it is smelted and then goes into the world market.

(C. P. Browning, general manager of the Britannia Mining and Smelting Company's mine on Howe Sound, said the mine produced no refined copper but shipped concentrates to Tacoma, where they were sold before smelting. He said the mine does not know the ultimate destination of the metal.

Licensed To U.S.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—(CP)—All exports of copper from Canada are licensed and the government can deny licences in order to safeguard domestic and military requirements of copper and to carry out more effectually regulations respecting trade with the enemy.

British Columbia copper which was reported to have gone to a Tacoma, Wash., smelter and then was shipped to Russia was licensed for export to the United States, it was indicated here, but the government had no control over its re-export to the Soviet.

If it was found inadvisable to allow such shipments to Russia, the government could refuse a licence for export to the United States.

Revenue Minister Ilsley, commenting on a Victoria report staing B.C. copper was going to Russia via Tacoma, said: "This is the first I've heard of it and if it is brought to the attention of the government it will be investigated."

Britons To Dig Up Extra Taxes Of 476 Millions

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(CP)—Britons will dig into their pockets to the tune of an extra £107,000,000 ($476,150,000) before the end of March to help meet the cost of war.

That is the estimated yield of emergency war taxation. It is an addition to ordinary peace-level taxation.

In the financial year 1939-40, ending next March 31, Britons will turn over to the treasury £400,000,000 more than in 1917-18, the last year of the first Great War. Total yield of all taxes in the current year is only £5,000,000 short of £1,000,000,000.

Here's how the new income tax rate of seven shillings in the pound is going to affect people in various income groups:

The man with an income of £100.-000 annually will pay £81,000. The man with £50,000 annually will pay £38,000. The man making £30,000 a year will hand over more than £21,000.

Coming down to more modest levels, the married man with two children and an income of £1,000 annually will turn over £180 to the state. An artisan worker of similar family with £250 yearly pays no direct tax at all. But his contribution in indirect taxation will be considerable.

Kitchener Using Girl Inspectors At Anti-Aircraft Shell Plant

TORONTO, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Iron, steel and textiles still led Ontario's industrial activity, according to the weekly report of labor conditions in the province issued by Hon. Norman Hipel, Minister of Labor. Movement of female labor into factories was reported from Kitchener, where girl inspectors went to work inspecting anti-aircraft shells.

Brantford reported production schedules have been arranged in accordance with the raw products available and with orders in some instances behind schedule. The next few months is expected to show increased production and staff level, particularly among the iron and steel concerns.

At Chatham, tobacco companies are working full time while plants dealing in automobile accessories are also busy. One canning firm was reported "busier than usual for this time of year due to a large increase in their export business."

Electrical supplies, textiles and iron companies are busy at Guelph. Hamilton reported a bridge company and an agricultural implement firm busy on war orders.

There is a fairly steady demand for skilled mechanics. One Dundas machine shop, largest in the district, is reported extremely busy.

Considerable wood-cutting and pulpwood operations are going on in northern paris of Frontenac-Addington, according to a report from Kingston.

General industrial conditions in London are good, with steel and iron companies, cereal companies, glass and box concerns all busy.

Rubber companies at New Toronto are reported slightly busier, while a brass company is also hiring occasional help. Can and soup companies are also running at high speed.

Pembroke reported lumber jobbers continue to work with complete staffs. Although plenty of bush men are available, there was a shortage of good experienced top loaders.

A large garage building at Port Arthur has been taken over by the Department of National Defence to be used as a naval barracks. Considerable alterations will be made on the building.

The industrial situation remained firm at St. Catharines, with textile firms reporting business improved and paper industries very active.

Lumbermen are busy hauling in the Sudbury area but demand for general woodsmen was low.

Premier Hints Budget To Hit Ontario Standard Of Living

TORONTO, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Ontario today had a foretaste of the increased taxation the provincial budget scheduled to be presented next week by Premier Mitchell Hepburn, Provincial Treasurer, will bring.

The foretaste was a government bill, introduced in the Legislature yesterday, to increase by 150 per cent the provincial tax or corporation net incomes. The base rate for taxation on these incomes is five per cent under the bill brought in to amend the Corporation Tax Act. Base rate in the present statute is two per cent.

An unusual feature in such legislation is a clause making the measure retroactive insofar as it affects corporations with fiscal years that ended on or after January 1, 1939, and on or before October 31, 1939.

Premier Hepburn budgeted for $10,000,000 corporation tax revenue in the fiscal year to end March 31 next. The retroactive feature in the new measure may jump this by 50 per cent or more. Many corporations have fiscal years ending in November or December and they will not be affected immediately.

Hit Standard of Living

Along with the measure came Premier Hepburn's prediction that the budget might affect the standard of living of every person in Ontario. Conservative Leader George Drew said the Premier seemed to be preparing the House for a "gravedigger's budget, not a sunshine budget." The gravedigger reference was to the bill amending the Succession Duty Act which didn't get far yesterday in committee stage in face of determined Conservative opposition.

Premier Hepburn said the province was prepared to take a secondary position to the Federal government in taxing measures. But if provincial revenues were not bolstered some way, there might have to be reductions in various municipal subsidies.

The corporation tax amendments, in addition to the increase in the base rate, provide for a one-quarter increase, also retroactive on taxes payable to the province in respect of income by insurance companies, railways, telepgraph companies, banks, telephone companies, and car companies. All these corporations

Hertzog In Dream World Is Smuts' Answer To Hint Of Rebellion

(By The Canadian Press.)

The war policy of the South African Government, approved by the House of Assembly, approached a vote in the Senate to-day with the followers of Prime Minister Jan Smuts confident of a comfortable majority.

As the parliamentary debate, begun two weeks ago, increased in bitterness as it went along, the country remained calm, with no signs of restiveness among the Dutch-speaking population such as marked the early months of the last war.

In the Assembly yesterday, the Opposition Leader, General J. B. M. Hertzog, charged that it was the other side, the English-speaking sections of the population that might cause trouble if the Opposition succeeded in blocking the Government's war policy.

General Hertzog, whose attempt to keep South Africa neutral lost him the Premiership in the opening days of the war, asked Prime Minister Smuts if he had information that an "English rebellion" would have occurred had the Union not declared war on Germany. The Premier replied with a suggestion that Hertzog was "living in a dream world."

Soundly beaten by a vote of 81 to 59 in the House of Assembly last Saturday, General Hertzog and his political ally, Dr. D. F. Malan, the Leader of the Nationalist Party, immediately abandoned any attempt to hold Moderate support and declared themselves in favor of a republic separated from the Crown.

What influence this avowal of Republicanism might have on the Senate vote was not apparent, but it was thought General Smuts' following would hold firm, with a substantial majority assured.

General Smuts is basing his policy on the danger to which South Africa would be exposed were Great Britain defeated. He believes the Nazis,

36 Per Cent Of London's 344,000 Children Moved To Country, Already Back In City

LONDON, Feb. 1 (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today that terms of a financial agreement between the government and the nation's railways would be outlined in a "white paper" as soon as the arrangement is completed—probably next week.

The government is entering into a large number of financial agreements of all kinds, he said, and it was impracticable to disclose the terms.

At the same time the minister of health, Walter Elliot, informed the House of Commons that 36.8 per cent of the children removed from London to safer areas during the early days of the war had returned to their homes. He did not answer a question as to whether he would consider making removal of children from London compulsory.

Home Secretary Sir John Anderson disclosed that 415 aliens had been interned in Britain at the start of the war, and that 554 others had been interned after examination by tribunals.

Regarding the removal of school children from London, it was disclosed that originally 344,-000 were sent out. Mothers who went with children under five years of age brought the total number of those who left the capital to 607,000.

Japanese Decide To Carry Out All China Plans

TOKYO, Feb. 1—(CP). — Japan will unswervingly pursue the course it has embarked upon in China, government leaders told the Diet when it opened its 75th session today.

The theme of the "new order in East Asia" was elaborated by the new Premier, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, by Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita, War Minister Shunroku Hata and Navy Minister Zengo Yoshida, all of whom proclaimed Japan's determination to overcome all obstacles to its policies whether put in its way by the Chinese government or the governments of third powers.

Premier Yonai and Arita stressed Japan's continuing desire to "adjust relations with the powers from an independent standpoint." The Foreign Minister said Japan looked for this adjustment on the basis of British and American acceptance of the "new order in East Asia."

With this acceptance, security of third-power rights in China was assured, he said, for Japan "has absolutely no desire to do away with the rights and interests of third powers in China."

The Premier and the Foreign Minister stressed Japan's policy of non-involvement in the second Great War. Arita predicted that "drastic changes" would result from the war, regardless of its outcome, which would have "tremendous" effects on the situation in the Far East with which Japan must be prepared to deal.

Her Foreign Policy.

The United States.

Arita expressed hope that a new treaty could be concluded to end the day-to-day status of Japanese-American trade as a result of the

Couple Who Gave Their Three Children To The Canadian Medical Profession Slain By Unknown Hands Near Harold

HAROLD, Ont., Feb. 1 — (Staff Reporter and CP).—Believed to have met death at the hands of an unknown slayer, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman were found dead in their isolated farm home today by a postal courier who failed to receive his customary greeting from the aged couple.

Harold, formerly known as Wellman's Corners, is eight miles south of Marmora on Highway 14 and ten miles east of Campbellford.

Woman Had Been Ill.

The postman, a friend of the 77-year-old farmer, said he discovered the double tragedy when he looked through a window to investigate the whereabouts of Wellman and his 75-year-old wife who had been confined to her bed by illness. The woman's body was found in bed where she had been writing a letter to her daughter, Dr. Iona V. Wellman of Chicago. The body of Wellman was found in the barn. Both he and his wife had been shot by a shotgun and parts of their heads shattered.

The postman, Edward Faulkner, called Provincial Police at Belleville, 23 miles south of here, and a search was instigated for a man seen by neighbors in the vicinity of the farmhouse yesterday. The couple were believed by police to have been slain late yesterday.

All Grain Stolen.

Police said all grain, some ten or twelve bags, had been taken from the barn and drawers throughout the house had been ransacked and their contents strewn about the floors. A shotgun, which Dr. A. L. Wellman, of Waterloo, a son, said

Goering Rumored Out For Chancellorship With Backing Of Army Commanders Against Ribbentrop, Himmler, Goebbels

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 1 — (CP-Havas). — In an article reporting discord among the Nazi leaders, the Berlin correspondent of the Goeteborgs Handels-och Sjoefartstidning today said Field Marshal Hermann Goering, while perfectly loyal to Adolf Hitler, thinks it necessary for himself to become Chancellor under Hitler.

Under this scheme Goering, who is now virtual economic dictator, also would exercise similar powers in internal and foreign affairs.

Army commanders were said to back Goering in opposition to Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, and Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels.

Goering was said to be making personal efforts to secure greater co-operation from Italy, and to have turned against Von Ribbentrop because Finland had been abandoned to Soviet influence by the German Foreign Office without the prior knowledge of Goering or the high command.

4 Customs Men, Perri Freed As Smugglers

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 1.—(CP). — A Supreme Court jury to-day acquitted Rocco Perri of Hamilton, Ont., his housekeeper, Mrs. Anne Newman, and four Windsor customs officers on charges of conspiracy in connection with the alleged smuggling of alcohol into Canada. The jury retired at noon yesterday.

It was the second trial within the past two weeks for the officers: Carl Gough, Wilfred Fletcher, Edsel J. Mansell and Norman Lepain.

There appeared a probability last night that a locked jury might result from the prolonged deliberation. The cases of the six accused went to the jury yesterday at 11.30 a.m.

The jury had not reached a decision when it left the court house at 5.30 p.m. yesterday for the hotel. According to Sheriff Anthony A. Marentette, should they not have reached a verdict by 10.30 a.m. today, they were to be dismissed by His Lordship. In this event a new trial would follow.

The 12 members of the jury were allotted six rooms, two to a room, and placed under the guard of court officers.

The trial of Perri, Mrs. Newman and the four customs officers, together with the Miller trial and a third which opened yesterday were the result of Royal Canadian Mount-

Smoke Smothers Mother And 3 Children

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 1 (CP) Mrs. Mary Levere and her three children died of suffocation at dawn today when fire broke out in their home on the outskirts of Brockville. The bodies were badly burned.

The fire was discovered nearly an hour after the husband and father, John Levere, left the small frame residence for volunteer Salvation Army work at the police station where he prepared breakfast for the transients.

It is believed that Mrs. Levere arose and started a wood fire in a box stove downstairs, and went back to bed with her children, first taking the baby from her crib. All the bodies were found in one bed.

Investigating Police and Firemen said death had been due to suffocation from smoke.

Mass of Flames

The fire was discovered by peciestrians passing along Keefer street, some distance from the residence which was then a mass of flames. The fire department was called by phone, and immediately on arrival of the firemen water from two lines of hose was thrown into the burning building.

On arriving at the scene the firemen learned that four occupants of the house were in the upper portion and despite the flames, which at that time were intense, a ladder was raised to a window at the rear. Firemen entered, but all four occupants of the bed were found dead.

The position of the four bodies

Shell Through The Admiral's Cabin Newsmen Find Looking Ajax Over

PLYMOUTH, Feb. 1 (CP) — An officer of the British cruiser Ajax today told a dramatic story of the day-long running battle between the British cruisers Ajax, Achilles and Exeter and the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the coast of South America last December. The Graf Spee was forced into Montevideo where she was scuttled. Her captain later committed suicide.

A press association reporter was the first newspaperman permitted to board the Ajax after she docked here yesterday for her first stop in a British port in two years.

The newsman saw the damage inflicted on the Ajax during the battle. The cruiser's mainmast was damaged and one gun was destroyed. Another gun turret had been patched up by the crew on the homeward journey and a shell had passed through the cabin of Rear-Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, who commanded the British flotilla.

"We were searching, along with the Exeter and the Achilles, for the Graf Spee," said the officer who described the battle. "We did not know definitely that she was in those waters but we had worked it out that if she was heading for South America she would be somewhere in our proximity at that time and our calculations were remarkably accurate.

"The was first seen about 6 a.m. (on Dec. 13) and she immediately opened fire at a range of 29,000 yards. Almost at once she began to concentrate her heavy armament of 11-inch guns on the Exeter. At the same time she turned her secondary armament of four 5.9-inch guns on the Ajax.

"For 50 minutes it was a real dog fight and then the Exeter had to drop out. The action lasted another 31 minutes and during that time most of the Graf Spee's heavy guns were turned on the Ajax. Right through the action the Graf Spee was using a smoke screen and tried to run away but the cruisers were always a little faster and gradually closed the gap. With the Exeter out of action we closed in at breakneck speed and that was the beginning of the chase which last all day until 10 o'clock at night."

Another officer said an airplane attached to the Ajax "once circled so close to the Graf Spee that she got a piece of shrapnel through a wing."

Labor's Move May Upset Government

Call On Chamberlain To Include Economic Minister

LONDON, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Great Britain's economic front comes under fire in the House of Commons to-day when the Labor Party makes a formal demand for appointment of an Economic Minister to the War Cabinet.

In probably the most important test of strength between supporters of the Government and its Opposition since the outbreak of war, the Laborites are expected to contend that organization of the vital economic phase of the struggle has lagged behind the rest of Britain's war effort.

Support for the Cabinet change cut across party lines. The strongly pro-Government London Times joined in the chorus calling for correction of what it called "inadequate representation" of the economic side in the War Cabinet.

in the bed led the firemen and the coroner, Dr. T. F. Robertson, to believe the four had been overcome in their sleep as no traces of movement were visible. The covers on the bed were burned to cinders.

Mrs. Levere occupied the outside place on the east side of the bed with the baby, Palma, next to her; Edmund, the second youngest was next with the body of Gary, the eldest of the three children, on the outside.

Mrs. Levere's hands were charred, apparently having been outside the covers of the bed when the flames caught the bed covering. Some burns about the face were also noticed. The hands of Edmund and Gary, also on the outside of the covers were badly burned while the face of Palma was burned on the side uppermost from the pillow.

Mrs. Levere was born in Brockville 24 years ago and previous to her marriage was Mary Marrs. A daughter of Mrs. Leo Mallete, she was married five years ago. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Levere is survived by one brother, Joseph Marrs, of Brockville, and a number of half-brothers and half-sisters, also of Brockville.

if victorious, would lose no time in gobbling up the rich Dominion. Furthermore, he believes neutrality impracticable and making for violence between the two sections of the population.

When war was declared General Hertzog introduced a motion in Parliament calling for neutrality. This was defeated, whereupon the Cabinet resigned. Hertzog sought dissolution and a general election, but the Governor-General, Sir Patrick Duncan, refused the request and commissioned General Smuts to form a ministry.

The new cabinet was voted the confidence of parliament and war was declared on Germany. Now General Hertzog again is calling for an election with opposition members drawing a parallel between the Union and Canada, where an election campaign is now in progress, though of course there is no question of neutrality there. General Smuts, replying in the House of Assembly last night, pointed out that the Canadian parliament had nearly completed its normal life span of five years, whereas a general election in South Africa had been held little more than a year ago.

The government's war policy, unlike that of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, calls for the sending of no troops overseas. The government undertakes to defend South African territory and the mandated territory of Southwest Africa, and to assist in the defence of any other Allied territory on the continent of Africa.

The South African air force is active in patrolling the waters adjacent to the Union and the naval base at Simonstown, near Cape Town, is of great help to the Royal Navy. In economic matters, the government is cooperating fully with the rest of the Empire.

Only 1 German Plane Shot Down On Land

LONDON, Feb. 1—(CP). — Only one of the German aircraft shot down by Royal Air Force fighter planes while raiding Britain since the war started fell on land. All the others have crashed into the sea.

But armament experts examined and analyzed every bullet hole in the wreckage of the single machine which cracked up near Edinburgh. Such examinations are a valuable aid in their task of helping to beat the bomber.

The armorers—the men who put the sting into R.A.F. fighter planes —are eagerly awaiting another chance to study the results of their work.

The fighter pilot is like a man hidden in a flying gun battery. He aims his aircraft like an arrow and hurls it, spitting destruction, at the enemy. On the ground below wait the men responsible for his guns. They check and overhaul the guns and reload the ammunition while the plaue is refuelled.

The armament officer responsible for this work is a specialist concerned not only with loading guns and bombs but with training those who fire or drop them.

Armorers also go through a rigorous course. Before an aircraftman can wear the armorer's badge (a winged bomb) he must learn everything about the upkeep and maintenance not only of machine guns but also small arms, camera guns, bombs and the delicate business of sighting and harmonizing the armament.

his father always kept in the house, is missing, police said.

Charles Dunham, a neighbor of the Wellmans, said that yesterday afternoon he was cutting wood in a nearby field and saw a man walking across the field from the Wellman home. Another neighbor said he saw a horse and cutter parked approximately a mile down the road from the Wellman home at approximately the time the double murder was believed committed.

Faulkner said that after finding the body of Mrs. Wellman he walked to the barn, 70 yards distant, and found the body of Wellman. A cow he had been milking was covered with Wellman's blood as were a milking pail and stool on which Wellman is believed to have been sitting when he was shot from behind.

Marks Of Sleigh

Marks made by a team of horses and a sleigh led in from the front gate while from the north and to the rear of the barn footmarks could be seen in the snow leading in from the backline. It is presumed that the murderer arrived on foot and committed the crime and then returned to the back line and secured his team and drove around the road by the highway at the front of the farm and took the grain.

The aged couple would have been married 55 years next Sunday and a family reunion was being planned for that day.

Neighbors tried to get the aged pair by telephone last evening but there was no answer which adds to the supposition that the couple were murdered Wednesday afternoon. The murder is believed to have been around four o'clock as there was no lantern at the barn. The cows also when found had not been milked this morning.

Dr. E. G. Carleton of Stirling conducted a post-mortem examination of the bodies and said he believed the couple had been dead since sundown yesterday.

Well Known Family

The Wellmans were amongst the best known and most highly respected residents of Rawdon township. They had given three doctors to the world, their three children all being members of the medical profession, Dr. Iona Wellman, Chicago, Dr. Lorne Wellman, Waterloo and Dr. Marvin Wellman, Whitby. Mrs. Wellman was born only half a mile away from the spot where she was foully murdered and she and her husband had been life-long residents of the district. Before moving fifteen years ago to the farm home west of Harold where they met death they had lived near Wellman's Corners.

"They were good neighbors and fine people" said John Rannie, of Wellman's Corners to the Examiner this afternoon. "They lived near us for years and were liked and respected by everyone.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 1. — United States goald and use of the resources of the federal reserve system to help reconstruct Europe after the war, were advanced as possibilities last night by Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state.

When peace comes, he said, the United States will face heavy responsibilities for a return of the world to economic sanity.

Predicting as a "foregone conclusion" that the present war will be followed by "a great movement of social unrest," Berle told the political union of Yale University:—

"It seems fantastics today to suggest handing over some of our accumulated gold as a free gift to reestablish international currency, to let other nations get their houses in order, and thereby re-establish trade and normal life. But this may not seem nearly so fantastic a few years hence.

"It seems impossible today to think of using the enormous and yet untapped resources of the federal reserve system as a means of rebuilding the shattered life of another continent; but when the time actually comes and we are faced with that contingency, we may find that the idea looks more like an immediate necessity than a fairy tale."

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Good resting orders attributed to outside interests failed to offset fully the bearish influence of a weak Chicago market and wheat futures prices finished with small losses on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. At the close quotations were ⅝ to ¼ cent lower, May at 84, July 84¾ and October 85⅝ cents.

Few actual cash wheat sales were recorded although there appeared to be a fair demand for most of the Northern grades at slightly lower price spreads. Coarse grain trading was dull.

Dad Uses Plane To Hunt Eloping Girl

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Feb. 1 — (CP Cable). — The story of a father's dawn airplane flight over the Atlantic in search of his eloping daughter was told to-day at the preliminary hearing of a young Georgetown business man on a charge of abducting the girl with intent to marry her.

Counsel prosecuting Peter Daguiar told the court W. W. Brassington, wealthy and socially prominent merchant here, made the flight after his 18-year-old daughter Kathleen eluded private detectives and fled from home to embark on a schooner for a 400-mile trip to Barbados.

The girl, who comes into a fortune when she married or reaches the age of 21, was sighted from the plane by her father as she lounged barefoot on the schooner's deck, but he didn't recognize her. Later, she and Daguair and the man's sister were located in Barbados. The sister had made the schooner trip.

Daguiar is a brother of the girl's stepmother. He and Kathleen are not married.

CAMPBELLFORD

Red Cross Shop Is Hive Of Industry

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1 (ENS) —If the work being done in the local Red Cross Society is any criterion of what is being done across Canada there is little doubt that this country is making a great contribution towards winning the war. The loca lorganization meets only once a week on Tuesday afternoons and the number of workers has grown to such an extent that there is now scarcely an available place in the Council Chambers for an additional chair or table. The place is a veritable hive of activity with the ladies hardly taking time to talk; in fact, little conversation can be heard over the steady hum of seven sewing machines, all of which were operating at top speed. According to one official the principal difficulty is in getting enough work planned ahead. It has been planned to work two quilts on Tuesday afternoon, but this was done in such a short time a group prepared to set up a third which would be finished the following week. A dozen women were around the form and, declared our informant, "before any of us realized it, the quilt was finished." Other work during the afternoon included hospital bed gowns, and pneumonia jackets. Thanks was expressed to the ladies from the English Line who have already contributed four quilts and numerous other articles, and also to those who loaned the sewing machines. It is expected a box will be sent to Red Cross headquarters this week.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

American Fliers May Be Used In Empire Plan

OTTAWA, Feb. 1—(CP).—A staff of 40,000 is being assembled under the British Commonwealth Air Training plan to man Air Schools across the Dominion and probably 10,000 will be flying instructors.

Already hundreds of competent fliers have been enlisted from flying schools and commercial companies to assist the regular Royal Canadian Air Force instructors in teaching young Canadians to handle a military plane but it has been anticipated that some American aviators also would be brought to Canada under the training plan.

Special provision has been made to allow Americans to serve with the R.C.A.F. and the necessary qualification of being a British subject to serve with the Canadian active service force does not apply to the Air Force.

It was reported in New York Tuesday that British agents are recruiting 35 American aviators for the air training plan and it was indicated here that this number might be increased as the training progresses.

Plain Enough To See

Dorothy Thompson gave an address in a hall at Newark, N.J., and officials of Newark Veterans of Foreign Wars want something done about it. That Dies Committee on Unamericanism (a flabby word at best) is the place to take their case, and that is what they desire to do. And the charge will be that Dorothy Thompson is "trying to involve this country in war."

If Dorothy Thompson speaks as well as she writes then she is a good speaker. She was for years in Europe as a correspondent; she knows Hitler and has interviewed most of the people who rank as the bigwigs of Europe.

The complaint of the Veterans in Newark was that she condemned Germany but failed to criticize England, and if the people believed what she said then "we are headed for war."

We have not seen a full report of the address, but Miss Thompson's reply to the Veterans gives a fair enough idea of what it was all about. We quote:

"My own view is that it would be suicidal for the United States to remain quiet and unwilling to use its political and economic power while the Bolsheviks or Nazis or a combination of the two overrun the whole of Western Europe, including the highly civilized neutrals.

"And that should this happen, this country, in the best case, will stagger under a defence budget that will consume one-sixth of the national income and include compulsory military training.

"If this be treason, let the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Newark make the most of it."

Whether the Veterans can answer that we do not know, but our belief is they would be stuck. United States has been pouring out not millions, but billions, for army and navy and air force. Right now the proposal is to add 77 more warships and United States as a result has the greatest national debt in history.

United States, Britain and France are the three major democracies of the world, and the form of living and the form of government to which they adhere is common property. The method of governing Germany has nothing in common with the method of governing United States, but the government of Britain has.

Time and again Dorothy Thompson has tried to make people of United States realize the position they would be in if sea power were taken from Britain, because then United States, if it desired freedom, would have to undertake—and alone—the tremendous task of maintaining the freedom of the seas and the freedom of United States. To use a none-too-good phrase, those who can't see that are either thick in the skull or they don't want to see it.

40,000,000 In Canada?

Lord Riverdale, head of the British Air Mission to Canada, made an address at Sheffield after returning, and his belief was that "Canada can easily do with 40,000,000 people . . we must fill the Empire with our own people."

And that is breaking no new ground. As a rule we think in terms of putting people on the land in Canada because there is so much of it, but our land production is greater than we need to sustain our population, so our land population today depends on exporting its surplus.

Britain is not a land which has a surplus of people who can go on farms. It is not an agricultural nation, and less than five per cent. of its population are engaged in agriculture. The people are a seafaring race, or else they live in industrial centres. Our immigration officers in London and elsewhere made that discovery long ago.

In Canada 60 years ago the towns and cities accounted for only 19.58 per cent. of our population. According to the last census (1931) this had so changed that we had almost a million more people in towns, cities ond villages than we had on the land. Instead of our urban population being 19.58 of the total the percentage had been increased to 53.7, and it is safe to say it is greater today because since 1931 the population of cities has been increasing and that of the rural areas has been decreasing.

In a general way our development is like that of United States where in the early stages of its history the people were in an overwhelming degree on the land; today they are in the cities. The mechanization of farm operations has made production more rapid; it calls for fewer people to produce a given quantity. Industry meantime expanded in urban centres and the people followed and that is where much of immigration settled.

In a lesser way we have been doing the same thing, and we are finding today that cities in themselves are not self-contained units, neither are they self-supporting. They depend largely on the excellence and strength of the district in which they are located for their existence. So when Lord Riverdale suggests that we should have 40,000,000 people in Canada we want to know what we would do with them. Our population will increase, but we do not believe it would be well to try and shove it along faster than we can work out the problem of what to do with it and make certain that it is self-sustaining and contented and happy. It may be that Lord Riverdale was judging our country and its ability to sustain population by mileage or acreage, while within recent years we have been finding that miles and acres in themselves do not constitute the solution to the serious problem of what to do with people for whom we can find no employment.

Better Leave It Alone

Mayor John T. Barnes of Sarnia was speaker at the Sarnia Rotary Club, and he talked about the right way to run civic business. One of his suggestions was that the Mayor and chairman of the city council's Finance Committee should automatically become members of the Board of Education, with or without power to vote. He believed their presence there would cause a better understanding of what the Board of Education had to do.

One answer which pops up readily enough is that probably the Mayor and chairman of Finance might consider they had plenty to do without taking on the added duties of attending meetings and participating in discussions of school finance and management.

They would have no power to vote at such meetings, so they could not make their presence felt by registering objection. Then when they did get back to the business of acting as members of the Council they might find it hard enough to convince other members that they had taken the right stand. Much better to leave things as they are.

Can't Afford It!

Finland needs help and it made its appeal to United States as it did elsewhere. United States Congress has not finished arguing about the matter yet and Finland continues to need help.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi, described as a power in the camp of Democrats, is all against any aid whatever. He says his reasons are (1) United States is neutral; (2) United States can't afford to make a loan, and (3) making a loan might bring United States into war. So the call to go to the help of the weak against the mighty means not a thing to Senator Harrison. He would not even let United States dollars go.

Possibly Britain and France could have taken the same attitude with regard to the smaller nations of Europe. Could have allowed them to be smashed one by one. The isolationist in the States seems to be stubbornly and permanently stuffed with the conviction that his country is living separate and apart from the rest of the world because the Atlantic is on one side and the Pacific on the other.

A Gentleman And Friend

Charles David Cook has gone. Publicity man for the De Laval Co. of Canada, friend of the sales staff, friend of every person who knew him, writer of sales letters and bulletins which were unique in their helpful suggestion and rich in their full-orbed understanding of human nature, he made his contribution to the day in which he lived, and made it well and of good material.

Mr. Cook had his own philosophy of life and of living. In his own way he could analyze a situation or a number of suggestions and come to a conclusion which could be accepted as being not far removed from the best course. When he sat in committee work on the Exhibition Board he knew what it was all about; he seemed to know exactly what would work and what would not.

People will remember him as being kindly rather than forceful; of being patient rather than given to snap decisions. As he went his way he made people feel better for having met him.

His resting place will be in his boyhood home in Vermont, and that seems fitting. Memories of other days and associations of early years linger with most people, and Charles Cook was no exception. Our city was happier by reason of his having crossed the border to come our way years ago.

A Few Obstacles

On the 20th of April Adolf Hitler is going to have his 51st birthday celebration, and one story has it that he will be proclaimed several ways:

Emperor of the Reich and of Austria
King of Poland
King of Great Britain.
Field Marshal Hermann Goering is to be proclaimed viceroy.

Great Britain is to be administered after a victorious war by three statthalters, one each for England, Scotland and Wales, and there will be 96 gauleiters to assist them, all appointments having been made for these positions.

As we understand it a statthalter is really a governor of sorts, and a gauleiter is a regional leader of the Nazi party, so we take it that the method of governing the British Isles will be much the same as that of caring for any other conquered territory.

There will be a happy time on the 20th of April. Plans have been made for disposing of the British Isles, and the only things which stand in the way are the—

British Army
French Army
The Armies of the Overseas Dominions
The British Navy
The French Navy
The Royal Air Force
The French Air Force
The Maginot Line
The carrying-might of the British merchant marine
All the gold and treasure of the Empire and of France.

And several other items of which we possibly have not thought at the moment.

No Call For It

Ontario Legislature has been wrestling with a bill for days, the provisions of which are to give a two-year term to Ontario municipal councils. Possibly it is a hang-over from the announcement that the 1940 municipal elections were to be the last for two years or for the duration of the war.

It is difficult enough to see the reason for passing such legislation, because in it there is provision that any municipality which desires to do so can take a plebiscite and vote itself out of the range of the provisions. The result of that will be a regular old checkerboard system.

There are municipalities which have an arrangement at present for a two-year term. When Peterborough did away with the ward system it adopted a plan by which half of the Council is elected each year for a two-year term; the Mayor is elected annually, and it secured that plan by a City of Peterborough bill. So there is provision made now to deal with any municipality which decides to experiment with a two-year term. There is no call or demand for this new measure.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Without risking one's reputation it is safe enough to venture the mild opinion that Spring is on the way.

There was a slight eorthquake in Palestine, but no damage was done. And that we submit is the way an earthquake should act.

Entomologists say the tent caterpillar is going to be bad in 1940. But just what we can do about it in the meantime is something on which we have no information.

An old resident tells about the early days when a man was paid a bushel of wheat for a day's work. And of course if the price was low such payment would go against the grain.

Germany claims to be astounded at the Vatican broadcast telling of atrocities in Poland. The surprise is a two-way affair. Germany is astounded that the Vatican would make the exposure, and the world is astounded that Germany would commit the atrocities.

WORDS

¶ When Long John goes to make a speech, grabs words that he can hardly reach, he's really quite profound; he has a voice that's deep and low, and has the strength to make it go, while clock hands run their round.

¶ A literary giant they say, Long John's not made of common clay, his brain must be immense; and when the logic pours from him, the room just seems to turn and spin, the feeling is intense.

¶ Long John goes searching for a word, he's sure that no one ever heard, and few that ever will; if it has syllables eighteen, he never takes a breath between, he's working for a thrill.

¶ He haunts the reference room for days, before an audience he sways, he lays small words aside; on words that few folk could pronounce, Long John will gaze and then he'll pounce, and take them in his stride.

¶ Just how he does it I don't know, but he just seems to burn and glow, to him it is no joke; I often sit where I can hear, and then it is I likewise fear, the man will up and choke.

¶ Just why he does it puzzles me, his words branch like an elm tree, he cuts them long and clean; I think his diction is quite pure, but folk who listen I am sure—can't guess what they all mean.

The Submarine And Mine Can Be Mastered

BRITISH WHITE PAPER

OUR POWER to win the war depends mainly on our command of the sea.

In 1914 the German Navy was strong enough to offer a serious challenge to our own. Today the British Navy is by far the strongest in Europe. The French Navy comes second.

We spend three times as much on the Navy as we did in 1913-14. We have far more of every kind of fighting vessel than Germany—more battleships, more cruisers, more destroyers and more aircraft carriers.

After setting aside enough warships to cope with the German fleet in European waters, Britain and France have plenty to spare for action in other oceans, wherever they may be needed.

The greatest menace facing us, in these early months of the war, is the Nazis' indiscriminate use of the submarine. By scattering submarines along our trade routes, and by using them to attack merchants ships—in defiance of the laws of war and humanity—the enemy is trying to cut off our supplies of food and raw materials.

How can the submarine be fought and beaten?

The chief enemies of the submarine are the patrol ships. By means of detectors, these ships can tell where the submarine is. By means of depth charges, they can destroy it.

In 1916 and 1917, German U-boats took such a heavy toll of our shipping that we were faced with the threat of starvation.

After a long struggle, the German campaign was defeated. Anti-submarine methods were developed, and from 1917 our merchant vessels were given the added protection of the convoy system.

Throughout the whole war we destroyed 191 enemy submarines. Three-quarters of these were sunk during the last two years. In the end the U-boat was fighting a losing battle against our patrols.

The Germans hope once again, by breaking every rule of international law and common humanity, to sink without trace large numbers of merchant ships on the high seas, but their hope is still-born. We have already shown that we can deal with them.

At first, while submarines were scattered at strategic points on our trade routes, it was to be expected that we should suffer losses. But the Nazis will have a hard job to keep their campaign going. Lack of bases on the main ocean routes must narrow down the area in which their submarines can work.

Anti-submarine methods have made rapid strides since the last war.

WHILE a submarine is under water its speed amounts to less than ten knots (about 11½ miles an hour). When it comes up, it is exposed to attack from warships and aircraft. Once a submarine has been found, the chances are that it is trapped and doomed.

This fact is bound to undermine the morale of enemy submarine crews. In the last war the losses were so heavy that it became impossible for Germany to go on manning submarines on a large enough scale.

This time the German submarine fleet has already suffered badly. Mr. Winston Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, has estimated that out of about sixty U-boats ready for action at the beginning of the war, about one-third were sunk or seriously damaged during the first six weeks.

On November 8, 1939, Mr. Churchill told the House of Commons that on a conservative estimate "the losses of U-boats lie between two and four in every week, according to the activity which prevails." In other words, we are putting U-boats out of action at about twice the rate (1 to 1½ a week) of the sinkings in 1917-18.

In the last war the German Navy was so strong that a great part of our fleet had to be kept in home waters.

This time far more of our fighting vessels are free to patrol the oceans. This time, moreover, we are able to use aircraft to find out where the raiders are, and to destroy them by bombing. In the Fleet Air Arm the British Navy today has a powerful air force of its own, and one which can play a big part in defending our merchant ships against enemy marauders.

The same is true of Germany's much-vaunted secret weapon of the "magnetic mine." At the moment this new menace is taking its toll of the shipping of Britain and neutral countries indiscriminately. But the Prime Minister has assured us that "already we know the secrets of the magnetic mine, and we shall soon master the magnetic mine as we have already mastered the U-boat."

In the first seven weeks of the war our total losses of merchant shipping amounted to less than 1 per cent of our total tonnage afloat. Even if the enemy achieved success at the same rate throughout a four-year war, we should still be left with about 70 per cent of the tonnage with which we started—to say nothing of new tonnage built in the meantime.

THEY NEED FOOD MORE

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

It is reported that 3,000 Russian officers and men have been decorated for services on the Finnish frontier. It would appear, however, that in this war the rations do not come up with the medals.

TOO BAD

"I'm sorry if I laughed, mate. I'd no idea you were a soldier — I thought you were a comic from the concert party."

• U.S. View Of Canadian Election

He appeals directly to the people, knowing full well that they may follow other leaders, choose a new Government. Yet he accepts the challenge and places his whole administration upon the voting block.

There is no nonsense about a moratorium on politics for the duration of the emergency, no high talk about the dangers of changing horses in the middle of the stream.

The people may decide to change horses at the very time the waters become more turbulent. It might even be the best thing to do.

That is for the people to determine, and Mr. King is willing to leave it up to them. He makes no claim to be the best, the safest, the most efficient man to direct the nation through the war.

The American people should remember this when they are told, as they already have been, that the international situation requires Mr. Roosevelt's continuance in office.

They should point to Canada the very next time Mr. Ickes or Mr. Wallace tells them to be wary of changin ghorses lest an emergency destroy them.—Providence Journal.

PROTECTION NEEDED

(Guelph Mercury)

The Swiss are reported unworried about the tense military situation in Europe. Maybe Belgium and the Netherlands would feel that way about things, too, if they had an Alp or two between them and Hitler.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples. — Matt. xxvi, 17, 18.

PASS THE TARTS

WE IN Peterborough know something of the hazards which surround any move to construct some new civic building on any specific site. What city doesn't? The Arthur Enterprise-News has a somewhat similar opinion in commenting on the now famous Tweed post office affair:

It is not an unusual thing for much bitterness to be occasioned in a small community over the selection of a site for a proposed new building. It happened in Arthur over 25 years ago. From the Carnegie Trust, a grant was voted to build a Carnegie library in Arthur. The Library Board wanted one site. The municipal council wanted another. The struggle went on until the grant was withdrawn. Neither side gained anything and Arthur lost a nice public library. It is to be hoped that when Tweed really wants a post office the village will not meet with an experience similar to that of Arthur. If such is the case, Tweed folk can console themselves with the boast that they made a sacrifice towards winning the war. Still, an old saying still holds good to the effect that the time to have a part is when they are being passed around.

HARD ON TYPEWRITERS

G. B. BURGIN, an English novelist who came to Canada as long ago as 1876, and lived for some years at L'Orignal, is 84 years old, and is still working on his 121st novel. In his 50 years of authorship he has worn out six typewriters. His present typewriter is an old one—he describes it as "looking like an adding machine and sounding like a pom-pom." However, it is still in use, and his 121st novel is half finished. His nephew is Leslie Burgin, the Minister of Supply. Many of Mr. Burgin's novels relate to Canada and one of them, "The Shutters of Silence," concerns the well-known Oka, on the lower Ottawa. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 1 (CP-Havas)—Almost all of the naval battle between the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the British cruisers Ajax, Achilles and Exeter off this port last Dec. 13 took place in Uruguayan waters, Uruguay claimed tonight in a ninety-page blue book covering the naval battle, the scuttling of the Graf Spee and the internment of the German tanker Tacoma.

The blue book contained fifty-one documents dealing with the naval battle and the dramatic incidents which followed it. Included was a description of the combat which ended the raiding career of the Graf Spee, a description of the damages inflicted on the German warship, and the reasons for the internment of the Tacoma.

The description of the running fight between the Graf Spee and the three British cruisers was supplied by Capt. Fernando J. Fuentes, commander of the cruiser Uruguay. From the Uruguayan warship he watched the lighter but speedier British cruisers darting in and out of smoke screens in an effort to bring the Nazi raider to bay for about six hours before the Graf Spee finally sought refuge in the Plate River.

"Except for the first few minutes at the beginning, the entire combat took place in jurisdictional waters" Captain Fuentes' report concluded.

Damage suffered by the German warship was described by the technical committee sent aboard the Graf Spee by the Uruguayan Government. The chairman of the committee said there were twenty-seven holes in the warship, and heavy damage caused in the galley, dining-room and laundry.

The commission estimated that provisional repairs could have been made in three days.

In explaining the internment of the Tacoma, the Uruguayan Government said that it left this port on Dec. 17 after taking on a cargo of fuel oil and gasoline. It departed without authorization and without a pilot, the blue book said, and took approximately 800 men off the Graf Spee before the warship was sent to the bottom by its own crew. On Dec. 30 the Tacoma was given twenty-four hours to leave port, and when it failed to do so it was interned the following day.

LAKEFIELD

Home Mission Work Is Described To WMS

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1 (ENS)—Rev. J. M. Young was guest speaker of the regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church, Lakefield, when the society met on Tuesday afternoon in the church basement.

Mrs. J. M. Simpson, president, presided.

The 103rd Psalm was read by Mrs. J. W. Ridpath after which Mrs. C. Tighe led in prayer.

"Near to the heart of God" was rendered by Mesdames J. M. Young and T. W. Chaplin. Mrs. Chaplin played the accompaniment.

Miss Ethel Blakely gave a reading outlining the work in the mission fields of Jhansi, India and the Bhil field, India.

Rev. Young chose as his topic "The Pioneer Women in the West." He had been stationed as a student at Cranberry Portage, situated almost on the borders of civilization. Here there are many nationalities represented, but all are friendly and helpful. The women are very industrious and must do a great deal of canning in order to have their larder well supplied for the long winter season.

At another mission field, the student had approximately seventy-five square miles to cover, mostly by means of a horse.

At one centre it was a doctor's wife who was the leader of church activities. She was superintendent of the Sunday School, president of the Ladies' Aid and treasurer of the church, as well as doing a great amount of social service work.

At the close of his talk Mr. Young showed many interesting snapshots taken at the various mission fields.

Tweed Outfit Drop Game To Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1—(ENS)—Taking an 8 to 6 victory from Tweed in a T.V.L. match here Wednesday night the Sunocos succeeded in breaking the jinx which has dogged them since their game with Norwood little more than a week ago. It also redeemed the 8-5 setback that Tweed handed out to them in their home game last Friday. Though a couple of fights threatened Referees Quinn and Payne kept the contest well under control awarding a total of thirteen penalties during the evening.

The match opened fast with the Sunocos popping in the first counter before the visitors' defense could get organized but the balance of the initial frame saw the play fairly well divided. Tumon and Woodcock played a good game on the Tweed defense breaking up many Campbellford combinations but the visitors were at a distinct disadvantage since they were without the services of their regular net-minder Reeves. The locals discovered early in the first period that his weakness was on long shots from the blue line and they capitalized on this banging the puck in without going through the defense and tallying a total of four by this method.

Penalty Shot

Blake failed to tally on a penalty shot awarded the Sunocos following Ellsbury's successful effort to thwart a thrust on the goal by working a neat trip just as Robinson was getting in shooting position.

A re-shuffle in the locals front line gave added strength to their attack. Hendy who had been previously giving a good account of himself on the defense was shifted forward to combine with Robinson and McIlrath as the first stringers and Godden, Free and Blake made a formidable combination as an alternative attacking line.

The local aggregation took the lead early in the first and were never headed. Robinson and Hendy rained in on Sayers for the opener and Blake put the homesters two up on a neat shot from the blue line which bounced over Sayers' stick and trickled into the back of the net. Tweed countered with a power play which threatened Donald and the locals were bottled up as the Terriers did everything but score.

Some Taboos

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 1 — (AP). — A bill introduced in the Kentucky Legislature would make it unlawful to "lie drunk or asleep" in the State Capitol. The measure amends a present law which forbids "any sport or any noisy or riotous conduct." No mention, however, is made of marble playing, prohibited in the State House by the present Act.

5 Sons Outvote Mrs. Zale's Boxing Taboo

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 — (AP). — If Tony Zale, recent conqueror of Al Hostak in a non-tile match, doesn't go on to win the middleweight boxing championship, it won't be for lack of family support.

The mother of former Gary, Ind., steel mill worker is opposed to boxing. However, she has been overruled and outnumbered by her five fighting sons and 19 grand-children.

Tony, the National Boxing Association's fifth ranking contender, jumped into the title picture and further scrambled a middleweight situation already harboring two championship claimants when he outpointed Hostak, the N.B.A.'s champion from Seattle, Wash., in 10 rounds last Monday.

Ceferino Garcia is recognized by the New York and California Boxing Commisisons, but promotional differences are keeping Garcia and Hostak apart.

Zale went under contract to Nate Druxman, west coast promoter, who also has Hostak in tow, when he whipped the Seattle puncher. Zale's managers yesterday rejected Jacobs' offer of a match with Garcia because of commitments to Druxman.

Metropolitan Union Starts Feud

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union sailed today into the entire problem of national A.A.U. laws, with storm warnings flying all over the place.

For the "Met" body started something that may not end until the laws that govern A.A.U. sports are as simple as the Simon of storybook fame.

The latest split between the two feudists can in this roundabout fashion:—The "Met" body, after issuing warnings to the contrary, decided to let national champion Charlie Beetham and two pals of the 69th Regiment A.A. run in the Millrose games here Saturday. The three had competed in Boston's prout games last week, ignoring the "Met" senior championships here that same day. They went to Boston with the national body's blessing, but with nothing except hard looks from the Met officials. So they were to be barred from the Millrose games. But yesterday in a superheated executive session, the local group relented.

That seemed odd, until it was discovered that the "Met" planned to use the case as a test of the constitutional and legal aspects of the power of the national body.

A national rule says that an athlete asking for a travel permit must be granted one if he is in good standing. The national body says that means every athlete asking for one gets one. Wise local minds say the compulsion is on the athlete to get a permit—not on the association to issue it.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Singin' a song on Simcoe St., a scribe heads toward the "Y" — sure, coverin' ladies' basketball is like eating apple pie! So just to get the tune "Old Oaken Bucket"—which we've been whistling all day—out of our mind, we'll pass off a jingle on the customers:

How dear to cage fans are the scenes every Friday
When gals' basketball is presented to view,
Westclox and Aces, St. John's and the "Y" team,
The Quaker Oats Debs and the smart Orfuns, too.
(Chorus)
Oh, the cuties in cage garb,
The hoop blondes and brunettes,
Those beauties of Nature
Down in "Basketball Dell"!

* * * * * *

To be more explisit—that is explicet—well, then, to be more exact, a trio of girls' hoop tilts will be run off at the Y.W. tomorrow eve. Orfuns meet Westclox at 6.15, St. John's play Debs at 7.00, and Aces battle "Y" Gym at 8.00. Big fray of the p.m. is the third one. The champion Aces have already upset the blue-and-whites once early this season but since then the fast-stepping Gym gals have lost but one while winning seven. St. John's need a win and the Debs may pull the unexpected. Orfuns should trim Westclox, but the Armour Hill damsels will give any club plenty of trouble.

Gobs O' Puck Action

There may be no blood on the moon tonight at the Brock St. ice igloo but there'll be action in carload lots. It's the Industrial Loop puck triple-header, Westclox playing Packers at 7.30, Rays meeting Quakers at 8.30, and Marines tackling Watercrafts at 9.30. Keen competition on tap in every tilt and folks can't go wrong on so much lively hockey for so little do-re-mi.

Big attraction at the hockey rink Friday after supper is the exhibition O.H.A. intermediate "A" fray betwixt Owen Sound Trappers and the Petes. The Trappers baited their trap with Red Creighton—who is by no means a piece of cheese, not Robert the Red!—to get this tussle, getting pretty stiff expenses. But it'll be worth it for the practice the Petes will get against a classy squad, and for the look they and the fans will get at the Petes' possible playdown opponent, if, as and when. It should be a lulu of a scrap and rates 4,000 fans — but the Petes will settle for 2,000.

Trappers Are Coming

This is the Trappers' lineup with numbers: Goal, Dahmer; defence, Blair (6), Campbell (7); centre, Smith (2); wings, Creighton (3), Nicholls (4); alternates, Small (5), Hutchinson (8), Shears (9), Mattison (10), Sutton (11). Father Spratt is coach and Frank Cadesky manager. They'll arrive here tomorrow aft by car and the game will be on the dot—with all the locals ready for action in a fine contest.

Junior Colts journeyed to Omemee for an exhibition joust last p.m. and lost a 10-5 decision. However, the Colts were a bit tired after their loop fray of the previous night, and were minus their goalie. Outscored the intermediate Hawks 4-1 in the third heat and they tell us they believe they'd beat the O's another game. At that, the Omemee squad is stepping along right briskly these days and nights in district competition with this gee Tripp a sweetheart on skates for them. Play was lively but somewhat disorganized at times last p.m., with the Colts occupying the sin bin so often they seldom seemed to have a full team on the frozen water. Sid Craig again played fine hockey, and the Colts' captain is the most consistent performer on the club so far.

Galt Should Win Now

Niagara Falls Cataracts—who beat the Petes out in O.H.A. senior "B" playoffs last season—announce they won't enter senior "B" playdowns this year, at the conclusion of their senior "A" schedule. So, it'll be Galt—which hasn't won a game all year—representing the senior "A" loop in "B" competition come spring. It just would work out that way the first year the Petes played back in intermediate "A" company, eh? Blinkety blank blank blank! The Big Roar management claims the Falls dropped over a thousand simoleons in winning the senior "B" title in '39, owing to long trips and slim crowds—and, probably, as most of their players were "tourists" and worked not at gainful employment. The Petes were perilously near the red ink side, too, at the finish.

Last twilight, some of the St. Paul's cagers here hopped down the highway to Belleville to engage the Trenton Airport basketballers in an exhibition match. When the smoke of battle had cleared, the Saints held a 48-25 victory over the R.C.A.F.-ers, Jimmy Thorburn leading the local snipers with two dozen points in a swell showing. The Peterborough players this game were Gord McIntyre, Harry Marsh, Jack Gemmell, Jim Thorburn, Pete McArthur, Walter Ward and Jerry Whaley. St. Paul's will enter O.C.B.A. intermediate playdowns—which they won last year—again this season.

Red Wings Out To Clip Rangers' Pace

(By the Canadian Press.)

How tough can the Red Wings get at Detroit, where they have lost only once in their last seven National Hockey League starts before the home folks?

The Wings play the league-leading New York Rangers at Detroit to-night, and, if they can apply an ounce of pressure more than usual, they may stop the Blueshirts from running into another long victory streak. The night's other encounter involves Chicago and the Americans at New York.

The last time the Rangers were in the Motor City, they were held to a scoreless draw by the upstart Red Wings. After that the New York club won 10 straight games before dropping a decision to the Black Hawks at Chicago.

Now the Rangers have won five straight games and gained a three-point lead over the second-place Boston Bruins, who have played one more game than the leaders.

Tiny Thompson, the veteran goaltender who joined Detroit last season after a long period with Boston, is one reason for the Wings' frequent surprises. Captain Ebbie Goodfellow, the one-time forward who has given the defence its main punch in recent season, is another.

Syd Howe, once the league's scoring sensation, breaks out in a splurge when least expected. More lately Connie Brown, young centre from Cornwall, Ont., has been punching money goals for the Wings.

Moreover, Manager Jack Adams has been working on the Wings' power play, and it might prove strong enough to beat that new Ranger up-the-ice system for killing penalties.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 1 — (AP). — Mrs. Paul E. Purks found this salute to cold weather of the past in the diary of her grandfather:

"Feb. 1, 1875.—The river has been frozen over with ice six inches thick. In the middle was a table from which a fellow supplied the crowd with liquor at a dime a glass. It has been 8 or 10 below here."

Trappers Play The Petes Tomorrow Here

Owen Sound Trappers tangle with the Petes in an exhibition O.H.A. intermediate "A" match here tomorrow (Friday) night at 8:30 in the Brock St. rink. These classy squads are very likely to meet in provincial playdowns, provided they both win their groups, this winter—and tomorrow's exhibition tilt will give fans an idea of the strength of the clubs. It will also be a first-rate contest between speedy, experienced outfits. Father Spratt, noted puck coach for years in Owen Sound, is pilot of the Trappers this season, and one of his main scoring forwards is the Peterborough puckist Red Creighton.

Coach Frank Buckland expects all his players to be ready for Friday and the whole crew will see action. The Petes are readying up now for the end of the schedule and a hectic playoff series against Trenton Fliers. The locals are clicking in good style now, and may cop a win over the Trappers tomorrow night. It promises to be a wide-open and interesting tussle, and should draw a big crowd of fans.

Close Contests Are Shown In Trio Of Tilts

Three close contests were staged last night in the Church Hockey League at All Saints' Rink as the clubs swung into the final lap of the schedule. St. Paul's Juniors nosed out St. James' 3-2, Trinity Juveniles got a 4-3 nod over All Saints, and the All Saints' Bantams edged Trinity by a 3-2 count.

With big J. McMillan back, St. Paul's are again in the junior playoff hunt. They had a 3-0 margin at one time last night, Dundas and A. Lockington counting in the first and J. Easton in the second. Close got both St. James' goals in the second and third. Leether and B. Lawson stood out for the losers, with all the winners going good.

The teams:

St. James' — Goal, Leether; defence, McGregor, F. Lawson; centre, B. Lawson; wings, Close, Roode; subs., Jamieson, Williams, Langton, Roberts.

St. Paul's — Goal, McBride; defence, McMillan, Dundas; centre, J. Easton; wings, A. Lockington, S. Lockington; sub., G. Easton.

Referees—D. Charlton, H. Conlin.

Couldn't Win.

With a handicap of three goals which the Trinity netter fanned on in the first frame, All Saints still couldn't pull out a juvenile win, and so lost their first of the season. Blackwell with two and Maudsley with one got their markers on long drifters. Horton was in on all four Trinity goals, scoring two and aiding Henry and Harrison on one each. The winning tally came late after a disputed counter which would have made it 5-3. The Uniteds, sure of at least a tie for first, showed speed up front, with Horton the fastest there, as Henry, Webster, Blackwell, and Carpenter also showed speed.

The teams:

Referee—D. Charlton.

All Saints' Bantams scored two early in the first, Jones and McDougall counting on passes from each other. The Anglicans then held the Trinity team in check most of the game in a hard-fought tussle. All Saints' earned the nod by a narrow margin in this game between the probable finalists. Edgar got the winners' third goal, as Beatty and Dinsdale scored for Trinity. Hall and Edgar went good defensively.

The teams:

All Saints — Goal, Panter; defence, Edgar, Shadgett; centre, McDougall; wings, Jones, Baxter; subs, Chambers, Mason, Hill, Outram, Menzies, Padgett.

Referee—D. Charlton.

Hawthorne Wins Handicap Swim At The 'Y'

In the 40 yd. breast stroke handicap swim at the Y.M.C.A. natatorium last night, Jim Hawthorne won by a touch from Warren Marshall in a swim-off after the pair of swimmers were tied in the final event. Andrew Brown was a close third and Gordon Wallace was a good fourth in the final which could have been won by any of the four contestants.

This race was the second of a series of handicap swims to be held every Wednesday night at the 'Y' Junior Swimming Club and ten swimmers took part in last night's event.

Coach Gord Minty, who directs the races, reports that the juniors will be competing in several open swim meets in the near future, including the Toronto city championships on Saturday, March 2nd at Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto.

Complete results of the races were as follows:

Second Heat—1 Jim Hawthorne, 2 Jack Newton, 3 Bob Honour.

First Semi-final—1 A Brown, 2 Hawthorne, 3 Newton.

Canucks Get Win Over The Beavers

Canucks edged out a 1-0 decision over Beavers in their Southend Hockey League clash at the Sacred Heart rink. It was a fast, clean game and as tight as the score indicates. A. Giardino notched the game's only counter in the first period. He, Redmond, Delpellaro and Ferren stood out with some fine play. The teams:

Referee—V. Neary.

Norwood Downs Lakefield By 5-0 Score

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1 (ENS). — In a Trent Valley Interscholastic game here last night Norwood High School defeated Lakefield High 5-0. The game was fairly clean, with Stewart of Lakefield drawing three penalties and Stevenson two for Norwood. The Norwood crew had a little edge on the play, with better skating and stick handling, but the local High School looked better in back-checking. Mickey Puffer got the first goal for Norwood. Nelson put Norwood two up when he intercepted a pass from Morris at the 12-minute mark. No goals were scored in the second period. The final period Norwood banged in three goals, one while Lakefield was a man short. Green, Sargent and Morris getting the counters.

Puffer, Bongard, Green, and Morris looked best for Norwood, while Birch, Clarke, Tanner and Skelcher played well for Lakefield.

Referee—J. Sabatino, Lakefield.

The teams:

Norwood — Goal, Bongard; defence, Puffer, Gardiner; centre, Green; wings, Johnson, Buck; subs, Sargent, Morris, Cole, Nelson, and Lemon.

Youth Scores Four Of Six Goals In Game

HASTINGS, Feb. 1.—(ENS).—In a church league hockey game here last night, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Bantams took a 6 to 2 decision from the Separate School. Murray Fife, up and coming young hockey player for St. Andrew's, led a veritable barrage of puck shooting at Stafford McKenty, net minder for the Separate School. Murray accounted for four of the six goals scored by his team. Bob Latta clicked in the other two. Paul Petticrew, aggressive wingman for the Separate School, scored the two goals for his team.

The teams:

St. Andrew's— Goal, Jim Blackbourne; defence, Billy McEachnie, Bob Latta; centre, Lorne Killinbeck; wings, Murray Fife, Bob West; alternates, Bill Mouncey, Vern McMillan.

By HERB MARTIN

R. Best vs M. Cruthers. Close all the way, good game, won on the last end.

D. Carlisle vs E. Thomas. A big scoring game. Good curling in spots. Everybody happy.

N. Hamley vs B. Scott. Too one-sided for any comment.

T. Holyman vs. G. Green. A tight game with a hurricane finish by Holyman's quartette to win by one shot.

T. McArthur vs W. Oke. Slow starting but finished up not too badly. Good and bad curling.

No. 8 vs All Comers. The most perfect game of all.

Yesterday morning the ladies put on their best curling of the season. Both cup games were very close and also interesting to watch.

Mrs. G. Wood had to go into overtime before Miss C. Littlefield would concefde the game and Mrs. D. Clarke had to make good her last stone to win by one point from Miss H. Fanning. By far the best exhibition of curling so far this season.

Favor Patty Berg To Win Golf Tourney

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 1 — (AP). — Having heard little of Patty Berg for the last seven months while the Minneapolis girl was absenting herself from serious golf, the golf world possible will be interested in knowing how Patty has survived her inactivity.

Patty seems to have survived her appendix operation and her absence from tournament golf. She has missed the United States women's championship and seen the title fall to another fine golfer, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, and now she's back to elbow her way down the fairways again and take up where she left off.

Is she still the best woman golfer in the United States—if not one worthy of ranking with the greatest of all time, including the almost immortal Joyce Wethered of England?

The answer, after having watched Patty trim two worthy opponents yesterday in the Miami-Biltmore championships, and after having watched her best rivals in action also, would seem to be yes.

Patty still has a little something on the other girls, and she should win her fifth straight championship here.

Patty's two victories yesterday were the 22nd and 23rd straight that she has scored in the local classic, which possibly constitutes a record of some sort.

If anything, she appears to be hitting her drives a little longer, to be approaching a trifle more crisply, and to be banging her putts at the cup with a trace more confidence. That makes her very good, indeed.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

MUSH MARCH
Chicago Black Hawks

Only Dit Clapper of Boston Bruins has seen longer continuous service with one club in the National league than Harold (Mush) March, stocky right wing with the Chicago Black Hawks, who jumped straight from junior ranks in the fall of 1928 to a job with the Hawks and has remained with them ever since, making the current campaign his 12th. Mush is a great two-way player, never an exceptionally high scorer, but a steady dependable forward. His best season was 1935-36, when he counted 19 goals, got credit for 19 assists for a point total of 35, his high in all divisions. All told, he's counted 108 goals, 120 assists and spent 370 minutes on various penalty benches. Sitton, Sask., was his birthplace 31 years ago. Played junior with Regina Monarchs, helping them to a Memorial Cup triumph the winter before he turned pro. Mush is one of the "mighty mite's" of major league puck warfare, reaching only to the five foot mark in altitude and scaling around 150 pounds, but he stands up under the gruelling in fine style. Handy player to have on your side in a clutch and he's never scored less than two goals in any of the four Stanley Cup playdowns he's taken part in. Best game other than hockey is golf, at which he is much better than average.

Providence Reds Grab 5th Win, Beat Eagles 4-3

(By the Canadian Press.)

New Haven Eagles can thank their stars that Providence Reds are not their only opponents in the International - American Hockey League. One of the reasons why the Eagles and Reds are tied for first place in the circuit's Eastern Division is because the Rhode Island team has won each time the clubs have met.

The Reds made it five victories in a row over New Haven last night by a 4-3 score. Meantime, Indianapolis Capitals consolidated their hold on first place in the Western Section by beating Philadelphia Ramblers 4-1, while Pittsburg Hornets drubbed Hershey Bears 6-0.

Providence built up a 4-0 lead against New Haven, yet it took some great goal-tending by Phil Stein in the third period to save them from at least a tie.

After Normie Mann, Windy Steele, Hub Wilson, and Red Doran had scored for the Reds, Gus Mancuso, Don Willson and Coach Jimmy Ward, counted for the Eagles. Ward's goal was the only one of the third period, but the Eagles, noted for their comebacks, peppered Stein from all angles.

The Capitals took a 3-1 lead against Philadelphia in the first period and got their fourth goal in the second. Don Deacon, Ron Hudson, Lloyd Douglass and Carl Liscombe scored for the winners, while Herb Foster fired in the Ramblers' goal.

NORWOOD ENDS 1st HALF OF SCHEDULE WITH WIN OVER MADOC

Hornets Sting Micmacs For 3 to 2 Win

NORWOOD, Feb. - — (ENS). — The yellow and black clad Norwood Hornets wound up the first half of the current Trent Valley Hockey League schedule, by stinging the Madoc MicMacs for a 3 to 2 victory in a thrilling encounter last evening at the Norwood arena. Picking up an additional two points by their win, Alex Kempt's boys are still in a neck and neck struggle with the Campbellford and Tweed clubs for supremacy in the T.V.L. group.

The count could easily have been increased by a dozen goals either way last night, as both squads missed chances galore in a particularly wide-open and fast display of hockey. A spectacular performance by Martin, the visiting netminder, was the lone stumbling block between the Hornets and a clear-cut decision over their opponents.

Referees Ennis and Rupert were forced to hand out only four penalties, three of which went to members of the home squad. Worst incident of the whole game was an injury to a woman spectator, who received a bad cut on the face, as a player's stick accidentally struck her during a scuffle along the boards in the final stanza.

A thrust by Brady and Richardson resulted in a pile-up in front of the Madoc net with Martin holding fast. From the face-off which followed, O'Leary tallied the Hornets' opening goal, as B. Webb got the draw and laid down a nice pass. A penalty to Gilman for tripping O'Leary gave the homesters the odd-man advantage, but the visitors led by Coe and Martin offered a tight defence.

Taking a pass from Puffer at mid-ice, Hill worked right in on Martin to notch Norwood's second marker, after a minute of play in the middle frame. The Madoc outfit suddenly began to click at this point, and McMaster had a busy two minutes, as Aboud got the gate for tripping. "Dude" Brady tallied solo at the 15-minute mark but it was disallowed, as Referee Rupert had called the play at mid-ice for a trip by O'Leary. The latter was on again however, before Gilman netted Madoc's first goal, which despite protests from the homesters that the puck had gone throught the side of the net, Referee Rupert ruled as in.

The Hornets practically swarmed about the Madoc cage in the opening minutes of the final session, and succeeded in increasing their lead 3-1 as Hill slapped home N. Rogers' rebound at the halfway mark with Puffer also in on the play. Madoc got a break as Aboud was sent to the cooler for slashing and McMaster was perhaps the most surprised person in the rink, as an easy shot from Coe slid past him into the cage for Madoc's second and final marker. The count remained 3 to 2 despite continued efforts by both squads during the remaining four minutes.

Finnegan Hill, who notched two of the winner's goals, came through with an extra fine performance to grade a major portion of the honors which were fairly well distributed among the other members of the line-up. Except for his one slip, McMaster deserved a shut-out for his work in goal.

The outstanding star for the visitor's was of course, their netminder, Martin. Most effective among the rest were Keller, Akey, Gilman, Coe and Emery. The teams:

Referees.—T. Rupert, Madoc; R. Ennis, Norwood.

Hard Hitter

JACK GARDNER

Feud Costs Kansas 2 Football Coaches

MANHATTAN, Kas., Feb. 1. — (AP).— A personal feud has cost Kansas State College its two football coaches—Wes Fry and Stan Williamson—and broken up a comradeship of seven years. The Athletic Council last night accepted the resignations of Fry and his assistant, Line Coach Williamson.

The Council "regretted sincerely the necessity for this action," it said in a statement, but pointed out "the two men have become personally uncongenial."

It never was disclosed what the feud was about.

Wooler Blanks Frankford; Millerites Win

TWEED, Feb. 1 (ENS). — In the double-header of the Frankford District Hockey League on Tuesday night, Wooler whitewashed Frankford 6-0, while Glen Miller snatched a 6-3 victory over Wallbridge.

The Wallbridge "Townhallers" were minus the services of the regular goalie and a couple of their first string forwards in thei rtussle against the league leaders and were badly outclassed in the first period when three goals rattled into their net without a return.

Wallbridge management juggled its lineup for the balance of the game, and the winners were afforded stiffer opposition, but three more counters of a rather soft variety slithered into their cage before the end of the second canto, while the best the losers could do was to bang in one counter. Lorne Jarrell and the Woods boys carried the brunt of the last canto for Wallbridge, with Jarrell accounting for all three of his team's goals.

The teams:

Wallbridge— Goal, Kingston; defence, Vermilyea and G. Woods; centre, Jarrell; wings, C. Woods and Chisholm; subs., Yerwood, R. Woods and Gray.

Glen Miller — Goal, Lonas; defence, Lott and Lemoire; centre, Lamorre; wings, Johnston and Anderson; subs., Gates and Drake, Beale, Davis and Wickens.

Wooler Goes to Town.

At about the half-way mark in the first canto Wooler went into the lead when Ruttan blazed one past Lawrence in the Frankford nets, and from then on dominated the play with their well-knit defence of C. Ruttan and Dancey, affording Bryant splendid protection in the nets. The period ended with Wooler leading 1-0, with the play about even, but as the second stanza started the aggressive Wooler lads carried the play to the opposition, and Radcliffe, Morrow and Ruttan soon had given them a 4-0 lead.

In the third, Wooler managed to bang two more counters in while holding the Frankford lads scoreless.

The teams:

Frankford — Goal, Lawrence; defence, Stojan and Dafoe; centre, McLeod; wings, Foster and Somnes; subs., Lockwood, Hannah, Rogers, and Loney.

Wooler — Goal, Bryant; defence, Claude Ruttan and Dancey; centre, McCaul; wings, Austin and Radcliffe; subs., Carman, Ruttan, Morrow, Lonne and Radcliffe.

Rowan Is Punched Clear Out Of Ring

That is gross understatement.

Punched helpless, Rowan was catapulted clear out of the ring by Watson's left. His nose was broken as he hit the floor and he was unconscious six minutes. Then he was taken to a hospital.

The Line Forms To The Right, Boys

Perhaps the biggest headache now being 'enjoyed' by one of the major league presidents is that of Ed. Barrow, the Yanks' front official financial fountain. Not that all the other major league ball players are satisfied, but at least two Yanks apparently have begun the chant, "We want more dough." Joe DiMaggio, the slugging outfielder, is said to have been offered $30,000, a $2,500 jump from 1939, not gum money in any drug store. But Joe, 'tis said, wants $40,000. Red Rolfe, big third baseman, is reported to have been offered $16,000, an increase of perhaps $1,000 over last year. Red, however, wants $18,000. The line forms to the right, boys.

TWEED, Feb. 1.—(ENS). — On Tuesday night, in the double-header of the Rural Hastings League, the Foxboro Foxes whipped the Glen Ross Riversides 3-1 to gain a tie for the top position in the league standing.

After a scoreless first period, in which the Glen Ross crew seemed to have the edge in the play, Noel Guay clicked for the first tally early in the second. Carl Thompson made it two for the Foxes. Glen Ross pressed and only good goaltending by Norm Guay kept them off the score sheet. Armstrong got the only tally for the losers near the close of the middle period. The final counter of the game was also scored by Noel Gay late in the last period.

The teams:

Glen Ross—Goal, Hagerman; defence, Brown and Fraser; centre, Martin; wings, G. Pyear and R. Pyear; subs, Brooks, Armstrong and Brown.

Foxboro—Goal, Norm Guay; defence, Noel Guay and G. Walt; centre, Elder; wings, Thompson and Spencer; subs, L. Gough, C. Dafoe and R. Halliwell.

Ivanhoe Put Out.

The second game found the courgseous Ivanhoe squad eliminated 1-0 by the Zion Hill Irish. A victory for them would have given them another chance to get in the playoffs and also a new experience.

The first period was scoreless, with both teams playing careful hockey. Midway through the second period the Irish began to gather speed and their second front line, of Tummon, Simms and Clarke gave Delve in the Ivanhoe nets plenty of worry. Brough got the onl ytally of the game, when he received a pass directly in front of the nets. Ray Dickey, Brough, Simms, Tummon and Clarke were best for the winners. The entire Ivanhoe team turned in a fine effort, and only hard luck prevented this fighting team from making the grade this year.

The teams:

Ivanhoe — Goal, Delve; defence, Tomlinson and Reid; centre, Dan Cooke; wings, Wright and Woods; subs, Murphy, Fleming and Downey, Bray.

Vestry Meeting Names Officers

HASTINGS, Feb. 1—(ENS).—The annual vestry meeting of St. George's Church was held in the sunday school room on Saturday afternoon with the Rev. William Stocks presding.

Following the devotions led by the incumbent, Mrs. Roy King was appointed as Vestry Clerk for the meeting.

in the Act are dealt with seperately from the class of general corporations.

Another Increase

The tax calculated on the net income derived by railways from the operation of hotels in increased to five per cent from two per cent by another section.

Another clause in the bill provides that every tax and penalty under the Corporations Tax Act imposed on an incorporated company owning, operating or using a railway shall be a special lien on the property. Priority to such a lien is given as follows:

"In priority to every claim, privilege, lien or encumbrance, whether heretofore or hereafter created of every person and the lien and its priority shall not be lost or impaired by any neglect, omission or error of any minister, officer, servant or agent of the Crown or by want of registration."

The legislature adjourned yesterday with the government bill amending the succession Duty Act still in committee stage and under heavy fire from the Conservative opposition.

Blames Injunction

The Bill, sponsored by Attorney-general Conant, is designed to facilitate collection of duties from estates that have been previously closed by the treasury, but are now opened for investigation. Premier Hepburn said an injunction issued to halt investigation of one estate was responsible for the bill.

Col. Drew attacked the succession duty bill as a measure of "legalized blackmail" in those clauses which would empower treasury officials to put an arbitrary valuation on certain classes of assets and allow no appeal from the decision.

The opposition chief proposed the bill be referred to the legal bills committee, but Premier Hepburn said lawyers hadn't succeeded in drafting an invulnerable measure before. If the government had listened more to its own officials charged with enforcement of the act and less to lawyers, it might have been better.

The Liberals cheered as the Premier said he found himself in complete disagreement with Col. Drew, something the Premier hasn't said often this session.

The "legalized blackmail" charge was unfair, said the Premier. The treasury officials had a sense of fairness and used it in administering the act.

The injunction issued by an Ontario court in the case of one estate was likened by the Premier to the action of Prime Minister Mackenzie King in dissolving Parliament and this in turn was likened to the action of the commander of the Graf Spee in sinking his ship. The injunction, the dissolution and the sinking all halted effective action.

Gagging Radio Opponents

Mr. Hepburn charged Mr. King was going to "gag" his opponents on the radio. The Prime Minister would fight his "battle from a bombproof shelter somewhere in Laurier House."

Reference of the measure to the Legal Bills committee would mean that the lawyers would 'chew it to pieces for a month and then report back in complete disagreement," the Premier said.

Leslie Frost (Con., Victoria) said the Government was creating unrest in the minds of people generally with its succession duty legislation. If the right of appeal from officials' decisions were given it would cause officials to be fair and reasonable.

"We have officials more capable of passing on financial statements than judges," said the Premier. "They (the judges) might read the finacial statements, but they wouldn't understand them." Ontario's succession duty rates were abnormally low and no flight of capital would be caused by the legislation. Conservatives lost the final skirmish in the first major legislative battle of the session when the local government extension act received third reading by 45-22. Former Attorney General Arthur Roebuck (Ind. Lib., Toronto-Bellwoods), joined the Conservatives in voting against the bill.

The Extension bill makes effective a two-year term for municipally-elected bodies, effective February 1, 1941, unless a municipality votes itself out of its provisions.

Education Minister Simpson introduced a measure to put the Teachers' and Inspectors' Superannuation Fund on a more solid basis. Payment into the fund by its prospective beneficiaries are to be increased from three per cent to 3½ per cent. No increased contribution will be made by the provincial government.

On the physical side of the war, the latest reported British losses credited to torpedoes and bombs were the 5,063-ton steamship Vaclite and the 1,178-ton steamship Highwave, the former torpedoed in convoy and the latter bombed off the British coast.

The announcement of the loss of the Vaclite followed disclosure by Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday that the attacking submarine had been sunk by British planes and warships. The Vaclite's crew was picked up by an Italian ship.

21st Bomb Does Job.

The entire crew of 18 of the Highwave reached Flushing, the Netherlands, last night, two of them wounded by machine-gun fire. They said a German plane dropped 20 bombs at their ship on Monday before a direct hit sent her under.

Apparently also lost was the 4,634-ton British vessel Royal Crown with 12 of her crew. Fifteen men who abandoned the ship Tuesday in the North Sea when a bomb struck amidships reached the British coast in a lifeboat yesterday. A second lifeboat was missing.

They said a German plane first machine-gunned the decks, killing the ship's anti-aircraft gunner before he could get into action. Four members of the crew were killed outright and eight others were drowned.

Full dress parliamentary debate on what has grown into bitter, nationwide controversy drew leading speakers of the main parties, including Prime Minister Chamberlain, Sir John Simon, Clement R. Attlee and Sir Archibald Sinclair, representing, respectively, the Conservative, Liberal National, Labor and Liberal parties.

A Labor motion presented by Herbert Morrison called for inclusion in the war cabinet of a minister charged specifically with "planning to the best advantage the resources of the nation for successful prosecution of the war and for meeting the requirements of the civilian population."

Britain already has a minister of economic welfare but he is not a member of the war cabinet. He is Ronald Hibbert Cross and his job amounts to what it was in the last war when he was minister of blockade. His main work is breaking down Germany's trade.

The proposed ministerial job would entail building up Britain's trade. Also outside the war cabinet are the secretary of the board of trade, the secretary of overseas trade and the minister of shipping, all of whose work is part of the general economic effort.

The war cabinet consists of Mr. Chamberlain, Sir John, who is Chancellor of Exchequer, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, Lord Chatfield, Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, War Secretary Oliver Stanley, Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood, Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal, and Lord Hankey, minister without portfolio.

With Mr. Chamberlain resisting change in what Labor called the "topsy turvy structure" of economic administration, the government sought to keep its supporters in line with the assurance that this field is not being neglected and that the proposed revision of the system can be adopted later if circumstances justify it.

Linked with the economic dispute was the whole question of reshuffling the nine-man War Cabinet which some Labor and other political leaders say already is too large for proper direction of the war.

The economic representative in the Cabinet is Sir John as Chancellor of the Exchequer. He supervises the work of two separate committees of economic experts.

But the Opposition contends that Sir John is too burdened with the financial problems of war to give needed direction to the economic phase.

The Times, supporting this contention, said: "It seems impossible that any one man can discharge the task not only of raising money but of saying how it should be spent to the best economic advantage and of giving his fellow-countrymen detailed advice about how they should spend what taxation and lending leaves to them."

City To Report $12,000 Surplus

Alderman Cotton will report to the finance committee to-night a surplus of approximately $12,000 from last year.

This sum is equivalent to something like half a mill in the tax rate. It isn't exactly a gift. The ratepayers contributed it in last year's payment of taxes, but in the year's spending this amount was left over, and will presumably be applied to the credit side of the 1940 accounting and should pare about half a mill off the tax rate.

Helping Repair Stalled Car, Man Injured

William Redpath, 52, of Lang, received a severe gash on his head, leg injuries, and a possible fracture of the leg on Wednesday night when he was struck by a passing automobile, as he was helping to repair a stalled motor car on Highway 7, and knocked into the ditch.

Mr. Redpath was driving with his son Charles Redpath of Lakefield, east on Highway 7, when the car stopped two miles east of the city, owing to a plugged gas line. The two men were working at repairs with the car on the shoulder of the road when a car driven by Cecil Cuthbertson, Norwood, came along from the east and struck William Redpath, toppling him into the ditch.

Cuthbertson told Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton, who investigated the accident, that several cars were approaching from the opposite direction and had prevented him from seeing Redpath until too late to avert an accident.

The injured man was taken to his home at Lang and Dr. A. G. Howson gave him first-aid. To-day he was brought into Peterborough for further examination.

Eddie King, who only got out of jail Wednesday morning after serving a sentence on a liquor charge, was arrested later in the day on the C.P.R. foot bridge and this morning was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., with having been drunk in a public place.

John McIntosh, another transient, was first charged with illegal possession of liquor Wednesday and in answer to the charge said he would plead guilty to having been drunk.

"I am asking you to plead on this charge," replied the magistrate whereupon McIntosh, remarking that he knew nothing about the liquor in regard to which he was charged, pleaded not guilty on the illegal possession count.

Later he pleaded guilty to the drunkenness and was fined $10 and $3 costs or ten days while the police offered no evidence in the other charge and it was dismissed.

TORONTO, Feb. 1 — (CP). — A. L. Elliott, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Peterborough, to-day announced he would support the Federal Liberal candidate in the Peterborough ridings.

The member said that because of his work in connection with the Legislature's timber inquiry he would be unable to attend the Liberal executive meeting to-night in Peterborough.

Mr. Elliott said: "I will certainly be supporting the Federal candidates in the Peterborough ridings. Two weeks ago to-day when the vote of censure in the Legislature was considered I had left the Chamber to attend a banquet in Peterborough before the discussion took place that precipitated the resolution. I have never joined in any criticism of the war effort of the Federal administration.

"With national figures like Lapointe, Ralston, Crerar, and Gardiner supporting Mackenzie King, it is my opinion that the people of Canada will hesitate before replacing these tried administrators in this time of a national emergency."

Farmers Pressed To Form Cooperatives

BARRIE, Ont., Feb. 1—(CP). — Co-operation among farmers for their mutual benefit was the most important subject of discussion at the Gergian Bay farmers' conference here yesterday.

Keynote of the various addresses was that farmers could gain much through practising the various types of co-operation, and an effort was made at the conference to interest various groups of farmers in organizing co-operatives in their respective communities.

Rev. J. A. McDonagh, Midland, in an address on "Some Lessons From Sweden, Denmark and Nova Scotia," emphasized that the spirit of co-operation was far more important than co-operation as it now exists.

R. J. Scott, Belgrave, president United Farmers' Co-operative Company, Limited, gave the audience an idea of the extent of co-operation in Ontario to-day. He said that his own company had an annual turnover of more than $10,000,000, and the national co-operatives of the United States had an annual turnover of more than $450,000,000.

W. C. Good, Paris, president the Co-operative Credit Union of Canada, delivered an address on the various types of co-operatives consumers producers, compulsory, voluntary and credit.

Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., gave the feature address of the afternoon session when she spoke on "The Place and Opportunity of Co-operation in a Democracy."

G. McKerracher, U.F.O., explained how to organize a co-operative.

Judging Of Pigs On Carcass Basis

Judging of pigs on the carcass basis is one of the proposals that will come before the Exhibition directors Friday night.

This radical change in the swine branch of the Exhibition has been inspired by farmers, and was discussed at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Agriculture last Saturday. Behind this idea is the desire to make the swine competition as practical as possible. Entries would be confined to the commercial class, and would be shown in the pens at the Exhibition for the first two days. They would then be taken to Canada Packers plant, and the final award of prize money would be made on the basis of carcass values.

It is expected that an arrangement could be made with Canada Packers Limited to buy the exhibits at a favorable price, and the ultimate result of the change would be to encourage the commercial, and the most important phase of the industry.

It was also said in the recent discussion that the swine exhibited here would be entered in a commerical competition, and would not be destained for other exhibitions in the fall circuit.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1 (ENS), — About sixty-five young people attended the skating party sponsored by the Young People's Society of the Lakefield United Church on Tuesday evening. Following the skating the party returned to the church where a most appetizing lunch of hot coffee, sandwiches, doughnuts, and cakes was served.

Two Short Courses Are Being Held

Two short courses in agriculture in this district are being held at Westwood and Reaboro. The Peterborough county group is under the direction of F. C. Paterson, and the Reaboro course in Victoria county is supervised by M. H. Winter of Lindsay. It is expected that they will join forces in a visit to Peterborough on February 9, calling at some of the local industries.

Mr. Paterson reports that there are eighteen boys and eighteen girls at Westwood with perhaps five more in each class by next week. R. J. McKercher of Dublin is in charge of the boys' work and Miss Betty Wallace of Toronto and Miss Ann Scott of Ottawa are in charge of the girls.

The boys' class meets in the community hall, and the girls have pleasant accommodation in the home of Miss Breckenridge. The course will continue for a month.

Visit House Of Refuge

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1.—(ENS)—The inmates of the County House of Refuge were pleasantly entertained by music and singing on Sunday afternoon when five cars of members of Bethany Tabernacle accompanied by the visiting Dixie Jubilee Gospel Quartette paid the home a visit.

For two hours the orchestras kept the old people enraptured.

A very hearty vote of thanks was given the visitors by the matron, Mrs. L. Fry.

The residents enjoy these visits immensely and appreciate the entertainment any society or club presents to them.

400 Farmers Attend Barrie Meeting

The numerous group of Peterborough farmers who organized a county branch of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture will be interested in the report from Barrie to the effect that "Simcoe county will take the lead in Ontario in formation of a county chamber or federation of agriculture" at a meeting attended by four hundred farmers in Barrie on Tuesday.

Incidentally, H. H. Hannam of Toronto, who was elected president of the Canadian Chamber in Ottawa last Saturday, said that one of his first acts would be to change the name.

"It smacks too much of 'big business,' and is too easily confused with chamber of commerce. It doesn't sound just right for a 'wages for farmers' movement, Mr. Hannam said. "The new name will probably be 'Canadian Federation of Farmers,' or something similar."

The election of Mr. Hannam will probably be agreeably received by Peterborough farmers. He has addressed various meetings here during the last five years, from the U.F.O. picnic to the Rotary Club, is a keen student of agricultural problems, and is an ardent advocate of the proposed new deal for farmers, especially in their growing demand for marketing legislation.

Students Planning For Commencement

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1 (ENS) —One of the most ambitious programs staged here in many years is being planned by the local High School as part of their annual commencement exercises which are being held in the school auditorium on Thursday and Friday of this week. This year the students, who always present a program of intense local interest, are offering a three-act musical comedy, "Hulda of Holland," complete with a splendid musical score which ranks with the finest two-hour entertainments ever seen here produced by local talent. The cast comprises sixty students, whose blending of voices in both choruses, quartettes, and duets is a tribute to the excellent training they are receiving in the field of music.

United Church Reports Successful Year

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1. — (ENS). — That St. John's United church had just concluded a very successful year was revealed at the annual meeting held Tuesday when reports from the various organizations were presented. Rev. G. N. Maxwell, B.A., B.D., opened the meeting with a brief devotional period.

The report of the Sunday school revealed a total enrolment of 213, including teachers, officers and pupils. In addition to paying the regular operating expenses the school also contributed $40.00 to missions. The Home Department of the Sunday school reported a membership of seventeen.

An average of 20 was reported for the eighteen meetings held during the year. Receipts in this department totalled $60.00, of which $50 was sent to the treasurer of the Presbyterial.

A review of the work being done by the Girl Guides revealed that the majority of the thirty-four members were engaged in knitting squares for hospital blankets and that during the Christmas season they had provided fruit for forty baskets. A Brownie pack was recently organized. One of the highlights of the girls' programme during the year was their trip to Kingston during the time of the visit of the King and Queen.

The Boys' Brigade which was organized last October by Rev. G. N. Maxwell was being attended by an enthusiastic group of members with the attendance averaging 25 with new members coming in at nearly every meeting. Complete uniforms have already been supplied for the brigade and the hope was expressed that a bugle band would be formed in the near future. Approximately $64.00 had been raised by the group since its organization.

A steadily growing membership was also reported for the Young People's Union whose financial statement showed that of total receipts of $84.00 approximately $30.00 was contributed to missions. The review of the year's program showed that the organization had been very active.

Choir Report.

The choir reported net receipts of $80.79, most of which was re-invested in music and other equipment for that body, while the Evening Auxiliary which formerly went under the name of the Mission Circle had made a contribution of $130.00 to missions. There are forty-one members on the roll in this organization.

Twenty-three of the 47 members in the Woman's Missionary Society are life members, the report indicated. With an active program throughout the year $629.00 was raised of which $621.00 was forwarded to the branch treasurer. Principal source of revenue was the monthly envelope given to each member plus the thank offerings which had also been well subscribed to. The visiting committee of this group reported some 302 calls had been made during the year.

The report of the secretary of the Woman's Association which is one of the principal groups contributing to the support of the church, revealed a membership of sixty, with an average attendance of forty-three. The financial statement showed that $257.00 had been paid on the principal and interest on the church debt, while a further amount of $424.00 had been put into improvements to the parsonage and church grounds.

Officers for the year, all of whom were recently elected are: Honorary presidents, Mrs. J. A. Irwin, Mrs. C. H. Davidson and Mrs. A. J. Armour; President, Mrs. C. K. Stephen; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. W. T. Scott; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. T. J. Craighead; 3rd vice-pres., Mrs. S. S. Chappell; secretary, Miss Stella Keir; treasurer, Mrs. J. D. Mills; pianist, Mrs. A. G. Watson; assistant pianist, Miss Grace Payne; flower conveners, Mrs. M. S. Mowatt, Mrs. F. N. Brown; press reporter, Mrs. A. J. Armour; auditors, Mrs. A. J. Armour and Mrs. G. W. Hammond; parsonage committee, Mrs. J. A. Irwin, Mrs. T. E. Hall, Mrs. John Gay, Mrs. A. D. Bennett, Mrs. C. B. Williams.

The general treasurer's report indicated total receipts for the church, including donations from the Women's Association, were $4,953.00, with expenditures of $4,896.00, leaving a balance of $57.00 in the treasury. Contributions to the missionary and maintenance fund had amounted to $927.00.

The statistical report for the year indicated a total of 29 baptisms, 8 marriages and 18 burials. There were a total of 336 families on the church roll representing approximately 1,200 individuals. Howard Clarke, Ernest Sloggett and J. H. Stotts were elected for five year terms as members of the Session. W. A. Kingston was the only new member elected to the Board of Stewards with W. F. Scott, John Gay, G. W. Hammond and R. A. Connor all re-elected. T. E. Hall and A. J. Armour were appointed auditors and the names of C. L. Horseman, Walter Henson, H. Clarke, M. S. Mowatt, A. J. Armour and P. B. Nelson were added to the Board of Trustees.

A vote of appreciation for the loyal co-operation of the Women's Association for their untiring work during the past year was unanimously endorsed as were votes of thanks to Mr. Ed. Bates as church officer and to the choir for their fine contribution to the services.

C. W. Palliser and W. H. Ashton brought in a resolution of thanks for the splendid service rendered by the minister during his term here since last August.

At the close a dainty lunch was served by the ladies.

HASTINGS, Feb. 1. — (ENS). — English girls are good looking and they enjoy keeping company with soldiers from Canada now in training at Aldershot, England. Such is the good fortune of the lads overseas, according to Private Vernon Phillips of Hastings, who is with the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment. His second letter, dated January 14 arrived, in Hastings this week addressed to his sister Marion. His letter reads:

"I had lots of fun in London on leave and visited all the notable places. I also took in a few good shows. We met many nice people in London and went to a few dances. They certainly dance differently over here. They all dance to slow numbers that are old in Canada. Only one out of a great number of girls can jitter-bug and they don't want to do it. The orchestras are good but they play numbers that are old to us. The girls are all good to look at and they like to go with a Canadian. They even come up and ask us to dance with them. Nearly all the girls have nice auburn or red hair. About half of them are enlisted for war service so they seem like soldiers.

Here at Aldershot we go dancing three nights weekly and go roller-skating the other nights. This form of entertainment is a great sport over here and nearly all the girls and boy go in for it. Even we are getting pretty good at it. They have nice bands at the rinks which adds to the enjoyment.

We have been playing softball. Our team is pretty good and hasn't been defeated yet. We also play football but not many of the lads like it very well.

The weather is very foggy and some days it's quite cold and damp. In very foggy weather, it's hard to see much farther than arm's length. We seldom see the sun shine.

Blackouts Are Awful.

Everyone here is well and having a good time. The food is good and I'm gaining in weight. I was weighed the other day and tipped the scales at one hundred and fifty pounds. I'm going ice skating this week but I'll have to borrow skates from an English lad as figure skates are all you can rent at the rinks.

The blackouts are awful here and all the stores close up at six o'clock but we are gradually getting used to it. We are getting used to the money also and no one can cheat us now. Everything seems to be more expensive here but I manage to keep in money as we receive only part of our wages and the balance is kept in reserve for us until we go on leave.

The people are very friendly and try to make us feel at home, but somehow we all find it different. The talk is different but the girls here tell us they like to hear us speak and sometimes we can not even understand them."

Child's Hospital Death Is Probed

EDMONTON, Feb 1—(CP). — A police report last night on the death of Kenneth Squire Curtis, 14-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Curtis, indicated the child died Saturday in hospital here after he climbed over the edge of his crib and became suspended by the harness used for infant patients.

The leather harness held the child by the chest and "on account of the child's weight this probably would cause sufficient pressure to constrict his breathing," the report stated.

"The back part of the strap was pressing on the back of the child's head, his head then being thrown forward, pressing his chin down, so that in a few minutes he might suffocate."

The idea of the harness, police said, is to allow the child to move around but to prevent it from climbing near the edge of the crib. "In this instance the harness was fastened as usual but in some manner the child climbed over the edge of the crib," said the report.

Kenneth was admitted to hospital Friday, suffering from a severe cold and pneumonia complications were feared, the report said.

An inquest will be held Friday.

Isaac Elliott Is Laid To Rest

SELWYN, Feb. 1 (ENS)—One of the largest funerals ever seen in this district was that of Isaac Elliott, held on Tuesday afternoon at two p.m. from the home of his son, Clarence Elliott, Lot 22, Concession 11, Smith. The late Mr. Elliott was loved and respected by all who knew him, and even though he had greatly outlived man's allotted number of years his death came as a shock and he will be mourned by all.

Had he lived until March 10th he would have reached his eighty-seventh milestone.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Smith Elliott and resided all his life in Smith Township. On December 13th, 1876, he married Julia Ann Middleton (who predeceased him on June 24th, 1931) and came to live on the farm where his son, William Elliott, now resides.

From there they moved to the farm where he lived until his sale last August, when he went to reside with his son Clarence. From then until the time of his death he had been very active, assisting with the chores almost every day and making the occasional trip by himself, in his horse and cutter to Lakefield.

He was a staunch Methodist all his life and attended Selwyn United Church whenever he was able.

The Indians from Curve Lake, all of which considered Mr. Elliott a fine man and a good friend, were sorry to hear of his passing, and Chief Dan Whetung expressed the regrets of many that they were unable to attend the funeral, owing to there being another funeral at Curve Lake the same day.

The deceased was one of a family of nine, all of which have pre-deceased him except one sister, Annie (Mrs. Fred Dobson of Peterborough) who is also exceptionally active and well for her age. He was the father of eight children, five girls and three boys (Annie) Mrs. Fred McConkey (Esther) Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald, (Laura) Mrs. Howard Sanderson, all of Smith, and Miss Emma Elliott of Peterborough and Alex, William and Clarence, all of Smith.

The funeral service both at the house and at the graveside was conducted by Rev. J. R. Trumpour of Bridgenorth.

There were a number of beautiful floral tributes from the family and a few close friends. The pall-bearers were: Melville Elliott, Allan McConkey, Orville Elliott, Russell Elliott and Clayton Fitzgerald, all of whom are grandsons of the deceased, and Fred Dobson of Peterborough, a nephew.

The funeral cortege left the house at approximately 2.45 p.m. and journeyed to Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough, where the remains were laid in their last resting place.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Reports from the Finnish war bring three rather definite indications that Finland's weakness in air power is being corrected to some extent as Russian aircraft range over Finland dropping bombs by the thousand without discrimination as to objective.

From Bergen, Norway, the arrival of 11 United States-made pursuit planes, destined for Finland, has been reported. The Finnish air force has attacked a Russian harbor, Russian motor lorry columns and Russian railway stations. Out of an estimated 200 Russian planes which raided Finland in a single day 20 were shot down.

Air power assumes increasing importance in the Finnish war as spring approaches. Military experts are more or less agreed the country is unsuitable for large-scale land operations except in winter when the lakes, marshes and rivers are frozen.

If the Russians are stopped on land in the winter they may be unable to continue a land offensive later when the lack of roads will tell against them. There will be nothing to stop them from carrying on the warfare from the air the year round except a growing Finnish air force.

The Italian planes and pilots sent to Finland early in the war are reported to be giving a good account of themselves and if the Finns have pilots to fly the United States planes now on their way they should be a welcome addition.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — ((AP). —The late Senator William Borah of Idaho left to his widow an estate of approximately $200,000, almost all of it in Government bonds. The will was written by hand on paper from a Senate tablet. It left "everything I have to my beloved Mary."

PARIS, Feb. 1. — (AP). — The Pasteur Institute of Paris has organized a 100-bed hospital which is leaving soon for Finland with a number of ambulances, it was announced to-day.

Anglican Guild Plans Two Euchre Parties

APSLEY, Feb. 1—(ENS). — The ladies of the St. George's Anglican Guild held their semi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Chesel McColl on Thursday evening with an attendance of 12 members. Mrs J. Downing, president, presided.

The card party held the Tuesday before proving a decided success, it was decided to hold two more before Lent, the next one at Mrs. Stanley Windsor's on Tuesday and one later at Mrs. H. McColl's, on the following Tuesday. Several articles of knitting for the soldiers were turned in, including socks, sweaters, and cuffs. Most of the ladies brought knitting to do while at the meeting. It was decided to buy two pails for the kitchen of the Parish Hall.

Mrs. Downing, in a few words, thanked the members for their hearty co-operation in the past year, and hoped that the Guild would have another as successful. The meeting closed with the blessing.

The hostess and helpers served lunch, and a social time was enjoyed.

The nurse, Miss Ferguson, reported the dishes which had been ordered had arrived and the dining-room had been freshly painted. Several other improvements were discussed and the meeting adjourned. Lunch was served by the nurse.

League Of Mercy Group Brings Cheer To Many

Mrs. J. Tyndall, wife of Lt.-Col. Tyndall of Toronto, and League of Mercy secretary for Canada, was guest speaker on Tuesday afternoon at the annual meeting of the local branch of the League, which has been active in the city for the past 35 years. She related a number of interesting incidents in connection with the work of groups in various parts of Canada during the course of her address.

Composed of a number of Salvation Army women (in Peterborough there are over thirty League members), this group works quietly and efficiently throughout the year, bringing cheerfulness and new interest into the lives of the sick and afflicted. Each day some of the members visit hospitals and institutions. When patients are unable to write their own letters, these women gladly act as secretaries, and always they are on the alert to see the need for bodily comforts, providing magazines, bed pillows, fruit, etc., when necessary.

The annual yearly report, presented yesterday by Mrs. J. Smith, gives some indication of the work carried on in Peterborough by this worthwhile group. The number of meetings held during the year were 39; visits made, 3,003; number of people with whom prayers were said, 2,487; number of people for whom comforts were supplied, 174; letters written for hospital patients, 25. There were 2,975 Salvation Army periodicals given away, and four converts during the year.

Between 80 and 90 attended the annual dinner in the Salvation Army Temple which followed the afternoon meeting, at which a splendid Bible address was given by Mrs. Tyndall, Mrs. (Brigadier) F. J. Riches of Toronto was chairman, and was introduced by Adjutant N. Buckley.

Mrs. J. Custance and Mrs. M. Shadgett were soloists during the evening, and music was provided by the Temple Band under the direction of Gerald Routley.

Her corsage was of Calla lilies, and she carried a white prayer book. Miss Hilda Sullivan attended the bride, wearing an ensemble of turquoise blue, and carrying yellow roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Harold O'Toole, and the ushers were Mr. John H. Gainey and Mr. Harry M. Gainey, brothers of the bride.

Later Mr. and Mrs. O'Toole left by motor for points east, the bride wearing a travelling frock in a Chinese tea shade with matching accessories, and seal coat and hat. They will reside in Ashburnham.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Theatres Are Commended For Their Action On Sunday Midnight Shows

A note of assurance and triumph opened the January W.C.T.U. meeting when all joined heartily in singing "Some Glad Day." With the president, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, capably presiding and giving the "call to worship" her excellent program was a real challenge to every woman present.

Mrs. J. Fairbrother, 208 Dublin street, was hostess to the society and the large attendance of members, visitors and new members were welcomed by the president.

In the service of worship the scripture lesson was read by Mrs. H. E. Connolly, who chose the story of the rich young ruler from St. Matthew's gospel supplementing it with a beautiful poem by the same title. Prayer was offered by Mrs. J. H. Rowe.

In the business session many items of interest to Temperance workers were discussed and the appreciation of the local union voiced by the president to the manager of the Capitol theatre for the presentation of the splendid temperance picture on "Drunken Driving" with its timely lesson. Commendation was also expressed to the theatres for the closing of the midnight shows.

Temperance education both in Day Schools and Sunday Schools was discussed, emphasizing new methods of presentation and a new medal contest. Superintendent is to be appointed.

Representing the Local Council of Women, Mrs. A. J. Brown read a letter from Alderman Hon. G. N. Gordon, with reference to the wine shops and a committee of three, including Mrs. J. H. Rowe, Mrs. Mrs. Coleman Elliott and Mrs. H. T. Rehill were appointed to interview Mr. Gordon and to secure information regarding the harm done by the wine shops.

The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. A. J. Throop and Frances Willard, Memorial Day was announced for February 17th.

A delightful variation in program was the Sacred solo "Come Unto Me" sung in sweet voice by Mrs. W. L. Hepburn. "Waste" was the appropriate theme of the Clip Sheet, with Mrs. Rehill leading an interested group assisting it was pointed out that the liquor traffic was a decided economic waste in the matter of space in shipping and transportation facilities, which ought to be devoted to national service. Above all, it is a waste of manpower at this critical time of national need."

The guest speaker, Mrs. R. D. Wright of Gilmour Memorial church brought a splendid message with a personal import for each of her colleagues in the termperance cause.

Based upon the words of Francis Willard, the founder of the movement, "Enter every open door", this fine address was a real preparation for the observance of the Memorial Day next month. Besides, giving a vivid word picture of this consecrated woman's life, Mrs. Wright enumerated various doors of service, such as prayer, the press, the outstretched hand, through which all might enter.

Francis Willard's life shows the power of a woman's influence when her life is consecrated to such a cause. It is also the evidence of the power of "a mother's prayer."

A sincere vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Wright for a message which will linger long in the memory of those who heard, and to Mrs. Hepburn for her lovely solo and to Mrs. E. W. Glover, who accompanied, as well as to the hostess, Mrs. Fairbrother, by Mrs. Connolly. Four new members were enrolled by the treasurer.

FASHIONS

Your at home clothes, your house frocks, are just as important as your dress up clothes. Here is a pattern that is smart in either version. The button-front princess style slims your figure. For everyday a convertible neckline is comfortable and efficient looking. Bright cotton print with snowy white collar, cuffs and pocket bands is cheery to wear now and gay for later on. Now is the time to make your house frocks, as they are so important in a woman's wardrobe. Princess lines are smart for spring and this same design made in navy or the new dark green crepe will be a lovely first street dress.

Style No. 3139 is designed for sizes 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39-inch material with 1 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

by helping nature build up your cold-fighting resistance

If you suffer one cold right after another, here's sensational news! Mrs. Elizabeth Vickery writes: "I used to catch colds very easily. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery helped to strengthen me just splendidly. I ate better, had more stamina, and was troubled very little with colds."

This great medicine, formulated by a practicing physician, helps combat colds this way: (1) It stimulates the appetite. (2) It promotes flow of gastric juices. Thus you eat more; your digestion improves; your body gets greater nourishment which helps nature build up your cold-fighting resistance.

Successful has Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery been that over 30,000,000 bottles have already been used. Proof of its remarkable benefits. Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from your druggist today. Don't suffer unnecessarily from colds.

DOROTHY DIX

The Reason Most Girls Go Out To Night Clubs Or Spend Their Time In Cars Parked Along The Road Is Because They Have No Place In Home To Entertain Boys.

I HAVE always contended that the reason there are so many more old maids now than there used to be, and why so many sleepless mothers toss on their beds asking themselves "where is my wandering girl tonight," is because of modern architecture whose chief objective seems to be to jam pack as many people as possible in the smallest amount of space, and to permit no one to have as much privacy as the traditional goldfish in a glass bowl.

Of course, when we select our homes we do not make a moral issue of the matter. We buy or rent an apartment because we like the decorations or there is some new gadget in the kitchen or because it is a good address, and we even fall for the agent's glib talk about its being so small and cozy, or that the whole place virtually opens up together.

We entirely overlook the fact that the human soul is a lonely thing that must be able to withdraw itself from human contact at times, or else perish; that we cannot even be with our best beloved continually without their getting on our nerves. Nor can there be any doubt that the reason there is so much bickering and quarreling and domestic discord is because families are herded so closely together that they step on each other's toes, and that starts them biting and kicking. Nor can there be any question that the little kitchenette apartments are first aids to divorce.

Many reasons are given for the decline and fall off in marriage, as Mr. Wegg would say, but the principal cause of it is that in most modern homes there is no place where a man can do his courting, and still less to pop the question, without the whole family participating in the romance. And not many men are sure enough of their technique as great lovers to crave an audience.

It was different in the good old days when every house had its parlor with good, solid, soundproof doors. Then Percy could tell Angelina how beautiful and wonderful she was and how he had loved her from the first day he ever saw her, and so on and so on, and he could put his heart in the job. But the thing is impossible when all the place Angelina has to receive her dates is a little alcove that is part of the living room, with Grandma sitting around knitting, Papa reading his paper, Mother doing a crossword puzzle and little brother running in and out. Many a match misses fire because it is dampened out by its soggy surroundings.

Worse still the lack of some privacy in the home and a suitable place in which boys and girls can foregather, without having the critical eyes of their elders upon them and being made self-conscious when they talk nonsense instead of discussing the war or international politics, is responsible for much of the wildness of modern youth, and especially for its spending its evenings in night clubs and cabarets and in petting parties on dark roads.

A young girl writes me the following letter concerning this. She says:

"Going out to dine and dance is certainly a drain on a boy's finances. Also it is boring to go to a place where the smoke is so thick that it is almost impossible to see; where the jitterbugs take possession of the dance floor and make life uncertain for everybody else, and where the noise is enough to shatter the nerves of a Stone Age man. Neither are there enough good movies to warrant sitting through one every time a girl has a date. Nor do most girls wish to park and pet.

"But we young people are driven to these things because it is impossible to have parlor dates when you haven't a parlor. The great majority of girls live in modern homes—compact and convenient. Compact, and how! Convenient, maybe for Mother, but not for daughter. I know, because I live in just such a house, and when I have a parlor date I have to shoo the family back to the breakfast nook or off to bed, in which case the radio is sure to keep them awake.

"But what family wants to sit in the breakfast room, or go to bed at 8 o'clock? Not mine, nor many other families just for the sake of daughter having a beau.

"There are few families who realise the importance of a place in the home for daughter to have her dates or the tremendously important role they must play for her to be popular. This negligence on the part of parents accounts for the number of cars parked on dark, lonely roads. It is the fault of our elders, and they can do something to remedy the wrongs that do exist if they will do something besides throw up their hands in horror.

Parlor dates are preferable to the running-around dates and they will again find favor with the girls if they know that every word they say to their dates will not be thrown back in their faces at the breakfast table."

And, fathers and mothers, this girl is dead right. If you want to keep your girl at home of evenings, give her a break. Give her a room in which she can entertain the boy friend without the whole family lending an ear.

Just Desserts

By MARY MOORE

Another batch of recipes that has been accumulating for a week or so was handy to me when we had several different groups of guests for dinners all within about eight days.

You might find them useful for the same reason.

Delicate Dessert

Line a ring or cantaloupe or pyramid mould with Split lady fingers or small store sponge cake:

Filling: Boil 1 cup water and ½ cup sugar 20 minutes. Soak 1 teaspoon gelatine in water to cover 5 minutes. Add gelatin to boiling syrup together with 1 tablespoon lemon juice and strain. Then add juice and pulp of 1 large orange and chill until mixture commence to thicken. Then beat until light. Add 1 cup cream whipped, and ¼ pound cut up marshmallows. Mix well. Pour about 1-3 of this mix into the lined mould then sprinkle over it a few cake or lady finger crumbs then add more continuing with crumbs and cream mix until all is used. Put wax paper over bowl and put in ice box to chill for about 4 hours or overnight.

Meringue Fruit Whip

Two cups prepared strained fruit such as applesauce, crushed pineapple (unstrained), apricots, or peaches, ½ cup jelly or jam, 3 eggs, beaten separately, 4 tablespoons powdered sugar, ½ to 2-3 cup blanched almonds, 20 drops almond flavoring (¼ teaspoon), 1 to 2 cups whipped cream.

Mix the fruit with the jelly or jam, spread on bottom of greased baking dish. Beat yolks with 9 tablespoons of the sugar; fold in white and flavoring, spread over fruit, dust with remaining sugar. Bake in slow oven until delicate brown—about 30 minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

Cocoanut and Rice Velvet Cream

One cup hot cooked rice, 1 tablespoon gelatin, 3 tablespoons cold water, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon flavoring, 1 cup cream whipped, 1 cup shredded cocoanut. The rice should be cooked in milk until tender. Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes, add to hot rice (which must be drained dry), add sugar, salt and flavoring, beat 1 minute, let cool. When cold fold in cocoanut and whipped cream, pour into mould (rinsed out with cold water). Chill. Serve very cold with with any good fruit sauce—lemon syrup, strained stewed apricots, hot chocolate sauce—any of these are good with this lovely rice dessert. Do not serve it when you are serving potatoes with the main course.

Write to me if there are fruit desserts you would like to have—remember the cookery page exists for you.

We Noticed

....In spite of the well-known-feminine aversion for snakes, girls are greeting with enthusiasm the new reptile leather footwear for spring, and snakes, tiny and large, are taking on more importance for shoe trimmings than they have in some seasons.

....Snakes combine with patent and with calf for spring fashions and the names mentioned most often are tiger snake, mountain snake and ermine snake.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER THIRTY

WHAT HAPPENED after that night when Nicky came to Ellen's apartment to take her to dinner and found Fabienne believing that he had come seeking her, might have been called a comedy of errors.

It would never have happened if Fabienne and Ellen had not fenced so delicately in the old, gallant game of protecting each other from knowledge that each believed would cause the other pain.

"Not for anything in the world would I permit myself to be remotely interested in your man," they might have said to each other. Except that they never said anything about either Nicky or Bill, unless it were some perfunctory thing like, 'If Bill comes to the house to take me home, Fab, will you tell him that I had to go up to Twenty-second street for a special meeting?" Or "Ellen, I expect Nicky will be around a little later. I forgot to tell him that I have a rehearsal. I won't be through until late. Maybe you two can go to a movie or something.

Ellen and Fab, Nicky and Bill. The lives of the four of them seemed to be closely knit, those days. All the other beaux that Fabienne had mentioned the night she came back to live at Ellen's apartment were mysteriously eliminated from the lists.

It seemed natural that Nicky would be at the apartment as often as Bill, now that Nicky had decided he was bored with Maryland and had moved into a small paartment of his own.

Fabienne was rather proud of Nicky, and encouraged his coming to the Twelfth street apartment frequently. Nicky was doing very little drinking and he was learning to cook, doing up little dinners for himself and Fabienne, and Ellen and Bill, of course. They were gems. The apartment was very gay those long winter evenings.

Fabienne was glad to have Nicky there. It made her feel freer in the presence of Ellen and Bill. Also her days were long and dull. Ellen would not permit her to return to the settlement house to work during the days, saying that her three evening dramatic classes were enough for a convalescent.

The little theatre on the third floor was finished, complete to the last detail. Every winking bulb was in place in the row of footlights. Rose Riccio was president of the dramatic league. Three evenings a week Fabienne met her group from six to nine and left with a radio to dance until midnight, if they liked.

One night old Andrew Hardy came to the settlement house to watch Fabienne work and, when it was over, he held her young hand in his dry old one and said, "You're a fine young woman, Fabienne. Your grandfather would be proud of you. The work you're doing deserves a fine reward."

("Fab, if Bill comes to take me home, tell him I had to leave for a meeting up town.") Bil lstood by, looking much prouder of Fabienne than he should.

She explained to him, "Mr. Hardy is just prejudiced because he's on old friend."

"I'm not such an old friend," Bill told her, fastening the zipper of her galoshes. "I'm not a bit prejudiced and I think the work you're doing is pretty fine. What are you going to do about it?"

"Disillusion you," she said promptly.

"It would take a lifetime to do that," he said, looking up at her from where he sat at her feet. His eyes were twinkling at her and an expression of waiting for a response was written on his features.

It didn't seem possible that Fabienne wouldn't understand his meaning. But obviously Fabienne didn't. She took her foot away and said brightly, "Time to go, Bill. We might pick up Ellen at her meeting."

"It's after ten, and I ordered you to bed at ten. I'll take you home. Ellen will get home all right."

"Now, she said later, "if it were Ellen who'd brought off this theatre project there'd be some truth to the noble purpose. Ellen was born noble and unselfish. But not little Fab. Ellen does things for other people because she's naturally a giver. You have no idea, Bill, what that girl has done in one very short lifetime!

"You know, when we found out that grandfather had left Willoughby house to charity, with the understanding that Ellen was to be the works, I had some very queer ideas about her. None of them admiring. Now I've eaten all my own words."

"I've never told you about Ellen and me," Bill said.

Fabienne's heart did a loop into her throat and zoomed back. Sooner or later, she knew she was going to have to hear something like this, but she had hoped to be prepared for it as she was not now.

"Do you—you want to tell me?"

"I do. Maybe you can help me."

"Oh, Bill," she said, "I know how much Ellen thinks of you. She isn't the kind who talks very much about the things that are closest to her, but when I first knew her and she talked about you—"

Bill looked at her with a funny expression. "Sure," he said, interrupting the flow of her words. "I guess Ellen does like me. If she doesn't, she's put up a fine show. We've known each other since we were in high school. I took her to her first dance—and had to take her home on a trolley car."

"I'll bet she loved it," Fabienne said staunchly.

"She said she did. But was I ashamed! Her father was the town's leading doctor, a rich man in small town terms. But most of his wealth was in friendship. The whole town revered him. Well, to make a long story short, David Chapman was my hero. He was the man who made me want to become a physician."

This was something Fabienne didn't know. She listened with avid interest.

"Ellen went to college and I went to college—to the same state university. Then it came time for me to go to medical school. Some insurance money I hoped to use for something else. Meanwhile Dr. Chapman had died. Then Ellen stepped in and offered to lend me the money her father left her."

"Did you take it?"

"Yes," he said. "I've paid it back, but I can never pay back what I owe to Ellen. I said she was an angel and that will go forever. I just wanted you to know."

Sick with wondering if he knew how much she cared for him, she said very low, "I'm glad you told me, Bill. I knew that you cared a lot for Ellen. You should!"

"Sometimes people get mixed up about these things," he said, relieved now that he'd made everything clear.

"They certainly do," she said in the same low voice. Then commanding a little more heartiness, "But people who know the two of you wouldn't."

"That's good, I particularly wanted you to, because—"

"Yes?" she said, smiling broadly, a nice, sisterly smile.

"Well, I'm around Ellen's a most of the time. I guess maybe now you've got some idea why I am?"

"Oh, of course," she agreed.

"Of course I know I've got a very slim chance, but I'm willing to take that chance," he told her, capturing her arm in his.

Fabienne couldn't say anything. It was too much to ask of her to assure him that Ellen would undoubtedly be his for the asking.

Reviewing that conversation, Bill didn't know whether he was unhappy or happy over its results. Fabienne had said she understood his attachment to Ellen, and his reason for coming around so frequently, but she certainly hadn't encouraged him when he said he was willing to take a chance on winning her.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

MANY KINDS OF THRILLS

THERE IS hardly any limit to the number of different kinds of thrills which bridge can furnish. They can come from clever bidding, from the executing of a nice squeeze or lead-throwing end play, from a skillful defense, from shrewd deception which lures an opponent into a vital mistake, from successful completion of a slam contract and many other developments. Some of them come under the heading of feats which upon partial description appear impossible, until the full evidence is in.

West started the activity on this deal with 1-Heart, then subsided as his opponents took the initiative into their own hands. North overcalled with 2-Clubs, South bid 2-Diamonds, North 3-Clubs and then South 3-Spades, which North raised to 4-Spades.

After West led the diamond A and the dummy hand was spread, the declarer, William B. Hill, Jr., made a brief study, then emitted an exclamation of glee. Imagine making a grand slam with two aces out against you, when you seemed to have two certain losers in the defenders' heart suit! That is exactly what he saw, and he proceeded to make the vision come true.

Of course the diamond A was ruffed, then two clubs furnished heart discards from the closed hand. The spade Q and A were taken, also the diamond K, then a diamond ruffed. South was reentered with a heart ruff, the spade K cashed, and diamonds completed the run of thirteen consecutive tricks.

Egypt Brushes Up On War Technique

Canadian R.A.F. Fliers Watch Atlantic Coast Carefully

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Feb. 1—(CP). — Keeping a close watch on the movements of shipping and aircraft is one of the main jobs of the eastern air command, the eyes of Canada's Atlantic defence.

Planes are aloft at all hours, watching shipping between the Strait of Belle Isle and the Bay of Fundy. Information they obtain is relayed to the control room of the air command, nerve centre of the whole defence system.

Location of the room is a secret, but a word from there can start air raid alarms whining, blot out street lights and swing anti-aircraft batteries into operation.

Every ship withinthat area is indicated on the map with a marker and pointed showing its course. From information provided by naval authorities and patrol planes the ship's exact position on the map is checked every 20 minutes. Royal Canadian Air Force officers told a group of newspapermen who visited the room that sometimes the chart is almost black with the little markers.

Planes ranging up and down the coast and as far as 300 or 400 miles at sea watch every ship. Often they swoop down to ask by blinker signal the name and nationality of the ship. This information, with a description of the craft, is furnished naval authorities.

Enemy as Neutral

Air Force officers explained there is danger an enemy vessel may be travelling under the guise of a neutral. If such is found to be the case, after a check of naval records, either the navy or the air defence "deals with it."

Some aircraft sent up by the Air Command have a solely protective task. They carry out anti-submarine patrols and convoy ships past dangerous waters. They communicate with their base by Radio. Teletype and telephone systems convey the messages to the control room.

Control of civil aviation is also vested in the command of this eastern division of the R.C.A.F. Since much of the region is classified as a restricted area, no civil plane may fly over it without permission from the Air Command. Even R.C.A.F. planes are forbidden to fly over what are known as "dangerous" areas.

Air raid precaution squads in the area receive their cue from the control room. A second map in the control centre is divided into squares, each marking the location of a ground observer whose duty it is to inform headquarters of the movements of planes.

Lines Kept Clear

Other telephone calls are shunted to one side to allow the ground observer a clear line through to the control, for he may be reporting the approach of enemy bombing planes. When several observers report, airmen check their locations from the map to determine the speed and direction of the aircraft. Similar precautions are taken to detect the approach of planes by sea, but air force officers did not disclose what these were.

Airmen who brave the hazards of the North Atlantic climate must know how the weather is going to turn out. To supply them with the most accurate weather information, the air force works hand in hand with the Department of Transport.

To show the importance of accurate meteorological information, an air force officer told of an incident that happened several weeks ago. The weather changed more quickly than experts had predicted. A snowstorm moved in, blotting out the air base while plane were patrolling far at sea.

"It Was The Only Thing That Helped Me," Says Local Lady

Was Worried About Her Health As Rheumatic Condition Followed Stomach Misery. Could Hardly Get Up and Down Stairs.

Also Praises Syntona For First Relief From Itching, Burning Eczema as General Health Improved.

MRS. JEAN COMPTON

Almost every day you can read in the papers about how local folks have been relieved of ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels and the long train of distressing symptoms of faulty assimilation and elimination, by taking a treatment of Syntona Herbal Tonic. Here, for example, is the interesting experience of Mrs. Jean Compton:

"I was feeling rundown and miserable in so many ways that I was greatly worried about my health. My stomach started to give me trouble some years ago, and then pains set into my limbs and back and my joints got so stiff and sore I could hardly get up and down stairs. My skin would itch and burn with eczema and it became very discouraging trying one remedy after another with little or no results.

"I don't know why I started taking Syntona when I did, because I was disappointed so many times, but I guess it was because I had read in the paper about how it had helped so many people right here whom I knew. Anyhow, I am surely glad I took Syntona, for it just seemed to go to the very root of my troubles. Now I have no trouble at all with stomach gas or indigestion. The rheumatic pains have left me and that terrible skin trouble has all cleared up. It has been such a wonderful relief to me that I feel I can't praise Syntona highly enough."

All who suffer are cordially invited to come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out for themselves all about this grand herbal compound that is helping so many people.—(Advt.).

Warsaw Church Reports Progress During Annual Review Of Year

WARSAW, Feb. 1 (ENS).—A fair attendance of the village members attended the United Church annual meeting in the Sunday School room last Wednesday evening. After the opening devotions, reports of the church itself and various organizations were read. The Sunday School under Superintendent Ivan Drain, held every Sunday morning, showed a good year.

Death has removed some valued members. The congregation's finances are in good condition, with a small surplus. The W.M.S. report also showed a balance over the allocation. The Women's Association has aided in raising finances and in decorating the church.

The organ, which was procured from the Norwood church twenty-one years ago, has played out. It was decided to procure a piano instead of an organ, as it it easier to find one who can play a piano. The W.A. will shortly hold an oyster supper to start the finances for the instrument.

Mr. Wilkinson, the pastor, with three other charges, Bethel, Zion, and Carmel, comes to Warsaw for the evening service. He is the only resident clergyman in Dummer, consequently his work is very heavy, especially as he has many funerals outside his own charges. He has been here ten years, and accepted the invitation to remain. Mrs. Wilkinson, too, has endeared herself to the people. Even with her four children she always has time to welcome callers and to visit when possible.

RUSSIANS RAIN PATROLS BEHIND FINN LINES

New War Wrinkles Fail To Crack Karelian Isthmus

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Russian planes were reported by the Finnish high command today to have dropped "many" patrols by parachute over Finnish soil but defence troops captured or killed the invaders.

The new danger from the skies—introduced before by the Russians but always, the Finns say, without success — came on the Karelian Isthmus where the Russians also showed another wrinkle of modern warfare in the use of tank-pushed armored sledges.

After a battle on the isthmus the high command said "the enemy was repulsed." The communique, covering yesterday's fighting, also reported the Russians beaten back after attacks against Finnish-held islands in Lake Ladoga, northeast of the isthmus front.

In its announcement of the attempt to hurdle Finnish defences with troops from the air, the high command said:

For the first time, inhabitants of Helsingfors were roused from their beds by a night air alarm when the sirens sent them to shelter five minutes after midnight today. No planes

Berlin Insists Nation Adjust Industry In Line With Germany

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 2 (AP)—German pressure on Rumania to obtain acceptance of a sweeping plan to make her industries, petroleum production and agricultural adjuncts of the Reich's economic structure was reported by informed persons today as the meeting of the Balkan Entente opened here.

Rumania, the informants said, already has made some concessions to Germany regarding the plan but is looking to her partners in the Entente—Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia—to support her in a policy of economic neutrality which would enable her to resist encroachments which might involve her in war.

Under this policy, proposed after it was decided it was futile for Rumania to ask the other members of the Entente for a military alliance, the four nations would sell supplies both to Germany and the Allies but only to the extent of normal, peacetime trade.

Under Germany's program, it was said, Rumanian industry would be synchronized with that of the Reich and become virtually a part of Field Marshall Hermann Goering's four-year plan for self-sufficiency.

Police today continued their investigation into the shotgun slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman, whose bodies were found on their farm home in Rawdon township near Harold by a mail carrier. Mr. Wellman, 77, is seen at TOP LEFT INSET; Mrs. Wellman, 73, is at TOP RIGHT INSET. Their cozy home which the murderer plundered, is seen at TOP. Footprints in the snow leading to the barn, together with sleigh tracks, were the strongest clues police had to work on. At LOWER LEFT, Beverley Rose of Peterborough points to the footprints. The barn in which Mr. Wellman was murdered is seen at LOWER RIGHT. The murderer entered the building through the door closest to the camera.

One Horse Is Light The Other Heavy, Robbery Said Motive

HAROLD, Ont., Feb. 2.—(CP)—Police said today that the slayer of Arnold Wellman, 77, and his wife, Nancy, 75, did not use a shotgun belonging to Wellman when the aged couple were killed Wednesday. The theory was discarded when Dr. A. L. Wellman of Waterloo, Ont., found his father's shotgun behind a cupboard.

"The gun was covered with dust," Dr. Wellman said. "It looked as if it hadn't been used for years."

Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Wellman, the heads partially blown off, were found ysterday by a postman who investigated when he failed to receive his usual greeting. Police are searching for a man with a horse and cutter who was seen in the vicinity of the Wellman farmhouse, 23 miles north of Belleville, at about the time police said the slaying occurred.

The bodies were taken to a Stirling village undertaking establishment today after they were released for burial following examination by Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Ontario Attorney-General's department.

Footmarks In Snow Lead To Belief Slayer No Stranger

By JACK PETERSON
(Examiner Staff Reporter)

HAROLD, Feb. 2.—He tied his team of horses to a fence post half a mile from the tiny farm house and started on foot in a diagonal line across the field, murder in his mind.

Half way across the field, as he neared a little hardwood bush that belonged to his intended victims, he heard the sound of two woodcutters, Charlie Dunham and his son, Jack, at work. He halted, then turned back on his tracks because this was one place he didn't want anyone to remember having seen him. He stopped in time, too, because neither Charlie nor his son recognized him, although they saw him coming toward them. They didn't see a gun, though.

Returned To Get Team

So he went back to his team, untied them, climbed aboard the sleigh and turned back to the south along the sideroad along which he had just come. He skirted around a concession and approached the farm from the opposite direction to miss the wood cutters. He came on foot across the fields from the direc-

Smuts Wins Vote In Senate On War Policy

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 2.—(CP)—Faced with a newly-united opposition that apparently is determined to fight the government at every turn on the question of war and peace, Prime Minister Jan Smuts has won another round in the bitter political battle that has raged in South Africa since it entered the war last September 4.

General Smuts' latest victory against the combined forces of General J. B. M. Hertzog, his predecessor in office, and the Nationalist extremist, Dr. D. F. Malan, was recorded in the senate last night when it approved 21 to 13 a motion confirming the government's war policy.

An amendment, proposed by A. P. J. Fourie, cabinet minister in General Hertzog's administration which was defeated last fall on the question of declaring war against Germany, was rejected by a similar margin.

It called for a separate peace with Nazi Germany. A similar resolution by General Hertzog in the House of Assembly was firmly rejected last Saturday by a vote of 81 to 59.

Both houses now have ratified the government's war policy, which brought General Smuts into power and placed General Hertzog on the

Milkman Given Four Years For Fatal Fight

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (CP). — Edward Patrick O'Hanlan, Toronto milkman convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of George Flude, a fellow-employee, was sentenced to-day to four years in Kingston Penitentiary by Mr. Justice W. D. Roach in Assize Court.

O'Hanlan, 28, was convicted on January 25 on a charge of manslaughter which a jury reduced from a charge of murder. The milkman told the jury he struck Flude three times with a heavy hammer during a struggle following a drinking bout last July 10.

Body of the 31-year-old Flude was unearthed by police in a garage behind a Toronto home last October 22, more than three months after the death. O'Hanlan admitted renting the garage and placing the body there. A rope was found about the corpse and O'Hanlan said he used it to drag the body into an automobile following the fight.

In a police statement, O'Hanlan said Flude accused him of attempting to steal Flude's milk route. He added that Flude struck at him with a hammer and that he took the tool from him and struck back.

"We find the accused man guilty of manslaughter under extreme provocation," the jury said in its verdict.

Aid. W. Stocker Refuses Board Of Health

"You don't need to consider Walter Stocker at all. I'm out, I'm through; I don't want anything more to do with it."

So ended Alderman Stocker's long service as a member of the Board of Health, at last night's meeting of the finance committee of the city council. His words were almost shouted. He was voluntarily retiring, but there was still a note of challenge in going.

The episode opened quietly enough toward the end of a long session of the committee when the chairman, Alderman Cotton, picked up a copy of a by-law to appoint the Board of Health for this year.

Alderman Gordon, presumably anticipating, a demand for change of personnel of the Board, quietly suggested that the members of last year, Alderman Stocker, Dutton and McCannan and Mayor Hamilton, carry on and finish "the job they have started". His other remarks were merely amplifying that theme.

Kaiser Proposes Allies, Nazis Go To Aid Finns

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 — (AP). — Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany has written his friend and biographer, Poultney Bigelow, that he believes that Germany, Great Britain and France should stop fighting each other and join Finland against Soviet Russia.

His letter, made public by Bigelow, was mailed Jan. 16 from Wilhelm's retreat at Doorn, Holland.

"The magnificent stand of the Finns has smashed the nimbus of Bolshevism and set people thinking—with the result that the wish for peace is gaining ground," he wrote.

"The belligerent should stop fighting and join their forces to help the Finns. They should fight in one line to rid the world and civilization of Bolshevism.

Plenty of Aid Needed.

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 2.—(AP).—Sir Walter Citrine, head of a British Labor delegation touring Finland, declared to-day that the Finns "will need plenty of help" to hold off the Russian invasion.

Action Livens Up On 125-Mile Rhine Frontier

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(CP-Havas).—Military observers noted today that the calm which reigned all along the Rhine front during the first months of the war has now given place to continuous, sometimes sharp, activity.

Thus yesterday saw an exchange of machine gun bursts and artillery fire on the "river front."

The greatest river of Western Europe, which for 125 miles forms the frontier between Germany and France, was prepared for river vessels at the end of the last century.

To this end the course of the river was regulated and confined between two lines of high dikes. In some places the width of the river was reduced to 80 yards. Elsewhere it is 100 yards wide.

Virtually all Rhine bridges were destroyed by the French engineering corps last October. Wreckage twisted by explosions barely emerges from the stream.

Approaches to the only remaining bridge, that of Kehl facing Strasbourg, are covered by real, though small, fortresses, and its surface can be swept by automatic weapons.

Stevens Backing National Cabinet Drive

TORONTO, Feb. 2—Smiling happily behind a cigar, Hon. H. H. Stevens, veteran stormy petrel of Canadian politics, answered reporters' questions today as he stopped here en route to the Pacific coast to open his campaign for Hon. R. J. Manion's national government proposal.

"How does it feel to be back in the Conservative party fold?" he was asked.

"I'd be less human if I didn't feel that the events of the last five years sho wthat much of the stand I have taken has been proven wise," he said.

"And will you have any individual platform, apart from the national government stand?"

"I'm perfectly satisfied with Dr. Manion's leadership. I have no fear of disagreeing with any stand he will take."

"Will Mr. Herridge also join?"

"I'd like to see Mr. Herridge in the party—or anyone else who could help to stir Canada to a more vigorous effort in winning the war."

New RAF Fighters Ready To Match Expected German Bomb Attacks

LONDON, Feb. 2 — (CP). — The Royal Air Force is prepared to reply in kind to any large scale German bombings which might come in the spring, authoritative sources asserted to-day.

Speedy, fighting planes with machine-guns in the tails to permit fire i nany direction were described as Great Britain's means of meeting the anticipated attack by a new German bomber built for speedy performance at high altitudes.

"There is evidence the Germans are pressing construction of fast, long range bombers," an aviation source said. He described the new type as a twin-motored Junkers bomber, JU-88, carrying a crew of three or four and three guns, one in the nose and two in the fuselage.

"With this weapon in his hands, it seems unlikely the enemy will capitulate without attempting a desperate aerial attack on Britain's vital targets," the source declared.

He said Germany probably would use the new bomber in "considerable numbers."

Kept in Reserve.

Experts expressd the belief that German thus far had not used the new Junkers.

In comparing the gun merits of the new German bombing plane and the new British pursuit ship, a two-seated called the Defiant, the informant said the fighter's tail gun was the advantage because the Junkers lack such a weapon.

The Defiant's tail-gun is in a turret similar to the power-driven turret on Britain's Wellington bombers. It is regarded as a great advance over the armament of the older fighters like the Spitfire, which has fixed guns.

Besides its tail-gun the Wellington Bomber has guns in the nose and midway between the wings and tail. Moreover, airmen said, it has twice the 1,300-mile range reported for the new Junkers, but possibly less speed than the Junkers' maximum of 315 miles an hour.

U.S. Writer Faces Trial By Japs

TOKYO, Feb. 2.—(CP-Havas). — Yachichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, revealed to-day that James Young, imprisoned International News Service correspondent, has been charged with violation of the army criminal code and will be tried, possibly by a military court.

The American newspaperman was arrested here on Jan. 20. The specific charges against him, Suma said, are that he sent from Shanghai and other points in China, articles and dispatches of an "extremely slanderous" nature regarding the Japanese forces in China and that following his return to Tokyo he spread similar reports and rumors harmful to Japan in private conversations.

Land Of Hunger, Executions As Germans Barbarously Torture, Exterminate Poles

PARIS, Feb. 2 — (AP). — The Polish Government in exile is piecing together a story of atrocities in the German-occupied portion of Poland which it says rival or surpass the most barbarous treatment of a conquered people in history.

In its series of "white papers," which are being issued periodically and are to be assembled in a book later, the Polish Government describes the land that Germany seized of one of hunger, stark fear, wrecked church and hospitals, and executions. It says deportations of the populace are conducted with methodical brutality.

A similar paper was issued last night by the Polish envoys to Italy and the Vatican.

Tales of atrocities and suffering also are reported from that portion of Poland which fell to Soviet Russia.

The Poles declare the papers contain only information which has been carefully investigated and verified, including an estimate that the Germans have executed 18,000 Poles of all classes.

At Bydoszcz alone, the papers say, 6,000 persons had been shot down by the close of 1939, three months after Germany conquered the country.

As an example, one paper says the Bydgoszcz mayor, a Mr. Barciszewski, "was ordered to clean the automobile of the Gestapo (German Secret Police) with his tongue. He protested and was odiously beaten up and later shot to death."

The paper adds that "shortly after the Germans took Bydgoszcz, 5,000 men, among them many priests, were shut up in the cavalry regiment stables in Gdanska Street. They were so packed that they had barely room to stand. They re-

Jap Member Throws House Into Turmoil Suggesting Army Be Taken From China

TOKYO, Feb. 2.—(AP).— The Lower House of Japan's Parliament was thrown into turmoil today when a member criticized the government's China policy and suggested that Japanese troops be withdrawn to make possible a negotiated peace.

Takao Saito, a leader of the Minseito, strongest of Japanese political parties, pointedly asked the government to explain the meaning of "the new order in East Asia"—the term used officially for the program of making China an economic and military dependency of Japan.

Saito is famous for his criticisms of the army and caused similar sensations in the 1935 and 1936 Diet sessions by attacking military domination of national policy.

Cries of "No! no!" greeted his assertion to-day that "peace can only be invited when a country

Mississippi Ice Ties Shipping

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2.—(AP).—Fear of unprecedented damage by shifting ice masses held shipping almost stationary to-day in the Lower Mississippi river after a brief breakup at Helena, Ark., ground wharves and small boats into kindling.

The Helena floe caused $15,000 damage in half an hour yesterday before the jam reformed.

A pile-up of ice at Friar Point, Miss., estimated at 15 to 21 miles long, held several boats in its grasp, while a crew of 20 men and four women paced the deck of the federal barge line towboat Illinois, locked in a huge 23-mile gorge near Carutheraville, Mo.

Manufacturers Predict New Levy Hard Blow To Purchasing Power

HAMILTON, Feb. 2—(CP).—Criticism of the Ontario Government's boost in the Provincial corporation taxes from two to five per cent. was expressed here today by heads of Hamilton's top-rank industries. It was believed that these taxes would merely add to the burdens of consumers as well as the manufacturers, and seriously affect the purchasing power of the people.

"The increase in the Ontario corporation tax legislation looks pretty stiff in view of the undoubted heavy Dominion taxation for the prosecution of the war," declared H. G. Hilton, vice-president of the Steel Company of Canada.

"My opinion," said C. W. Sherman, president of the Dominion Foundries and Steel Company, "is that it will be a heavy burden on industries that will have to be passed along to the consumer and I am fearful of the effects of too much taxation on the purchasing power of Canada.

"I am hopeful," he continued, "that the tax will be of a temporary nature. We understand that the government needs the money, but believe that the increases in taxation must soon be stopped."

"It will undoubtedly have to come out of the consumer," said J. J. McHardy, secretary-treasurer of the Mercury Mills. "The manufacturers cannot afford to absorb it. Any increased taxation must be reflected in the cost of finished goods. I think it is a wartime measure and believe that in view of the necessity for the furtherance of the war effort money must be found and somebody must pay. In other words, the people. The manufacturers are doing their part."

Balkan Entente Plans To Hold Exports Normal

BELGRADE, Feb. 2—(AP).—The representatives of the four Balkan entente partners, their interests increasingly divergent, gathered today to find a way to keep out of war.

A plan for "economic neutrality" under which Rumania, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia would sell supplies both to Germany and the Allies but only to the extent of normal, peacetime trade, was up first for discussion in the closed conference.

The plan appeared to be Rumania's substitute for her original request for military guarantees from her partners, to be invoked if necessary against either Germany or Russia. It seemed plain Rumania could not win such promises.

The plan to freeze Balkan exports to the belligerents at pre-war levels was supported by Rumania and Yugoslavia, according to reliable reports, as the best means of keeping the present battle of trade from turning into a battle of arms.

Turkey, bound to the Allies with mutual assistance treaties, and Greece, guaranteed against attack by the Allies, were understood to be less enthusiastic.

Rumania also has received pledges public opinion is concerned, and as I have heard it, you can't appoint Alderman Stocker to that Board again," His Worship said.

And that blunt assertion was greeted by Alderman Stocker's announcement that he was "through with the Board."

"I've spent more months in this business than any other member of the Board has spent hours," he declared. "This thing has all been arranged months ago. It's just coming out."

"I don't know where Alderman Stocker got the impression that there was any arrangement," Mayor Hamilton said in a denial of plan to oust last year's chairman.

Eventually the committee by a vote of 6-3 appointed Alderman Dutton, Alderman Ovens, and D. G. H. Melton of the Board of Education.

Hospital Trustees

In the discussion preceding the division, Alderman Gordon returned to this proposal that the old Board should be returned to office. He said that he had been at times critical of the Board, and his criticism has not always been constructive. The responsibility of the Board was highly important to the community, because its sphere was concerned with public health. The members were also the trustees of the Queen Mary Hospital which was at times partly closed. Certain changes had to be made in the Department, and Alderman Gordon said they should be handled by the Board which had begun them. For that reason he was prepared to support the reappointment of last year's members, Aldermen Stocker, Dutton and McCannan, with Mayor Hamilton.

Alderman McIntyre said he had been chairman of the Board ,and from that experience he knew that Alderman Stocker had been largely instrumental in reducing the cost of the Isolation Hospital from $10,000 a year to $4,000, a saving that was of real benefit to the ratepayers. "I believe that Alderman Stocker is taking the right course, but he had been a valuable man."

"I'm prepared to drop out," Alderman Dutton stated. "There is a situation there that has got to be cleaned up."

"You've only been going through the motions," Alderman Stocker commented, apparently referring to the collective members, and not to any one alone.

"I want to be left off," Alderman McCannan said. "I've had two years of it and that's enough for me. I have a letter here to that effect. Personally, I think it would be better for Alderman Stocker if he got out of the Board's work and gave all his time to the parks. It is work he loves and he has made a splendid job of it."

Alderman Wilson also added a friendly note of counsel. "There is no use in a man worrying about those things," he said. "You've done good work, Walter, but forget it."

Alderman Gordon moved, seconded by Alderman McIntyre that the Board of last year be reappointed, but when Alderman McCannan said he was definitedly out, Alderman Gordon proposed that he be replaced by Alderman Ovens.

Mayor Hamilton moved an amendment that the Board of Health for this year be composed of Aldermen Dutton and Ovens and David G. H. Melton. Mayor Hamilton is a member by effect of his office.

"I wonder how many months that's been arranged?" Alderman Stocker sharply remarked.

"That's the kind of thing we've had to put up with for months," Alderman Dutton said. "I challenge Alderman Stocker to bring any evidence, to support his statement. Personally I can say there has been no arrangement."

Alderman Stocker said that at a meeting of the Board several months ago Mayor Hamilton and Dr. Fraser walked out of this room to talk about some matter relating to the Board. "This is the place for any Board of Health talk," he added.

Mayor Hamilton said he couldn't remember anything Dr. Fraser said to him. It might have been something personal between them, he added, but whatever it was it couldn't have been of any importance because he couldn't recall it. Mayor Hamilton briefly referred to a conference with representatives of the Board of Education about a proposal to appoint a Medical Officer of Health who would also be Health Officer for the Public Schools. "I don't know who suggested it. The School Board was represented by Mrs. Morris, Dr. Moir and Mr. Melton. It was agreed at that time that if the change did take place we would add a member of the Board of Education to the Board of Health."

Alderman Bradburn: "You were aiming at one officer for the city and the schools!"

Alderman Stocker: "Don't get a light weight when you get one."

Alderman Dutton said that Dr. Robt. Nott had been appointed by the Board of Education as a part time health officer for the schools, and when he got caught up with the work "it would be time to consider appointing one man to do the work for both bodies."

Alderman McIntyre: "Do you think the School Board will cooperate?"

Alderman Dutton: "Yes."

Before the vote was taken Alderman Wilson said he understood Alderman Stocker to say that he was through, and he wondered if that was final.

"I don't usualy take back anything I say," Alderman Stocker replied.

"That's all right," said Alderman Wilson. "I just wanted to know. It doesn't matter."

Because Alderman Stocker was named in the Gordon motion, some one said that the vote on the amendment came first.

Alderman Cotton announced that the vote was 6-3 for the amendment.

"It should be unanimous," Alderman Bradburn suggested.

"It may be unanimous with the exception of my vote," Alderman Gordon said winding up the discussion with a thinly veiled harkening to battles long ago.

opposition benches." Last Sunday General Hertzog and Dr. Malan, leader of the Nationalist group, buried long-standing differences and formed a coalition which called for establishment of South Africa as a republic detached from the empire.

Armchair Warriors.

General Smuts, during yesterday's debate in the Senate, spoke critically of "armchair warriors who say they will defend Southwest Africa (formerly a German colony) to the last drop of their blood." He said that Adolf Hitler had planned to seize Southwest Africa after taking Poland.

On Monday the battle will begin in the House of Assembly, where the Government's war emergency bill is to come up for second reading. The measure is designed to validate emergency regulations and remove disabilities to which members of parliament and others have been subjected by reason of their service in the defence of the Union.

The legislation received first reading last Wednesday. Normally this woud have gone through without debate but the new coalition is determined to take every opportunity to re-open the war issue with the government, and consequently bitter discussion occurred almost at once.

It was during this debate, in which Afrikanders hurled such epithets as "jingoes" and "rooineks" (meaning "red necks," a derogatory term applied in the Union to Englishmen) across the floor, that General Smuts said he would not go to the country.

He pointed out that the African parliament was elected little more than a year ago, with a working majority, and that no analogy would be drawn with the forthcoming elections in Canada, where parliament almost had completed its normal term.

Edge To Malan.

Observers believe that Dr. Malan has the better of the coalition bargain. Dr. Malan's followers are numerically weaker in parliament, but stronger in the country than their new allies. The coalition party is called Herenigde Nasionale or Volksparty. (Reunited National or People's Party).

In the 1938 general election, when Generals Smuts and Hertzog formed a coalition they were returned to power as the United Party with 112 seats. Dr. Malan obtained 27 seats and the remaining seats were divided among the Dominion Party, seven, Labor, three, and Socialists, one.

With the Smuts-Hertzog break, political observers pointed out that on the basis of last Saturday's vote General Hertzog has taken from the United Party some 30-odd votes. These combined with the Malanites will give the Opposition at best 60 votes, so that General Smuts is assured a majority just so long as his party members adhere to his policies.

Last Saturday's vote represented a majority gain for General Smuts' war policy of nine more votes than he received last Septemuer.

(The Ministry of Information in London said yesterday that South Africa authorities are studying the activities of a Nazi spy ring operating from Portuguese East Africa and using racing pigeons to carry information from South Africa).

Widow, Girl Murdered, Tossed In Cellar

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 — (CP). — Police pressed a search today for the slayer of a widow and her daughter whose bodies were hurled into a heap at the bottom of a cellar stairway after they had been bludgeoned to death with a hatchet.

Mrs. Mary Helen Fahey, 67, and her daughter Loretta, 28, were the victims of one of the most vicious murders here in recent years. Their bodies were found early last night by another daughter.

Police believe robbery was the motive, for the weekly pay cheque the daughter usually brought home Thursdays from her part time job was missing, and Mrs. Fahey's purse had been emptied of whatever money it contained.

The women, Deputy Police Director Armand Brodeur said, apparently were killed in the kitchen of their two-storey Pointe St. Charles home. There were flecks of blood on the floor, although an attempt had been made to wipe it clean, and the hatchet, with traces of blood on the head, was found in the same room.

have arrived and are assisting police in the investigation. They are Dr. Marvin Wellman of the Ontario Hospital at Whitby, Dr. A. L. Wellman of Waterloo, and Dr. Victoria Wellman of the University of Chicago.

Inspector Frank Gardiner of the Ontario Provincial Police declined to comment on the case today except to say that "progress is being made."

Prints Taken

Prints of horses hooves and the tracks of a man were taken near the house and police are now scouring the country for a team of horses one lighter than the other and one considerably smaller than the other. They are also looking for a 12-guage shotgun owned by the Wellmens and kept continually in the bedroom of their home, which is now missing.

The police have no way of finding out just how much money was in the home at the time of the crime as there was no one living with the Wellmans this winter. A load of grain, which was purchased on Monday, has disappeared with the exception of one bag.

Police deduced that bags of grain were loaded into the sleigh by the murderer before he fled and that one of his horses was light, the other heavy..

Robbery was believed to be the motive for the double slaying. Neighbors said there were stories that the couple kept $200 in the house.

Inspector Ward Leads Search

Led by Inspector A. H. Ward of the Provincial police criminal investigation department who came here from Toronto, police are investigating reports concerning and searching for a man seen by neighbors in the vicinity of the farmhouse Wednesday. This unidentified person was seen walking across a field from the Wellman home Wednesday afternoon, by Charles Dunham, a neighbor.

Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson of Belleville, yesterday ordered an immediate inquest and a coroner's jury composed of district farmers viewed the bodies and scene of the shootings. The inquest then was adjourned until next Wednesday at nearby Stirling.

12 Police In Search.

After searching about the farm today, 12 police officers left the scene in an effort to uncover more clues. Police placed tin cans and sheets over the footprits and sleighrunner tracks as snow fell over the district.

"It is almost beyond belief that anyone could commit a deed of this nature on such a kindly old couple," said Dr. A. L. Wellman, a son. "They had no enemies and were held in the highest possible regard by everyone in the district."

So mutilated were the bodies that authorities at first believed the murderer used an axe. Later, wadding from a shotgun shell was found in Mrs. Wellman's room. Lead pellets were found in the bloodstained pillow beneath her head.

Wellman's body was lying with a milking stool between his legs. The top of the skull was blown off and a piece of the skull was discovered 20 feet from the body. Police said it appeared Wellman had been dragged a few feet after death.

Judicature Act To Be Changed By Legislature

TORONTO, Feb. 2. — (CP) — Amendments to the Judicature Act, based chiefly on the recommendations of the Barlow report on the overhauling of Ontario's judicial procedures, will be introduced into the legislature by the government—possibly today.

Attorney General Conant made the announcement such a bill was planned when the House rose yesterday. It was not stated whether changes will be made in the grand jury system, the abolition of which has been advocated in some quarters.

No statement was forthcoming from the attorney-general in the provisions of the amendment, but it was understood several sections of the report submitted last year by Fred H. Barlow, master of the Supreme Court of Ontario, would be incorporated. Mr. Barlow had been appointed by the Attorney-General to inquire into the administration of law in the province with a view to more efficient procedure and economy.

When the main report was submitted in December, Mr. Conant said he was hopeful that many, if not all, of the recommendations would be adopted.

Charging that "the bestiality of the German police and jailers passes all limits," the paper says that "in comparison the tortures of the famous Cheka (former Russian secret police) appear most humane."

Speaking of forced mass migrations, another paper says: "Recently a train carrying children expelled from the Poznan region was seen arriving at Sandomierz in Central Poland. When at a station a car was opened (it was a cattle car) 30 bodies were found of children who had died from the cold."

Such mass deportations, the paper states, "outdo in their systematic atrocity even the rapacious raids of the Tartars."

One of th Polish papers declares that at Gdynia, port on the Baltic Sea, priests are forced to wash the sidewalks on their hands and knees.

By the end of November, only 5,000 of Gdynia's original Polish population of 130,000 remained, it says, and whole streets were empty due to the mass deportations.

Leaves Restored

Limited leaves for the British Expeditionary Force, cancelled January 14, have been resumed and the first group of soldiers will return from the front tomorrow, the War Office reported.

Twenty survivors from the 5,625-ton torpedoed Greek steamship Elent Stathatos reached the Irish shore yesterday and told of having to throw the bodies of 13 frozen comrades from the open boats in which the survivors spent four days in the icy Atlantic.

The crew escaped in two boats as their vessel went down last Sunday. The seamen said a German submarine fired the torpedo.

"A heavy sea was running and the weather was bitter cold," said Michael Ryan of County Limerick, Ireland, one of the survivors.

"Our hands and feet swelled up so much—we were tired of rowing—it was awful. It was a bad dream; we were always cold, we were always tired; we were always hungry.

"The worst of all came Wednesday. There were the dead in the boat—13 Greeks. They had frozen to death. We threw them overboard.

"Later the second boat capsized," Ryan continued. "We had the largest boat, and we got the men out of the water. Early today we saw the Irish coast, but we were so tired we couldn't row any more. It was terrible.

'A motorboat finally came out—and here I am."

debt to Rumania by wholsale shipments of munitions and other manufactures.

Rumania industry would discontinue manufactures duplicating Germany's and concentrate on products Germany could use.

Rumania would keep a steady stream of oil, wheat and timber moving to the Reich—as much as could be transported.

German technicians would be sent to Rumania to improve production and accelerate shipments.

Briefly, the reported plan virtually would freeze out Great Britain and France from Rumania and involve a written or implied German guarantee of Rumania's frontiers.

Rumania was said to fear a German thrust should she balk at Germany's determination to get needed supplies and to be nervous about the British-French guarantees of help because of her distance from them.

Thus she wants to follow a middle course with her entente partners.

The main argument of the Rumanian foreign minister, Grigore Gafencu, is that the situation of the other entente nations is analogous to Rumania's and greater safety for all lies in close collaboration and economic as well as political neutrality.

While Yugoslavia apparently is disposed to go along with such a policy, Greece and Turkey are farther from Germany and more closely tied with the Allies, would face difficulties in upsetting trade gains they have made with the Allies since the outbreak of war.

On the other hand, Turkey is regarded as the only entente member that might be willing to go to war for Rumania if she were attacked by Germany or Russia.

Bound by Britain and France by a mutual assistance pact, Turkey was described by her foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, on the eve of the conference, as in the same position as Italy: "Not neutral but merely a non-belligerent."

Britain Cuts Exports.

LONDON, Feb. 2 — (CP) —Great Britain was reliably reported to-day to be planning to cut export of goods to Rumania as a weapon on her struggle with Germany for Rumanian oil.

Britain, it was said, is planning to permit export of goods Rumania needs only to the extent that Rumania sends oil to Britain.

At the same time it was reported British officials were more optimistic about early clarification and settlement of the uncertain Rumanian economic policy.

Economic discussions at the Balkan entente meeting opening at Belgrade to-day were expected to have a bearing on Rumania's attitude toward sharing her supplies with belligerent nations.

Fears that Germany is gaining the upper hand over Rumanian economic policy, especially regarding oil, has led Britain to slow exports of materials from here. Resumption is expected to be gradual, depending upon the future division of oil supplies among Germany and the Western Allies.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 3.

An exceedingly active and progressive day, with all business interests moving under high pressure, is read from the prevailing planetary influences. It is a time for bold initiative and enterprise in putting over major projects, particularly in new directions and on entirely new and original lines. The energies, both physical and mental, are under fresh stimuli for accomplishing big and novel ideas and plans, this with the assistance from those in power. But in all agreements and writings be cautious.

Those whose birthday it is are under splendid promise of a year of progress and achievement in new and original lines of endeavor, with the initiative and ingenuity under high tension. These creative and inventive urges will be recognized and supported substantially by influential persons who are able to promote large projects. In all contracts or agreements, however, be careful with signatures and alert to duplicity.

A child born on this day may be bold, audacious, and courageous. It may have great initiative and inventive genius, winning support of those in high places for promoting important enterprises.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Because I believe that winning the war is Canada's biggest job I ask your support, on behalf of your country, for a National Government

Having failed to solve Canada's peacetime problems is it surprising that Canadians doubt King leadership for the unknown future and the dangerous days ahead?

Having neglected to prepare for the storm is it any wonder that the King government's war effort is so futile? It is my firm belief that the King way is not Canada's way and that Canadians will demand a change on March 26.

On that day a fateful decision awaits you. Then, you may decide for a Manion administration of vigour and action or for a King administration of "let's wait and see." You may choose the aggressive policy of Dr. Manion or the half-hearted policy of Mr. King.

You may vote for a national government determined to carry out your will to win the war or you may vote for a patronage government dictated to by sectional interests rather than a desire to defeat the enemy. I stand squarely behind Hon. Dr. Manion in his fight for a national government that will intelligently and actively prosecute the war. That is Canada's biggest job and I ask the support of the electors of West Peterborough in electing me as a member of the Manion National Government.

No Copper For Russia

British Columbia copper is being shipped to Russia in quantities which are described as large, and apparently the business has been going on for some time.

It is explained this way: The manager of the Britannia Mining and Smelting Co. said his mine produced no refined copper, but shipped concentrates to Tacoma, Wash., and such concentrates are sold outright before the smelting is done. The Britannia Co. does not know where the refined copper is sold, nor has it any control over such sales.

In the ordinary course of events that would be all right. It would be much the same as Canadian wheat sold to U.S. milling companies. We would have no control of the ultimate destination of the flour, and when we sell beef cattle in United States we do not require an explanation of what is done with them after the sale has been completed and the money paid over.

But these are not ordinary times in which we are living. They are far from it. Anything which is much in need for war purposes is under scrutiny. Ships on the high seas are being sent to the bottom because they carry war supplies.

We do not want Canadian copper to reach Russia because we have no faith in Moscow. We would be ready to believe that if Moscow received refined copper the origin of which was in Canadian mines it would be re-sold to Germany. It might even be used against Finland.

In order to sell copper concentrates to the refinery in Tacoma, it would be necessary for the mining company in British Columbia to secure an export license. In this case that export license could be refused and that should end the possibility of copper going to Russia.

Admittedly Canada cannot control or even seriously affect the copper market, for such deposits are widely distributed the world over, but Canadian people desire a clean record above all else.

We can argue the question as long as desired and the track will lead back to the same place—we do not want our copper to reach Russia at all.

Just Leave It Alone

According to a despatch sent from London to the Globe and Mail by Mollie McGee there are a good many interpretations being placed on the fact that there is going to be an election held in Canada. And Mollie is apparently somewhat disturbed and thinks there ought to be something done about it. She suggests it might be well to give assurance to the French that we are up to no particular mischief in this country.

In Germany the news of the Canadian election is being fed to the people for home consumption. It has been made to appear that British interference with affairs in Canada has forced the issue; also that Britain is not satisfied with the extent of the war effort in Canada, and again it was related there was so much division of opinion in Canada about going on with the war that it was necessary to take a vote.

So the suggestion is that we should go in for counter-broadcasts to set the matter right. And our belief is that we had much better leave the matter alone and get along with our election and our war effort and our day's business according to our usual custom.

We admit readily enough that the Germans are clever with their propaganda; we know too that people there are so controlled that they would listen to nothing coming from this country even if it was spoken in their own tongue. They would not dare listen. That is why British flyers spent so much time and made so many trips dropping leaflets on German territory.

We have seen examples in the past. There have been several statements made by Canadians regarding the war situation, and some of them by responsible individuals who had a recent knowledge of conditions in Germany. By the time these came into the hands of the German propaganda department they were mutilated and twisted and so yanked out of their original shape and context that they had been stripped of their original meaning and made into sausage for the Germans.

We do not believe the Canadian people are much given to broadcasting or stating their loyalty. They look upon that as something which is distasteful, because loyalty with them is a deep and abiding thing which is not to be made assertive by parade.

We are going out to vote on March 26, and meantime we are going ahead with the war business and with the duties of the day. In the time in between the Germans can make what they wish out of the situation, and certainly we have no desire to hand them statements which they will promptly put through their sausage machine and grind them out as German fodder.

Late In Starting

Hon. Dr. Manion has sent out word that he desires Conservative party conventions to be "open" with the idea of making them what he terms National. Already there have been 91 Conservative candidates named in various ridings, and newspapers of the country carry many announcements of coming conventions. We notice in Toronto two such meetings are billed for Saturday and four for the coming Monday. In most of the ridings where nominations have been made the candidate has been in readiness for weeks or months and he was nominated as a Conservative in a Conservative convention. Just how all that can be changed with an election but a few weeks away is difficult to understand.

There is much said about there beipg a National Government in Britain, and that is regarded as something we should follow in this country. The plain fact is that the Government of Britain is in the hands of the Conservatives, because out of a membership of 615 there are 387 Conservatives, and they entered the election as Conservatives and ran as such in support of the National Government.

The name National Government does not carry the significance which is readily attached to it. When we elect a government in this country we have a National Government because it is representative of the manner in which a majority of the voters have registered their verdict all over the nation. Calling it by any other name would not change its ability or its outlook.

Crime At Its Worst

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman, who lived about eight miles south of Marmora, were murdered, and that is an ugly word to be written into the last chapter of their lives. They had planned a celebration of their 55th wedding anniversary on Sunday, and a family reunion was to have brought parents and children together again.

Instead of parents being again joined with children who had gone out worthily into the world to take honorable positions, police and detectives work around the home where the wife and mother met her fate, and they trace through the barn where husband and father fell.

Crime of that degree is something which sinks below the level of the mind to understand. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Wellman were of the age or type where resistance could have been offered. If resistance there were it would have been feeble and of short duration, for at 75 and 77 years such powers are diminished.

The community cannot rest until the owner of the hand which pulled the trigger has been located. Police are willing at any time to put all their effort and talent into any case, but in this one it seems as though something in the nature of a special and almost sacred assignment had been placed at their disposal.

Anxious To Help

James Curran of the Sault Ste. Marie Star has gone whacky about wolves again. It must have been 16 years ago when he first put up either a prize or an offer of $100 to prove that a wolf would not eat a human being. There was some sort of a catch in it and it runs in our mind that the individual who had been devoured had to go and claim the $100. In that way through depression and good times there was always that $100 under a plank in the office flooring.

When the Spring comes there is going to be a new book about "Wolves and Men" and James Curran is going to see to the business of getting it out. Getting himself armed with material one concludes that Br'er Jim is taking no chances. He printed a form in his paper asking readers in Algoma to send in particulars about the wolves. How long a wolf should be; how high; how ferocious, and how much of a bite he can take at one helping.

Our own suspicion is that wolves are about as scarce in Algoma as they are in Peterborough county. When they sing at nights out in the open one wolf can sound like a whole lot of wolves. We doubt whether there will be much crowding of the mail bags when people start to send in their knowledge of wolves in Algoma.

The Examiner has a couple of pictures which might help Jim Curran. One of them shows a man with a gun and a boy with an axe, and a wolf, but that wolf was dead and propped up. The other shows Charlie Kingan trying to get a wolf to eat out of his hat, but here again we have the suspicion that the wolf is either stuffed or frozen. But they are good pictures and they'd be entertaining for the people in Algoma who have never seen a wolf.

City And Village

Richard Gilpin, 86 years of age, was struck by a street car while crossing a street in Toronto, and from the injuries received he died a couple of days later. Whether Mr. Gilpin could move quickly we do not know, but we read that in summer time he was fond of attending baseball games.

Perhaps a man of 86 who has become accustomed to it would just as leave remain in a crowded city as elsewhere, but even so there is something wrong about a man who lived for 86 years becoming a victim of a street car. It is hard to reconcile with things as they ought to be.

We can think of several places where people of that age would be safer and more comfortable. In one village there is a harness shop where the local philosophers chat in the winter season. They range themselves about the stove in the place, and they debate and argue in comfort. None of them has far to travel when it comes time to go home for dinner, and the path back again is no longer.

In another village there are a couple of old automobile seats out in front of the implement shop and there in the shade on a summer day the senior members of the community sit and visit and make comment about the good old days. They do not get injured in the coming nor are they in danger when they depart. So it is when we learn of a man of 86 being struck by a street car in a large city we think of the way they do things in some of the villages—and conclude that it's pretty good.

NOTE AND COMMENT

At the moment there are 19,000,000 million men under arms in Europe.

United States plans to build 77 additional warships. It might be cheaper to take a hand now to make certain that so much armament would not be necessary in the future.

Government of Chile purchased war planes from Italy and now claims they are not safe for use. Italy's attitude toward the protest is said to be rather Chile.

An association in the States is looking for a better word than mother-in-law. Without bothering to go deeply into the subject it can be freely admitted that the existing word is a formidable thing and a trifle frigid.

Youth arrested in Toronto asked to be liberated because he sang in a choir and did not want to miss the morning service. Probably he was singing the right notes at the right time, but the words and general idea failed to sink in.

In New York Moe Auswaks was sentenced to from 30 to 60 years for robbery, after which he was married before starting to serve his term. For quite some time the wife will at least know where her husband is spending his evenings.

Three years ago street railway workers in London, Ont., were granted an increase in pay of 10 cents per hour, but so far the amount they have received has been only 2 cents per hour greater. It works out plain enough—the 8 cents they didn't get plus the 2 cents they did get equals the 10 cents they were supposed to have received.

Charles Tye, chief of police in Ridgetown, used his revolver to shoot a badly injured dog, and that was the first shot fired in 20 years. Otherwise the chief said he used his revolver now and then to scratch his back. If firearms generally were used for no more dangerous purpose this might be rather a happy world.

REASON

¶ Because he'd lived there eighty years, the folk broke forth in thundering cheers, in honor to their guest; the village hall was fixed up gay, as cheerful as the month of May, with banners on the wall.

¶ The oldest resident was there, they'd decked for him a special chair, the leading man in town; he spoke his thanks in humble way, they listened to each word he'd say, they cheered when he sat down.

¶ There's other folk of eighty years, who never listen to the cheers, I asked just how it was; why did they gather in the place, to praise him plainly to his face, I'd like to know the cause.

¶ When he grew up to be a man, they said he seemed to have a plan, he knew what he would do; he figured as he got along, and business things grew fairly strong, he'd help some others too.

¶ They say the cash he gave away, would fix up many a rainy day, he never longed for wealth; when folk were sick or out of luck, he'd never see such people stuck, kept little for himself.

¶ He never crowded other men, but rather gave a lift to them, and helped them all he could; no wonder that they raised their cheers, to celebrate his eighty years—'twas easily understood.

Hitler Record Of Peace Talk Is Amazing

AT THIS TIME students of world affairs might well review for themselves some of the highlights of Hitler's speeches, some of the happenings which have given the lie to his words and convicted him of the most callous hypocrisy. Let us place these items in the Hitler record under certain headings so that one may look at them in sequence.

PEACE—"Weighing the sacrifices of the last war, we want to be true friends of a peace which will heal the wounds from which all have suffered."—Potsdam, March 21, 1933.

"Germany, France and Poland will continue to exist. Germany wants nothing she is not willing to give to others. Germany will tread no other path than that laid down by the treaties. The German people have no thought of invading any country..."—Berlin, May 17, 1933.

"We have but one wish—that is the coming year we may be able to make our contribution to this general pacification of th. world...."—Berchtesgaden, January, 1, 1939.

"Only the war-mongers think there will be a war. I think there will be a long period of peace."—Berlin, January 30, 1939.

"We have given Central Europe a great fortune—namely, peace, which is protected by the German might."—Wilhelmshaven, April 1, 1939.

THE RIGHTS OF OTHERS—"The National-Socialist racial idea and the science underlying it, do not lead to scorn or contempt of other nations, but rather to the natural respect for the life and character of other people....After the Saar question has been settled, Germany is ready to accept not only the letter but the spirit of the Locarno Pact."—Berlin, January 13, 1934.

"We do not wish to oppress or subjugate other people."—Gera, June 17, 1934.

"Germany neither intends nor wishes to interfere in the internal affairs of Austria, to annex Austria, or to conclude an Anschluss."—Berlin, May 21, 1935.

"Germany is the bulwark of the west against Bolshevism and in combating it, will meet terror with terror and violence with violence." —Berlin, November 29, 1935.

EUROPEAN CULTURE — "I shall demand from history confirmation of the fact that in no moment of my work for the German nation have I forgotten the obligation incumbent on me and on us all for the maintenance of European culture and civilization."—Berlin, March 7, 1936.

"I want to leave a monument in the hearts of my people. A 30-centimetre shell costs two thousand marks. If I have another thousand marks I could build a workman's house."—Karlsruhe, March 12, 1936.

"I have always been guided by the principle that German freedom has nothing to do with injury to others. It is one of the most elemenary principles that nations should allow each other to live within their own terroritories as they wish to live."—Breslau, March 22, 1936.

"What we have in mind is a legal order of European States with equal rights."—Cologne, March 28, 1936.

"The lie goes forth again that Germany, tomorrow or the day after, will fall upon Austria or Czecho-Slovakia. I ask myself always, who can these elements be who will have no peace, who incite continually, who must so distrust and want no understanding?"—Berlin, May 1, 1936.

THE BOLSHEVIST DANGER—"We look upon Bolshevism as an intolerable danger to the world. We shall try to keep this danger away from the German people. We shall avoid all contacts with the bearers of these poisonous bacilli. Any treaty links between Germany and present-day Russia would be without any value whatsoever." — Berlin, January 30, 1937.

"Germany is a guarantor of peace because she warns all those who from Moscow endeavor to set the world in flames."—Nuremberg, September 10, 1937.

"Nothing binds us closer to National-Socialism than the mere realization that we are in the midst of a world which is kept in a state of decomposition and spiritual uproar by Jewish Bolshevists in Moscow."—Nuremberg, September 13, 1937.

"Shall I remind you of the Bolshevist revolution which slaughtered millions upon millions of people, but whose blood-stained murderers still occupy high places? .... With one single country alone we have detested to enter into relationships. That state is Soviet Russia."—Berlin, February 20, 1938.

POLAND—"Germany and Poland are two nations, and these nations will live, and neither of them will be able to do away with the other. I recognized all this, and we must all recognize that a people of 33,000,000 will always strive for an outlet to the sea....We have assured all our immediate neighbors of the integrity of their territory as far as Germany is concerned. This is no hollow phrase....It is our sacred will.... The Sudetenland is the last territorial claim which I have to make in Europe....I have assured Mr. Chamberlain and I emphasize it now, that when this problem is solved Germany has no more territorial problems in Europe."—Berlin, September 26, 1938.

FOOLISH STATEMENT

(Brantford Expositor)

General J. B. M. Hertzog's assertion that South Africa is at war only because Great Britain is at war may be the part of small politics, but it is not the part of great statesmanship, or even of ordinary common sense.

• 65 Varieties On One Apple Tree

(By M. L. Perry in Family Herald)

FOR ABOUT forty years, an apple tree of no known variety, grew and bore fruit, as did other apple trees on the sunny slope of a farm which overlooked the beautiful Saint John River.

Then, one day, nearly sixteen years ago, half of this farm which was located about seven miles above Fredericton on the road to Woodstock, was sold to the Soldiers Settlement Board, and from them Major F. A. Good, then on the staff of the Provincial Normal School of New Brunswick, bought it.

Nature study and agriculture were Major Good's subjects, and though he taught at the Normal School for 25 years, not retiring until 1937, he had a splendid opportunity to carry out practical experiments and put his ideas to the test.

When the original farm was divided, only a small part of the orchard fell on Major Good's side of the line, but these few neglected trees gave him the chance to experiment in apple grafting, which soon became a hobby dear to his heart.

Now these trees, some of them having grown up in a hit or miss fashion in margins of the field among other trees, such as evergreens, alders, etc., had one thing in common, and that was sour apples. Major Good set himself the task of securing fruit of better flavor by grafting scions or twigs of desired apples on these trees. One tree he selected from among its fellows for special experimentation, and this tree later became world famous.

Perhaps it was the size and sturdiness of the tree which caused it to be singled out to nourish the many grafts which were to be placed on it. At any rate, the first year, seventeen different scions grafted on this tree, and each year other scions were added until in seven years time, there were 65 varieties grafted on it from which three years later, fifty different kinds of apples were gathered.

Seeing this tree with its many varieties of apples, one might well wonder what kind of an apple tree it was in the beginning. As nearly as can be told, it is of no known variety having developed naturally from an apple seed in the hit or miss fashion mentioned above. The appearance of its trunk at ground level would indicate that it had had quite a hard time getting its growth, as it appears to have five trunks rather than one. This looks as though when a very young seedling it had been cut off at various times, and each time staged a 'come back,' the five resulting shoots developing into the sturdy tree we are so interested in.

We who do not understand this procedure might very well imagine that when a graft is made, and the union of the 'stock' with the 'scion' has matured, that the resulting fruit would have the characteristics of both the 'stock' and the 'scion,' but I found to my surprise that this is not the case. Instead, the stock plays host, and nourishes the young twig, and the fruit borne is of the variety of apple which would have developed had the twig remained on its parent tree.

There are now 142 different grafts on this tree, three of which are pears. Each graft flourished the first season, but from time to time some of the grafts have been killed due to extreme climatic conditions. Whenever this happens Major Good takes great care to replace the damaged graft with a new one of the same variety.

• Rumania Is In A Tight Corner

THE Rumanian problem appears to become more critical day by day. Nazi pressure increases in its demand for oil and other supplies, while Allied counter-pressure is being exerted to defeat the German quest for raw material. That is the dilemma of Rumania.

King Carol put all foreign oil interests under Government control, and it would seem that this has been done through fear of invasion.

The Allies, with a major interest in the oil fields, are threatening economic pressure, or the power to buy and to pay for Rumanian goods. The Allies have a powerful weapon here, under normal conditions, as the Nazis can only barter, and not pay.

King Carol, says the Mail and Globe, is forced to consider three things at the moment: first, the loss of foreign exchange which Allied trade supplies; secondly, fear of invasion if Berlin's demands are not met; and, lastly, submission to German threats, with possible occupation of Rumanian territory. There are other problems to ponder over, but they do not constitute an immediate danger: the invasion of Bessarabia by the Soviet, and Hungarian and Bulgarian relations over Transylvania and the Dobrudja, respectively.

Meanwhile France and Great Britain are pledged to aid Rumania against aggression; while, as a partner of the Balkan Entente, Bucharest can invoke the aid of Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia. Turkey is not pledged against Russia.

In these circumstances it would seem that, subject to the absence of disagreement at the meeting of the countries of the Balkan Entente on Feb. 2, Rumania will be in a position to call powerful forces to its aid, if Nazi pressure can be staved off long enough to allow such aid to be effective. Speed will be an important factor in this contingency. Allied forces in the Near East are considerable, and the Dardanelles is open to British convoys and warships. Should Allied troops enter Rumania from the Black Sea, the disposition of their forces would depend largely on the quality of Rumanian resistance. The oil fields are in the southeast and east of the Carpathians, and it is probable that the Allies would make the most of this advantage and cut off the vital objective of the invader with part of their forces, while going northwest to the aid of Rumania with the remainder. The iron, coal and grain area is on the southwest, near the Yugoslav frontier. The efficiency of Balkan aid is problematical, but Yugoslavia is strategically placed. In the event of Russian penetration into Bessarabia in the northeast, unforeseen complications might arise, but the problem here is less predictable than in the case of the Nazi invasion which is probable should its economic plight become desperate. Much depends, therefore, on the attitude of Bucharest to the demands of the Nazis on one hand and of the Allies on the other. The unhappy plight of Rumania cannot be exaggerated, as complications are bound to result in any case.

As German promises are worthless, and as barbarism and ruthless suppression are the preordained practice of the Nazi faith, it seems unlikely that Rumania will imperil her population and allow the peaceful penetration of her country by the despoilers of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia. Reliance on the assistance of the Allies and of the Balkan Entente should encourage Bucharest to stand up to the threats of the Nazis and to defend its sovereignty against the invader.

WHEN IT'S COLD

YES, the weather is THE THING in January. Down in the editorial sanctum of the editor of The Fergus News-Record, for instance, the weather, so he says, is slowing him up somewhat:

The weather is a handicap to writers. The first day or two of subzero weather didn't make much impression. They came as a sort of novelty. But when it stretches out to a week, the weather not only becomes monotonous, it is trying as well. The important thing is to keep warm, no matter how much coal is burned. And one begins to understand the reason why the Russians made such a mess in the far north of Finland. The Finns were prepared for 50 below zero when it came; the Russians were not. And no man can think of fighting when exposed, day after day, to such temperatures, with insufficient clothing. And back here in Fergus, we find our speed slowing down considerably this Saturday morning.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him. And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer: for I say unto you, I will not eat any more thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves: for I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.

And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.—Luke xxii, 14-20.

THE U. S. WAY

WHEN Charles M. Schwab was presented with the Bessemer Medal by the British Iron and Steel Institute in 1928 it was a most solemn occasion. The toastmaster prefaced all his announcements—"dinner is served," "let us say grace," etc.—with the words: "Mr. President, Your Excellencies, My Noble Lords and Gentlemen," and used the same form when introducing the speakers after dinner. Mr. Schwab, when called upon said, even more solemnly than the toastmaster:

"Mr. President, Your Excellencies, My Noble Lords and Gentlemen." Then, after thoroughly mopping his brow, he added: "Thank God that's over. You see, at home I would start like this: 'Well boys.'"

The British solemnity dissolved in cheers.—Wall Street Journal.

No Copper For Russia

British Columbia copper is being shipped to Russia in quantities which are described as large, and apparently the business has been going on for some time.

It is explained this way: The manager of the Britannia Mining and Smelting Co. said his mine produced no refined copper, but shipped concentrates to Tacoma, Wash., and such concentrates are sold outright before the smelting is done. The Britannia Co. does not know where the refined copper is sold, nor has it any control over such sales.

In the ordinary course of events that would be all right. It would be much the same as Canadian wheat sold to U.S. milling companies. We would have no control of the ultimate destination of the flour, and when we sell beef cattle in United States we do not require an explanation of what is done with them after the sale has been completed and the money paid over.

But these are not ordinary times in which we are living. They are far from it. Anything which is much in need for war purposes is under scrutiny. Ships on the high seas are being sent to the bottom because they carry war supplies.

We do not want Canadian copper to reach Russia because we have no faith in Moscow. We would be ready to believe that if Moscow received refined copper the origin of which was in Canadian mines it would be re-sold to Germany. It might even be used against Finland.

In order to sell copper concentrates to the refinery in Tacoma, it would be necessary for the mining company in British Columbia to secure an export license. In this case that export license could be refused and that should end the possibility of copper going to Russia.

Admittedly Canada cannot control or even seriously affect the copper market, for such deposits are widely distributed the world over, but Canadian people desire a clean record above all else.

We can argue the question as long as desired and the track will lead back to the same place—we do not want our copper to reach Russia at all.

Just Leave It Alone

According to a despatch sent from London to the Globe and Mail by Mollie McGee there are a good many interpretations being placed on the fact that there is going to be an election held in Canada. And Mollie is apparently somewhat disturbed and thinks there ought to be something done about it. She suggests it might be well to give assurance to the French that we are up to no particular mischief in this country.

In Germany the news of the Canadian election is being fed to the people for home consumption. It has been made to appear that British interference with affairs in Canada has forced the issue; also that Britain is not satisfied with the extent of the war effort in Canada, and again it was related there was so much division of opinion in Canada about going on with the war that it was necessary to take a vote.

So the suggestion is that we should go in for counter-broadcasts to set the matter right. And our belief is that we had much better leave the matter alone and get along with our election and our war effort and our day's business according to our usual custom.

We admit readily enough that the Germans are clever with their propaganda; we know too that people there are so controlled that they would listen to nothing coming from this country even if it was spoken in their own tongue. They would not dare listen. That is why British flyers spent so much time and made so many trips dropping leaflets on German territory.

We have seen examples in the past. There have been several statements made by Canadians regarding the war situation, and some of them by responsible individuals who had a recent knowledge of conditions in Germany. By the time these came into the hands of the German propaganda department they were mutilated and twisted and so yanked out of their original shape and context that they had been stripped of their original meaning and made into sausage for the Germans.

We do not believe the Canadian people are much given to broadcasting or stating their loyalty. They look upon that as something which is distasteful, because loyalty with them is a deep and abiding thing which is not to be made assertive by parade.

We are going out to vote on March 26, and meantime we are going ahead with the war business and with the duties of the day. / In the time in between the Germans can make what they wish out of the situation, and certainly we have no desire to hand them statements which they will promptly put through their sausage machine and grind them out as German fodder.

Late In Starting

Hon. Dr. Manion has sent out word that he desires Conservative party conventions to be "open" with the idea of making them what he terms National. Already there have been 91 Conservative candidates named in various ridings, and newspapers of the country carry many announcements of coming conventions. We notice in Toronto two such meetings are billed for Saturday and four for the coming Monday. In most of the ridings where nominations have been made the candidate has been in readiness for weeks or months and he was nominated as a Conservative in a Conservative convention. Just how all that can be changed with an election but a few weeks away is difficult to understand.

There is much said about there being a National Government in Britain, and that is regarded as something we should follow in this country. The plain fact is that the Government of Britain is in the hands of the Conservatives, because out of a membership of 615 there are 387 Conservatives, and they entered the election as Conservatives and ran as such in support of the National Government.

The name National Government does not carry the significance which is readily attached to it. When we elect a government in this country we have a National Government because it is representative of the manner in which a majority of the voters have registered their verdict all over the nation. Calling it by any other name would not change its ability or its outlook.

Crime At Its Worst

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman, who lived about eight miles south of Marmora, were murdered, and that is an ugly word to be written into the last chapter of their lives. They had planned a celebration of their 55th wedding anniversary on Sunday, and a family reunion was to have brought parents and children together again.

Instead of parents being again joined with children who had gone out worthily into the world to take honorable positions, police and detectives work around the home where the wife and mother met her fate, and they trace through the barn where husband and father fell.

Crime of that degree is something which sinks below the level of the mind to understand. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Wellman were of the age or type where resistance could have been offered. If resistance there were it would have been feeble and of short duration, for at 75 and 77 years such powers are diminished.

The community cannot rest until the owner of the hand which pulled the trigger has been located. Police are willing at any time to put all their effort and talent into any case, but in this one it seems as though something in the nature of a special and almost sacred assignment had been placed at their disposal.

Anxious To Help

James Curran of the Sault Ste. Marie Star has gone whacky about wolves again. It must have been 16 years ago when he first put up either a prize or an offer of $100 to prove that a wolf would not eat a human being. There was some sort of a catch in it and it runs in our mind that the individual who had been devoured had to go and claim the $100. In that way through depression and good times there was always that $100 under a plank in the office flooring.

When the Spring comes there is going to be a new book about "Wolves and Men" and James Curran is going to see to the business of getting it out. Getting himself armed with material one concludes that Br'er Jim is taking no chances. He printed a form in his paper asking readers in Algoma to send in particulars about the wolves. How long a wolf should be; how high; how ferocious, and how much of a bite he can take at one helping.

Our own suspicion is that wolves are about as scarce in Algoma as they are in Peterborough county. When they sing at nights out in the open one wolf can sound like a whole lot of wolves. We doubt whether there will be much crowding of the mail bags when people start to send in their knowledge of wolves in Algoma.

The Examiner has a couple of pictures which might help Jim Curran. One of them shows a man with a gun and a boy with an axe, and a wolf, but that wolf was dead and propped up. The other shows Charlie Kingan trying to get a wolf to eat out of his hat, but here again we have the suspicion that the wolf is either stuffed or frozen. But they are good pictures and they'd be entertaining for the people in Algoma who have never seen a wolf.

City And Village

Richard Gilpin, 86 years of age, was struck by a street car while crossing a street in Toronto, and from the injuries received he died a couple of days later. Whether Mr. Gilpin could move quickly we do not know, but we read that in summer time he was fond of attending baseball games.

Perhaps a man of 86 who has become accustomed to it would just as leave remain in a crowded city as elsewhere, but even so there is something wrong about a man who lived for 86 years becoming a victim of a street car. It is hard to reconcile with things as they ought to be.

We can think of several places where people of that age would be safer and more comfortable. In one village there is a harness shop where the local philosophers chat in the winter season. They range themselves about the stove in the place, and they debate and argue in comfort. None of them has far to travel when it comes time to go home for dinner, and the path back again is no longer.

In another village there are a couple of old automobile seats out in front of the implement shop and there in the shade on a summer day the senior members of the community sit and visit and make comment about the good old days. They do not get injured in the coming nor are they in danger when they depart. So it is when we learn of a man of 86 being struck by a street car in a large city we think of the way they do things in some of the villages—and conclude that it's pretty good.

NOTE AND COMMENT

At the moment there are 19,000,000 million men under arms in Europe.

United States plans to build 77 additional warships. It might be cheaper to take a hand now to make certain that so much armament would not be necessary in the future.

Government of Chile purchased war planes from Italy and now claims they are not safe for use. Italy's attitude toward the protest is said to be rather Chile.

An association in the States is looking for a better word than mother-in-law. Without bothering to go deeply into the subject it can be freely admitted that the existing word is a formidable thing and a trifle frigid.

Youth arrested in Toronto asked to be liberated because he sang in a choir and did not want to miss the morning service. Probably he was singing the right notes at the right time, but the words and general idea failed to sink in.

In New York Moe Auswaks was sentenced to from 30 to 60 years for robbery, after which he was married before starting to serve his term. For quite some time the wife will at least know where her husband is spending his evenings.

Three years ago street railway workers in London, Ont., were granted an increase in pay of 10 cents per hour, but so far the amount they have received has been only 2 cents per hour greater. It works out plain enough—the 8 cents they didn't get plus the 2 cents they did get equals the 10 cents they were supposed to have received.

Charles Tye, chief of police in Ridgetown, used his revolver to shoot a badly injured dog, and that was the first shot fired in 20 years. Otherwise the chief said he used his revolver now and then to scratch his back. If firearms generally were used for no more dangerous purpose this might be rather a happy world.

REASON

¶ Because he'd lived there eighty years, the folk broke forth in thundering cheers, in honor to their guest; the village hall was fixed up gay, as cheerful as the month of May, with banners on the wall.

¶ The oldest resident was there, they'd decked for him a special chair, the leading man in town; he spoke his thanks in humble way, they listened to each word he'd say, they cheered when he sat down.

¶ There's other folk of eighty years, who never listen to the cheers, I asked just how it was; why did they gather in the place, to praise him plainly to his face, I'd like to know the cause.

¶ When he grew up to be a man, they said he seemed to have a plan, he knew what he would do; he figured as he got along, and business things grew fairly strong, he'd help some others too.

¶ They say the cash he gave away, would fix up many a rainy day, he never longed for wealth; when folk were sick or out of luck, he'd never see such people stuck, kept little for himself.

¶ He never crowded other men, but rather gave a lift to them, and helped them all he could; no wonder that they raised their cheers, to celebrate his eighty years—'twas easily understood.

Hitler Record Of Peace Talk Is Amazing

AT THIS TIME students of world affairs might well review for themselves some of the highlights of Hitler's speeches, some of the happenings which have given the lie to his words and convicted him of the most callous hypocrisy. Let us place these items in the Hitler record under certain headings so that one may look at them in sequence.

PEACE—"Weighing the sacrifices of the last war, we want to be true friends of a peace which will heal the wounds from which all have suffered."—Potsdam, March 21, 1933.

"Germany, France and Poland will continue to exist. Germany wants nothing she is not willing to give to others. Germany will tread no other path than that laid down by the treaties. The German people have no thought of invading any country..."—Berlin, May 17, 1933.

"We have but one wish—that in the coming year we may be able to make our contribution to this general pacification of the world...."—Berchtesgaden, January, 1, 1939.

"Only the war-mongers think there will be a war. I think there will be a long period of peace."—Berlin, January 30, 1939.

"We have given Central Europe a great fortune—namely, peace, which is protected by the German might."—Wilhelmshaven, April 1, 1939.

THE RIGHTS OF OTHERS—"The National-Socialist racial idea and the science underlying it, do not lead to scorn or contempt of other nations, but rather to the natural respect for the life and character of other people....After the Saar question has been settled, Germany is ready to accept not only the letter but the spirit of the Locarno Pact."—Berlin, January 13, 1934.

"We do not wish to oppress or subjugate other people."—Gera, June 17, 1934.

"Germany neither intends nor wishes to interfere in the internal affairs of Austria, to annex Austria, or to conclude an Anschluss."—Berlin, May 21, 1935.

"Germany is the bulwark of the west against Bolshevism and in combating it, will meet terror with terror and violence with violence." —Berlin, November 29, 1935.

EUROPEAN CULTURE — "I shall demand from history confirmation of the fact that in no moment of my work for the German nation have I forgotten the obligation incumbent on me and on us all for the maintenance of European culture and civilization."—Berlin, March 7, 1936.

"I want to leave a monument in the hearts of my people. A 30-centimetre shell costs two thousand marks. If I have another thousand marks I could build a workman's house."—Karlsruhe, March 12, 1936.

"I have always been guided by the principle that German freedom has nothing to do with injury to others. It is one of the most elemenary principles that nations should allow each other to live within their own terroritories as they wish to live."—Breslau, March 22, 1936.

"What we have in mind is a legal order of European States with equal rights."—Cologne, March 26, 1936.

"The lie goes forth again that Germany, tomorrow or the day after, will fall upon Austria or Czecho-Slovakia. I ask myself always, who can these elements be who will have no peace, who incite continually, who must so distrust and want no understanding?"—Berlin, May 1, 1936.

THE BOLSHEVIST DANGER—"We look upon Bolshevism as an intolerable danger to the world. We shall try to keep this danger away from the German people. We shall avoid all contacts with the bearers of these poisonous bacilli. Any treaty links between Germany and present-day Russia would be without any value whatsoever." — Berlin, January 30, 1937.

"Germany is a guarantor of peace because she warns all those who from Moscow endeavor to set the world in flames."—Nuremberg, September 10, 1937.

"Nothing binds us closer to National-Socialism than the mere realization that we are in the midst of a world which is kept in a state of decomposition and spiritual uproar by Jewish Bolshevists in Moscow."—Nuremberg, September 13, 1937.

"Shall I remind you of the Bolshevist revolution which slaughtered millions upon millions of people, but whose blood-stained murderers still occupy high places? .... With one single country alone we have detested to enter into relationships. That state is Soviet Russia."—Berlin, February 20, 1938.

POLAND—"Germany and Poland are two nations, and these nations will live, and neither of them will be able to do away with the other. I recognized all this, and we must all recognize that a people of 33,000,000 will always strive for an outlet to the sea....We have assured all our immediate neighbors of the integrity of their territory as far as Germany is concerned. This is no hollow phrase....It is our sacred will.... The Sudetenland is the last territorial claim which I have to make in Europe....I have assured Mr. Chamberlain and I emphasize it now, that when this problem is solved Germany has no more territorial problems in Europe."—Berlin, September 26, 1938.

General J. B. M. Hertzog's assertion that South Africa is at war only because Great Britain is at war may be the part of small politics, but it is not the part of great statesmanship, or even of ordinary common sense.

• 65 Varieties On One Apple Tree

(By M. L. Perry in Family Herald)

FOR ABOUT forty years, an apple tree of no known variety, grew and bore fruit, as did other apple trees on the sunny slope of a farm which overlooked the beautiful Saint John River.

Then, one day, nearly sixteen years ago, half of this farm which was located about seven miles above Fredericton on the road to Woodstock, was sold to the Soldiers Settlement Board, and from them Major F. A. Good, then on the staff of the Provincial Normal School of New Brunswick, bought it.

Nature study and agriculture were Major Good's subjects, and though he taught at the Normal School for 25 years, not retiring until 1937, he had a splendid opportunity to carry out practical experiments and put his ideas to the test.

When the original farm was divided, only a small part of the orchard fell on Major Good's side of the line, but these few neglected trees gave him the chance to experiment in apple grafting, which soon became a hobby dear to his heart.

Now these trees, some of them having grown up in a hit or miss fashion in margins of the field among other trees, such as evergreens, alders, etc., had one thing in common, and that was sour apples. Major Good set himself the task of securing fruit of better flavor by grafting scions or twigs of desired apples on these trees. One tree he selected from among its fellows for special experimentation, and this tree later became world famous.

Perhaps it was the size and sturdiness of the tree which caused it to be singled out to nourish the many grafts which were to be placed on it. At any rate, the first year, seventeen different scions grafted on this tree, and each year other scions were added until in seven years time, there were 65 varieties grafted on it from which three years later, fifty different kinds of apples were gathered.

Seeing this tree with its many varieties of apples, one might well wonder what kind of an apple tree it was in the beginning. As nearly as can be told, it is of no known variety having developed naturally from an apple seed in the hit or miss fashion mentioned above. The appearance of its trunk at ground level would indicate that it had had quite a hard time getting its growth, as it appears to have five trunks rather than one. This looks as though when a very young seedling it had been cut off at various times, and each time staged a 'come back,' the five resulting shoots developing into the sturdy tree we are so interested in.

We who do not understand this procedure might very well imagine that when a graft is made, and the union of the 'stock' with the 'scion' has matured, that the resulting fruit would have the characteristics of both the 'stock' and the 'scion,' but I found to my surprise that this is not the case. Instead, the stock plays host, and nourishes the young twig, and the fruit borne is of the variety of apple which would have developed had the twig remained on its parent tree.

There are now 142 different grafts on this tree, three of which are pears. Each graft flourished the first season, but from time to time some of the grafts have been killed due to extreme climatic conditions. Whenever this happens Major Good takes great care to replace the damaged graft with a new one of the same variety.

• Rumania Is In A Tight Corner

THE Rumanian problem appears to become more critical day by day. Nazi pressure increases in its demand for oil and other supplies, while Allied counter-pressure is being exerted to defeat the German quest for raw material. That is the dilemma of Rumania.

King Carol put all foreign oil interests under Government control, and it would seem that this has been done through fear of invasion.

The Allies, with a major interest in the oil fields, are threatening economic pressure, or the power to buy and to pay for Rumanian goods. The Allies have a powerful weapon here, under normal conditions, as the Nazis can only barter, and not pay.

King Carol, says the Mail and Globe, is forced to consider three things at the moment: first, the loss of foreign exchange which Allied trade supplies; secondly, fear of invasion if Berlin's demands are not met; and, lastly, submission to German threats, with possible occupation of Rumanian territory. There are other problems to ponder over, but they do not constitute an immediate danger: the invasion of Bessarabia by the Soviet, and Hungarian and Bulgarian relations over Transylvania and the Dobrudja, respectively.

Meanwhile France and Great Britain are pledged to aid Rumania against aggression; while, as a partner of the Balkan Entente, Bucharest can invoke the aid of Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia. Turkey is not pledged against Russia.

In these circumstances it would seem that, subject to the absence of disagreement at the meeting of the countries of the Balkan Entente on Feb. 2, Rumania will be in a position to call powerful forces to its aid, if Nazi pressure can be staved off long enough to allow such aid to be effective. Speed will be an important factor in this contingency. Allied forces in the Near East are considerable, and the Dardanelles is open to British convoys and warships. Should Allied troops enter Rumania from the Black Sea, the disposition of their forces would depend largely on the quality of Rumanian resistance. The oil fields are in the south-east and east of the Carpathians, and it is probable that the Allies would make the most of this advantage and cut off the vital objective of the invader with part of their forces, while going northwest to the aid of Rumania with the remainder. The iron, coal and grain area is on the south-west, near the Yugoslav frontier. The efficiency of Balkan aid is problematical, but Yugoslavia is strategically placed. In the event of Russian penetration into Bessarabia in the north-east, unforeseen complications might arise, but the problem here is less predictable than in the case of the Nazi invasion which is probable should its economic plight become desperate. Much depends, therefore, on the attitude of Bucharest to the demands of the Nazis on one hand and of the Allies on the other. The unhappy plight of Rumania cannot be exaggerated, as complications are bound to result in any case.

As German promises are worthless, and as barbarism and ruthless suppression are the preordained practice of the Nazi faith, it seems unlikely that Rumania will imperil her population and allow the peaceful penetration of her country by the despoilers of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia. Reliance on the assistance of the Allies and of the Balkan Entente should encourage Bucharest to stand up to the threats of the Nazis and to defend its sovereignty against the invader.

CURIOUS CUSTOM

Public libraries are out for the public, not just for the limited number of unusual persons who are not confused by the custom of substituting the letter V for the rounded letter in the inscriptions acvipture above the entrances.

Most of us, if we would but admit the truth, are puzzled, at our first casual glance, to understand them. We must scrutinize them carefully to be sure whether a structure is a museum or whether we have unwittingly started through the door of a customs house.

Perhaps it's easier to cut the straight lines of a V than to carve the curves of the less cultured letter, but we could endure it if, on future construction of churches, university stadiums, court houses and other public buildings, the United States authorities and those of States, counties, and municipalities would return to the use of the letter pronounced "ou."—Des Moines Register.

WHEN IT'S COLD

YES, the weather is THE THING in January. Down in the editorial sanctum of the editor of The Fergus News-Record, for instance, the weather, so he says, is slowing him up somewhat:

The weather is a handicap to writers. The first day or two of sub-zero weather didn't make much impression. They came as a sort of novelty. But when it stretches out to a week, the weather not only becomes monotonous, it is trying as well. The important thing is to keep warm, no matter how much coal is burned. And one begins to understand the reason why the Russians made such a mess in the far North of Finland. The Finns were prepared for 50 below zero when it came; the Russians were not. And no man can think of fighting when exposed, day after day, to such temperatures, with insufficient clothing. And back here in Fergus, we find our speed slowing down considerably this Saturday morning.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him. And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer: for I say unto you, I will not eat any more thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves: for I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.

And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.—Luke xxii, 14-20.

THE U. S. WAY

WHEN Charles M. Schwab was presented with the Bessemer Medal by the British Iron and Steel Institute in 1928 it was a most solemn occasion. The toastmaster prefaced all his announcements—"dinner is served," "let us say grace," etc.—with the words: "Mr. President, Your Excellencies, My Noble Lords and Gentlemen," and used the same form when introducing the speakers after dinner. Mr. Schwab, when called upon said, even more solemnly than the toastmaster:

"Mr. President, Your Excellencies, My Noble Lords and Gentlemen." Then, after thoroughly mopping his brow, he added: "Thank God that's over. You see, at home I would start like this: 'Well boys.'"

The British solemnity dissolved in cheers.—Wall Street Journal.

Robbed Of Ring

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—(CP)—Mrs. Paul Comtois told police today that three young men who forced their way into her home last night robbed her of a $300 diamond ring and $10 in cash. The woman said she was alone in the house when the doorbell rang. As she opened the door the youths pushed their way in, forced her to give up the ring and money and left her bound.

Liaison Officer Holds Key Defence Post

AT AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Feb. 2—(CP).—The job of the liaison officer in Canada's defence "trinity" is no soft touch.

Army, navy and air force co-operate to-day as never before in the Dominion's history. Modern defence methods demand it and the three arms of the service have achieved it.

When a convoy leaves this port, the navy and air force go to work. Officers of both services admit they couldn't do the job efficiently alone.

When ships approach the coast, the air force, navy and army look them over, usually in that order. Should the need arise, the navy would probably say when to fire, the army to do the firing, and the air force the obesrvation work.

The three Canadian services are thus combined as one tremendously powerful enemy, their orders are the same as those issued to the lone soldier on "sentry go."

If a ship, plane or—though it's improbable—body of men acts suspiciously when challenged, the orders are to open fire. Considerable discretion is used, of course. It would probably take more than a slip-up in signals to cause the coastal batteries to open fire on an incoming [illegible] comer who muffs the formalities, intentionally or otherwise, had best be prepared for a hectic time.

It is one of the main jobs of the liaison officer to make sure Canadian shells aren't directed at Canadian ships or planes.

When Royal Canadian Air Force planes take off, Air Force liaison officers promptly notify the Army and Navy. They give the number of planes involved, where they're going and what they're up to.

Of course, there is the story about the liaison officer who was slow in notifying the Army about a night flight of Air Force planes. Searchlights flashed into action and the order to fire was on the tip of an anti-aircraft officer's tongue when a frantic telephone call saved the day.

For the exchange of all vital information, each service has three liaison officers with each of the other two. These men are kept constantly busy with telephone calls. Every movement of every plane, ship or army unit must be accounted for, if possible in advance.

Each officer works an eight-hour shift, and thus liaison service is kept up 24 hours a day.

They are the links which keep Canada's chain of defence forces together, giving the Dominion one of the most compact and, for its size, efficient defence units in the world to-day.

Olympus Rumbles

A REUTERS News Agency dispatch from Salonika, Greece, today reported "some loss of life" in an earthquake which shook the Mount Olympus region. Several houses collapsed.

Mount Olympus, which the ancient Greeks called the home of the gods, is 50 miles southeast of Salonika in a rugged region of east central Greece.

There are no large cities in the region but small villages and towns dot the area overlooking the Gulf of Salonika.

QUAKERS TAKE FIRST PLACE IN THE INDUSTRIAL HOCKEY LOOP

Three Contests Are Staged At Brock Arena

Industrial Loop standing:

Quakers	4	4	0	0
Marines	4	3	0	1
Westclox	4	3	1	0
Packers	3	1	2	0
Brintons	3	0	2	1
Raybestos	3	0	3	0
Watercraft	3	0	3	0

Quakers moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Industrial Hockey League triple-header at the Brock Street Rink last night with a 10-4 win over the Raybestos. Packers nosed out Westclox 4-3, and Marines took a 7-4 decision over Watercrafts in lively puck tilts before a fair-sized crowd of fans.

The Westclox-Packers game was fast and exciting. Millen scored early for Westclox but Edmunds evened it up halfway through the inning. They opened it up in the second and Csumrik tallied with Westclox a man short. Thirnbeck split the defence to sew up the count, but Csumrik banged home a hot drive to make it 3-2 for Packers to end the frame. Feeling was high in a hot third heat. Driscoll tied the score with Farr in the sin box, and just before the bell, in a pile-up near the Westclox cage, Cournyea poked the puck in for the winning counter. The teams:

Quakers Strong.

Quakers combined well to beat Raybestos, having a 2-1 edge in the first and leading 6-4 going into the third. Kennedy got the first on Shine's pass, with Cunningham then tallying when he picked up a loose puck. Webb put Quakers up again near the finish. It was fast in the second, with Hill getting the first. Maudsley got it back on a neat thrust but Howland again tallied for Quakers. Shine's goal was followed by Howden, who scored two shortly, and Hill bulged the hemp before the bell to make it 6-4. Quakers lasted better in the third; Hill, Calladine, Kennedy and Shine scoring as Rays were held out this period. The teams:

The final fray was lively and open most of the way. Both tried hard to score, but Marines had a margin in the first 4-0. Shaughnessy, Shields, and Saunders tallied once each, with Ego bumping one into his own net, Stephenson getting credit for it. Watercraft had a 3-2 edge in the fast second, Ego got the first and then, after Boyle and Heffernan counted, Boulter and O'Connor netted the rubber for Watercraft. In the speedy third, it was 1-1, with Stephenson and Boulter doing the counting. The teams:

Referee—Cy Whatley.

"Jolly old BACHELOR"

It must be an indication of something that people habitually speak of an elderly unmarried man as a "jolly old bachelor" while a spinster of uncertain years is a "poor old maid". But then, women can't, or at least don't, enjoy the consolations of smoking the famous Bachelor cigars which, while costing only 10c have 100% pure Havana filler.

ALEX SHIBICKY
Rangers.

Alex. Shibicky

Chief scoring threat of the Rangers in their second-place finish in the National League last season was Alex. Shibicky, left wing on what is generally regarded as the team's best line, that comprising Alex. and the Colville brothers. Shibicky bagged 24 counters last season, second only to Roy Conacher's 26, and is having another good season, although not as productive in a scoring way. Has two traits that bear the Ranger trademark — he came up through the farm system as all but two of his teammates have done, and he plays the "wrong wing," that is, shoots right from his present left wing. Born at Brooklands, near Winnipeg, 26 years ago this May, and played his amateur hockey around the Manitoba capital until seen by Lester Patrick at his famous fall "school." Signed to play with New York Rovers, which he did in 1934-35. One season there and he jumped to Philadelphia Ramblers and thence to the parent team, making this his fourth full season in the N.H.L. His scoring totals until the beginning of this season read: Fift-nine goals, 37 assists for 96 points, a very healthy mark for so short a time. In addition he's put in 86 minutes with the penalty timers. His middle name is Dimitri, which stamps him as something out of the ordinary. A stylish skater with a good shot.

Football Games All Held Up

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(CP Cable). — Wartime footballers and their supporters have been given a tough break by the weatherman during the past few weeks. The severest weather experienced for many years caused wholesale postponements and there is much uncertainty regarding playing conditions for the week-end.

South "A" and South "B" groups made up of London and Southern England clubs were scheduled to finish their competitions Saturday and start new tournaments Feb. 10, but most of the teams have two games to play and some three. Elsewhere in the United Kingdom competitions will run on into the spring.

Scotland has suffered more than any other part of the country. Only two games out of 32 scheduled have been played in two weeks. Full lists are carded for Saturday with Rangers, leaders in the west, due to meet Ayr United not Ibrox Park, Falkirk, East pacesetter, is at home to East Fife.

Arsenal clinched the South "A" championship some days ago, and chief interest in the English groups lies in the race in South "B" between Queen's Park Rangers and Bournemouth. The teams are tied with 24 points each but the former has a game in hand.

Bournemouth completes its schedule with a hard battle against Chelsea at Stamford Bridge. The Rangers' chances at Brighton are considered far easier and in the odd game they will be at home to Southampton.

Of the remaining six English regional divisions only the Southwest and Midland groups have contests scheduled but it is likely postponed matches will be played off in some of the other leagues.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Up along the Avenoo of the Seven Winds last gloaming, the gees in the know were saying the Petes ought to take Owen Sound Trappers tonight—though the last time these teams met the Trappers copped the duke. But the feeling on the Avenoo was that the present Petes have too much speed for 'most any O.H.A. intermediate "A" club, that they've got grand condish now, and that their exhibition jousts with Oshawa Generals and Toronto Goodyears—to say nothing of loop tilts with the Fliers—have made the Petes a potent puck. Well, we hope so, and we'd like to see 'em even the score with the Trappers, bu twe rather imagine it'll be a rousing scrap before the finish. As Owen Sound has class in gobs, too.

* * * * * *

The tussle is tonight at 8.30 in the Brock, and deserves plenty of fans. Two smart squads in a nifty duel, not to mention the rivalry betwixt Red Creighton of the Sound and the local gang. Robert the Red was a popular puckist on the local list last year, and the boys still think he's a fight guy. But do ya think that'll stop 'em from trying to rub his temper the wrong way and keep him in the sin box or off the score sheet? If you do, you're first cousin to a fruitcake! And don't think the dashing Red won't be out to show his former buddies how to score goals, either. We like the older member of the Creighton clan and get a big kick out of him, the way he whistles those drives in hockey, the way he blocks bullets in lacrosse, the way he argues till his face is redder than his hair—even the way he lost his pants on a rush in a Lindsay lacrosse tilt! Nope, all Red's color isn't in his hair.

* * * * * *

Color Here, Also

But we've got a pretty colorful crew, too. Incidentally that "we" reminds us of the time the ant and the elephant crossed the bridge together, and the ant said: "Boy, we sure shook that thing, eh?" So we take no credit for splashing any paint on any of the Petes. They've got enough color to daub the old arena inside and out with two coats. They have what the Finns would call (and our lessons in Finnish are nearly finished, thank heaven!) taivalkoski, which is pronounced tie-vahl-koss-kee and means practically the same thing as tailpalenjoki. Oh, well....

* * * * * *

Look 'em over with or without a microscope and you'll find a lot of flashing puck ability and fan interest wrapped up in those bright uniforms. We could run a paragraph or more—and might yet—on each player, had we the space here. Ray Harding in goal for instance, or Jim Ellis, Jack Gardner, Don Crowe, Frank Jopling and Les Burton on defence. Up front there's Honey Tompkins, Joe Blewett, Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin, Bun Kingdon, Art Heal, Jack Jopling. Yep, blazing speed, two-fisted fighting, puck savvy, buckets of color. They're worth watching any game, and they'll really be stepping here tonight to trounce Robert the Red and his Owen Sound pals.

They Play Dirty

Pete Vitarelli, who is coaching St. Peter's Juveniles — who open their O.J.H.A. schedule in Norwood tonight — returned recently from Baltimore, where he visited his brother Ned, Bill Calladine and Pick Hines of the Orioles. Pete says the team is drawing two to three thousand a game and going pretty good. Bill is away up in the scoring race and Ned has over 30 points himself already. Pete also travelled with the team to N'Yawk where the Orioles had a twin bill before a 12,000 Sunday crowd. He says Covert is going good with Washington, too. But Red Storey isn't showing up so well in this loop. Pete used to play a pretty rugged game on defence in the old Blood and Thunder Loop here, but he says the hockey they play in the U.S. eastern amachoor circuit is terrific—rough, dirty and downright dangerous, with everything going.

* * * * * *

Quakers are in solitary grandeur atop the Industrial Puck Loop heap now with four straight wins, knocking off the Rays 10-4 last p.m. before a fair crowd in the Brock. Westclox were edged out in a rousing struggle by Packers, 4 to 3, it being the Clockmen's first reverse and Packers' initial victory. The other game saw Marines clamber into second place in the standing with a 7-4 decision o'er Watercrafts. The opening joust was the berries with play hot and even all the way as the boys carried their cudgels up around their ears. In a mad scramble in the final minute of play—with Ossie Sloane's doorstep cluttered up with friends and enemies—the winning marker somehow slid in, and Windy Avenoo habitues are still arguing as to how this came about. Yep, 'twas a lively e'en. Outboard Marines will put on the Monday p.m. skating party.

Nearing The End

District Hockey Circuit single schedule winds up in Omemee on Monday when Lindsay Battery plays the Hawks. Local Lock Co. Eagles start the semi-final series on Wednesday 'gainst the Battery either in Omemee or Lindsay. It is a two-game serial, goals to count, winner then clashing with the Black Hawks in the finals and for the right to enter O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns. The Eagles are taking all the worst of it in meeting tough squads on foreign ice—that is, the ice is foreign for the Eagles, but they're agreeable. The Prete puckists will have to hustle in this short series or they'll be outside looking in.

Coming from a meeting of senior ball moguls last p.m. in Toronto is word that the big Intercity Senior Ball League which operated last year may be reduced to a strong four-club circuit this coming sunny season. The four clubs mentioned are Danforth Aces, Parkdale Derbys, Port Credit and Peterborough. With Columbus Grads, Webbers and Findlays dropping out. Nothing definite has been decided either in Toronto or here about plans for 1940, and possibly Oshawa or Kingston would be willing to return to the senior diamond wars this year. At anyrate, it won't be long till baseball re-organization begins.

Remember When—

Representative Fiorello La Guardia, now Mayor of New York, attempted in the United States Congress 15 years ago today to put a 90 per cent tax on sales of professional baseball players bought for more than $5,000. He argued that pro ball was the only field where individuals failed to profit through improved ability and transfer of their services. The bill didn't get very far.

Montreal Canadiens Try To Sign Up New Front Line

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—(CP)—Card by card, hands were dealt out today to the principals involved as a hockey-speculating public weighed rumor, denial and fact in the talk swirling about the efforts of Montreal Canadiens to bolster themselves for the last part of the National Hockey League race.

This is the way the case stands now:

1—Rumor—That Coach Pete Lepine is on the way out, and possibly would be succeeded by Tommy Gorman, once the manager of Montreal Maroons.

2—Denial—President Ernest Savard: "There is no question of Lepine being out as a coach. He is there for the season and will stay."

3—Fact—That the crack St. Hyacinthe amateur line of the Lemay brothers, Tony and Albert, and Gordie Poirier is close to making the jump to professional ranks.

The Lemays and Poirier, all high scorers in the Provincial Senior League and the most publicized amateur hockey players in Eastern Canada, admitted this morning that they will sign as pros "if a few details in the contracts are changed."

"The terms are quite generous," said Poirier, and both the Lemays agreed. "But there are a couple of things that we would like changed in the contracts. If the club will agree to the changes then I'm quite willing to sign a contract."

Must Obtain Consent

A stumbling block, although Canadiens' officials believe that an agreement can be reached, is the fact that the professional club has to obtain the consent of the St. Hyacinthe club before the Lemays and Poirier can be signed in conformity with a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association-N.H.L. agreement.

"All three contracts are the same," declared Albert Lemay, "and Tony and I are after the same changes as Gordie. I don't think that the St. Hyacinthe club will stand in our way if we do finally decide to turn pro. In any case, I don't think that we'll turn for another four or five days yet. We're going to continue practising with the club."

Gorman, presently general manager of the Canadian Arena Company, which controls the Forum where Canadiens play their home games, declared that "rather than go back into hockey I would go down to South America and start a revolution."

In the days that Gorman led the now-defunct Maroons his feuding with Manager Conny Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs often hit the hockey headline. Gorman just couldn't resist another oral jab at his one-time arch-enemy.

"If I went back into hockey I would have to associate with fellows like Conny Smythe," he said laughingly, "so I'm not going back into hockey."

Tweed Player Is Ruled Out

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2—(ENS)—At a meeting of the executive of the Trent Valley League held here, Campbellford Sunocos won their protest entered as a result of the Tweed team using an ineligible player, Bill Storms, who it was admitted had been serving in a Belleville O.H.A. group. The protest was entered following the local's game in Tweed, when the latter took a 7-4 decision with Storms dominating the play for the winners. As a special concession to the Tweed club they are to be allowed to count all games to date, with the ruling coming into effect during the second half of the schedule. This, it was felt, would not inflict too severe a hardship on Tweed, who threatened to withdraw from the league if they were not allowed to use Storms.

St. John's Win 7-3

Frank and Clark scored the seven goals, the former getting four. N. McNaughton, Forbes and Carley tallied for St. Paul's. Combination was poor in the snow. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, Jaquith; defence, Carley, R. McNaughton; centre, Doughty; wings, N. McNaughton, Hill; subs, Courtney, Hendrie, J. McNaught, Forbes.

Oshawa Curlers Wipe Off Club Mortgage

OSHAWA, Feb. 2.—(Special.) — More than 100 members of the Oshawa Curling Club gathered at the clubrooms last night for a history making ceremony and witnessed the "burning of the mortgage" as J. H. (Jack) Beaton touched the match to the legal document, thus signifying that Oshawa's fine curling palace, built in 1924, is now completely free of debt. Artificial ice was installed in 1927.

W. G. (Bill) Gifford, president of the club, acted as chairman for the evening, and seated at the head table were many of the club's past presidents, as well as representatives from the Ontario Curling Association. Frank L. Mason, Ernie Parsons, Andy Heron of Toronto, Arthur Gay, Ernie McMurty of Toronto, George W. McLaughlin, J. H. Beaton, Colonel Lepan of Toronto, Fred J. Bailes, Fred Lucas of Toronto and C. E. McTavish were included among those mentioned. Other former presidents and officials also came in for special mention during the night's activities.

Colonel Lepan, R. S. McLaughlin and George W. McLaughlin were the speakers of the evening, while J. H. Beaton, the man who led the Oshawa curlers "out of the wilderness," briefly reviewed the history of the club. Mr. Beaton was the recipient of a handsome gladstone bag and a gold watch, gifts from the gateful curling club members. R. A. (Rudy) Loe, club secretary, was also honored.

At the conclusion of the banquet hall activities, the curlers adjourned to the ice for a series of ten-end games.

Shore Sparks Americans To 5 to 2 Win

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

However shrewd Art Ross was when he started letting veteran Boston players go, he may be haunted a little these nights by the idea of what they might do to his National Hockey League championship plans some time.

There's a danger in handing such men as Tiny Tompson and Eddie Shore to other clubs, no matter how good the youngsters who replace them. One of those two, both released from the Ross grip within the last year, might catch the Bruins in a vital game during the season's stretch and make Ross wish he had thought twice.

Thompson, who was sold to Detroit last season after goal-tending 10 good years for Boston, was the individual star last night when the Red Wings shut out the league-leading New York Rangers 2-0 at Detroit.

Playing his second game with the Americans since leaving the Bruins, Shore fired the Old Men of Manhattan to a 5-2 success over Chicago Black Hawks at New York last night. If Shore isn't itching to get at Boston, then he's just kidding in those cracks about Ross.

Shut Rangers Out Twice.

It was a tremendous achievement for Thompson, since the Rangers had won 15 of their previous 16 starts and their last five in a row. It was also Tiny's second shutout of the season over the leaders. He has allowed the Rangers one goal in their three games at Detroit.

Captain Ebbie Goodfellow made the plays for both goals, Don Grosso getting the first after four minutes of the second period and Modere Bruneteau the other a minute after the third chapter started.

Through 60 turbulent minutes, Thompson's baseball hands caught the best of the drives that the concerted, organized Ranger attack brought to his net. The going was so heavy Jimmy Orlando of Detroit and Dutch Hiller of the visitors staged a third-period fist fight that brought major penalties to them and a misconduct sentence to Bryan Hextall of the Rangers for joining in.

Shore Started The Drive

The Americans were nursing a 1-0 lead, as a result of Johnny Gagnon's first-period goal, when Shore started driving down from the defence in the third. He created a play that Charley Conacher turned into the second goal with a 40-foot shot and he laid down a perfect pass for Lorne Carr to make the score 3-0. Jack Portland of the Hawks was serving a penalty when those two were counted.

Art Chapman got another American goal before Bill Carse struck for Chicago. Tommy Anderson raised the lead to 5-1 just before Bill Thoms closed the scoring for the Hawks.

The Americans kept pace a point behind Detroit and left Montreal Canadiens five points down in the cellar. Meanwhile the Canadiens finally made a constructive attempt to strengthen their lineup by offering contracts to Gordie Poirier and Tony and Albert Lemay, members of St. Hyacinthe in the Provincial League.

A million children left in the evacuated district of England are to be medically inspected.

Plays Tonight

RED CREIGHTON

Robert The Red Returns To Play Petes

The return of Robert the Red—otherwise known as Red Creighton—is a feature of tonight's exhibition tilt between Owen Sound Trappers and the Petes at 8:30 this evening in the Brock St. rink. Red is too well-known in local athletics, especially hockey and lacrosse, to need any introduction. He was playing grand hockey last season for the locals and accepted a bid to play for Owen Sound this winter. And has been one of the leading scorers for the fast-stepping intermediate "A" Trappers so far this season. Red and his buddies will make it plenty hot for the Buckland gang.

Readying up for a tough playoff series with the Fliers, the Petes are tackling classy squads in exhibition games to keep at their peak. It puts the Petes in the pink and gives fans a chance to see some fine games—the ordinary schedule supplying too few contests. A big crowd is expected out tonight to see a first-class scrap between well-matched teams, clubs which may yet tangle in provincial playdowns this year.

Batta Cobblers Outscore Bombers 6-2

TWEED, Feb. 2 (ENS).—Displaying the most finished exhibition of combination played on their own ice this season, the Bata Cobblers completed the initial half of the season's Trent Valley League schedule on Wednesday night, when they outplayed and outsmarted the Stirling Bombers, to give them a decisive 6-2 drubbing, with the score about indicative of the play.

After the first period when the winners were held about even by the Stirling squad, the losers went into the lead with two goals, but the lead was short-lived as Reid soloed from the face-off and knotted the count again after only 25 seconds had elapsed. Two more quick goals by Dore put the Bata team into the lead.

Guay and Stoajan combined in the last period to increase the lead after four minutes of play, to three goals, while McDonald took a pass from Foster for the final count of 6-2.

The line-ups:

Stirling — Goal, Hart; defence, Ingram and Jones; centre, Armstrong; wings, Richardson and Barnum; subs., Dainard, Morton, Bolte and May.

Bata — Goal, Romhanji; defence, Guay and Stojan; centre, Reid; wings, Foster and Elder; subs., Rose, Lawrence, McDonald and Dore.

Referees—Wallace and Finnegan.

Tweed Scholars Whip Stirling

TWEED, Feb. 2 (ENS). — Stepping into the fast Stirling High School team at the local arena on Thursday night, the Tweed High School boys edged out the visitors 4-3 to still remain in a play-off position.

In the first period the Stirling boys gained a 2-0 edge on goals by Walker and Paterson. Bastedo received the only penalty of the period. Doyle in the Tweed nets, replacing J. Wagar, played a fine game.

In the second period the Tweed boys went to town scoring three goals, while keeping the Stirling boys off the score sheet. Luffman tallied from a scramble in front of Morgan, while Courneyea tallied on a solo. Trudeau took a pass out from the corner to backhand one into the nets, to put the home team one up at the end of the period.

In the last period, Trudeau taking a pass from Vance behind the nets, put the game away. However, Stirling near the end of the period, scored when Patterson, who was uncovered in front of Doyle, snared a pass from the corner to cut the lead to one goal. Porritt and Courneyea were sent to the bench for tripping in this period.

The line-ups:

Stirling High School—Goal, Morgan; defence, J. Walker, R. Pyear; forwards, D. Frances, R. Walker, B. McGee; subs., D. McIntosh, B. Bastedo, Patterson, N. Murray, F. Donahoe.

Tweed High School — Goal, E. Doyle; defence, D. Porritt, A. Courneyea; forwards, Longevin, G. Luffman, Bergeron; subs., Conner, D. Meraw, B. Trudeau, Hayes, Vance.

Referee—F. Geraldi.

Fools The Doctors Again

Reported to have been on the verge of death on numerous occasions, Georgia Coleman, noted aquatic star, once again amazed her doctors with her amazing vitality and left the hospital bed where she has been confined so many weeks. Miss Coleman, whose gallant effort to regain her health, which was impaired by an accident suffered while diving, has aroused widespread admiration, is shown here accepting a cheque for $514, which was presented to her to help defray hospital expenses. The money was raised by a benefit swimming meet.

Four Junior Teams Standing Out In Eastern Canadian Hockey

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—(CP).— Just about nine weeks from to-day the Eastern Canada junior hockey championship team will be known, and at the moment four teams stand out as distinct possibilities for the honor.

It may be that Oshawa Generals, who won the Memorial Cup in Toronto last season by beating Edmonton Roamers, will go west this season to defend the national title. They are undefeated this season in the Junior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Associaton.

The other most favored contenders of the moment are Montreal Royals of the Quebec Association, Quebec Aces of the Quebec City League, and Perth Blue Wings of the Ottawa and District League and Eastern Canada semi-finalists last season.

When the eastern playdowns roll around, the Maritime champions will play the Ottawa district titlists with the winner to face the Quebec champions. Meanwhile, the O.H.A. titlist clashes with the Northern Ontario Hockey Association winner with the victor moving directly into the Eastern Canada final early in April.

Oshawa Just As Strong.

Oshawa, without their sensational Billy Taylor who jumped directly to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League this season, appear as strong as last season. They bolstered an already strong defence and added a couple of classy forwards.

Right now the Oshawas are leading the Big Six group with 21 points from 10 wins and a draw two more points than the second-place Guelph club.

The N.O.H.A. champion will be decided between Frood Tigers and South Porcupine, only teams entered although there is a possibility a team from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., also will compete in the playdowns.

Montreal Royals are leading the league which usually produces the Quebec champion. Verdun Maple Leafs, beaten in the Eastern Canada finals by Oshawa last spring, hold second place, six points back. Verdun, however, has been weakened through loss of most of last year's stars, including Frankie Eddolls, who now wears an Oshawa uniform

Quebec Aces Leading.

With five wins in as many games, Quebec Aces lead their league with nine of their players among the first 10 leading scorers of the circuit. Perth are four points to the good in their league with Westboro second.

Spencerville, leading the field in the St. Lawrence League, has been undefeated in five starts and has scored 55 goals while allowing only five against.

Eastern finalists a few years ago, Pembroke Little Lumber Kings, lead the Upper Ottawa Valley League, with Carleton Place second.

In the Martimes, eliminations are under way in the Pictou and Cape Breton districts of Nova Scotia, while other junior clubs enter the playdowns automatically since they have no circuits in which to play.

In Prince Edward Island, Charlottetown Royals, last season's Maritime champions are leagueless, but may meet either Summerside and Kensington for the right to enter the playdowns.

Petes To Play Senior Ball In Small Group

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — With two clubs definitely disbanded and a third expected to withdraw after nine years of campaigning on local sandlots, the intercity senior baseball outlook for the coming campaign points to one strong group comprising four teams.

At a meeting of the West Toronto Senior Baseball League, only surviving circuit from five which have operated here during the past decade, it was decided to carry on, despite the disappointing announcement from the Findlay Club that it would not likely operate this year.

Parkdale Derbys, sole survivors of the West Toronto League, and Danforth Aces, from the Viaduct circuit, loom now as Toronto's only representatives in the Ontario senior championship hunt. Peterborough, only remaining team from the now defunct Central Ontario League, has expressed a desire to line up with the Toronto teams again, while Port Credit, from the Lakeshore League, also is willing to fall in line, in order to round out a compact group.

Columbus Grads and Webbers, both members of the intercity Association last season, will not operate this year.

The formation of a four-team league not only would raise the calibre of senior baseball here, but would also stimulate the intermediate brand. The overflow of senior players would naturally go to the Intermediate or Senior "B" class, whichever rating they would get. It is announced that such leagues might be formed in North Toronto, at Viaduct Park and Christie Pits.

Present plans are for the mooted four-team league to stage majority of games at Earlscourt Park, where the seniors have been supported best in recent years. Midweek games would be played in Port Credit while contests also would be played in Peterborough each Saturday.

At the West Toronto meeting, Harvey Brown was re-elected by acclamation for his twelfth consecutive term as president. He expressed hope that senior baseball in Toronto would enjoy its most successful campaign on record.

Other officers elected were: Honorary president, Controller Dr. Fred Conboy; immediate past president, W. G. Radke; first vice-president, R. S. Broatch; second vice-president, R. G. Thomas; third vice-president, W. R. Finkle; secretary-treasurer, W. J. Stewart; recording secretary, R. G. Thomas; auditor, W. G. Radke.

Cobourg Scores Six In First

COBOURG, Feb. 2.—Scoring six goals without reply in the first period, Cobourg coasted to an easy 11-to-2 victory over Port Hope here last night in a scheduled O.H.A. Junior "C" contest. Goalkeeper G. Caine of the home team was knocked out in the second period, but continued in the game with a stellar display. Coogan scored five goals for Cobourg.

Port Hope: Goal, H. Anderson; defense, P. Anderson and Breland; centre, Hill; wings, Bradley and Bradshaw; subs, Rowden, Conroy, Woods, Bailey, DeMille.

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (CP). — A dull cattle market left about 200 head unsold after prices had dropped 15 to 25 cents a cwt. on steers and heifers on the Toronto Live-stock market this week. Calves were down $1 a cwt. and lambs off 25 cents. Hogs dropped 25 cents on dressed sales and 18 cents on live sales.

Weighty steers closed at $6.50 to $7.50, with butcher steers and heifers from $6 to $7.35, and a few tops at $7.50. Butcher cows held steady for the week at $4 to $5.25, with canners and cutters at $3.25 to $3.75. Bulls were steady at $5 to $6 cwt. Fed calves closed weak at $7.75 to $8.75 after making early tops of $9. The few stockers offered sold at $6 to $6.75. Good milkers and springers sold steady at $80 to $90 each while commoner kinds were not in demand.

Calves opened 50 cents lower and dropped another 50 cents on Tuesday. Vealers closed at $12 to $12.50 for choice, with common lights downward to $7.

Among the suggestions was that grand juries be abolished; that the county court, the court of general sessions of the peace, the county judges' criminal court and the surrogate court be consolidated; that coroner's inquests be dispended with in certain cases; that the court crier's position be abolished; and that the province be divided into judicial districts.

No Change Made.

The Government yesterday brought its Bill to amend the Succession Duty Act out of committee stage without one change being made in spite of two days of determined Conservative opposition. The Act is designed to facilitate the collection of arrears of death duties and is retroactive to September 22 las..

"This Act is not going to hold water," said Conservative Leader George Drew. "It is as bad as the one you passed at the special session." The Bill will, if it does what the Government thinks it will do, overcome an injunction granted to forestall investigation of a Kitchener estate.

Most acrimonious debate came on the succession duty clause which provides there is to be no appeal from the valuation the treasurer may place on stocks or other securities, the market value of which may not be readily ascertainable.

Premier Hepburn said the Government was willing to let the courts decide if an estate should be assessed, but the valuation of securities was not a job for the courts and the Government didn't want to be tied up with endless litigation.

Col. Drew asked Mr. Conant to define the principle of the Bill.

"The principle is the collection of revenue for the province," said Mr. Conant.

"You mean any weapon to get the money," said Col. Drew.

Wealth from war-torn Europe was looking for a place to come, said Col. Drew. Ontario should not discourage its import.

"In making Ontario a good place to live in, we don't want to make it a bad place to die," he urged, arguing for the provision of an appeal right.

As the debate waxed warm, Mr. Conant observed that Col. Drew seemed to know all the law in the British Empire.

"These large amendments are monuments to your stupidity," Col. Drew told Mr. Conant. He charged that under one penal section a person receiving a legacy of $1,000 might be liable to a penalty of $500,000 if he didn't tell all he knew about bequests to other persons.

No Fear If Honest

"No person who has dealt honestly with his property will have anything to fear from this act," said Mr. Conant. "The person who hasn't so dealt, has no right to protection."

"You're trying to protect the lawyers who have been the worst dodgers," observed the Premier to Col. Drew.

"This is as vicious a law as was ever introduced in Germany or Russia," said Col. Drew. "There is nothing there that more effectively destroys the rights of individuals. Because as he says 'we've got to get the money,' he prepared to scuttle democratic principles."

Encouragement to mining prospectors is the purpose behind a bill brought in by Attorney-General Conant to amend the Securities Act.

The measure provides that upon the filing of a prospecting syndicate agreement with the provincial secretary or a mining recorder, the liability of the syndicate members or parties to the agreement shall be limited to the terms of the agreement, provided sole purpose of the syndicate or agreement is to finance prospecting or preliminary developments. Capital of such a syndicate is not to exceed $10,000.

"Prospecting is a vital part of the mining industry," said Mr. Conant. "We are seeking in the bill to encourage prospecting and the financing of prospecting expeditions."

Macaulay Wins A Hat

Leopold Macaulay (Con. York South) has a new hat coming to him from Premier Mitchell Hepburn. Attorney-General Conant lost the bet in which a hat was the stake, but the Premier said he would take the bet and buy the hat if Mr. Macaulay would guarantee to wear it. Mr. Macaulay did.

The bet came when Mr. Macaulay said that in the debate on the Succession Duty Bill, Mr. Conant was quoting a Supreme Court of Canada judgment that had been upset by the Privy Council. Mr. Conant said he wasn't aware of this and Mr. Macaulay bet the hat that the judgment was upset on the very principle Mr. Conant was citing. He won.

Col. Fraser Hunter (Lib. Toronto-St. Patricks) said it didn't matter much how the Act was worded. It would probably reach the courts anyway. "The Privy Council will horn in somehow," he predicted.

Second reading, approved in principle, was given to a bill putting in the statutes an agreement between the village of Point Edward, Canadian terminus of the Blue Water bridge near Sarnia, and the Michigan State Bridge Commission, operator of the bridge.

The agreement, which will end litigation over taxes, provides that so long as the bridge is operated by a public authority, $5,000 taxes annually shall be paid to Point Edward.

widow and one of six members of the family living in the house. He had not returned home early today.

"We want to ask him a few questions," Brodeur said.

Winnifred Fahey, 24, found the bodies when she arrived home from work. Her screams for help attracted the attention of a neighbor who summoned police.

The women had been killed only a short time before, apparently, for the partly cooked supper was still on the stove. Patrick Fahey, another son, and his sister Loretta left their mother after the noonday meal to go to work. Loretta usually arrived home about five o'clock, an hour before the bodies were found.

tion of the farm that used to belong to Morley Murray. Morley was a bachelor and 13 years ago his barn was burned to the ground, his body found in the embers. Murder was suspected that time, too, but nothing was ever proved. Maybe this wasn't the first time this man had crossed that same field with murder in his mind.

He came to the barn from the rear and entered it. Maybe he hid in the haymow and waited for his victim to come to the barn to milk his cows. Maybe he hid downstairs somewhere. Maybe he was known to aged Arnold Wellman and entered conversation with him. Maybe, even, he borrowed Mr. Wellman's shotgun for his job, for Mr. Wellman was known to own a shotgun and it can't be found now.

In any case he stood at point blank range, and watched the old man start to milk a cow, his head pressed against the animal, his face away from his murder. He raised the shotgun and pulled the trigger.

When the shot hit him the 77-year-old man was flung back from his milk stool to the floor. Half his head was blown away. Blood spattered the wall behind him and even the cow he had been milking. A big chunk of his skull, torn away, hit the wall and ricocheted 20 feet.

His Second Victim.

The murderer left his victim and went to the house to look for another. He found her in bed, where she had been for 10 days previous suffering from a heart ailment. She was 73-year-old Mrs. Wellman. He poked the barrel of the gun inside the door and pulled the trigger again. The result was worse, for he blew off all one side of her head.

Then he went back for his team and brought them boldly right up the laneway to the barn. He went into a shed and took ten bags of grain out and piled them into the sleigh. He went into the house and ransacked it for valuables, strewing the floors with their contents. And then he drove off.

That is the way police and neighbors reconstructed the most horrible murder ever committed in this district, one of the most gruesome and mysterious in this country.

All of rich Rawdon township is aroused and residents who flocked to the scene in dozens yesterday were both horrified and shocked by the savage crime. "A fiend is living in our midst," one of them said. "He must be caught or none of us is safe." "It begins to look as though we old people aren't safe living alone," said Theodore Reid. Mr. Reid and his wife live alone on the next farm to the Wellmans.

Police are apparently of the same mind about bringing the murderer to justice for there were at least a dozen of them—provincial police and R.C.M.P.'s at the farm house yesterday. They were headed by Sergeant Harry Thompson and Inspector Frank Gardiner of Belleville, and Dr. E. R. Frankish, and Dr. M. L. Robinson, ballistics experts associated with the Criminal Investigation Department, arrived today. They scoured the district, following foot and sleigh tracks, interviewing residents of the district, but their efforts were hampered by near impassable roads. Cars choked the side road from Harold, were continually being halted for long periods when one of their number got out of the single track into the deep snow. Inspector Gardiner and three police spent almost an hour getting their car turned about when they wanted to travel back to Marmora.

Sacrificed All.

It was the callousness and brutality of the crime that residents found hard to believe despite the evidence before their eyes. For the aged couple were among the best loved people in all the district. "They worked like slaves all their lives," one farmer said. "All they wanted was to see that their children had the best education possible and they sacrificed all they had to give it to them." And give it to them they did, for all three children are now members in high standing of the medical profession. They are Dr. A. Lorne Wellman of Waterloo, Dr. Marvin Wellman of Whitby, and Dr. Victoria Wellman of Chicago. Dr. Victoria Wellman was home with her parents for nearly a month and left just after Christmas. She knew her mother was ailing and her last words before leaving were to make her mother promise that if her condition were worse was to let her know immediately and she would return by plane.

Refused To Leave Farm.

Mrs. David Wellman, niece of the murdered couple, said the children had been trying for some time to get their parents to leave the farm and retire to the city, promising to care for them. But they would have none of it, she said. They liked their life on the farm and the independence that went with it.

All the children were to have been home this Sunday when their parents were celebrating their 55th wedding anniversary.

Although the murders were not discovered until late yesterday morning police believe they were committed between three and four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Wellman was in the habit of milking his two cows between these hours and again early in the morning. However, the cows had not been milked in the morning in the opinion of other farmers. Added to that was the fact that the telephone in the home had not been answered the previous night.

It was about ten o'clock in the morning that the double murder was discovered by Edmond Faulkner, rural mail carrier who lives just outside the hamlet of Harold. He is distantly related to the old couple and was in the habit of calling in at the house every other day to see how they were getting along because he know Mrs. Wellman's health was not good.

He went into the house yesterday morning and noticed that no fire had been lighted in the stove. The house was cold. He looked into the bedroom and saw Mrs. Wellman asleep. He went out quietly and on down to the barn to ask Mr. Wellman why he had not lighted the fire. In the stable, beside the overturned milk stool and pail he found the dead man. Quickly he went back to the house, found that Mrs. Wellman, too, was dead, and raced off to get assistance from the closest neighbor, Theodore Reid.

The fact that no shots were heard was explained by the fact that the closest farm was more than a quarter of a mile distant and was down in the valley. The Wellman farm could not be seen from any other farm.

A further motive, beyond theft of ten bags of grain, lay in the possibility the murderer believed the old couple had a good deal of money in the house. For only a month ago Mr. Wellman had sold some livestock and had had a sale of farm equipment. He had even sold his sleigh so that only a waggon was left on the property. When he took his grain to be milled on Monday he used that waggon rather than a sleigh. For that reason, too, it was known that the sleigh that entered the farm yard and left did not belong to him.

But if the murderer thought to get a large sum of money, he was disappointed, for Mr. Wellman had been paid by cheque for the livestock, and had banked the other money.

from the Allies of all support in their power to resist any threat to her independence but with German and Russian troops close to her borders, her position perhaps is the most perilous of all neutral states.

Allies Gain Ground

Turkish and Greek trade with Germany has greatly diminished since the war started, replaced by larger sales to the Allies. For these nations to return to pre-war quotas might mean severe economic disturbances.

Thus anything agreed upon along the line of "economic neutrality" is likely to represent a compromise between the two northern Balkan states—Rumania and Yugoslavia—and the two other Entente members who are further removed by geography from a possible German push.

The latest footnotes on the Balkan conference, reflecting chiefly on Rumania's position, came yesterday from Germany, Britain and Italy:

1. German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop said that Germany and Russia do not want to extend the war into the Balkans.

2. Disclosure in London that Great Britain is following a policy of watchful waiting to see how far Rumania goes in satisfying Germany's demands for oil.

3. The Italian press campaign urging territorial revision in the Balkans, chiefly on behalf of Hungary's claim upon Rumania for restoration of Transylvania.

LONDON, Feb. 2— (CP) —The Daily Sketch reported today that 300 Nazi agents disguised as newspapermen are among 3,000 foreigners who arrived yesterday in Belgrade for the Balkan entente conference.

The newspaper said that according to official data not more than eight per cent of the self-styled German newspaper men are actual correspondents.

A great number of them, the paper continued, are members of the Nazi propaganda organization of "whisperers", whose activities have recently been uncovered in the Netherlands and in Belgium.

The first to arrive in the Yugoslav capital started a rumor that "Germany will take radical steps if any sort of Balkan bloc is formed," the Daily Sketch said.

were sighted and the alarm was ended in 20 minutes.

Several buildings were set afire in an air raid at Rovaniemi in the north, however, and bombing attacks occurred at Hangoe (Hanko), Kotka and Abo (Turku), in the south.

An Associated Press correspondent with the Finnish armies on the Mannerheim Line said Red army infantry charged behind the advancing tank-sledge barrier on the Isthmus front after six hours of artillery preparation.

In this new assault, in which 130 fighting and bombing planes participated, machine-gunners and riflemen on the sledges protected the tanks from the Finnish grenade throwers.

The fighting lasted through the night, but Finnish officers said the defence line was intact and that 15 Soviet batteries had been silenced. Finnish artillery was reported also to have scored direct hits on columns of field cannon, tanks, armored cars and infantry before they could reach fighting positions.

Two Russian observation balloons and one airplane were reported shot down.

(The Russian communique said "nothing of importance took place at the front" yesterday, but reported Soviet fliers had made reconnoitring flights and had "bombed military objectives." Three Finnish airplanes were brought down, it said.)

Greatest Satisfaction In Life Comes In Worship Of God Aged Fenelon Falls Couple Say

(By Staff Reporter)

FENELON FALLS, Feb. 2. — Two old people are waiting patiently at Fenelon Falls, both confident they will live to the century mark. They are Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Webster, oldest residents of the village, who are celebrating their 64th wedding anniversary to-day.

Mr. Webster hasn't far to go to realize his hope, for he's 93 now; and Mrs. Webster stands a good chance because at 88 she is still spry as most women ten years her junior. However, "It's God's will that some people live to a greater age than others," she told an Examiner reporter when he called to see her. And for that reason they don't take much credit on themselves for reaching such an old age. Of course, both said, a person can live a good deal longer by living a temperate, sober life—it's only when it comes to ages far beyond the ordinary life span that God's will is seen. Some people live most temperately, yet never reach the age they have lived to.

Leave Liquor Alone.

Mr. Webster had a word of advice for all young men and women who want to live to healthy old age. It was that they do away with tobacco in all its forms, and that they never touch liquor of any kind. "And buckle down to hard work," was the last part of his formula. That was just as important as the other two measures as far as health was concerned, he believed. "Honest hard work never hurt any man," he said.

The aged couple have been fortunate in their health for until he was 83 Mr. Webster split all his own wood and it was only last November that Mrs. Webster stopped doing her own housework. Since then they've both been taking things easy.

If one conviction has come to them in their life it has been that the worship of God brings the greatest satisfaction, the most lasting comfort, of all things. And it bothers them that so many young people to-day are turning away from the church. "They are more concerned about running around in

City Tax Rate To Await Hepburn Budget

Peterboro's taxpayers will not know this year's rate for another two weeks. The finance committee decided Thursday night to mark time until they know definitely whether the Ontario government is going to come through with a contribution to the city treasury that has taken the place of income tax the city used to collect.

The council last year went ahead and struck the rate on the expectation of getting a mill from the province. Later they were notified tha contribution would be a mill and a half. That late change tangled the business of making up the tax bills which had been set in motion.

Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Cotton advised that the estimates should be withheld for another week or so. That means the council meeting Monday night will omit the budget, which is expected to be completed for another meeting of the finance committee Friday night, February 9th, when the estimates will be given a final revison, and the tax rate will be recommended to a special meeting of the council the following Monday.

The committee last night looked over the requisitions that have already been received and compiled, and cut out various sums amounting to $3,725, concluding a long session that was chiefly concerned with further organization of the business affairs of the city for this year.

Board Of Works Estimates Jumped $40,000 In Few Years Tuggey Says

"When I read in the Examiner that the estimates of the Board of Works were more than $100,000, I asked myself whether any of the members of the council are really giving any thought to the taxpayer," Fred T. Tuggey, former alderman, stated to the Examiner today.

"I don't want to embarrass the council, but when I think that we used to do a lot of work with $60,000; and when I think of the country being in the midst of a great war, a terrible war, and that we've all got to pay for it out of taxes, surely to goodness it is time for the council to sit up and decide that a lot of these things they are talking about these days have been pushed by world events and the job before this country into a comparatively low level of importance.

I am around the city quite a bit, and I would like to tell the council that the people are looking for a decided reduction in our tax rate. But, we're not going to get it if they are going on a spending spree of more than $100,000 for the Board of Works just as if everything was rosy and Hitler was only a bad dream.

Can we get three mills cut off the tax rate. From all I have heard and read I feel it should be something like that. Give the taxpayer a chance. We are almost certain to have patriotic loans before long; and the people pay them. And they are not objecting to it, but for goodness sake let us tighten up the spending at the city hall. If other citizens who feel the way I do on this subject we'll get the reduction in taxes this year which we ought to get."

Mounted Police RequestRemand

"I have instructions from Ottawa to ask for another remand, Your Worship," said Constable K. M. Lockwood of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police when the case of Fidus Mueller, the German arrested here some time ago after he had applied for shelter at the police station, was called in police court this morning.

Mueller was charged with vagrancy and with Emil Baumer acting as interpreter, pleaded not guilty today.

When asked as to what he had to say in regard to the request for a remand, the German replied that he couldn't see why he had to wait until next week for trial.

However the Magistrate granted the police request for a remand.

Suspended Sentence

Pleading guilty to a charge of theft of the use of an automobile, Elmer Tripp was allowed to go on suspended sentence by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

The original charge against Tripp of automobile theft was dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence.

John A. Bradshaw, who appeared for the accused, said that it was his client's first appearance in court and asked for suspended sentence.

His request was granted by the Magistrate after Crown Attorney McElderry had stated that he would offer no objection.

It was explained to the court that the car that Tripp had taken from in front of a George Street restaurant had been abandoned at Lakefield.

Gee in Police Court, Thursday. Bruce sought shelter in the local police station and during the night became involved in a brawl with one of the other town "guests."

"I certainly got the worst of it," the accused said, gingerly rubbing a swollen jaw.

Many Mourn Charles D. Cook

Members of the Kiwanis Club and associates at the DeLaval Company were present in large numbers this morning at the funeral service of Charles David Cook, who died early Wednesday morning in his 73rd year.

A private service for members of the immediate family was held at the Cook residence, 615 Weller street, at 9.30 o'clock, followed by a public service at Trinity United Church at 10.30 o'clock. The remains will be taken to Mr. Cook's boyhood home, Charlotte, Vt., for burial.

Pall-bearers were W. R. Breyfogle, Dr. J. J. Craig, Isaac McNabb, W. J. Oke, D. Carlisle, and E. J. Ruiter.

Kiwanians paid tribute at their luncheon at noon today to the memory of Mr. Cooke. Secretary J. A. McKone told club members that Mr. Cook had been president in 1925. "Those connected with the club at that time will remember him as a man of wit and a valuable member of this association. He lived up to all the ideals of Kiwanis, and that doesn't leave much to be said. As a citizen he took his part in the life of the community, and he was the spark plug of the DeLaval Company. We realized this morning what a valuable member he was in his church."

"As members of the Kiwanis club we mourn his passing and the citizens of Peterborough will mourn him too."

Mr. Cook was publicity director of the DeLaval Company for many years and associates attended his funeral in a body. The Chamber of Commerce, of which he was once a director, and the Industrial Exhibition Board were both represented, as well as the Masonic Order. Mr. Cook was a member of Royal Arthur Lodge, A.F. and A.M.

Pedlar Collapses

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 — (CP) — A man who collapsed and died on a Montreal street on Wednesday and was found to have 18 pairs of spectacles, three watches, and more than $30 in cash in his pockets, has been identified as "Ti Blanc" Lachapelle, 55-year-old pedlar. An acquaintance, Louis Legault, identified him. Coroner Richard Duckett said death was from natural causes.

Lifeless Body Of Man Is Found In Chair

The lifeless body of William A. Forbert, well-kown resident of Chemong Park, was discovered in a chair in the kitchen of his park home Thursday afternoon, when a Peterborough young couple called to purchase a pail of honey.

Mr. Forbert, who lived alone, had apparently been dead for at least 48 hours. Evidently death had struck as he was taking off his boots and he had fallen back in his chair. The radio was still playing and a copy of Tuesday's Examiner was close by his elbow.

The body was found when the young couple visited the Forbert home which is located just inside the southeast gate of the park. They found the place locked, and looking in the kitchen window saw Forbert sitting in his chair, obviously dead.

A telephone call brought Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd A. McClure to the scene. He broke into the house by forcing a rear door. Coroner Dr. H. N. Young arrived shortly after and pronounced death due to natural causes. There will be no inquest.

William A. Forbert was 72 years of age. His father at one time was proprietor of the Chemong Park Hotel and the family is well-known in the district. The deceased lived for some time in the United States but returned to Chemong thirty years ago and had lived there ever since. He was a beekeeper and had nineteen hives of bees on the place.

Surviving relatives are a sister, Mrs. Jennie Sullivan in Detroit, Mich., and an aunt, Mrs. Kearney, at Young's Point. A year ago Mr. Forbert had a close call from death when he fell in his house and lay for four days before being discovered. As a result gangrene set in in his frozen feet and he was many months in hospital.

Firemen battled in a heavy snowstorm Thursday night to quell a blaze that broke out in a frame shed behind Fred DeCarlo's house at 476 Rubidge street. The entire south end of the shed was burned out, but the blaze did not reach the house.

The office, however, will not be open Saturday afternoon, and prospective applicants are asked to call Monday.

PAYS COSTS OF ACTION

The finance committee of the council passed an account of $221 costs of the city's defence of the action of the Hillrust Wine Company to prevent the taking of a vote on the council's proposal to close the wine shop in this city. There was also the cost of printing the ballots which have probably found their way to the furnace at the city hall. City Solicitor Huycke told the committee the case was reviewed in the Law Society's notes issued this week, and that it had become a precedent.

In a critical condition, he suffered a broken spine. Police were told the elderly man stepped right in front of the automobile, driven by B. Rogers, Frankford.

BEAR SAW SHADOW

As a concession to Canadian folklore it should be recorded that today, Candlemas Day, the bear saw his shadow, conveying to the neighbors full warning that the coal bin seige will continue for another six weeks, with another four weeks tacked on to the term if March comes in like a lion. And even then winter may dally in the lap of Spring, and the ash-sifting detail may be carried not only through the maple syrup season but right up to the blooming of the hepaticas in the hardwood bush. All of which, in the way of gloomy and chilly predicting, is likely to bring cheers and approval from Reg Turner. At any rate, the bear has gone back into the hollow tree to sleep and snore on until the crows get noisy over head. Lucky bruin!

GOVERNMENT PAYS $6,000

Alderman Wilson, chairman of the Board of Works, pointed out an error in a recent report of the Board's meeting in which it was stated that the cost of the remaking of the road paralleling the canal north of the C.P.R., and amounting to around $11,000, would probably be assumed entirely by the federal government. The Department of Transport agreed to contribute $6,000, and Alderman Wilson said that the council incurred additional expense by deciding to straighten the south end of the road below the railway. Land was obtained from the Dickson estate, and a road has been constructed on a fill built up of earth drawn from Armour Hill. The chairman intimated that the extra four thousand dollars would be charged to the city.

Soldier In Canadian Force With No Kin Finds Friends In Patterson Street Couple

Some weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. W. Childs of 589 Patterson Street decided to find out if there were any soldiers in the Canadian force going overseas who had no relatives with whom they could keep in touch, and who would therefore not have any one in this country who might write to them or send along the occasional parcels.

Mr. Childs wrote to Lt.-Col. Rev. G. O. Fallis, and the letter was in turn referred to Lt.-Col. H. J. Thompson, O.C. Army Field Workshop. The answering letter was to the effect that Pte John Joseph Sullivan, 30 years old, who has no known living relatives, had been considered just the person to fit in with the plan of Mr. and Mrs. Childs, and they are delighted that the arrangements have been so speedily made.

The army officers entirely approved of the idea and intimated there were others in the regiment who had no relatives in Canada, and expressed the hope that the plan started by Mr. and Mrs. Childs might become more general.

Liberals Call Convention For February 10

"Fifty-five were invited—and sixty came," it was said last night of the Liberal dinner at the Champlain Hotel. Others were laid up with colds and couldn't get out.

It wasn't a gilt-edged invitation affair; just an informal dinner talk in the spirit of getting things started, with a decision to call a nominating convention for Saturday, February 10. Howard Quinn, president, was chairman.

The common chord of the round of short speeches was a declaration of confidence in the government and leadership of Mackenzie King and appreciation of the service given to the riding by J. J. Duffus.

A formal resolution of loyalty to the Hon. Mr. King was moved by H. G. Walker and seconded by Arthur J. McClellan, a copy of which is to be sent to the Premier.

The attendance at the dinner was a cross-section of the men of the city and the west half of the county.

"We want to let the country know that we are 100 per cent behind Mackenzie King and his Government," Dr. A. Moir stated, emphasizing the party's position in Peterborough, especially in attitude as indicated by the fact that the only reference to opposition ideas of a national government were set against it.

"I endorse all that has been said Mr. Duffus," Dr. Moir added, "and I feel that we should have very little doubt in Peterborough."

Mayor Hamilton said that from his associations with Mr. Duffus during the last two years, including many trips to Ottawa on city busi-

An Alparka Night

Wisps of frolicking snow tossed about by a wind from the northeast swirled in jive against the Alparka door last night sweeping along the pane with the light and feathery touches of brushes on the percussion instrument that used to be called a kettle drum, but goodness knows what strange name the swing band boys have for it. Inside, the coffee was brewing with a quiet homey bubbling, giving off a fragrant aroma redolant of domestic scenes. Winter was at its zenith, and Orion had passed overhead on his nightly march toward the western hills. It was one of those nights that will be remembered by the Alparka crowd next summer when its collective nose will be pointed toward tall beakers of concoctions with ice cream foundations.

Police Track Young Men To Their Home

Police surprised a couple of men who were apparently trying to break into the service station of Joseph Detcher, 500 George street, early this morning and as the result of the subsequent tracking of two sets of foot prints in the newly fallen snow, Jack Woodcock, 22, and Jimmy Woodcock, 18, were arrested at their Union street home.

Sergt. W. E. Wigg and Constable John Stevenson in a patrol car arrived in front of the service station shortly after 1 o'clock and as Sergt. Wigg looked into the front window he saw a man at the rear window. Sending Constable Stevenson north on George and east on McDonnel street with the car the sergeant ran round the building and found that two men had climbed the fence at the back and made their way to Water street. There they had turned south, ran in behind St. Paul's Church and over the roofs of sheds before they veered to the north again across private property.

A radio call to the police station brought reinforcements in the person of Constables Leo. Murphy and C. J. McGillen and then the officers proceeded to trace the foot prints of the fugitives.

Sergt. Wigg followed one set of tracks across Dublin street and then west over George street into the rear of the woodpiles in Baker's wood yard and over the wood back across Dublin street and finally to the front door of the Woodcock home.

Constables Murphy and McGillen traced the other tracks along the edge of the river at the Goose Pond where the quarry had ran east of the shrubbery, then along lanes north for some distance and back again on the west side of George street at the rear of Menzies' bakery to finally wind up at the rear door of the house in which the Woodcocks were afterward arrested.

This morning the two youths were charged before Magistrate Langley in police court with breaking and entering the Detcher service station and both pleaded not guilty.

Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., asked for a week's remand. Jack Woodcock voiced no objection but his younger brother protested.

"I want to get this over as soon as possible," he told the court. "They say they have got the evidence so why can't they go on?"

The two were remanded until Friday of next week, with no application for bail.

Firemen Seek Salary Increase Of Fifteen Percent; Aldermen Seek Information

A deputation from the employees of the Fire Department petitioned the finance committee of the council last night for a 15 p.c. increase in their salaries, supporting their general appeal with the reminder that they had received only one other increase in twenty years and that it had been temporarily cancelled during the depression.

The members of the deputation were Vergil Carr, mechanic; Joseph Astles, electrican, and Garnet Brown, fireman.

The immediate action of the committee was expressed in a resolution by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman Wilson, directing that information regarding wages and salaries paid to Fire Departments elsewhere be obtained by letter from cities of approximately Peterborough's population.

While Mr. Carr was addressing the committee, Alderman Stocker asked him: "What salary are you getting now?"

"Fifteen hundred dollars," Mr. Carr answered.

"Well, youre getting a lot of money, and two suits of clothes a year and an overcoat. Thousands of men are not getting half that."

After that salute the delegates from the fire hall proceeded with their story.

Mr. Carr said the firemen were given the increase of 12½ per cent in 1930. Then came the depression on the heels of that improvement. In 1932 the men's salaries were cut 5 per cent, and in 1933 there was a further cut of 7½ per cent, wiping out the entire gain. Then, in 1937 half the total slash, or 6¼ per cent was restored, and in 1938 the men received the other 6¼ per cent, returning them to the salary schedule of 1930.

Mr. Carr said that Chief Gimblett had not been given an increase in the eighteen years of his engagement in Peterboro.

Work Extra Time.

Mr. Astels said the firemen work in fourteen and ten hour shifts. The men on the off-shifts have to report in for duty when called to fires, and on the whole they work "as much again as the police" in the overtime that is required.

"Firemen who have been with the Department from ten to twenty years are not getting more than third rate constables," Garnet Brown stated. "The city of Peterboro rates fourth in its financial position, and our department is the fourth lowest in the rate of pay."

Mr. Brown and Mr. Astles both emphasized the information, especially to the new members of the council, that the men are required to devote a considerable part of their off-shift time to inspection work. For instance, those who are employed on the night shift, sleeping at the fire hall and have to report back at the fire hall about 9 o'clock in the morning. Two men are detailed to this duty each day during the long season after the winter breaks up, each of them separately accompanying the two regular inspectors. They work during the mornings and again in the afternoons until five o'clock, return home, and then report for night duty. These details call for overtime two or three times a week, and every second Sunday the men have to work twenty-four hours at the hall.

Ald. Roy's Compliment.

"I want to pay tribute to the Fire Department," Alderman Roy said, "A splendid feeling has been developed between the Department and the citizens that is a real asset. I don't know whether this raise is justified. I havent been here long enough."

Alderman Stocker declared that he was not questioning the ability of the Fire Department. To him the fact that the country was at war with the probability of increasing taxes to pay for it, should be given first consideration.

A schedule of the present salaries was received from Chief Gimblett with an accompanying list of the payment to the staff by the proposed increase.

Twelve firemen whose experience ranges fro mthree to seventeen years are now receiving $1,400 a year, and with the increase they would get $1,600.

Other members of the staff with their present and proposed salaries were listed as follows: Chief Gimblett $2,500, with increase $3,000; George Smith, assistant Chief, $1,675, proposed salary $2,000; Captain William Jones and Captain Archie McDonald, each $1,560, with increase $1,750; Joseph Astles, electrician, $1,525, proposed $1,700; Vergil Carr, mechanic, $1,500, proposed $1,700; John Masters, engineer, $1,500, proposed $1,600.

Discussion by the committee of the petition from the firemen was postponed until the comparative information is received from other

Mrs. Agnes Allan Is Laid To Rest In Mount Pleasant Cemetery

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—Widow of Rev. William Allan, who lost his life in the Athenia disaster, Agnes Hannah Fairbairne Allan was laid at rest Thursday in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. A. J. Vining and Rev. E. Foreman at McDougall and Brown's St. Clair Avenue West chapel.

Police Inspector Herbert Marshall, Rex Frost, Alexander Jardine, Thomas Dutton, Dr. D. W. Clark of Peterborough, and Allan Wilson acted as pallbearers.

Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of Peterborough officiated at the graveside in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Floral tributes literally filled the funeral chapel, and they included remembrances from the following groups: Management and staff of radio station CFRB, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Sunday School Teachers' Association, Dovercourt Road Unity Class, Dovercourt Road Fidelis Auxiliary, W.M.S., Women's Missionary Society of Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church, Women's Auxiliary of Dovercourt Church, Tenth Company Boys' Brigade, Dovercourt Church.

Poor flying conditions over the Rocky Mountains prevented Andrew Allan, a son of the deceased, from being present at the funeral. Andrew is production manager for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in Vancouver, and he had planned to fly here for the service, his brother Arnold explained.

Red Patch Club Joins Criticism

The following resolution has been received from the local Red Patch Club relating to statements made by Alderman Stocker at a recent meeting of the city council:

"It is resolved that the Red Patch Club, Peterborough, endorses in its entirety the resolution made by Branch 52, Canadian Legion, censuring Ald. W. Stocker on his remarks pertaining to Dr. G. M. Fraser, M.O.H., a member of this club and now on active service."

"It is also resolved that it is the unanimous opinion of this club, that the failure of city councils to severely censure officials making like statements is detrimental, inasmuch as it fails to manifest the sincerity of governing bodies in their intentions to safeguard the interests of the Canadian soldier while serving, and his welfare on return to civil life."

Cost Of Relief Set At $38,000

Relief estimates for this year are $38,000 as compared with the $50,000 appropriated last year and the approximate total expenditure of $49,183.81, Alderman Dutton reported to the finance committee of the council last night.

The decrease from last year's estimates is $12,000. Mr. Duffus praised the work done by the relief office staff.

"The Examiner made some very kindly remarks about me as chairman of the relief committee," Alderman Dutton said, "but really I want to pass that on to Mr. Metheral and his staff, with special mention of the ability of Miss Beavis.

Colorful At Home Held By Students Of The Lakefield High School

The 5th annual at home of the Lakefield High School Literary and Athletics Association was a colorful social affair of Thursday evening in the Memorial Hall at Lakefield. Red and white streamers in clever draped effect, and large cellophane hearts caught with scarlet ribbon, swayed above the dancing couples. Valentine motifs were again used to outline the letters "L. H. S." at the back of the orchestra stand, where Jimmy Duffus and his orchestra were playing alluring music. Spot dances were won by Miss Dorothy Hopcroft and Mr. N. Agnew; Miss Madeline Peters and Mr. Gerrard Delaney. A special birthday dance number was played by the orchestra in honor of Miss Cora Charlton.

Young Conservative Association Holds Most Successful Dance

The first social affair arranged by the newly-formed Peterborough Young Conservative Association took place in the Canadian Legion Hall Thursday evening, when a large number of young people danced merrily to the music of Mose Yokum's band, or played cards in the club room on the second floor. Miss June Northey won the door prize, a handsome motor rug. Spot dances were won by Miss Isobel Young, Mr. Maurice Killare; Mrs. Stenner, Mrs. Bantam, and prizes for euchre were awarded to Mrs. W. Adams and Mr. Robert Miller. Members of the executive in charge of arrangements included the president, Mr. Lorne Farley, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. R. Perks, Mrs. L. Farley, Miss Ruth Farr, Miss Ada Frizelle, Mr. Wm. Moorhead, Jr., Miss Louise and Miss Lillian Wesley. Assisting with refreshments were Mrs. T. Skinner, Mrs. Pickering and Mrs. J. Deval.

Col. B. F. Hooper, D.S.O., M.C., formely of the Dominion Conservative Association, was presented by Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, Conservative candidate for West Peterborough, who spoke briefly and forcefully—not so much as a politician, he said, but as a man and a soldier—one who knew what it was to be in the front of things, having served in the last Great War.

In such times as these, he urged, young people should think and think right—think for themselves, and "think what we would do were this Canada of ours placed as Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Finland are to-day. Would we be tough enough and united enough to bear what they are bearing and remember that Canada would have to pay the price if the British Empire and her allies failed to win the war?" he asked, and suggested that the thought is not too remote to consider well.

Mr. Lorne Farley, president of the Young Conservative Association, was introduced by Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, and spoke briefly, asking for the support of those interested in the organization. Mrs. J. Cridland, newly-elected president of the Women's Conservative Association, was also introduced.

The C.W.A. of All Saints' Church held a successful Valentine tea Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. Dobbin, 267 Stewart street. Mrs. J. D. Paterson and Mrs. Albert Tivey, president of the Association, received with the hostess.

Engaging little cupids and scarlet hearts decked the rooms, and the tea table, attractive with a lace cloth and spring flowers in a crystal bowl, was also gay with Valentine motifs. Tea was poured by Mrs. Joseph Detcher and Mrs. Leo Ackford. Mrs. Walter Hughes, tea room convenor, was assisted by Mrs. Fred Mowry, Mrs. A. Austin, Miss Muriel Wallace, Mrs. J. E. Hill, Mrs. A. Reid, Mrs. E. W. Fisher, Mrs. Roy Dixon.

Mrs. Joseph Adams was treasurer for the affair; Mrs. R. N. Jones was in charge of fancy work and Mrs. B. Burns of homemade cooking.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have several of your English recipes on hand and I wonder if it would be possible to get those included in this list (enclosed). I work for an oldish Englishman who is very fond of English dishes which I am not accustomed to making.

Also could you give me one for a suet pudding with apples in the centre. He means like a bowl with the suet pastry and fill the centre with apples and steam. Also directions for the suet pastry. I should be very grateful if you could help me out. I have this clipping from an old Examiner.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Beefsteak And Kidney Pie
(English Version)

One pound each lean beef and pork or beef kidney, ¾ pound potatoes, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, a tablespoon chopped parsley, stock of water, salt and pepper. Cut the beef in pieces about ½-inch thick and 1-inch square, and arrange them around a pie pan. In the centre put the potatoes, either cut in thick slices or shaped into small balls with French ball cutter, and sprinkle all with the chopped parsley and onions. Season with salt and pepper and add sufficient stock or water to just cover the meat. Cover with either puff pastry or short plain paste, press the edges down firmly, moistening the paste slightly, decorate with pastry cut out in fancy shapes. Make long gash in centre of pastry to allow steam to escape, brush over with beaten yolk of egg, and bake in a slow oven for about 2¾ hours.

Beefsteak and Kidney Pie
(Emem's Version)

Purchase 1½ lbs. beef, 1 pound kidneys, trim and cut up and drop in water. Drain, roll in flour. Add 1 quart boiling water and boil over heat 2 hours, adding more boiling water as it cooks away and stirring to prevent burning. Pour into baking dish, sprinkle over top 2 teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon pepper, cover with tea biscuits cut out in 2-inch rounds and bake at 425 deg. Fahr., for 20 minutes. Additional gravy is desirable with this—sometimes a little extra made by adding more water when the meat is boiling will do.

Gooseberry Fool.

One quart gooseberries is cooked till tender in a light syrup made with ¼ pound sugar and ½ pint water. Rub through sieve and, when quite cold, add to 1 pint cream, whipped.

Jam Tarts

These consists of small tarts, made either with short plain paste or puff pastry, filled with jam (raspberry is a favorite) and baked to a light golden brown in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. They can be eaten either hot or cold but are at their best when warm.

Roly-Poly Pudding

One-half pound flour, ½ pound suet, jam, 2 saltspoons of baking powder, a pinch of salt. Chop the suet finely and mix in bowl with the flour, salt, baking powder and a little cold water. Put on a floured baord and roll out to a sheet of about ¼-inch thickness. Spread with a thin layer of jam, moisten edges, roll lightly in shape of a long sausage, press down the edges so as to seal thoroughly, wrap in pudding cloth (torn up old bed sheet about 2-feet square makes a good one), tying ends with string and boil for about 1½ hours. (Then pudding is sometimes bakes for about ¾ hour or a little longer in a fairly hot oven.)

Lancashire Hot Pot

Two pounds best end neck of mutton, 3 sheep's kidneys, 2 pounds potatoes, 18 or 20 raw oysters, a few mushrooms, 1 Spanish onion, ¾ pint stock, 2 tablespoons butter or dripping, salt, pepper and a little sugar. Divide them into cutlets and neatly trim off the skin and fat. Brown in a little butter or dripping, and place in a deep fireproof baking dish, seasoning with salt and pepper and the sugar. Over the cutlets place the sliced kidneys, mushrooms, oysters in layers, and finally the thickly sliced potatoes neatly arranged and completely covering the whole. Pour the stock over this, cover with a lid or with paper and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 2½ hours. About 15 minutes before serving, remove lid so that the potatoes may brown. Serve in dish in which it was cooked.

Bubble And Squeak
(From the Cook's Oracle—pub. 1832)

"For this select those parts of the joint which have been least done; it is generally made with slices of cold boiled salt beef, sprinkle with a little pepper, and just slightly browned with a bit of butter in a frying pan. If it is fried too much it will be hard.

Boil a cabbage, drain it quite dry, and chop it small. Take the beef out of the frying pan and lay the cabbage in the frying pan. Sprinkle a little pepper and salt over it; keep the pan moving over the fire for a few minutes; lay the cabbage in the middle of a dish, and the meat around it."

The Steamed Apple Pudding to which you refer is made with the same pastry as Roly-Poly Pudding seen above. Line a small bowl with this pastry leaving enough over the edges that it may be brought over the top and pinched to completely enclose apples when filled. Fill centre of bowl with tart good cooking apples (Spy's or Winter Duchess are good), sprinkle with about 2-3 cup sugar and nutmeg or mace if liked, cover with the overhanging pastry, pinching it tightly together, and tie cloth over top by laying cloth flat over bowl, tying string around bowl about 1-inch below top rim, then bringing loose edges of cloth together in a knot at the top. Steam about 3 hours, in steamer the lid of which fits very snugly. Do not uncover during entire steaming period—but add water to bottom of steamer as needed. Serve with cream or lemon sauce.

We hope these recipes help you and that you will write again.

Robertson Davies Weds Brenda Newbold

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP Cable). — Robertson Davies, Canadian actor, director and author, and Brenda Newbold, stage manager of the Old Vic Theatre, were married today in an informal ceremony at Chelsea Old Church, with Rev. R. E. Sadleir officiating.

Mr. Davies, 26-year-old son of Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard and the Peterborough Examiner and president of The Canadian Press, and Mrs. Davies, met Miss Newbold three years ago when both started working at the Old Vic. Miss Newbold, who is 23, was born in Melbourne, Australia.

The wedding was attended by many theatrical friends, and the bride was given away by Tyrone Guthrie, director of the Old Vic.

Because the bridegroom considers wedding music to be unusually gloomy, he selected pieces from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," which were particularly appropriate in view of the many guests who are members of the Sadler's Wells Opera Company which is associated with the Old Vic.

Mr. and Mrs. Davies will spend their honeymoon at Rupert Davies' Welsh seat, "Fronfraith Hall," Abermule, Montgomeryshire, and will later make a trip to Canada.

Wedding Of Last Great War Is Of Interest

United in marriage at a military wedding in St. John's Anglican Church on February 11, 1915, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gash of 6 Sammon Avenue, Toronto, who were residents of Peterborough until a few years ago, will shortly celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

Twenty-five years ago their wedding took place in St. John's Anglican Church, Mrs. Gash was the former Elizabeth Fasbraey, and the groom, Pte. Walter J. Gash, was a member of the 3rd Canadian contingent for overseas service. The ceremony, witnessed by a large number of the members of the 3rd contingent, was performed by Capt. Spence, officer commanding the local contingent. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weeks attended the bridal couple. The bride was charmingly gowned in white, with veil and orange blossoms, and the groom was in military uniform.

An unforseen circumstance that fortunately did not result seriously, occurred on the return from the church. The road leading from the church, owing to recent heavy snowfalls, had become almost impassable, and in some way the horse became stuck in the snow and the cab was turned over on its side. With the assistance of a number of soldier boys, the bride and groom were removed from the vehicle, while the groom gallantly carried his trembling bride to the sidewalk, where they re-entered the cab and drove away without further mishap.

Mr. and Mrs. Gash have three children, two daughters and a son: Mrs. A. Moore of Hamilton, Miss Betty Gash and Mr. Walter R. Gash, both at home.

Lack Of Miners Behind Jap Power Shortage

TOKYO, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Government arranged today to rush almost 1,000,000 tons of coal to power plants in an effort to relieve an electricity famine which virtually has paralyzed Japan's industrial system.

Drastic new restrictions which have been imposed on electricity users probably can be lifted by the end of the month, a government official said, but further reductions are expected before then.

The Osaka district, Japan's chief manufacturing centre, was operating on schedules in some cases of 75 per cent below normal under orders for a 10-day curtailment.

Further reductions impended in the Osaka region and similar restrictions were scheduled for February 10 in Tokyo and Yokohama.

Numerous factories which require an uninterrupted flow of electricity were planning complete shutdowns.

Osaka City of Gloom

Osaka, a city of 3,500,000, had rationed current after a 14-hour total suspension and still was a city of gloom with even streetcars operating on curtailed schedules.

Many electrically-operated steel and iron furnaces had ceased operations and other large factories were running on short-hour schedules with frequent holidays planned.

Although Japan is almost self-sufficient for coal, there was a shortage ascribed to a lack of miners and insufficient equipment.

This difficulty was aggravated by clogged transportation facilities resulting from wartime demands on shipping and by a drought which has cut down the nation's hydro-electric resources.

Many small vessels were bucking stormy seas with coal cargoes from continental ports and the government announced two 50,000-ton orders, from Canada and British India, were due for delivery sometime this month.

Ladies' Club Meets At Taylor Home

KEENE, Feb. 2 (ENS)—Mrs. G. S. Taylor was hostess to the Ladies' Club Wednesday evening. Meeting opened with singsong followed by roll call. Current events were given by Mrs. J. Plunkett. The ladies decided to make a donation of $5.00 to the Red Cross. Miss Jean Armstrong gave an interesting talk on her trip to Scotland.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and assisted by Miss H. Nelson and Betty Brown.

It's here—The Telemarker "Better Names" contest begins with this issue which, by the way is the first issue of the new series 1940-41. We have noticed in our travels through other ski territories such as Sun Valley, the Tyrol, Lake Placid et al that most clubs have outstanding names for their Chalets, hills, downhills and slaloms and it has occurred to us that we should have the same rather than saying "the second hill over from the slalom," or "the hill up from the Chalet." How about it? We'll do our part if you'll help us out. The names can be Indian, Swiss, French, Scandinavian or what have you. Names such as "Sunshine Lodge", "Camp Christie", "Bethany Heights" for the chalet and "Devil's Elbow", "Little Baldy", "Smoky Trail" and "Dippy Hill" for the downhill, slalom and other hills.

Here's all you have to do to win one of the big prizes offered in connection with the contest. Ballots will be provided for you to fill in your names. They will be on hand out at the chalet at Bethany and a box will be available to deposit them in. Won't you start thinking right now and talk it up. The prizes are a secret at the time of writing but will really be something.

The week-end was a huge success and even the weather gave us a break for a change, both days being ideal for skiing. Even the wind which has been blowing continually for some weeks past let up, however, this was probably due to the fact that Gerry Duffus was home in bed with a slight touch of grip and Jack Holland was out at Nassau jumping.

The Peterborough team representing the club in the provincial meet at Huntsville leaves today and we wish them all best of luck. The senior representatives are Karl Duffus, George Cook and Jack Holland with "Spike" Matthews all set to do his bit in junior competition. Happy landings.

Equipment tips: Heat, even moderate, cooks the oil in leather and ruins the waterproofing. Once cooked the leather can never be restored to its original quality. When you take off your ski boots, lay them on their sides in a cool dry place or better still, hang them up by the soles on a metal hanger.

Never, at any time, store your skiis standing on end. Everyone wonders why skiis so often split at the heels and standing them on end is one good reason.

A skier's philosophy (we suggest Jack Couper) that the world is composed of three essential elements, namely, snow, blondes and apple pie a la mode.

The Ski Babes were really out trying hard over the week-end and will shortly be promoted from the "Babe" class. For the first hour or so the "downhill maniacs" had them pretty scared but they finally came into their own over on the "north hill next to the woods" (that's where the Telemarker contest comes in), and over there they had pretty much their own way. We would ask all the above mentioned "maniacs" to leave the most northerly hill alone for recreational skiers as they must have one place to themselves.

Military Team Takes Lead Manitoba Group

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2 (CP) A military hockey team from Winnipeg may provide the Manitoba entry in the Allan Cup playdowns this spring.

Winnipeg Rifles top the ten-team military league and in exhibition games have defeated Cruisers and Winnipeg Lombards, leaders of the Manitoba senior circuit. Rifles are regarded as Winnipeg's strongest senior team in years.

Port Arthur Bear Cats, present Allan Cup holders, have run into plenty of competition in the thunder bay league from Geraldton Gold Miners. Jazzy Manahan, their coach last year, signed up as the non-playing coach of Fort William this week. Bear Cats spoiled his first appearance on the Fort bench last night by defeating the blue boys 4-2.

Calgary Stampeders and Trail Smoke Eaters have been standouts in the far west, while in the Saskatchewan circuit only seven points separate the first and last-place teams.

Calgary has headed the Alberta league since early in the year and at present holds a five-point edge over Turner Valley Oilers who have two games in hand. Calgary has a record of 15 home games without a defeat.

Trail, Allan Cup winners in 1938 and winners of the world championship in Europe last year, have waltzed through the West Kootenay league, undefeated in more than a dozen games. Trail, however, lost three of their former stars, Johnny McCreedy, Dick Kowcinak and Mel Snowden, to Sudbury this year.

Saskatoon Quakers lead Yorkton Terriers and Regina Vic-aces in the Saskatchewan league by four points, but Terriers have one game in hand and Regina two. Moose Jaw Millers, five points behind Quakers, also have two games in hand despite their 4-0 loss last night to Yorkton.

Elaine Wins John For "24 Hours Of Bliss" Beating Out Barrymore Blood Ties

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—After eighteen hours of their promised "twenty-four hours of bliss" together, John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie decided to extend their reconciliation—indefinitely.

"Indefinite" was the word for it, although they sounded last night as if all once more was nothing but love and kisses in their hectic romance-marriage. They vowed ther reconciliation would be permanent; in the next breath Barrymore would add a "we think" or an "if" and thereby indicate that they weren't too sure about it all.

"Great little girl, Elaine," he said before he left a hotel for the second night's Broadway showing of his new play, "My Dear Children."

"We've had our ups and downs. Hell, everybody has. But she's swell. Permanent reconciliation? I don't know. How can anybody look into the future? But hope springs eternal in the human heart."

Said Elaine at this point:

"We've had our quarrels, and maybe we'll have more. But right now we're definitely friends."

They have been first friends and then foes since before their first marriage more than three years ago. Once they were divorced, and later they reconciled and rowed. Then a year ago they started to play together on the stage as well as in real life, Elaine appearing as the daughter who got spanked in "My Dear Children." Then came another estrangement, with Elaine leaving the play and instituting divorce proceedings once more.

Elaine didn't accompany Barrymore to the theatre last night, but they arranged for her to meet him after the show for a round of parties. Another full house enjoyed the Barrymore technique, although he again played his leading role "straight," as he did last night in returning to Broadway for the first time in seventeen years.

He was not feeling too chipper, so his male nurse stood in the wings to give him a bit of "medicine" and a cigaret each time he left the stage.

The new "reconciliation" followed last night's performance, Barrymore yielding, despite the protests of some of his "dear children" to Elaine's entreaty for "twenty-four hours of bliss."

Elaine refused to be up-staged by various blood Barrymores, and in an early morning break-up it was she who carried off her man after he disdained his own daughter's plea to go home with her—"now!"—from a night club.

The reunion was an icily compact little night club scene, replete with acetic repartee, that might well have been cribbed out of "My Dear Children," the well-received vehicle of Barrymore's return to Broadway last night after an absence of some seventeen years.

At the theatre opening Elaine was refused admittance to his dressing room.

Ready To Fight

Barring the door was Diana Barrymore Blythe, Barrymore's daughter by his marriage to Michael Strange, the poetess. Diana was abetted by Doris Dudley, who plays one of Barrymore's "dear children" in the somewhat biographical Barrymore play.

The fair Diana, now an actress, too, shook her little fists and offered to fight once for her father.

Then, under the shepherding of Diana and others, Barrymore went to Fefe's Monte Carlo after the show, which had been singularly devoid of the asides and ad-libbing that helped it through a long Chicago run.

But the business became ad lib the moment the Barrymore party stepped into the night clug.

There was Elaine. After a bit of jockeying, she was sitting at the Barrymore table amid both hostile and loving glances.

"I cannot go on without you," breathed Elaine.

"I do not want you back for keeps," she said. "All I want is twenty-four hours of bliss. Look at me, John."

The great profile turned to look at her low-cut gold lame evening gown.

"This is not the gown I first wore this evening, John," she went on. "I had a white one. I looked like an angel. I wanted so much to have you see me in it. But at dinner one of my friends dropped gravy on it, so I went all the way home to change into this one."

"You are like the breath of spring," said John, leaning over and kissing her.

Diana huffed away dancing. Then she returned and said:

"This is my father. WE are Barrymores. You have nothing in common with us. Please go!"

"That may be," retorted Elaine, who first won her man by getting into his hospital room as a Hunter College newspaper interviewer.

MORE ABOUT— Greatest

automobiles and going nowhere," said Mr. Webster. "They go everywhere but to church," added his wife. Of course, they admitted, there are a good many young people to-day to whom that does not apply, but on the other hand there are far too many to whom it does apply, and they both wondered just what effect such an attitude — agnosticism, atheism, just plain spiritual laziness—is going to have on the next generation. They wondered, and they were afraid they knew the answer, that God would be forgotten, and that men would be less happy.

Walked 3 Miles to Church.

In their own lives church and the worship of God played a dominant role. When they were first married they used to walk three miles to attend their Methodist church. When their children were growing up they used to travel ten strong in a double buggy. Mr. Webster was superintendent of the Sunday School for more than thirty years. That staunch church support continued until two years ago when old age brought it to a halt. Both attended a couple of services at Zion United Church in Fenelon Falls last fall, but it was too much for them. "We went as long as we were able," said Mrs. Webster. "Now all that is past."

Sabbath observance was a much more strict thing in the days of their youth than it is now, Mr. Webster said. "People seem to be more concerned about getting pleasure on Sundays now. Why, we would never have dreamed of going out for a drive on Sundays when I was young. People used to be very strict about that." He had only condemnation for Sunday drivers who toss away church membership in order to gain more pleasure.

Always Been Happy.

It is a life filled with hard work that this aged couple look back upon, but a life, too, filled with many compensations. "We were always happy," said Mrs. Webster. They cleared land, they raised sons, they gave each of those sons a fine home, and they retired in comfort when old age came upon them, serene in the knowledge they had done their share in life. To-day they are the longest married couple in the entire district and the oldest residents of their community, and they hold a high place in the esteem of all.

The Websters have four sons living. They are John of Glenarm, Robert of Elbow, Saskatchewan, Wesley of Balsam Grove, and George of Kenville, Manitoba. They have 21 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. They had a generous way with their children; they asked them what they wanted to do and when they found that three of them wanted to farm, they gave them farms with which to start life. When the eldest grew up they gave him their own farm and home and moved to another. This one they gave up to their next son when he grew to maturity. The same happened when a third son grew up. The fourth son wanted to be a school teacher. "We told him that if he wanted to teach, then teach he would, and he wouldn't miss a day from school to help around the farm," said Mrs. Webster. She believed it was important that sons should be permitted to choose their own activity and that parents should help them to it, instead of discouraging them.

Born In England.

Mr. Webster came to this country from Yorkshire, England, with his parents when he was only a year old. They moved to Fenelon township; as he grew up he helped his father clear the land, using oxen in place of horses, living a frugal life in which the day's work began long before sun-up and closed after night-fall. He married Mary Thorn, who had been born in nearby Darlington township, and bought his own farm, paying for it gradually.

He has taken an active part in public affairs during his life, was a member of township council for 10 years and a school trustee for 16 years.

ness, he knew better than did most citizens how faithful Mr. Duffus had been in his duty to the riding and its people. 'He has devoted practically all his time to the business of representing this constituency. I shall be happy to do anything I can to help in this campaign."

Hon. G. N. Gordon

"We've already had a sample of what we can expect in the next few weeks," said Alderman Gordon. "We've had Dr. Manion's story about a British Columbia unit starting out with only cotton underwear and so on, and against that we have the absolute statement by Hon. Norman Rogers that only one regiment has left British Columbia, the Seaforth Highlanders, and they were completely equipped, and their underwear was of wool. There will be a lot of conjecture in it. The Government's record is good, the sitting member's record is good and is well known throughout the riding, and the country has been saved weeks of the parliamentary session in which there would have been nothing done but talk."

Rork Ferguson, M.P., Hastings-Peterborough, said there was no harder working member of parliament than Mr. Duffus. "I know because his office was opposite mine." Mr. Ferguson offered to co-operate to the fullest extent with the local committees.

"If Dr. Manion had a strong party he wouldn't be holding out offers of a national government," said Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee. "It seems most fortunate that in this great emergency the people of Canada have at their head a man of the well-tried experience of Mr. King. I think his ability and his steadiness will have a great appeal throughout the country."

Col. John A. Dewart

"It is inconceivable to me that the people of Canada would exchange the leadership that has been given this country by such men as Mackenzie King, Colonel Ralston and Ernest Lapointe for anybody being offered by those opposing us in this critical time when the liberty of the Empire is at stake," said Col. John A. Dewart.

Col. Dewart said the government lacked publicity of what it had accomplished, but on the other hand the members of the government had been so busy in preparing for war, and had so many confidential secrets that it was not in a position to give itself the publicity it deserved.

The First Division sent overseas, Col. Dewart said, was capably staffed and was under the ablest leader in Canada in General McNaughton. Another division is under way, and many other details of organization had been accomplished.

"Christian Gentleman"

Reeve Allan B. Mann said there was no question that Mackenzie King was the greatest statesman in Canada today.

"Hs is a Christian gentleman, and the kind of leader we should keep there," said Reeve Mann, who also paid tribute to the practical help Mr. Duffus had done and tried to do throughout the county.

Other speakers were Clarence Lang of North Monaghan, a vice-president of the Young Liberals' Association; F. D. Kerr, K.C., who especially mentioned the clean record of the government, the unifying national effect of the influence of men like Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe; Dr. J. E. Middleton, George A. Macdonald, R. M. Glover, Dr. E. M. Crough, Dr. Ralph C. Honey, R. S. Kingan, Cecil Wolff, and J. J. Duffus.

Mr. Duffus, in brief review of recent event at Ottawa, said that he was entirely in accord with the government's decision to avoid wasting time in a "political dogfight" that would have held up everything and interfered with the prosecution of the war, with an election to be held later this year.

In regard to the nomination, Mr. Duffus said that it was the duty of the Liberals to put forth the strongest candidate they could get, the man who would poll the largest number of votes.

Bugle Call

Aldershot, England, Feb. 2 (CP)

THREE girl buglers now rouse women of the Auxiliary Territorial Service stationed here, after authorities became concerned at the lack of uniformity in breakfast time arrivals.

The girls: Margaret Taylor-Jones, Jessie Mackenzie and Frances Simmons, trained at their job for two months. They could not master the intricacies of Reville, so they pursuaded a trumpet major to write them a substitute. It goes:—

"Mary-y, Mary-y, get out of bed."

And that is what it is called.

Upsets Feature Bowling In City League

Grafton's handed Gordon's a 3-1 setback while the C.G.E. smacked Jay's outfit down 4-0 to feature last night's City League rolling. The Lock Works' second game win against Joe Dean's outfit kept the Capitol Grill in a third-place tie with Duffus'.

Best team score was turned in by the Duffus' five who rolled 3328, while Bud Goodson's 783 topped the high three scores. The big singles included Walter Firth's 338, Tom Martin's 330, Bill Harris' 319, Fred Martin's 309, Tom Curvin's 308 and Goodson's 300.

All Saints' Squad Gains Playoffs

All Saints Juveniles clinched a Church League playoff berth last night at All Saints' rink with a 2-0 victory over Mark St. The losers will have to beat George St. in the final game now to make playoffs. The husky All Saints earned the close win as falling snow bothered passing plays, especially those of the losers. Ackford in the first and Blackwell in the second were the scorers. This pair with Edgar went best for the Anglicans, with no outstanding puckists on the other crew. The teams:

Mark St.: Goal, Shearer; defence, Withers, Moore; centre, Ralph; wings, Eason, Paterson; subs, Joyce, Ferguson, Wade, Mason, Andrews.

Referee: N. Langdon.

By HERB MARTIN

The main attraction at the local club next week is the playing for the Canada Packers trophy on Wednesday, February 7.

This is one of the outstanding events of the curling season and the committee is hoping that the bonspiel will be well patronized.

By way of change, all of the prizes will be products of The Canada Packers Co. There will be six sets of prizes all told, divided as follows: 12 Tendersweet hams, 4 turkeys, 4 sides of bacon and 4 cases of canned goods, the winners to take their choice.

There will be two draws, 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. The committee will oblige if a preference is desired. All seven sheets of ice will be in commission and brooms and stones will be provided. There will be no waiting of lagging in play.

This beautiful sterling silver trophy was won by Dr. J. Green's Peterborough quartette last year. He has entered the same rink for this 'spiel.

The fee this year has been reduced to $4 per rink and a full quota of 28 rinks is looked for.

So far several Peterborough rinks are entered and it is expected by the first of the week many from outside clubs will be received.

Don't forget the bonspiel tomorrow at 1:45 p.m.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

NINE O'CLOCK was striking in the church tower when Fabienne and Ellen came out of Willoughby house, Nicky and Bill appeared in the lighted doorway.

"Makes me think of my college days," Ellen commented. "Do you know, Fabienne, I haven't had such fun in years as I've been having since you came into my life? I can work hard for hours and hours every day and then, surprisingly, turn into a real party girl. It probably isn't decent! My life is supposed to be devoted to charity."

"All work and no play . . . ," you know the rest of it. What shall we do tonight Hi, fellers!"

"We were just trying to decide what to do tonight," Ellen told Nicky, who had come to her side at once.

"How about some bridge?" Fab asked.

"We can't, Fab," Ellen reminded her. "The apartment was being painted today and it's much too cold to keep all the windows open."

"You can come to my digs," Bill offered. "They're clean but not comfortable."

"Lead on," Nicky called.

"You know, Bill," Fabienne said to him in the rumble seat of Nicky's car, where she huddled under his great coat, "I never thought of you as having a home. I always imagined you as sleeping on a cot in a hospital. You go there every night late, don't you?"

He nodded. "Have to tuck the kids in," he told her.

"And wake them up, too," she said, smiling. "You work pretty hard."

"I can stand it. I'm tough. Remember? That's what you thought you were. How's the sergeant?"

"He's fine," she said, grinning broadly, happy because he remembered little things about her. "He's on safari, hunting mice all over the place and terribly disappointed to find the exterminator had got there first."

"I'll bring him one tomorrow," Bill promised.

His "digs" were three strangely bare rooms, spotlessly clean, impossibly untidy, in the rear of a box-like apartment house in East Forty-ninth street.

Fabienne's eyes ate up every detail of the square living room, filling in pictures from the tales the furnishings told her. The neat desk and the worn books, the depression in the desk chair and the gooseneck lamp, bent and tarnished, told a story of hours of study late at night. Of the four other chairs in the room only one was worn; Bill entertained one person at a time. Bill was not a party boy. There were only three pictures on the walls; a framed photograph of a college campus, a Holbein reprint, a very good one, and a handsome antique map.

Bill was taking off her coat, saying, "I told you it was clean but not comfortable. Make yourself at home. I'll get some drinks. Bartlett, you'll find the card table in the hall closet."

Nicky said, "You got a kitchen here? I'd like to see it."

"Regular old woman, isn't he?" Ellen said smiling. "Oh, Bill, are the cards in your desk?"

Bill called back from the kitchen, "No, you'll find 'em on top of the bookcase in the bedroom.

Nicky came to the kitchen door. "Fab, come here! Wouldn't you trust a guy who can't cook to have a prize stove? Come and look at all the little gadgets."

Bill said, "The last tenants left it. All the housekeeping I do is to fix coffee in the morning."

Fabienne looked around the kitchen and saw mute evidences of Bill's meagre bachelor existence: a single plate and cup and saucer neatly placed beside a shining percolator, a row of unmatched glasses, a can opener, a tin of biscuits and an electric fruit squeezer occupied the uncurtained cupboard.

Poor Bill! He deserved what Ellen could give him and what Fabienne would have given a portion of her life to offer. And yet, she didn't—deep in her heart—want Ellen to give it to him.

In the bedroom Ellen looked on top of the bookcase beside Bill's narrow bed for the cards that were not there. She went across the room to look on top of the highboy.

There were no cards, but there was a hair brush, a comb, a stethoscope, a leather collar box and, in back of the collar box, a newspaper clipping of a girl's picture. It was Fabienne, radiant and glowing, with a corsage of orchids dripping from the collar of her sable coat.

It was the same picture young Tomassino had shown the doctor one day in September, long before Bill Mallory and Fabienne had met in the clinic that fateful day.

Ellen caught her underlip beneath her teeth and hastily drew the picture out from its hiding place, setting it up in plain view in front of the collar box. No, it would be more obvious if she propped it up in front of the mirror. Fabienne, if she came in to comb her hair, would be more sure to see it then. Perhaps if she had some idea of how Bill felt about her.

Bill said, "Hi, Ellen! I forgot, I put the cards in the desk drawer. Come get your drink before the ice melts."

Ellen came back into the living room with her eyes dancing.

"Cut for partners?" Fabienne asked.

"Let's you and me take on those two," Bill said.

"Good idea," Nicky said. "Fabienne and I are like old married people, we've played together so many times we know all the signals."

Ellen's dancing eyes were still. Stupid! She'd been thinking of Bill, forgetting that Nicky had first place in Fabienne's thoughts. She said, "Two hearts," meaning something entirely different.

They played a rubber and, passing Fabienne on her way to changing seats, Ellen ran her hand over the back of Fabienne's hair. "You're all mussed, darling," she said. "Look at your hair."

"There's a mirror in the bedroom," Bill told her.

"Thanks, I'll only be a minute." Fabienne pushed away her chair and went into the bedroom, going straight to the highboy mirror with her comb in hand.

She ran the comb through her hair, frowning at its uneven part in the mirror. Then she saw the picture!

She glanced about covertly, making sure that Ellen was not following her, and then slipped it under the collar box. A fine kettle of fish it would be if Ellen saw that picture on Bill's mirror! What it was doing there didn't occur to her for even one moment. She was more concerned about Ellen's reaction if she were to see it.

When she came back into the living room with nothing to show what she had seen, Bill was saying, "Congratulations, old man," and shaking Nicky's hand.

"What's up?" Fabienne asked.

"Joined the working classes, old girl," Nicky informed her, quite pleased with himself. "I'm going to work in the family's New York office on Monday. Vice president in charge of coupons slipped in all cigaret packages."

"Nicky!" Fabienne flew around the table and, grasping his shoulders in her hands, made him look at her. "You grand person! At last I've convinced you that you ought to make something of yourself! I'm proud, darling!" She gave him a lasting kiss on his wrinkled forehead.

Neither Bill nor Ellen looked up from their cards.

Nicky gulped unhappily and turned sheepish eyes to Ellen, who said, "I think it's your deal, Nicky."

Leading Trackmen Meet On Saturday

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP).— Any aspiring trackman facing the starter at the swank Millrose games Saturday who doesn't own a champion of some sort will be about as welcome as a spectator who doesn't own a ticket.

The big meet that opens the Garden season—this is the 33rd renewal of the event—has an entry list studded with champions of all descriptions, and a finer field would be hard to imagine.

The Wanamker mile is the feature. Entered are Glenn Cunningham, six time winner and holder of the world indoor mile mark; Charles Fenske, Louis Zamperini, Gene Venzke, former winner, Blain Rideout, National Amateur Athletic Union outdoor 1,500 meter champion, and Les MacMitchell.

Allan Tolmich and Larry O'Connor, 60-yard high hurdle record makers head a field that includes Marsh Farmer and Jay Shields.

Capitals Increase Lead To 12 Points

By The Canadian Press

Indianapolis Capitals haven't yet clinched first place in the International-American Hockey League's western division. But at the rate they're going they should be a shoo-in.

The Capitals ran their lead over the second place Pittsburg Hornets up to 12 points last night by lacing Syracuse Stars 8-3. The eight goals raised the team's total for 38 to 130, far better than any other eight clubs in the circuit.

Carl Liscombe got his first of two goals 53 seconds after the game began and the Capitals kept up the pace for an easy victory. In addition to Liscombe, Giesebrecht, Wilder, Hec Kilrea, Don Deacon, Bob Whitelaw and Thomson scored for Indianapolis. Norm Locking, Eddie Convey and Doggie Kuhn got the Syracuse goals.

Frozen To Roof

FERGUS FALLS, Minn., Feb. 2—(AP). — For two days telephone operator Joyce Bondy hunted for the source of an annoying and intermittent mewing. Finally she found it—a cat frozen fast to the roof of the building housing the telephone exchange. She summoned aid and the cat was chopped free and given a home in the office.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP ON YOUR TRACK

IF YOU have made an original lead of a trump, to keep the dummy from ruffing out losers in the declarer's side suit, you may be attacking him in his most vulnerable spot. It is logical to expect the dummy to be short in that suit, since he had a chance to choose between them and preferred the other one. When the exposing of the dummy shows your judgment to have been correct in the first place, you must keep up the attack in order to accomplish your purpose.

	♠ A K 5 2 ♥ 10 ♦ K 10 4 2 ♣ K 5 3 2

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

One of the greatest differences between rubber bridge and duplicate is found in the vastly larger importance of "little" hands in the match point game, because every deal produces the same number of match points. One like this, with strength nearly balanced between the two sides, can produce the same match points as a grand slam freak. It therefore meant everything to East and West to set the contract of 2-Spades doubled.

East had bid 1-Club, South 1-Diamond, West 1-Heart, East 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades, and West doubled, following with a lead of the spade 3, won by the 10. South promptly led the diamond 6 to the J, K and A, and West then switched to the club 7, won by South's K. The diamond 2 then ran to the 8, East laying down the club A and the club J for West to ruff. He returned the heart 3 to the A, the next heart was ruffed by South, then a diamond led for a ruff in dummy. A heart was now ruffed by the spade K, another diamond by the spade Q, another heart by the spade A, and the last trick was given up, just making the contract.

Had the defenders led a trump at every chance they had, following a good start, they would have prevented declarer from ruffing out any diamond losers and would have beaten the contract regardless of what the declarer tried.

What is the correct final contract on this deal, and what bidding by the two sides is the soundest leading toward it?

Japs Keeping Eye On Red Border

TOKYO, Feb. 2—(CP).—Japan's army and navy today asked parliament to approve a new seven-year arms program costing about $671,000,000, after the war minister had declared the army "is not relaxing its watch" along Soviet Russia's borders.

The appropriation asked today, for the replenishment and rehabilitation of arms, would be in addition to a total of $1,862,017,680 which already has been approved for this purpose. The seven-year period would begin with the 1940-41 fiscal year.

The appropriation also would be in addition to the China war and domestic military budget for 1940-41 which totals $1,583,478,000.

French Patrols Take Prisoners

PARIS, Feb. 2—(CP).—French war reports said to-day that four patrols penetrated deep into Germany yesterday, returning with prisoners and valuable information on German troop displacements.

Two of the patrols were said to have worked their way two miles into German territory between the frontier and the Saar river. The others operated in the Voeges district, the reports said.

Premier Daladier to-day reviewed the diplomatic and military situation for members of the cabinet meeting under his chairmanship at the war office. The brief official communique on the session gave no further details of the matters discussed.

Monaghan Couple Guests Of Honor

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 3—(ENS).—A hundred relatives, friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Neals gathered at their home in North Monaghan on Saturday evening to celebrate with them the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. Despite the severe coldness of the night, guests were present from London, Bethany and Pontypool.

William George Perry Neals and Miss Alice Myrtle Preston were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Heber Preston of Manvers on January 27, 1915. The attendants on that occasion were Miss Wilma Dobbin and Mr. Walter Neals, the latter being present at the anniversary gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Neals lived in Manvers till thirteen years ago when they moved to Springville, where they bought the farm owned by William Laing. They have three children, Laura, Cecil and Viola. Their home is an example of what a Christian home ought to be, and they have proven themselves good friends and good neighbours.

Reeve M. H. Johnston, who formerly came from Manvers, was chairman for the evening. The following program was given: Solo Jack Preston, Recitation Eleanor Bowles, Solo Percy Preston, Guitar selection Laura Neals, Solo Miss Mary Robson, Solo Harry Preston.

Reeve Johnston then asked Mr. and Mrs. Neals to take places at the front of the room and Mrs. Bernard Preston read a very appropriate address, at the conclusion of which a beautiful studio couch was presented.

Mr. Neals thanked their friends and said that Mrs. Neals and he appreciated greatly the kindness that had been shown them.

Brief speeches, all testifying to the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Neals and family are held were given by Heber Preston, Rev. J. F. Everson, S. S. Staples and Miss Jessie Schaeffer of Springville and Walter Neals, Offa Staples and Milton Weatherilt of Manvers.

Mrs. Neals then cut the three-tier cake which centred the table, and a dainty lunch was served.

The singing of "Blest be the tie that binds" closed a very pleasant evening.

21 Girls Conclude Warsaw Course

WARSAW, Feb. 2.—(ENS).—The closing exercises of the "Busy Bees" class of girls, under the direction of Mrs. G. G. Weller, took the form of an afternoon tea in the United Church basement. The studies had been on "The Club Girl Entertains," under the Home Economics Branch of the Department of Agriculture. The classes were held at Mrs. Weller's home on Saturday afternoons. Twenty-one girls, some coming long distances, enrolled. There was an average attendance of nineteen.

Among the lessons were Hospitality; home the place to entertain; decorations; guest rooms; proper dress for various occasions; meal planning ;reparation of good; table setting; table conversation; table manners; planning a party according to season; banquets; introductions; how to propose and respond to a toast, and various forms of entertainment.

The afternoon was wholly the work of the girls. Mrs. Weller was there, but simply looked on in a kindly way and was greatly pleased with the way they carried out the duties of hostess . The beautiful damask table cloth was hers and the silver tea service had been her mothers.

Guests were received by the girls and invited to inspect the record books, which had been kept by the girls. The books contained notes as given by the instructress, clippings and pictures as the girls themselves had seen fit.

During the afternoon Miss Lenore McIlvena sang accompanying herself on her ukelele. Numbers were sung by Margot Clysdale, Lila Matthews, Leaha Little and Iva Little as a quartette, and Dora Payne, Ruth Wilkinson and Mary Hendren as a trio.

Leaha Little and Norma Crowe poured tea.

There will be no more classes. The girls will go to Peterborough for "Achievement Day" in the week of July 5, when they will show their record books and along with girls from other classes in the county will give an account of themselves.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2 — (AP). — Stringing emergency headlights on their tractors, farmers in the rich Florida Redlands are working 24-hour shifts replanting the winter vegetable crops destroyed by last week's disastrous freeze.

They are battling against time to get new crops ready for the market ahead of competing farm sections farther north.

Every day they save means money in their pockets, because prices are most profitable during the relatively short season when other farms are frozen out of the market.

This area, its tender tomato, bean and cabbage plants ruined by below-freezing temperatures Saturday night, staggered beneath cash losses estimated as high as $10,000,000 in this county alone.

"As soon as we realized how bad it was," said one grower, 'we started replanting. We put automobile lights on the tractors and put double shifts of men to work. We've been going without a stop."

Third German Bomber Badly Damaged; Trawler Set Afire

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP).—Hard-hitting Royal Air Force fighter planes to-day shot down at least two and perhaps three German raiders along England's north-east coast.

The Air Ministry announced the downing of one German plane off the mouth of the River Tyne and another off the Yorkshire coast.

It said another enemy bomber engaged by British fighters off the coast of Northumberland "was very seriously damaged" and later reports said it had crashed into the sea. Its destruction, however, was not officially confirmed.

Trawler Gets Sub

STAVANGER, Norway, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A depth charge from a British trawler destroyed a German submarine after the submarine torpedoed the Swedish freighter Pajala, the freighter's crew reported today on arrival here.

The trawler was accompanying the 6,873-ton Pajala to a contraband station Jan. 18 when the fight occurred, they said.

The Danish steamship Hroar, which brought the crew here, also brought survivors of the Vidar, 1,358-ton Danish freighter which

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 3—(AP).—Nearly 100 Finnish civilians were said today to have been killed in Soviet Russian air raids during the ninth week of war.

The intensified Soviet air activity, while Finnish defenders held against fierce Red army attacks on the Karelian Isthmus, was reported to have taken at least 11 lives yesterday.

However, Finnish airmen struck back at Russian bases on the Baltic, and Finnish military sources said at least 35 Red army planes were shot down.

On the battlefronts, too, the Finns said the invaders continued to suffer heavy losses at the hands of white-clad riflemen despite their use of parachute troops and tank-driven steel sledges.

Red army planes, raking Western coastal towns on the Gulf of Bothnia were reported to have killed 10 persons and wounded dozens at Bjorneborg (Pori). One person also was reported killed at Rauma, about 28 miles south.

ROBBERS used telephones instead of guns in Springfield's slickest bank raid and walked away with $4,000 before Union National Bank employees even became suspicious.

Suspicions of a clerk who saw two strangers loiter near Sander's cage, then stroll away, led to discovery that $4,000 was missing.

Bill Introduced To Abolish Grand Juries

TORONTO, Feb. 3—(CP).—The grand jury—once a venerated institution in most British judicial systems but now generally discarded—has been started on its way out in Ontario.

Attorney-General Gordon Conant yesterday brought into the Legislature a bill to abolish grand juries and announced the Federal authorities had given assurance the necessary amendments to the Criminal Code would be made.

The grand jury—empanelled at all assize courts—after hearing an outline of the Crown case against a person accused of a crime, determines whether there is sufficient evidence to warrant trial. The system is a relic of the days when magistrates were not generally persons learned in law and might commit persons to trial on flimsy evidence.

Added to the original functions of the grand jury has been the duty of inspecting public institutions. The report of Fred Barlow, Ontario Supreme Court master, on Ontario's judicial system, noted that this inspection function has been superseded by regular provincial inspection services.

It was estimated by Mr. Conant that $50,000 a year would be saved in Ontario by the end of grand juries.

Another move towards economy in judicial procedure was a bill brought in by Mr. Conant to reduce the number of jurors required in county and district court civil actions. Twelve jurors are now statutory. Under the new measure, the 12

'Hitler's Apologist' Stanley Brands Hertzog As War Chief Shelves Truce Idea Till German Threat Of World Misery Ends

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England, Feb. 3 (CP)—The war cannot be halted "at half-time" like a football game, but must go on until Germany's threat as a military power is ended, War Secretary Oliver Stanley said today.

His speech, fifth of a series by war cabinet ministers, was taken as a reply to peace advocates generally and was aimed directly at General J. B. M. Hertzog, former prime minister of South Africa, who has urged peace.

To stop now in the war that is five months old today would bring only "a troubled truce," Mr. Stanley said.

Instead, he asserted, it must go on "to victory and then peace" aimed at making the Germans "peaceful and happy members of a peaceful and happy Europe."

"But never again," he added with vehemence, "under this leader or any other leader, under this regime or any other regime, must they have power to inflict upon the world the misery and suffering which twice in our life they have done."

Mr. Stanley singled out General Hertzog, calling him an "apologist" for Adolf Hitler. Hertzog's government went out of office last Sept. 6 when it lost in its stand for peace with Germany and only a few days ago he was defeated when he raised the issue again in the Union Parliament.

"I see that the other day Herr Hitler had an apologist in the shape of General Hertzog," said Mr. Stanley. "In a recent speech General Hertzog put the blame for all our troubles upon the Treaty of Versailles."

Remarking that the Treaty had imperfections, Mr. Stanley said: "We, with others, made our mistakes," but went on:

"Do you think that a victorious Germany would give a defeated Britain a Treaty of Versaillies? Shorn of our empire, our fleet and our trade, we should be a small,

Kept Hidden

Boston, Feb. 3 (AP)

JEAN SIBELIUS, Finland's great composer, is being protected "like a national treasury," Tauno Hannikainen, Finnish orchestra conductor, here to be a guest leader of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, said last night. "But since then the government has hidden him well in a secret place as a precautionary step to preserve Finland's great genius."

Hopes Of United Balkan Front Vanish

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 3.—(AP).—Fearful of the possibility that war may reach the Balkans by spring, the four powers of the Balkan Entente sought to-day some formula which would ensure their safety during the next few months.

The foreign ministers of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Turkey, and the premier of Greece, in conference here, already have decided that in view of conflicting interests each country must be left free to fend for itself.

This precluded any definite plan for cementing the Entente into a stronger union and cost Rumania her chance for automatic support in case German demands for oil become unbearable.

The conference representatives still hoped, however, to agree on some common declaration and friendly program to improve their chances of escaping any imminent upheaval.

If the springtime can be passed without armed conflict, the Balkans hope the outlook will brighten.

Their difficulties are due to no lack of desire for peace on their part, the present situation being that the nations of a region once traditionally called Europe's "tinderbox" are trying desperately to remain outside the war.

No Guarantees

BERLIN, Feb. 3 (AP)—Sources close to the government today declared Germany does not contemplate making any guarantees of Rumania's territorial integrity.

These Nazi spokesmen said they wanted to counteract reports abroad that the Reich is trying to create

Fred Thain, Member Of Jury Probing Deaths Of Couple, Is Remanded Without Plea

Man Is Arrested While Family At Supper Taken To Belleville And Arraigned On Charge Of Murdering Aged Couple

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 3—(CP and Staff Special).—Fred Thain, a member of the coroner's jury that inspected the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman, following discovery of their slaying Thursday, was charged formally today with the murder of the aged couple.

Thain, next-door neighbor of the Wellmans at Harold, 23 miles north of here, was remanded without plea until February 8 by Miss Marie Butler, Justice of the Peace.

Thain, when the charge was read to him today, said: "What is that, the trial?" He was informed the procedure was an arraignment and that the trial will follow. Thain was not represented by counsel.

Inspector Ward, accompanied by Sergeant Harry Thompson of Belleville, Provincial Constable E. Smith and Traffic Officer Sam Ervine, called at the Thain home as the family—Thain, his wife, a 15-year-old daughter, and two small sons—were eating supper.

Inspector Ward removed Thain to another room in the house for questioning while the anxious family tried to get information from the other officers. When he reappeared, Thain was wearing his overcoat and hat.

"Where are you taking him?" asked Mrs. Thain.

"He is under arrest," replied Inspector Ward.

The farmer showed no emotion as he told his startled wife, "I'd better go." The house was searched and police seized a number of empty grain sacks and a shotgun. Ten bags of grain had been missing from the Wellman farm when the murder was discovered Thursday.

On Jury Panel.

Thain was on the panel of the five-man jury called under the direction of Dr. J. J. Robertson of Belleville, Chief Coroner of Hastings County. The inquest opened on Thursday on the Wellman farm when the jurors examined the house and barn where the battered bodies of the aged couple were found.

10 Million Order For Ships Let In Ontario

OTTAWA, Feb. 3—(CP). — Additional orders for units of the fleet of 46 steel anti-submarine craft being constructed in Canada for the Canadian and British navies have been given shipyards in Kingston, Ont.; Collingwood, Ont., and Port Arthur, it was learned Friday.

These orders will have an approximate value of $10,000,000 which is in addition to orders given Quebec yards announced earlier this week, amounting to $13,200,000.

Total value of the 46 vessels to be constructed was placed at approximately $25,000,000 when the building plan was first announced but it is believed the final cost will go above that amount and that several of these boats will be built on the Pacific coast and possibly some on the Atlantic.

Italy To Double War Planes, Pilots This Year

ROME, Feb. 3 (AP)—Italy plans at least to double the number of her military planes and pilots this year, General Francesco Pricolo, under-secretary for aviation, announced today.

The size of Italy's present air force is a secret but the number of planes has been estimated officially to total 4,0000 while pilots are variously estimatel at 10,000 to 18,000.

General Pricolo, writing in the aviation newspaper Le Vie Dell Aria, said the air force would be prepared to carry out "all tasks which the requirements of the new destinies of Italy might impose on it."

"To that end," he wrote, "a program has been provided for augmenting manufacturing plants, schools for pilots and the renewal of flying equipment."

200,000 Chinese Near Rout Japanese Claim

HONG KONG, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Japanese reported today more than 200,000 Chinese troops had been thrown into perilous confusion in Kwangsi province by a gigantic pincer movement.

The Japanese said their ground forces, supported by warplanes attacking in mass, were continuing a relentless onslaught along the entire front in the province in China's deep south. Belated Chinese reports conceded that a Japanese column had reached a point 31 miles north-east of Nanning, the provincial capital, in a drive to sever China's vital links with British Burma and French Indo-China.

Although acknowledging the Japanese advances, the Chinese declared the invaders were being subjected to "annihilating" attacks and said one Japanese warplane had been shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

Chinese estimated reinforced Japanese strength in Kwangsi totalled 12,000 men.

All evidence pointed to the battle as one of the most severe in 2½ years of war. Foreign observers doubted whether the Japanese would be able to crush Chinese resistance in the south.

Reports from Kunming said the destruction Thursday by Japanese bombers of a train and a tunnel on the Hanoi-Kunming railway — one of China's links with the outside world—had disrupted service completely, and that all essential goods for China were being re-routed via the Burma road at four times the coast.

The Kunming dispatches said five occidentals and 20 Chinese were killed when the tunnel entrance collapsed on the train.

Other reports, unconformed, said there were about 100 casualties. At Chunking, the Chinese seat of government, it was said there were five foreign casualties. Identities of the occidentals were not reported.

Last Minute News Flashes

MOSCOW.— (AP). — Headquarters of the Leningrad military area claimed to-day that Finns had not attacked Russian warships in Kronstadt and other Soviet objectives. It also contended that instead of a big offensive by the Russians on the Karelian Isthmus and north of Lake Ladoga there were "in reality only partial clashes" of several companies "of purely local nature."

HELSINGFORS—The capture of a number of Russia positions north-east of Lake Ladoga and smashing of Russian attacks on the Karelian Isthmus in which "the enemy suffered great losses" were reported tonight by the Finnish High Command.

Slaughter On Easter

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Fear that the Easter season may bring "slaughter on a vast scale" was expressed to-day by Joseph Cardinal Macrory, Archbishop of Armagh, in a Lenten Day pastoral. "Let us continue to hope and pray that peace may soon return, but hope will be less if once the spring campaign opens, accompanied as it inevitably will be by slaughter on a vast scale," said the prelate.

JOHN DIABO, 27-year-old Indian, scratched his head as he walked away after they told him at McGill University that Dr. F. Cyril James, McGill's principal, is a Doctor of Philosophy, not a physician.

Diabo who injured himself internally on his farm at Caughnawaga Indian Reservation came to Montreal yesterday and went to the University buildings to see Dr. James.

"I have no money," he said. "I thought I would come to see Dr. James. I heard he was a great man and I read about him in the newspapers."

Someone explained about Dr. James and suggested Diabo go to the medical buildings. He wouldn't.

"If I don't see Dr. James, I don't see anybody," the Indian said as he left.

Correcting 100 Pairs Socks Weekly Keeps "Mrs. Fixit" Busy At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Feb. 3—(CP).— Anywhere else she is Mrs. N. Brown, but at Red Cross headquarters this little woman who turned awkward knitting jobs into snug socks is "Mrs. Fixit." She thrives on knotty knitting problems.

No sock is so badly stitched that Mrs. Fixit cannot fix it; she corrects more than 100 pairs a week and has some 2,000 corrected socks and sweaters for soldiers to her credit since war started.

Most worrisome of all is the knot problem, said Mrs. Brown to-day. When knitters join wool by a knot rather than a splice, it is enough to make the good Mrs. Fixit shake her head. That knitting must be unravelled. The wool must be properly spliced.

Next on the list of bothers is "toe-trouble."

"The knitting is well done, but the toes pose a problem to a lot of knitters," said Mrs. Brown. "They put the wool over rather than under the needlet and cause a ridge.

A mother of five girls and three boys, Mrs. Brown has been knitting ever since she can remember. Her three sons are in the Army. In fact, all the family friends are soldiers, too, so Mrs. Brown intends to keep her needles going clickety-click until the war is over.

Canada-Conscious

London, Feb. 3 (CP Cable)

THE PRESENCE of young Canada's First Division of fighting men is making old England Canadian-conscious and all expatriates are reaping the harvest.

An increasing amount of Canadian news is appearing in the newspapers. The latest manifestation of the awakening is the decision of Reuters News Agency to service its member papers with the scores of major professional and amateur hockey games. This is certain to earn the undying gratitude of the khakied Canucks.

The new consciousness is even working a miracle of England's traditionally horrific coffee. Twice this week waitresses, catching the Canadian twang in the writer's voice, brewed special pots of double strength coffee.

Finns Bomb Reds Using Fast British Craft

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP). — The Stockholm correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reported today that British planes were used by Finland in bombing the Soviet naval base at Kronstadt recently.

The correspondent said that both American and British aircraft, "all of useful types for northern weather conditions," have been in service in Finland for the past fortnight.

"Although their numbers do not equal those of the Russians, who are credited with keeping 400 planes daily in action over Finland, it is believed, if the supply of pilots as well as planes can be kept up, that Finland's worst period in the war is over," the writer said.

"British planes have already established their superiority over Russian machines. British fighter planes in Finland are Gloster Gladiators and the bombers are Bristol Blenheims. The Glosters are particularly suited for work in northern climates because of their air-cooled engines. Water-cooled engines are not suited to flying in Arctic and semi-Arctice regions.

Police On Guard As London Probes Relief

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 3.—(CP)—While police officers stand guard, special investigators, auditors and department officials today probed city relief records for the past 12 months in an effort to determine whether any additional shortages exist. Discovery of alleged shortages led to the arrest of two members of the department late Thursday night.

In city police court today William C. (Chris) Hawken, 50, relief investigator and former alderman and Clarence R. Patterson, 30-year-old father of four and ledgerkeeper at the city relief department, were released on $4,000 bail each.

W. B. Henderson, counsel for Patterson and J. D. McCallum, acting for Hawken, protested that the bail bonds demanded by Crown Attorney N. F. Newton were "prohibitive." However both amounts were raised within a few minutes of their appearance today before Magistrate D. B. Nenzies. A remand until Feb. 9 was ordered.

Neither of the accused were asked to plead when Crown Attorney Newton said he was not ready to proceed for at least a week because the department records were still subject of an investigation.

He disclosed that the present charges facing both Hawken and Patterson were the result of alleged shortages found in the records during the past "few days."

"The books were now being audited for the past year and some additional items are under suspicion," said the Crown Attorney opposing the reduction in the amount of the bail bonds.

Educational Service For Troops To Better Standard Says Rogers

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 (CP)—Educational services provided Canadian military forces should have the effect of maintaining a high standard of Canadianism in our ranks and improving the general educational standard of our forces with great advantage both during and after the war, Defence Minister Rogers said yesterday.

Presiding at a conference which reviewed the educational services provided the troops by the Canadian Legion and the Canadian Association for Adult Education, the minister said he was pleased with the spirit of co-operation between the two organizations.

Leading officials of the national defence department attended the conference as well as Lieut.-Col. Wilfrid Bovey, president of the Adult Education Association.

The conference accepted the principle recommended by the University of Toronto that henceforth four years in vocational school, which must include English and mathematics, would be accepted in lieu of matriculation wherever matriculation is required by present regulations for entry to certain services or to obtain promotion. This will facilitate in particular entry into skilled branches of the army and air force.

Boney said that although the original idea conceived had been with a view to preparing members of the armed forces for return to civil life after the war, the educational services had been able at the request of local commanders to undertake essential parts of training for war service.

Special consideration was given to the provision of facilities for instruction in English and French in order that enlisted men would have an opportunity to extend their knowledge of these languages both in Canada and overseas.

A proposal made through the president of the University of Manitoba Dr. Sidney Smith, that continuity of instruction should be insured by dividing study period into four-week blocks was accepted.

Further proposals for standardization of courses throughout Canada and overseas were to be given immediate consideration by the educational authorities in co-operation with the representatives of the services.

It was agreed that each service should be responsible for the maintenance of educational records in the same manner as other records a clear definition of the relationship between the services provided by the legion and the adult education association was established, an announcement said, but no details were provided.

100 To 200 Finns Off For The War

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP) — A group of between 150 and 300 natives of Finland living in Canada and the United States—and including several women — will sail for their homeland today to join the Finnish forces fighting Soviet Russia.

First such group to sail since 70 left here a month ago, many of them paid their own expenses. Others were provided with funds raised by the Finnish war veterans in America, Inc., said J. Honkonen, secretary of the organization.

Reds Charge Britain, France, Italy Playing Balkans For Own Ends

MOSCOW Feb. 3.—(AP).—Pravda Communist party organ to-day charged Great Britain France and Italy with selfish machinations in the Balkans as it discussed the current Balkan entente conference in Belgrade.

It asserted the Allies were trying to build a south-eastern European bloc through "increasing diplomatic intrigue in the Balkans" as a new war front against Germany.

Italy it is said "with all her strength is trying to restore her shaken position in the Balkans."

Pravda asserted that plans of London and Paris "inspirers of imperialist war" to draw the Balkans into an economic encirclement of Germany had failed.

The Communist organ praised the refusal of Hungary and Bulgaria to send observers to the conference of the Balkan entente which is made up of Rumania, Yugoslavia, Turkey and Greece.

It said "they are not interested in maintaining the Versailles system" under which they lost territory. Rumania gained Transylvania from Hungary, Bessarabia from Russia and Dobruja from Bulgaria. No mention was made in the article of Russia's claim on Bessarabia.

Pravda also ridiculed the message two weeks ago from Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano of Italy to Wang Ching-Wei, Japanese-approved leader of a proposed Chinese regime, in which Fascist cooperation with Wang was pledged. The paper said it was "much ado about nothing."

"In a dispatch from Stockholm Pravda also attacked the "furious campaign of reactionaries against the Soviet" among the Swedes under the direction "of their Anglo-French masters."

Pravda asserted officers of the regular Swedish army were training volunteers for the Finnish army in Swedish military barracks and that "unemployed were being lured to Finland under promises of high pay."

Reservists called up in Sweden for service may serve their time in Finland if they wish to do so, Pravda said.

In a reactionary effort to draw Scandinavia into war, Pravda went on, "the Swedish government has established a real regime of terror against the Communist press, against the workers' movement and against the toilers."

The newspaper also attacked workers for charity organizations, including the Red Cross, who are helping the Finns.

Owls Tackle Lumberjacks For Meat Course Force 2-Man Police Rescue Expedition

NORANDA, Que., Feb. 3.—(CP).—Two husky policemen set out to-day from this Temiskaming mining town for a nearby lumber camp to find out just what there is to stories of woodsmen threatening to leave their jobs because huge birds have been attacking them.

The stories, brought to the attention of officials of the International Paper Company operating the camp are that the birds swoop down on the lumbermen while they are at work in the woods.

F. A. Harrison the company's district manager reported that "scratches and claw marks on the men are quite evident." He added: "It seems like a hallucination to have seasoned lumber-jacks complaining of attacks by birds and threatening to quit. However it has been going on since October and it's getting worse instead of

Rap At Jap Army Costs Nippon Minister Post

TOKYO, Feb. 3.—(AP).— Takao Saito, who stirred up a political tempest by criticizing Japanese policies in China, resigned to-day from his political party, the Potent Minseito.

His resignation was offered on the advice of other Minseito leaders and promptly was accepted as the army, smarting under his advice that Japanese troops be withdrawn from China to pave the way for peace, demanded to be heard in answer in the Diet.

Two minor political parties issued statements demanding that Saito be expelled from the Lower House of Parliament.

Army leaders conferred in an emergency session and decided to send War Minister Shunroku Hata to the Chamber to-day to reply after the veteran legislator had asked enlightenment yesterday on the government plans for a "new order in East Asia."

Aroused army officers charged that Saito had made "open insults against the objectives of the sacred war in China."

overcrowded island, its recovery impossible and even its survival in doubt.

"For ourselves, we want nothing of Germany or of the Germans. We do not desire their destruction; we do not begrudge them their prosperity; we do not want to make of them the helots they have made of millions, or to make of their land the desert they have made of a quarter of Europe.

"We want them to be peaceful and happy members of a peaceful and happy Europe."

Saying that "distance lends enchantment," Mr. Stanley suggested: "Let us call as our witnesses not people thousands of miles away, but people a little nearer to the scene" for judgment of Hitler.

"Let us ask Czechs, let us ask Poles, let us ask Austrians, let us go inside Germany and ask Germans. Ask Jews, ask the Catholic priest and the Protestant pastor, ask their communions and their congregations whose religion is so noxious and so obstinate that it had to be dashed out of them with clubs.

"Let us go around Europe and ask small neutral countries, fearing an attack at any moment. Do they feel this confidence in Hitler? Do they feel safe from him if there are no real differences between their countries and if he has no real grievances which they refuse to redress, or do they only feel safe from him if they have nothing he wants or nothing he can get?"

Closer to the Facts.

With a trace of sarcasm, Mr. Stanley said:

"Are we just a little inconsiderate? No, General Herzog's— 2,000 miles nearer the facts.

"Millions of different race, of different language and of different creed bear witness to the fact that with this man (Hitler) leading and with his nation allowing him to lead, there will be no peace and there will be no security for Britain or Europe or for the world."

To the people who "talk about peace by negotiation," Mr. Stanley said: "We should grasp with both hands at a peace which was both secure and honorable."

But, he asked, "What sort of peace should we get now by negotiation? A peace which would settle nothing," which would leave differences and dangers untouched, which would give no assurance for the present and no security for the future.

"We should get no lasting peace but a troubled truce. Within a few months, at the most within a few years, we should find we had not won peace, but had sacrificed victory."

1939 Sales Third Best In Company's History

WALKERVILLE, Ont., Feb. 3. — (Special)—Factory sales of Studebaker passenger cars and trucks during 1939 were greater than all but two years in the company's entire history, according to M. S. Brooks, President, The Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Limited.

"Not since 1928 had there been a year so good for us," stated Mr. Brooks, "1939 was substantially ahead of 1937 and 119 per cent over 1938. Factory sales were equally improved in the month of December, being 130 per cent higher than December, 1938 and 34 per cent greater than any other similar month in our history.

"While much of this splendid increase is due to the fine public reception of the Champion—Studebaker's sensational economy car in the lowest price field—sales of Studebaker Commanders and Presidents were at a healthy figure for the first nine months of 1939 and greatly accelerated during the last quarter. For the most part, the increase in Studebaker business has been generally spread throughout the various Canadian market. With a low price in the line it has been possible to secure many additional Studebaker dealers in the smaller centres and this has had a healthy effect on our sales to rural purchasers. Taking into consideration the volume of unfilled orders on hand at the start of 1940 and the general outlook for the next twelve month period we confidently feel that Studebakers will register a further sizeable increase."

Many plants in India are working at capacity on military orders and may be enlarged if the European war continues.

Doom Of Flappers In Milk Drinking

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3 — (CP). — More milk drinking would result in fewer "flappers," Allan C. Fraser of Ottawa, secretary - manager of the National Dairy Council, on Wednesday told the joint meeting of Manitoba dairy producers and manufacturers here.

"We tell the public that if they use our product the flapper will cease to be and her place will be taken by an honest-to-goodness girl, good to look upon, a creature of beauty and a joy for ever." He protested that dairymen received little applause for their service to the public.

"We are still regarded as just a bunch of fellows who keep and milk a lot of stupid cows, peddle milk, and are perpetually complaining aboaut our prices," he said. "Few people know that we comprise one of the biggest businesses in the national economy, second only to the Mint, and we have even those fellows beaten because we produce every day of the year and cannot close down on Saturday afternoon, Sundays and holidays.

Gilbert McMillan of Huntingdon, Que., president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, told the dairy manufacturers that if they found it necessary to increase their production to meet wartime orders they should do so with as little capital outlay as possible.

Mr. McMillan stressed that milk production of cows in Canada could be increased from 500 to 1,000 pounds a head yearly by better care alone.

500 Extra Telephones Are Required To Handle Ottawa's War Work

OTTAWA, Feb. 3—(CP). — The war has geared up government business to such an extent that the Public Works Department has had to add 500 telephones to the government exchange service on Parliament Hill.

The National Defence Department suddenly mushroomed into the busiest department in the Capital, its telephone requirements have tripled since the outbreak of war. National Defence telephones occupy 4½ pages in the special government telephone directory just issued, compared with a page and a half in the old issue.

Other departments and the new wartime boards and commissions accounted for other additional phones to bring the total up to some 2,700 telephones, which cost the government $100,000 a year. The lines and instruments are leased from the Bell Telephone Company at a special rate. The government has its own private switchboard at the telephone company's main exchange office.

Installation engineers worked at high speed since last September, but demand for telephones kept a little ahead of them, so that telephones were "borrowed" from the private offices of members of the House of Commons and the Senate while they were out between sessions.

Gradually the telephone engineers conquered the situation so that the new directory could be issued and "wrong number" trouble eliminated.

Extra staff of various departments are all properly listed in the new directory as well as new boards such as the Foreign Exchange Control Board, War Purchasing Board, War Supply Board, the British Supply Mission, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

tion, 193 feet in length. They will be armed with guns, torpedo tubes and depth charge throwers.

Designed after the 'whale catcher' type of anti-submarine craft used in the Royal Navy, the new vessels will be divided between the Canadian and British navies.

Delivery of these craft is expected to start about next November, according to an announcement last week by the War Supply Board which is handling the contracts. Completion of the orders is expected in 1941.

In addition to these craft contracts are expected to be granted shortly for a large fleet of small auxiliary craft for the Royal Canadian Air Force, including salvage boats, tenders and lighters, and for 28 mine-sweepers for which tenders will be opened next week.

Food Poisoning Case Jail Town Milkman

CORNWALL, Feb. 3. — Gerald (Gus) Duvall, 28, village milkman at Newington, sixteen miles northwest of here, is being held in the counties' jail today on a charge of attempted murder of Robert Young, 26-year-old farmer residing at Cornwall Centre, a few miles north of Cornwall.

Cornwall Township police were reluctant to reveal details of the case, but said Duvall was arrested after oficial analysis had revealed quantities of three different poisons in water and food in Young's home. Young had not partaken of the poisoned food.

Duvall was taken into custody yesterday morning, but police did not reveal the nature of the charge against him until his formal appearance before Magistrate P. C. Bergeron today. The magistrate merely read the charge, "that on or about Jan. 11, 1940, accused did administer to Robert Young a certain poison, to wit, mercury bichloride, strychnine and carbolic acid, with intent to murder said Robert Young, contrary to Section 264, Subsection A, of the Criminal Code of Canada." Duvall was not asked to plead, and was remanded until next Wednesday, when it is expected the prelimstruck a mine two days ago and sank with the loss of 15 of the crew of 23.

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Accounts differed as to the fate of the German plane downed in the Yorkshire area to-day. An Air Ministry communique reported it "shot down in the sea," but a later version by the Press Association said that after a German bomber had attacked a coastal vessel it was chased inland by three British fighters and crashed in flames after a battle over a Yorkshire town.

One of the crew was reported killed and three injured.

The Press Association said this apparently was the plane described in the communique as down off the Yorkshire coast.

An eye-witness of this fight said: "I first saw a German plane flying very low over the land with three planes after it. As it passed over a town one fighter was firing at its tail from below, another shooting at it from above and a third circling in front.

"The German plane began to smoke and eventually it crashed about two miles from the town."

The Air Ministry gave this account of the fight off the Tyne:

"A third successful interception of enemy aircraft off the east coast this morning is now reported. (Encounters with the two other German bombers had previously been reported.) A Royal Air Force fighter command patrol shot down an enemy aircraft off the Tyne shortly before 11 a.m. A ship went to the resoue of the crew."

Trawler Set Ablaze.

Raiders were first reported off the Yorkshire coast, where two Heinkels machine-gunned a trawler which later was seen from the shore to be in flames. One of these met its fate inland; the other was at least "very seriously damaged" over the sea.

The third raider was intercepted after it had dropped six bombs at a ship off the Tyne. All the bombs fell wide. The plane disappeared in the clouds, but a little later an explosion was heard. This was believed to be the accompaniment of its crashing.

No air raid alarm was sounded in the Yorkshire town where residents stood in the streets watching the battle between the Heinkel and three British planes.

Later a witness said he went to the scene of the crash and "saw a huge German plane with black crosses and swastika markings lying in a field near a moorland cottage and riddled with bullets. A military guard was mounted over the wreckage."

To-day's series of raids were the third of the week. Monday the Nazis launched air attacks on shipping off a 400-mile stretch of British coast under cover of low-lying clouds.

In a renewal of the raids Tuesday British authorities reported one German bomber shot down and another disabled.

Saw Plane Hit Tree.

H. Steele, occupant of the Yorkshire cottage near which the German plane crashed, said the craft hit an outbuilding and smashed into a tree.

"I saw two members of the crew trying to pull out an injured airman," he said. "All the time three British fighters were circling low overhead and watching what was taking place."

Steele said the Germans waved and he went to help them drag a dead flier and an injured one from the wreckage.

The two others were not badly hurt.

A resident describing the battle off the Tyne said:

"Our fighters came roaring after the bomber. Shore batteries opened anti-aircraft fire. People went to the sea front to get a glimpse of the battle. The Nazi plane was shot down about two miles off shore."

Machine-gun bullets struck one seaside home.

The Germans were intercepted when two Nazi planes machine-gunned a trawler off the Yorkshire coast. Witnesses from a waterfront hotel said the trawler was ablaze three miles off shore.

Soccer Results

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(CP Cable)—The United Kingdom's sport fans for the third successive week-end went without the customary big list of soccer and rugby fixtures. Ground conditions made play impossible in Scotland and only one game was played in eight English regional soccer groups.

Plymouth Argyle improved its position in the Southwestern soccer group by defeating Bristol City 10-3 at Plymouth. The Argyle now has 19 points, one less than Torquay United and three less than the leading Swindon Town squad.

Rugby games were confined to the south of England and South Wales, Torquay defeated the Navy 24-6, Neath trounced the Royal Air Force 28-3 and a Swansea Valley team unexpectedly downed Swansea 11-3 at Swansea.

GOD'S METHOD

NOW in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, ANNAS and CAIAPHAS being high priests, the WORD OF GOD came unto John in the wilderness. St. Luke 3:1, 2.

Do these names mean anything to you and have you ever thought why they were inserted? The Holy Spirit moved St. Luke to write this list of the great rulers of that time. The date was important because something wonderful was about to happen. God was preparing to send His Son, His only begotten, to save the world.

These great rulers were called saviours, benefactors. St.Luke 22:25. But ponder upon their characters. Tiberius Caesar was a vicious man; Pontius Pilate cruel; Herod Antipas thoroughly evil, "that fox" our Lord called him; Annas and Caiaphas were crafty ecclesiastics. Caiaphas calmly proposed the death of our Lord as a political expediency as otherwise the Romans would come and take away their place and nation. In a word, they were all self seekers.

Can you see the striking contrast? "The Word of God came to John in the wilderness." A man, poor, not from some great scholastic centre of learning, but from the wilderness. A modern scholar has reminded us that we must go back to the wilderness religion if we are to make any progress.

This poor, unknown man, moves the hearts of the people. They recognize that he is a prophet—a man sent from God with a message from God. That message is the coming of the Christ, the Messiah, the annointed of God and that the people must repent of their sins and acknowledge that repentance by His baptism in the waters of Jordan.

Multitudes flocked to hear him and returned disappointed. They expected a different message. They were sure they were righteous and fit to welcome the Messiah, who would overturn the Roman power and reign over Israel.

They were expecting such a deliverer. The Zealots, one of whom belonged to the apostolic band, were prepared to throw away their lives for such a cause. Dr. Sunday reminds us that below the surface there was a deep popular passion working which broke into fierce flames in the war with Rome which ended in the destruction of the Holy City and Temple and the end of Jewish nationalism. These men thought of the Christ in terms of political revolution, overthrow of the government by force.

John and the Christ and His Apostles preached the coming of the Kingdom of God was only through individual repentance. They taught clearly and constantly that men must repent of their sins.

Our Lord taught that the source of all unhappiness in the individual was brought about by sin. Sin is the centre and heart of the disturbances and hatreds of men Yet sin is lightly thought of today. Philosophers and statesmen have many plans for the betterment of mankind but none of them emphasize sin.

The Christian religion is that the individual looks to the Lord Jesus for forgiveness and remission of his sins and through the power of the indwelling Holy Spirit he is given strength to overcome the sins that do so easily beset him. God has entered the world through Jesus Christ His Son and offers to change men's characters through their repentance and faith in Jesus Christ.

What then is repentance? A modern scholar aptly defines repentance as a passionate return to God. This is the old and yet new gospel for this generation. Men find through their personal faith in Jesus Christ a sense of forgiveness. But that is not all. They rise and walk. They discover the spiritual power given to them and their friends see the change in character. This is the wonder and the glory of our Christianity. "By their fruits ye shall know them." Have you brought forth fruits meet for repentance. Are you an active Christian "cell" working for the advancement of the Kingdom of God."

"WITH GOD ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE."

Sermon To Tell Of Work In Africa

A picture sermon will be given in St. Andrew's Church next Sunday night, entitled "Two Missionaries in West Africa." Doubtless the question is often raised by supporters of missions—what kind of men are our missionaries? Where did they come from? What are they doing? These pictures tell the story of two of our men.

Dr. W. S. Gilchrist was born in Picton County, N.S. He wanted to be a missionary from childhood. He graduated in medicine in Dalhousie University. His first position was that of medical officer of health in the State of Tennessee. Here he had a fine position and splendid prospects of a lucrative medical career. He gave it up to become a missionary of the United Church, and is now serving in Angola, West Africa.

Rev. S. R. Collins is an Englishman who came to Ottawa when he was a boy. He served overseas during the four years of the Great War. In 1919 he entered McGill University in Montreal and graduated in Arts in 1923. He studied theology for two years in the United College in Montreal, and proved himself an able student. Since going to Africa he has translated large portions of the Bible into the Umbunder language which is spoken by the people in his area. He has written a number of hymns in the native language, and set them to African tunes. The people of Angola are famed for their native melodies.

Here are two men with outstanding gifts who are spending their lives amongst the African natives. The people in the home churches should stand by them and support them. We have sent them out to these distant fields and if we fail them we are proving ourselves unworthy of a sacred trust.

Omemee People Repairs Church

OMEMEE, Feb. 3 (ENS) — The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Monday. A good attendance was present. The report of several organizations showed the congregation to be in a progressive condition.

During the past year a Sunday School of some thirty members has been organized.

Many repairs and improvements to the church property were made, including a new roof on the church, new steps at the entrance and a general renovation of the interior all of which has been paid.

After the business meeting was concluded all went to the manse where Rev. and Mrs. Young assisted by the ladies of the congregation provided lunch and a pleasant hour was enjoyed by all.

Collapses During Consecration

OTTAWA, Feb. 3—(CP).—Most Rev. Guillaume Forbes, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Ottawa, collapsed to-day during the consecration of Mgr. Alexandre Vachon as Bishop of Ottawa and was carried from the Basilica.

Archbishop Forbes, who has been in ill-health, was said to be in serious condition.

Archbishop Forbes had just completed the consecration of the Co-adjutor Archbishop when he collapsed.

As the Archbishop collapsed there was commotion in the body of the cathedral, and a woman kneeling at prayer toppled over. She was carried to the basement by members of the Garde Champlain and was dead when Dr. A. Labourdais of Buckingham, Que., reached her from his seat in the Basilica.

Marriages Slump In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Feb. 3. — (ENS). — Lindsay's vital statistics for the month of January show only three marriages registered during that period, a record of recent years. Since it was the first month of the Leap Year, it caused one town official to make some caustic comments about the 'slowness' of Lindsay girls in taking advantage of the opportunity which comes only one year out of four.

F. Reynolds, Blairhampton, Haliburton county, had a narrow escape from drowning Thursday when his truck, loaded with lumber, crashed through the ice of Eagle Lake and sank after he managed to get free of the truck cab. The ice was quite thick but Mr. Reynolds had an unusuall yheavy load. It took several hours' work by a large number of men that raised the truck from the bottom of the lake.

No one was injured in a collision Friday on the corner of Kent and Albert street between a transport truck driven by Ray Lockwood and a milk truck driven by Lloyd McMullen. Both vehicles were damaged.

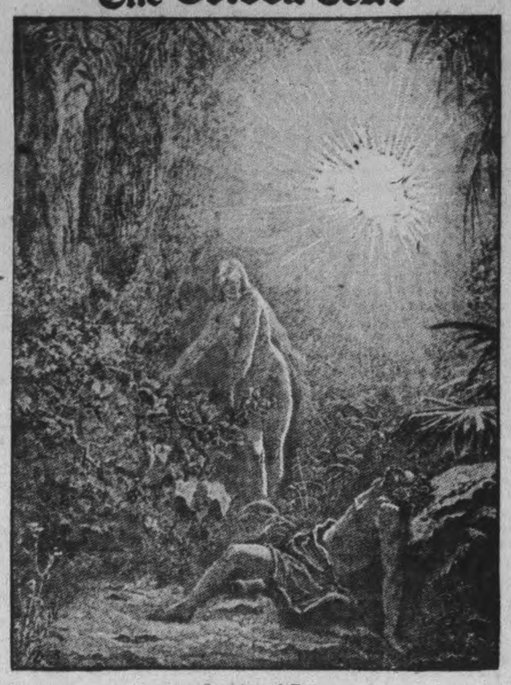
The Golden Text



Creation of Eve

"Ye were bought with a price: glorify God therefore in your body." I Cor. 6:20.

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

HOLDING LIFE SACRED

A Principle of Temperate Living

The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 4 is Genesis 1:27-31; I Corinthians 6:19, 20; II Corinthians 6: 16-7:1. The golden text being I Corinthians 6: 20. "Ye were bought with a price: glorify God therefore in your body").

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"So GOD created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him: male and female created He them.

"And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon th earth.

"And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat.

"And to every beast of the earth, wherein there is life, I have given every green herb for meat, an it was so."

Made in God's Image

So reads Genesis, the first book of the Bible, verses 27-30, and the subject of the lesson is "Holding Life Sacred, a Principle of Temperate Living." Man is made in the image of God, therefore, he should behave like a godlike being as much as possible. He should take great care of his wonderful body, keeping it clean physically and spiritually. He should use it with great care, keeping it fit with work and play, keeping his mind clear with good thoughts, and not eating too much or drinking too much, or otherwise abusing himself.

All this should be part of the rebirth of a Christian when he is converted to Christ. Whatever he has been doing, he should then live healthfully to make his humble body a fitting temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which ye have from God? and ye are not your own," says Paul in his letter to the Corinthians,"For ye were bought with a price," he continues, "glorify God therefore in your body."

It is through our bodies that we do everything and enjoy the things of the world—its beauty we see with our eyes; its fruits and other foods give pleasure to our sense of taste, its music, birdsongs, the sound of water falling, etc., we hear with our ears; sweet odors of field, woods and flowers, we smell. And we touch the good earth, soft fabrics and many things that bring us pleasure. It is with our hands that we paint, make music, do work that brings us joy and profit. It is with our bodies that we enjoy life and glorify God, so we should keep them holy and clean for His sake.

Bible Tells of Heaven and Earth

The Bible talks about heaven and earth and the life to come. But it also talks about homes, working, eating, drinking, friendships and our bodies. "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things," says Paul to the Corinthians. "But I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway."

Whether you be a preacher or not, a Christian, even a child, should set an example to his fellows—not a boastful example, but one that is much more needed and acceptable. One that is simply right living with "malice toward none, and charity toward all." This will please our Father who art in Heaven, as Paul said, "For ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them! and I will be their God, and they shall be my people."

"Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you.

"And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty."

Planned German Murder

Perhaps the mind of the world is becoming hardened to death, misery and desolation, but it still has that sensitive feeling which is touched into action. A few months ago the world knew in a general way what was taking place in Poland because there were correspondents in there from the outside world. They found channels through which they could send out their reports; they could tell of bombing and of gunning against civilian population.

In recent times it has been changed. Germany is in control and Germany sends no word. Not until the reports made to the Vatican became public property did the world get a view of what is going on in Poland. And it's hell.

A general massacre of Polish leaders took place at Gdynia, the new port which Poland had built in case Danzig was taken from them. From the ranks of business and professional men 350 hostages were taken, and each had to dig his own grave before being shot. Those who were to be shot at a later date were forced to watch the executions of those at first selected. The process was delayed in order to drive the victims as near as possible to the verge of insanity.

The claim is made that in all 15,000 Poles have been executed.

Apart from this violence the effect is now directed to take all the spirit out of the conquered people. There are large signs which carry the following rules:

1—All Poles must raise their hats to German officers and civilians with arm bands.

2—Poles must give Germans the right-of-way on the streets.

3—In markets Poles cannot be served until all Germans present have bought what they want.

These events are not accidents; they are not the outcome of the affront of one man to another. They are the deliberate working out of planned German policy. They are without mercy and without quarter. The same plan was used in Austria and in Czechoslovakia. It is the Nazi mind revealed and it will happen in any country which falls into the hand of Germany.

They Do Not Reform

Another of those problem cases has appeared in court at Hamilton. When he was 17 years of age, Douglas Guyatt was sentenced to the Reformatory for two years. Probation for him was asked for at the time and denied. He served his time, came out and is now going back again. Another two years.

His second offence was that he participated in an armed robbery of a grocery store where something like forty dollars was secured and that would have to be divided among the three who took part in it.

What's strange about it? Just this: The person who planned this robbery was one whom Douglas Guyatt met when he went to serve his first term in Reformatory, and it seems that while in the Reformatory they planned what they would do when they had finished their terms. So Guyatt went in at 17 to do two years, and at 19 he goes back for another similar term. Small wonder that people claim the name Reformatory is wrong. These places punish people, but they do not reform them.

Rather Hard To Believe

One report which comes from Germany says that Field Marshal Hermann Goering is working to become recognized as Chancellor under Hitler. At present he is virtually economic dictator of Germany but evidently the man desires to have similar scope in internal and foreign affairs.

It is not possible to vouch for the accuracy of the report, but it is at least interesting because it is based on the belief that Goering knew nothing of the policy by which Finland was abandoned to Soviet influence or Soviet invasion.

If Goering would not be aware of that move then who would? An English girl of good family, friend of Hitler's, arrived home not long ago under the direction of Hitler, and she said she was unaware that war was on between her country and Germany. We have no reason to believe she was not speaking the truth.

Such incidents leave the question wide open—how much do the people in Germany know? They get propaganda in their papers and the same on their radio. Members of the Reichstag knew nothing of the deal which was put through with Russia, and Rome, at the other end of the Berlin-Rome axis, was not consulted. But the idea of Goering the field marshal of the German army, not being aware that Russia was to be given a free hand to despoil Finland makes the dose almost too great for one to swallow.

Where It Comes From

How frequently we have heard that old complaint about the manner in which public men are abused. Abused so much that the wonder is we have any left who wish to offer themselves for public service. Yes—it's awful.

It was not difficult to think of all that in recent days when Mr. Hepburn and Col. Drew were taking the hides off people in the Ontario Legislature and in the Dominion government. Never at any time in a newspaper have we seen anything in the same class.

We concluded a long time ago that the abuse of public men came from other public men and not from the newspapers. And having lived through recent weeks we are more certain of it than ever.

In The Year 1940

A supreme court jury in New York awarded damages of $23,500 to Manfried Hauptmann, six-year-old son of the kidnapper of the Lindberg baby. He was struck by an automobile on May 5, 1938, and has since been epileptic, and the claim was that he had been permanently injured. The jury also awarded $2,000 to the boy's mother.

That trial might have passed without much notice were it not for the unusual surroundings which planted themselves about the hearing. When the jury was being selected one of the questions used in testing feeling or prejudice had to do with the Lindberg baby case and the subsequent execution of Hauptmann, and that in turn was due to the strange belief which some people—otherwise considered sensible—were said to entertain about the accident to the boy being some sort of visitation on account of the crime of his father. And it was to keep that strange sort of pagan feeling out of the jury box that so much questioning was necessary when the trial started.

We May Yet See a Germ

It begins to look as though they actually had something at the University of Toronto. It's a machine for taking photographs of disease germs magnified as highly as 33,000 times. They tried it on the edge of a razor blade and the picture looked like the serrated ridge of a high hill or range of mountains. That no doubt explains why razors pull.

Possibly the world will pay more heed to germs when we are able to see them, and when they magnify them 33,000 times the things should be visible to the naked eye. Heretofore people have just taken it for granted that germs exist because they have been told such is the case. The beggars have been too small for one to point with the finger and say "There he goes!"

At times we have read of the millions of germs which can sit on a dollar bill, and some authority wrote something on the millions more which sat on the door handle of a public building, and possibly as people went past they kept changing hands.

But we have never yet seen a germ and we have printed a good many stories now and then based on the assumption that such things existed. With this new machine coming into general use, a long felt desire may at last be granted. If they can make a germ hold still long enough and then a photograph 33,000 times enlarged, perhaps we may actually look at a picture and exclaim, "So that's what a germ looks like"

They Speak Plainly

A staff writer of the Examiner called on Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Webster of Fenelon Falls, and the reason was that they were celebrating their 64th wedding anniversary; they are also the oldest residents of the village.

Of course when a reporter goes on such an assignment he wants to get a story; he will look for the telling of incidents of other years, of improved ways we have now compared with those of fifty years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Webster talked of all these things, but always there was strong desire to turn back to what seemed to be the central theme of their life—the worship of God. They would talk about the days of oxen, of the time when the children were young, and then they would swing back to that favorite theme.

This couple, now so far down the sunset road, are certain they have made no mistake. Mr. Webster was for 10 years a township councillor and for 16 years a school trustee, but above that record of service they added that he was a Sunday School superintendent for 30 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster both spoke about the way in which young people seem bent on spending the Sabbath day; it was becoming just another day in the week and they feared the young folk were forgetting God. Then it was they turned to their younger days for reference, and recounted they used to walk three miles to the Methodist church, and of course it would be three miles home as well. When children came to their home they had it arranged that they all packed into a double buggy and they all went to service. Not until old age forced the issue did they discontinue their custom of attending worship.

The Webster folk talked of hard work as being desirable; they spoke of clean habits and good living, and then they would find the way back yet once again to their most loved topic—the worship of God. It was a fitting testimony because they had tried it in youth, in the days of strength and in advanced years and they were satisfied it was entirely good. In this day when so many church-going folk are rather tongue-tied on such matters, it was well to have Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Webster of Fenelon Falls speak with conviction.

NOTE AND COMMENT

When tea is going to be rationed in Britain people can get a fair enough idea to how serious the war has become.

In Wisconsin is a car owner named Ole Lee, and he always wants to get license number 337-370, claiming when the plate is turned upside down it spells his name. Take a pencil and try it.

German papers have announced that Canada is the arsenal of the Empire. More than likely Berlin has picked up some of the explosive speeches which have been going the rounds.

Issuer of marriage licenses in San Francisco says in one day three girls in a row handed over the fee for the necessary document, and possibly the gals looked upon it as a profitable investment.

We read that Alberta wants to start a bank of its own. Occasionally we have had the same sort of feeling, but always dreaded the idea of the day when a number of people might come in and ask for their money.

J. R. Cromwell, United States minister to Canada, says he feels as though there were no boundaries between the two countries. Smugglers have possibly had the same feeling at times but they have got into deep trouble by giving way to that feeling of emotion.

One woman in Toronto declared she loved all her dogs, and she had nine of them in the house. The only trouble was that the neighbors failed to enter into the spirit of the thing when all the dogs decided it was time to bark at the same time. That's where the police were called in.

Sylvanus Apps is certain he can be a Conservative candidate in the election and play hockey as well. He should remember he will have to lay aside his stick and take off all the padding before going on the hustings.

A truck driver was fired at a gum factory in Pittsburgh, and he made a one-man picket line and 150 employees refused to go to work. There was a settlement made the same day and the driver went back to work, so it beats all what one man can do when he's determined.

Hugh Plaxton, Liberal, and last sitting member for Trinity riding in Toronto, says he is going to be a candidate again, and Arthur Roebuck, Liberal, has been nominated for the riding. It looks like one of those cases where warring Liberals were going to make it rather easy for Conservatives to gain a seat.

TRAGEDY

¶ Line fences bothered Dan and Joe, must be some twenty years ago, they argued quite a lot; Dan said the line fence wasn't straight, Joe chanted too his verse of hate, and they were rather hot.

¶ For years they'd lived there side by side; and to each house there'd come a bride, good neighbors there for years; there was a short-cut path between, so much 'twas used 'twas never green, shared joys and griefs and fears.

¶ That line fence seemed to get his goat, it stuck right square inside Dan's throat, he couldn't gee nor haw; and hot words flowed across his chin, he said that Joe was cheating him, and so he'd go to law.

¶ Joe didn't know what Dan might do, and so he got a lawyer too, the case went into court; they hired an engineer to come, to find just where the fence would run, he made a long report.

¶ Dan got a bill and so did Joe, as much as all the wheat they'd grow, they both began to groan; they read the judgment through and through, it said the only thing to do, was leave the fence alone.

¶ That path that used to be kept bare, you wouldn't know 'twas ever there, no feet on it so long; and Dan's was stubborn in his way, for all he'd have to do was say—he knew that he was wrong.

NO MORE JINGOES

IT SURELY cannot elude the world's notice that the spirit of "jingoism" has completely disappeared from Imperial relations.

There was no need of a "campaign," with catch-phrases, propagandist speeches and drum-beating, once the clarion call went out from the Allied camps. The response of the Empire was immediate, unemotional and absolutely devoid of false sentiment. The independent governments acted with the full backing of their peoples; the Colonies despatched "spontaneous messages of support."—Birmingham Mail.

AGAINST NATIONAL GOV'T

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

The London Free Press (Con.), in an editorial published on Thursday last, immediately preceding the shortest session of parliament in Canadian history, came out strongly against a national government. It pointed out that a national government at the present time is not practical. It reminded its readers that a coalition is not feasible in this country except in a national emergency, and it expressed its belief that public sentiment had not yet reached the stage where a national government is pressing. It drew attention to the fact that Quebec would be opposed to national government and would be suspicious of any national administration, even if conscription is not an issue. The Free Press further pointed out, and we thoroughly agree with it, that the formation of a national government will not result in the "throwing of politics into the ashcan."

• Give Finland A Chance To Live

ALL Americans—with the exception of an infinitiesimal minority still loyal to Russia among those who have called themselves Communists—sympathize with Finland.

Almost all Americans favor loans to help Finland in her fight against Russia. When an agreement is reached between President Roosevelt, Ex-President Hoover, Mayor La Guardia of New York and Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor, a wide range of public opinion is represented.

Some, among those who oppose it, say such loans would be unneutral.

There is no violation of our Neutrality Act. Both Russia and Finland have been careful to avoid declaring war, just as have Japan and China, and for the same reason, which is to avoid our invoking our Neutrality Act. The Johnson Act is not involved, for Finland has made the required payments on its previous debt.

But these are technicalities, they say. We might be involved in war.

Our Neutrality Act is our own affair, and has nothing to do with international law. We have not foregone any of our rights under international law, and international law does not forbid us to sell arms to belligerents, to make them loans for the purpose of buying arms, or to sell them arms for credit. It is highly unlikely that Russia would declare war on us for any such reason. Russia already has troubles enough.

But suppose Russia did declare war on us, what could she do about it? Russia has no fleet that she could send against us. Without a fleet, she could not send an army, or even an air force against us. And there is no necessity that we should send our fleet and army against Russia. Even if Russia declared war, we could, if we chose, ignore it—just as we declined recognition of Russia for 15 years after quasi war with her in 1918.

It is to our national interest to see Finland survive, for Finland has been a good neighbor and a good customer. It is not our habit to turn our backs on friends merely because they are in trouble.

A friend is in trouble, but shows great capability for minding his own affairs. A small loan may enable him to survive, in which case it will be many times repaid in his continued good will toward us. But if we are going to help him, let us not prescribe how he should use the money. Let him buy what he needs — and what Finland needs is airplanes, arms, ammunition — the sinews of war.

Let's give Finland a chance to live.

• Extra! All About Fowler's Corners

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—Having not seen any correspondence from Fowler's Corners for a while a word of explanation might be in order to let the public know that this little hamlet is still on the map and going strong.

As you approach from the eastern horizon you come to the Moncrief Transport on the south side of No. 7 Highway and the Lakehead farm operated by the firm of Kerr & Kerr with a mammoth henery equipped with Hydro with the hens giving 24 hour service and entirely dispensed with the rooster call boy.

As you near the "slow" sign you come to the general store owned and operated by W. T. Howden with a twenty-four hour service and can get anything from a needle's eye to an elephant's tooth. Next is the garage and blacksmith shop run by Robert Nurse & Son and can fix you up if you want to travel by motor car or one horse open sleigh. Across the street is the huge town pump under control of Alderman William Nurse. Across No. 7 Highway you find one of the finest dog kennels owned by Tiny who also runs the evening sawing machine and all orders booked receive prompt attention.

Next in order is the Grey Mule Transport, owned by C. Fee & Son and is fully equipped to handle winter transportation. Then on the north boundary is Bikey who looks after Uncle Sam's tourists and can show them where to get a wee bass. Mrs. Eva Deyell was hostess for a dance in honor of her guest, Miss Myrtle Colin with the Reynolds' Orchestra supplying music for both round and square dancing with Mr. Charles Westlake for financial minister.

• Where Will Germany Get Supplies?

(British White Paper)

ARMED FORCES alone cannot win a war. However large a nation's armies and navies may be, it cannot carry on the fight without certain key resources—food for its people and raw materials for its factories. These are the sinews of war.

How do we compare with the enemy?

Because of our command of the sea, we can continue to draw vital materials from every part of the world.

The Nazis, on the other hand, must sooner or later find themselves in great difficulties.

Their share in total world production of many of the most vitally important war materials is very small indeed. In peace-time they had to get a large part of their requirements of these materials from countries which they cannot now reach. Russian help cannot greatly alter the position. Russia actually ranks lower than Denmark as an exporter and exports cannot be multiplied in a day.

Now that war has come, they will not be able to get anything like as much nickel, rubber and copper as they need. They will have to use substitutes for these things at a heavy cost both in money and manpower.

No war material is more vital than OIL. This is a war of machines—of aeroplanes, tanks, motor vehicles. Without enough oil machines come to a standstill. And what is wanted is not simply crude oil as it comes out of the earth, but refined oil—the product of elaborate plants which take a long time to build.

Here again the outlook for Nazi Germany is black.

In peace-time the Germans used nearly seven million tons of oil a year in the old Reich alone. No less than two-thirds of the total had to be imported.

In war-time the Nazis probably need anything up to twenty million tons of oil a year—three times as much as in peace-time. Such is the admission of Ferdinand Friedensburg, a leading German authority. That is to say, the Nazis must obtain up to fourteen million tons more than in peace-time, either by increasing home production or by additional imports.

What are their chances of getting it?

In peace-time the Nazis obtained the greater part of their oil from the United States and other American countries. Now that war has come they are cut off from these sources of supply. They may be able to turn to Soviet Russia for some part of their war requirements, but the WHOLE of Russia's oil export (about a million tons a year) would amount to no more than ONE-FIFTH of the total imported by Greater Germany in peace-time. And petrol, which the Nazis most need, forms only a small part of the oil exported from Russia.

What is more, the Nazis would have great difficulty in transporting the oil from Russia to Germany. The small quantity of Russian oil and petrol supplied to Germany in peace-time went by way of Black Sea, the Mediterranean and the Atlantic to Germany's North Sea ports—a route which is now closed to the Nazis. They cannot hope to carry large quantities of oil along the obvious alternative route—via the Black Sea and the Danube—owing to their lack of tankers, barges and tank wagons. The Danube, moreover, is a very difficult river to navigate, and its lower reaches are icebound during part of the winter.

They might, in the second place, try to increase their production of synthetic oil from coal. This method is very costly, and even in peace-time used up enormous quantities of coal. Any attempt to raise the oil output still further by this means would place an even greater strain on German coal resources. Great difficulties, moreover, stand in the way of increasing coal production on a large scale. Mining is a highly skilled job, and miners cannot be trained in thousands overnight.

The Nazis might, on the other hand, seize the Roumanian oil-fields.

But even if they succeeded in getting the oil-wells intact—and this is extremely doubtful — their problem would not be solved. The whole Roumanian and German oil production put together would not supply anything like half the Nazis' wartime needs. Much of the Roumanian oil, moreover, is of a kind which yields very little aviation spirit.

It is quite clear that there is a big gap between Nazi Germany's war-time oil needs and the amount which can be produced in territory dominated by Berlin. For a short time this gap may be filled by drawing from stocks built up in peace-time. When these stocks run out, the Nazis will have immense difficulties in obtaining the huge oil supplies they need.

NO BUGGY SALESMEN

With new buggies no longer on the market it's a serious business these days when such a horse-drawn vehicle goes into the ditch. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver had the now rare experience of turning over in a buggy the other day. Neither was seriously injured and although the vehicle was pretty badly warped about they felt that they came out of the scrape most fortunately. The best thing about the mishap, Mr. Oliver says, is that he has not been pestered by a lot of buggy salesmen. —Orane, Missouri, Chronicle.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Then Jesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon. And, behold, a woman of Canaan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil. But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us. But he answered and said, I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel. Then came she and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me.

But he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs. And she said, Truth, Lord: yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table. Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour. — Matt. xv, 21-28.

Sir,—Just a line from a few fellows from Peterborough who are stationed at Aldershot, England. We were wondering if it was possible to get some Canadian tobocco and cigarette wrapper papers from Peterborough as English tobacco is very poor, also very expensive. It is around $4.50 per pound, 32 cents per ounce and we cannot afford it.

We would also like to get the Examiner paper to get the news from home. If there is anything you could do for us we would appreciate it very much.

A LOT OF MONEY

THE National Bank of Detroit stands eighteenth from the top of the list of largest commercial banks in the United States, according to the amount of money on deposit with them at the end of last calendar year.

The Chase National Bank, the National City Bank and the Guaranty Trust Co., all of New York, are the only commercial banks in this country with deposits of more than $2,000,000,000.

There are five other banks with deposits of more than $1,000,000,000.

The "American Banker" estimates the grand total of all money deposited in banks in the United States at the end of 1939 at $69,500,000,000, a new record high.

That was $30,300,000,000 more than was on deposit in 1933, when a low of $39,200,000,000 was recorded.

Obviously there is plenty of money in the United States.

The problem is how to put more of it to work producing the necessaries and luxuries of life.—Detroit Free Press.

Municipal Board Orders Policy For Peterboro

"We'd better all send in our resignations and let the government run the city," declared Alderman Gordon at the finance committee meeting Thursday night in criticism of a direction from the Ontario Municipal Board which was broadly interpreted as tantamount to an order relating to local policy as to work paid for on the local improvement plan.

"It might be better if we went up there and ran it for them," said Alderman Cotton.

"I think we ought to send a deputation to the Municipal Board and protest against their ruling," Alderman Bradburn suggested.

City Clerk Armstrong said that works done as local improvements, such as laying sidewalks, curbs and gutters, sewers and so on, could be undertaken in three ways, by petition to property owners, or by the council giving notice that work was to be done and letting interested persons petition against it, if they wished to do so, or by the council advertising notice of the work and the people taking their objection to the Ontario Municipal Board.

The general practice of this city was to give notice of proposed work and letting people petition against it.

Alderman Gordon remarked that the council was following a practice sanctioned by statute, and such authority was higher than that of the Municipal Board.

City Solicitor Huycke called the committee's attention to the concluding observation in the Board's letter as follows: "For your further information the Board prefers to have local improvement works installed on petition only, and does not welcome an application for approval pursuant to Section 8 of The Local Improvement Act."

The city's receives its warrant from Section 8, but the Municipal Board broadly intimates its preference for the request for local improvements coming from groups of citizens affected by the frontage rate cost, rather than being initiated by the council with the property owners having the option to object.

It was jokingly commented, but evidently with considerable seriousness, that the Ontario Municipal Board was running the city, or trying to, and "they ought to mind their own business."

"They're running the city better than they are running the government," said Alderman Bradburn. "This city is being run a great deal better than the province of Ontario at the present time."

"I object as much as you do," said Mayor Hamilton, "but City Treasurer Shaver has been up there, and what can be done about it. The Legislature says what we can do and what the Municipal Board shall do."

"They're doing what they are told to do," said Alderman Gordon. "There's no doubt about that."

Mr. Shaver said he had no desire to go before the Municipal Board again. He had been there recently and had taken more "hot water" than he liked.

The Bradburn resolution, which Alderman Roy seconded, ended feebly as an expression of protest, but it was not put to a vote.

France Dickering For Speedy New U.S. Fighters

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP).—Negotiations by the French Government for the purchase of one of the newest types of pursuit planes being manufactured for the United States Army Air Corps may lend impetus to the aid the Allies are giving Finland.

The French are dickering for a "considerable number" of the speedy Bell "Airacobra" planes, which carry a cannon in the nose and reach a top speed of more than 400 miles an hour.

Army officials said in Washington that they had no knowledge of the negotiations by the French and added that the "new Bell fighter has not been released to the French or any other Government.' Before any sale of the planes to a foreign power could be made approval of the Army-Navy Aeronautical Board would have to be obtained.

The French and British have made no secret of the material aid they are extending to Finland in its war with Russia, both in warplanes and other implements. Since the extent of that aid is conditional an the availability of replacement armament for their own defense, whatever Airicobras are bought here by the French would release to the Finns a corresponding number of French planes.

Finland itself, for that matter, is trying to make direct purchase of Airacobras.

The Bell Aircraft Corporation of Buffalo, N.Y., is ahead of its delivery schedule on an unspecified number of the cannon-equipped planes ordered by the United States Air Corps.

If the French are able to obtain the Bell planes, they will constitute some of the 3,000 pursuits for which the Allies are in the market for delivery at the pier for shipment abroad no later than the autumn of 1941.

They also are concluding contracts, piecemeal, for a total of about 6,000 bi-motored bombers. Conversations on the availability of additional American pursuits also have included mention of another plane, which as yet, is not in quantity production for the air corps.

The Bell pursuit, which is similar to the German single-engine Messerschmitt in armament, is of novel design in that the motor, a liquid-cooled Allison, is mounted behind instead of in front of the pilot. That permits greater streamlining and more speed.

The Home Improvement Plan for financing home improvements came into operation in November, 1936. Loans in 1939 totalled 26,175 with a value of $11,217,382. This was an increase of 26 per cent over 1938.

Modern Bathrooms Available In Numerous Designs

Roman Emperors' Bath Had Nothing On 1940 Model

The beautiful marble bathing pools of the days when the Roman Empire was at its height were considered to represent the peak of bathing luxury. Compared to the modern tiled bathroom of to-day, with its gleaming enamelled fixtures, chromium fittings, beautifully tiled walls and floors, and smooth running efficiency, the Roman Emperors still had something to learn about plumbing perfection, says the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating.

Moreover, when it is remembered that the bathing facilities of the Roman days could accommodate hundreds, and in some cases thousands of people at one time, the home owner of to-day has the added advantage of being able to have his luxurious accommodation for his own personal use and that of his family.

The attractive appearance and smooth running efficiency of the bathroom of to-day has evolved from the combined efforts of artist designers and plumbing manufacturers who have taken the bathtub, lavatory and closet in hand and not only improved their utility but also given them glamor, style and color effect.

Thanks to low cost of production, modern bathroom are well within the comfort and convenience of a the means of the average householder the Institute points out and are among the chief improvements provided for under the Home Improvement Plan.

In making plans for a modern bathroom, either in renovation or in new construction, one of the first points to consider is the style and location of the bathtub, says the Institute. To-day the preference is for the built-in bathtub, reminiscent of the sunken baths of the Roman days, and it should be placed away from a window if possible. Made of gleaming enamelled cast-iron, there are more than twenty different sizes and colors to suit individual tastes and requirements. The general trend is toward a lower fixture, with a wider, flatter, more comfortable bottom. Some designs are obtainable with a wide rim or "bath bar" for toilet articles, and other types have seats for convenience in foot-bathing, or hand-grips which facilitate entering and emerging.

Particular attention should also be given to the selection of the lavatory, suggests the Institute. Where only small space is available the home owner will find the cabinet type an advantage in providing storage space for soaps, towels, and other bathroom equipment. For the larger sized bathrooms there are models with generous sized bowls, with wide edges on either side for toilet articles, and with lovely pedestal base or slender chromium legs. All models are available in smooth, gleaming vitreous china, with chromium fittings, easily kept clean.

The modern closet has been improved in appearance and is quiet in action. It may be obtained in the low one-piece models, admirably suited to the streamlined bathroom and in some models the top of the flush tank makes a handy shelf.

All bathroom fixtures as well as fittings may now be had in matched designs to give an ensemble effect to the bathroom. Wall coverings range from tile, cork, and washable wallpapers; and floor coverings from colored tile, marble and beautifully patterned linoleum. With the wide range of fixtures and materials to choose from, there is as much scope for individual style and color decoration in the bathroom as in any other room in the house, suggests the Institute.

Any reputable plumbing and heating contractor can offer numerous ideas for renovation when consulted and provided with an approximate plan of the existing bathroom and the position of the fixtures. To the householder and his family these conferences with the contractor will provide real enjoyment and pride in the home. The low cost and the availability of Home Improvement Finance from any bank renders needless the continued use of an old-fashioned bathroom in any home.

Paris Wants Rations Not Because Food Low But To Curb Quickly Soaring Prices

Paris, Feb. 3 (AP)

THE Council-General of the Department of the Seine, governing body for the City of Paris, to-day asked the government to follow the British example and issue food ration cards for Paris and its suburbs as soon as possible.

The Council particularly asked for rationing of sugar, coffee, oil and soap.

The newspaper L'Intransigeant said there was growing popular demand for rationing in order to prevent price increases and ensure equitable distribution.

L'Intransigeant emphasized that there is no shortage of food in France, but said prices have risen for meat, milk, bread, butter and wine, and on several occasions difficulty has been reported in obtaining oil, coffee and coal.

Irish Ask American Intercession To Save 2 Doomed I.R.A. Bombers

DUBLIN, Feb. 3—(CP).—Appeals for American intercession on behalf of two Irishmen sentenced to death in England for the fatal bombing at Coventry last August were forwarded today to President Roosevelt and prominent Irishmen in the United States.

The telegrams were dispatched following a protest meeting against the death sentences held here last night. Members of the Eire Parliament and clergy were among the crowd attending.

The Corporation of the City of Cork appealed to the Eire Ministry of External Affairs to intervene with the British Government. A resolution adopted by the Corporation said:

"In view of the widespread feeling amongst the Irish people that the two Irishmen sentenced are innocent, we request the Eire Ministry of External Affairs immediately to intervene with a view of saving their lives.

"While we sincerely regret the loss of life in Coventry, we also believe the execution of the men would embitter relations between the two countries especially at a time when we had hoped for a just and lasting settlement between Britain and this country."

A statement published by Tom Barry of Cork, a former leader of the Irish Republican movement, said he had "conclusive evidence" that the men convicted of the bombing were innocent.

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP).—Defence counsel for the two men sentenced to die next Wednesday for the Irish Republican Army bombings at Coventry last August were reported to have applied today to Attorney-General Sir Donald Somervell for an order permitting an appeal to the House of Lords.

An attempt to stay the execution, meanwhile, was made through another legal channel. Application was made to the Home Secretary for the appearance of James Richards, one of the condemned men, at the trial next Tuesday of Joseph Hewitt, another alleged I.R.A. terrorist.

ORFUNS AND 'Y' GYM LEAD THE PARADE IN GIRLS' BASKETBALL

St. John's Win Other Tilt In Triple-Header

Orfuns and "Y" Gym, continued to show their superiority over the rest of the field by winning their games to each run their win streak to six games. St. John's remained in a play-off position by beating the luckless Quaker Debs 16-8 in last night's weekly Ladies' Basketball League games at the Y.W.C.A. before a fair crowd. Orfuns laced Westclox 38-2, and "Y" Gym nosed out Quaker Aces in an important game, 22-19.

As the league draws to the close of the second of their three-part schedule, Orfuns and "Y" Gym, are well out in front with Quaker Aces not too far behind, and St. John's a close fourth. Westclox and Quaker Debs are both well back.

St. John's held an 8-4 edge in each half to down Quaker Debs in a somewhat listlessly played game. St. John's held a small edge over the losers, with slightly better shooting and a more persistent attack, the score just about indicating their margin in the play. Neither team played extra good basketball defensively. St. John's failed to make a single free throw out of eight tries, while the losers dropped in only two of their 12 "gift" shots. D. Gibbs and B. Fenner were the pick of the Debs with A. Bowler with six points, T. Laws and E. Clark standing out for the winners. The teams:

Quaker Debs (8).—H. White 1, H. Tighe, B. Fenner 3, J. Metcalfe, A. Laing, D. Gibbs 4, H. Grant, G. Allen, D. Smith.

St. John's (16).—A. Bowler 6, T. Laws 4, E. Clark 2, H. Douglas 2, D. Groombridge, C. Harte-Maxwell, A. Gynane, H. Harte-Maxwell, E. Gynane.

Referee—W. Thirnbeck. Umpire, H. Smith.

A Close One

Although the losers rallied in the last half to have a one-point scoring margin, "Y" Gym managed to squeeze out a 22-19 win in a well-played game between the second and third place teams. "Y" Gym had a clear margin in the early minutes and through most of the first half, leading 13-9 at the half way mark but from then on it was about even. Both teams played good offensive basketball. The winners had a better passing attack than the Aces, but muffed more scoring chances in the latter stages of the game. R. Dalliday with 13 points and B. Flynn with 6 stood out for the winners, with S. Alexander, P. Lawless and D. Weese being the pick of the Aces. The winners made four free throws in seven tries, and the Quaker team dropped in five out of 11 tries from the free throw line. The teams:

"Y" Gym. (22).—I. Young, B. DeMaio, L. Wesley 2, R. Dalliday 13, F. Craig, B. Pomeroy, S. Zakos, R. Sullivan 1, B. Flynn 6.

Quaker Aces (19).—D. Weese 5, P. Lawless 6, E. Kirn, M. Hooten, J. Fowler, S. Alexander 8, M. Duncan, A. Gray, V. Wood.

Studebaker Scores In Economy Run

For the second consecutive year Studebaker has won the title of economy champion.

Three Studebakers, a Champion, a Commander and a President, swept the Gilmore - Yosemite economy sweepstakes on January 4. They not only won first, second and third prizes in the sweepstakes, but they beat every car in their individual price class events. The contest was held under the strict supervision of the Pacific Coast Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

The Studebaker Champion delivered more gasoline mileage than any other six, eight or twelve in the event averaging 35.03 miles per Imperial gallon.

This is the only time in the history of the contest that cars of one make have won first, second and third prizes in the sweepstakes and have also defeated competition in various price classes in which they competed. Also, it is the second consecutive year for Studebaker to win the sweepstakes. Two Studebakers entered the event in 1939 and won in both the sweepstakes and the price class competitions; this year three Studebakers entered and each was victorious.

The Gilmore-Yosemite economy run in the American continent's most important test of fuel conservation. It is held early each year, between the Gilmore Oil Company's headquarters in Los Angeles and Yosemite Park. The course which measures 306 miles, runs from sea level to an altitude of 6,258 feet and it travels over city boulevards, flat country highways and twisting mountain roads in the High Sierras.

Competing cars are strictly stock, carefully checked and inspected by A.A.A. officials. Even accessories must be official optional equipment.

Weight of cars, passengers and baggage is taken because the sweepstakes prizes are awarded on a basis of ton-miles. The formula is simple: weight of the loaded car in tons, multiplied by the distance, divided by the amount of fuel consumed. This measure of efficiency places all cars of all sizes on a substantially equal basis. Price class prize are awarded on a straight fuel economy basis.

The Champion proved itself 17% to 29% superior in gas economy to the other three low-priced cars against which it competed.

The runs started at 5 o'clock in the morning and all sorts of weather, snow and heavy rains, were encountered. The cold weather which prevailed made no contribution to fuel economy, instead it hindered it

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

By Canadian Press Canadian

In the earlier, cheerier days of the present National league season, when Montreal fans were looking forward to big things, Canadiens had as their second line Louis Trudel on left wing, Rod Lorrain on right, centred by Polly Drouin. Trudel is the only one who's been consistently around, as Drouin went down to New Haven, and Lorrain was out for a time with injuries. And the American-born French-Canadian has been giving full measure every time out, skating and checking after the manner of the team's No. 1 left wing, Toe Blake. Trudel is in his second season with the team after five seasons with Chicago Black Hawks, from whom he was secured in a trade for Diz Desliets. Born at Salem, Massachusetts, and thus one of the few American-born players in the league, Louis grew up out west and played his amateur hockey around Edmonton, before turning pro. with Tulsa Oilers for the 1932-33 season. Moved up to the Hawks the following season. The next year was his best in a scoring way as he put together 11 goals and the same number of assists for a point total of 22. Until the beginning of this season his arithmetical array looked like this: Thirty-five goals, 59 assists, 94 points, plus 96 minutes served in penalties. Served a short time with New Haven after joining Canadiens. Full name Louis Napoleon, and his age, going on for 27.

Orfuns piled up a 19-1 margin in each half of their game, with Westclox, to run up another runaway victory, stopping the losers but two free throws, and not a single goal from the field. While the winners' attack clicked in fine fashion and their defence functioned perfectly, Westclox were badly off form and the Orfuns were never in danger after the opening whistle. Orfuns continue to hold a one-game edge over "Y" Gym in top place, and Westclox are battling it out with Quaker Debs for the cellar. B. Blade, A. Craig and G. Mortimer led the victors, scoring 27 points between them, with B. Saunders and J. Hair leading the losers. The teams:

Stirling Drops 5-2 Decision To Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3—(ENS)—Opening the second half of their schedule in the Trent Valley League here at a fast clip, Campbellford Sunocos snatched a 5-2 victory from Stirling, their rivals of long standing. Though the visitors are in the cellar position of the league they put up a game struggle all the way and were actually outplayed for only a brief period during the sixty minutes. The game opened fast with both sides tearing in on the attack, the visiting aggregation getting a few more shots on the net than the locals; however, the first period ended scoreless. In the second Sunocos set a blazing pace, scoring their five tallies during the frame, and it began to look as though Stu Donald might get his second shut-out of the season fill in the final stanza. Armstrong slapped in Richardson's pass from close range and bulged the twine at the fifteen-minute mark. The visitors continued to press hard during the stanza, tearing in on the Sunocos' defence at a fierce clip, only to be robbed on several occasions as shots appeared labelled. Walker, speedy Stirling forward, notched the final goal with less than a minute to play.

The score did not give a fair indication of the play as Armstrong, Richardson and Walker, first stringers for visitors, tore through the Sunocos' defence, blazing some hard shots at Donald, who was saved on at least two occasions when the puck hit the goal post. However, it was combination play of Campbellford's front line that played a major part in their victory. The Henry, McIlrath, Robinson line was on the ice during all but one of their scoring efforts, while the alternative line led by Wib Blake with Free and Godden, gave the visitors plenty of trouble, and though they worked well together, didn't get the scoring breaks. Blake rammed a hot one at Fox while Stirling was short-handed and the visiting net-minder, a veteran of many seasons, managed to spear it with his foot. Fox gave a great performance in the net, D. Free's shot from the blue line being the only easy one which got by. For the classy display of net-minding he gave, Donald earned a shut-out, since the only two that got by were when he was without protection in front.

Owen Hendy, leading playmaker for the Sunocos' first stringers, gave one of his best exhibitions of the season, showing that he not only knows the tricks of the game but can also play a good clean brand of hockey. He tallied the opening counter on an end-to-end rush, drawing Fox from the net to rap one into the hemp from close range.

City Carpetball

Out of fourteen results turned in since the last report nine double-headers were won and one drawn game.

The most surprising upset of the season yet was the Fighting Parsons from the cellar trimming the league leaders for the first double-header they have won this season. Apparently King Billy's men got a shipment of lemons instead of the usual oranges. St. George's have recovered from their slump so get the best of their points but Rumaries Antiques have struck a bad shipment of glue and the old furniture is sort of falling apart.

The C.N.R. freighters crew have been putting on some extra steam and have pulled ahead of the league, leading the King Billies and East City decorators by four points. This is the first time they have taken the lead this season and are showing real promise for the Hope Cup unless some gang can shut off their steam.

We have received a few more entries for the president's cup series. Those entered being 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 10, 12, 14, 15.

No. 7 has definitely stated they will not be able to make it but we would like to hear from Nos. 6, 9, 11, 13 and 16 so that we can make arrangements for the first round.

It has been suggested that in future years this playdown is done right at the start of the season. What is your suggestion?

Those games that have been postponed because of nights we would suggest that the skippers get together and make arrangements.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Robert the Red came, saw and was conquered. Unlike Caesar, Red Creighton led his cohorts into foreign terrain and suffered a rebuff. The Owen Sound Trappers found nothing in their traps along about 11 p.m. last night in Peterborough but the sour side of a 6-0 score. Just a bucket of whitewash. Close to a thousand fans viewed the exhibition O.H.A. intermediate "A" game — or senior "B", if ya like the sound of it better, since there is practically no difference—and they enjoyed a good, fast clean game. With the Petes some five goals better on the night's play. And we'll bet, oh, say about an eighth of the week's wages, that the Buckland bunch can take the Trappers any time, anywhere. Even at full strength.

* * * * * *

To be perfectly fair to the Sound squad, they were minus their regular goalie—though Earl McNabb, local sub goalie, turned in a fine chore in his place—and they were tired after playing the night before and then making a long trip. But we believe, after watching the Trappers in action, that the Petes are a little too speedy for 'em, and that the locals will take them anytime by three or four goals. The Owen Sound crew are well-coached and had some nice passing plays, but the Petes looked better—by a fair margin—all the way. Or is that 6-0 score just a fluke?

* * * * * *

They're No Setups

Nope, we're not trying to be a homer — and the players definitely know that we'll pan 'em as quick as any fan in the arena—but the Petes have a lot of class this year. They're not in Goodyears' class at all, but they're able to skate along with any other club they've met this season, including the highly-touted Oshawa Generals. They played pretty fair hockey last night and earned the win by that score. This is no junior squad, when we have to be careful, but an experienced gang which does not get a swelled head or two when boosted.

* * * * * *

Goalie Dahmer of Owen Sound came here but a cut on the face, which he had suffered the night before, bothered him and he found on arrival that infection had set in—and he went to the hospital. McNabb took his place and did well. Red Creighton played his head off but couldn't score, and the Petes had a lot of fun riding him. Eddie Starr jockeyed Robert the Red—whom he roomed with in the Falls last playoff season—all evening, and Red (driven to desperation once) cracked: "I'll get Gibson of the Fliers after you again, Eddie!" Gibson cut Starr over the head last game. Yeah, they had their own fun in a neat exhibition, with the locals' first line showing up best.

* * * * * *

And His Word Went

Archie Weir, who played for the Petes right up till this season—and is now coach of the Colts—refereed a good game. He called back one local goal and the mob howled blue murder, but Archie had the bell and that's what counted. He said afterward one local puckist stepped into the crease just before the puck went in. And, like a good ref, he stuck to his ruling and defied the world to prove otherwise. At the "Eleven O'Clock Club" afterward, a gang of us argued about it, but no one worried one way or the other as the Petes still had enough to carry to the bank and place in the vault.

* * * * * *

Minus McDougall, Creighton, Cournyea and Stabler, the Lakefield intermediate "B" squad proved no match for the Sutton snipers in the northern centre last p.m. and Sutton hung up an 11-4 shiner on 'em. The visitors proved tougher than mule meat for two periods, but the homesters kept fighting back and actually finished stronger. We dunno the exact setup, but believe there is still a possibility—matter of mumbling mathematics—of Lakefield not quite making group playoffs. They used a coupla juniors to fill in last eve and the lads did okay.

* * * * * *

The Fair Cagers

Down in "Basketball Dell," which is bounded by the four walls of the Y.W. gym in the neighborhood of Simcoe and Aylmer streets, a trio of gals' hoop tilts were run off last gloaming. Orfuns and "Y" Gym, like ol' man ribber, jes' keep rollin' along. Orfuns stopped the Westclox 38-2, as the Gym damsels squeezed out a 22-18 decision o'er the good Aces—but did ya ever see aces that weren't good? The other fray was as one-sided as the press reports out of Helsinki—with St. John's thumping Quaker Debs (who have lots of fight but no luck) to a 16-8 tune. Lots of neat action, as well as knee action in each game.

* * * * * *

Bunny Morganson of the Tely tells of how Hugh Findlay has had enough financial reverses with his senior ball squad in the T.B.A. and is dropping out of the West Toronto Loop. He dropped $700 last year, and even then the league had its best money season in years—owing largely to the Petes being in the Intercity League setup, and drawing well both here and in Toronto. Bunny also adds: "President Harvey Brown, starting his 12th season as leader at Earlscourt Park, is counting on Peterborough and Danforth Aces to round out the circuit." Sometime this month, the local club will hold a re-organization meeting.

By HERB MARTIN

With the last quarter of the schedule about to begin next week, we find, lookng over the standing, that anything may yet happen.

Groups A and C are creating as nice a race as could be expected, with three or four rinks well in the running, while in Group B Fred Green holds a slight edge, but that's all. By next Saturday night we may be able to announce the winners of the groups.

A number of the lady curlers motored up to Bobcaygeon yesterday afternoon and enjoyed a friendly game with the Bobcaygeon lady curlers. They were entertained by the members of the curling club at the Rockland House after the games.

George Green, who played on the seven o'clock draw last night, and by the way won his game—the first in four starts—was sitting in on No. 8 around 10 p.m. Somebody said to George, "Why don't you go home?" "Nothing doing," said George; "somebody may ask me how I made out to-night."

Yesterday morning the ladies reached the semi-finals of the Waddell Trophy, and now Miss H. Munro will meet Mrs. R. H. Turner in the finals.

Lakefield Lost To Sutton By 11-4 Count

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3.—(ENS). — In an O.H.A. Intermediate 'B' game here last night Lakefield lost to Sutton 11-4. The Intermediates were short McDougall, Creighton, Cournyea and Stabler and had to fill in with junior players, who were a little light but made a fine showing.

Stewart, the junior star, grabbed off a goal dan assist and Birch counted one. The Suttonites were much heavier than Lakefield and used their weight every chance. Doc Morin made his first appearance in uniform this season and looked good. Windsor in the Lakefield nets played good hockey, having 10 shots to 1 on Sutton.

Lakefield failed to score in the opening period with Sutton getting four goals. Culverwell got the first from a scrimmage in front of the nets. Birch went off for tripping and Gibney scored on a pass from Carpentier inside the defence. Gerrard got the gate for cross-checking, but Lakefield failed to beat Smith. Brady counted again when he was left uncovered in front of the nets. Morin was penalized for slashing, but no goals were scored until he returned to the ice and Gerrard banged one in from between his feet.

Sutton led in the scoring again this period. Mortimer was robbed when he broke away all by himself, with Smith coming out of the nets to beat him, Brady opened the scoring when he and Cook broke away. Crozier tallied another when he took a pass from Birchell inside the blue line. Culvedwell scored again as he circled Lakefield's net to push it in. Jewell broke his stick and while getting a new one Gibney turned the light on again. Lakefield counted its first goal when Mortimer raced into the corner and passed to Stewart, who was left uncovered. Carpentier scored a minute later for Sutton. Crozier got the gate for holding and Chappell followed him right in for tripping. Carpentier counted another one just before the bell to end the second period. The score was 10-1 for Sutton.

Lakefield led in the play in the final period, scoring 3 goals to Sutton's one. Sutton got their last goal when Culverwell carried the puck the full length of the ice to score early. Deeth was panalized for tripping but Lakefield held them scoreless. Gerrard went off for tripping and Morin scored from Stewart, who picked the puck up in the corner. Cook was penalized and Birch scored on a power play with every man up. Milroy went off for tripping but Lakefield failed to score. Gerrard, the big defence man for Sutton, was given a penalty for cross-checking Mortimer. He grabbed LeBarr for an argument and ended up by getting a mis-conduct penalty. With two minutes left to play Chappell scored when the puck glanced in off Smith's pads when he shot from the corner.

Culverwell, Carpentier and Gibney starred for the visitors, while Windsor in Lakefield's nets and Chappell, Jewell, Stewart looked best for Lakefield.

The teams:

7 Years Each

TORONTO, Feb. 3—(CP).—Convicted of a serious assault on a woman, J. Bakalis and Charles McDonald, soldiers, to-day were sentenced by Mr. Justice Daniel Roach to seven years each in Kingston penitentiary and each to receive two whippings. The men were found guilty by an assize jury last week.

"The crime for which you have been convicted and the circumstances, in my opinion, are heinous," said the Judge as he passed sentence. "In the woman's testimony she said that as she walked along the street she felt no fear because you were wearing the King's uniform."

School Team Wins

HASTINGS, Feb. 3.—(ENS)—In a brisk encounter at Riverside arena last night, the separate school took their first win of the season in a scheduled game of the church league when they defeated Trinity United 5 to 0. The game was a complete reversal of form from their previous game with St. Andrew's Presbyterians when Separate School went down to a 6 to 2 defeat. The scoring was on the same basis however with Paul Petticrew getting four of the five goals and Jim Herrington accounting for the fifth. The bantams were putting every ounce of strength into the game on both sides but the winners proved far the superior group.

The teams:

Separate School: Goal, Stafford McKenty; defence, Jim Herrington, Vince Gallivan; center, Barry Kumpf; wings, Leo Petticrew, Paul Petticrew; alternate, Vince Herrington.

Cobourg Loses Two Tilts To Collegians

Two of P.C.I.'s basketball teams won handily here last night, the senior and junior boys chalking up victories, but the Garnet and Gray's third entry the Senior Girls went down to defeat, leaving only the junior boys, undefeated.

They defeated Cobourg 15-7, although being outscored 7-5 in the last half, while the senior girls dropped an 18-10 decision to the lakeshore lasses and the senior boys got back into their winning ways, trouncing C.C.I. 38-6 in a trio of C.O.S.S.A. games at the P.C.I. gym. The junior boys now lead the league, unconquered, but the seniors must stop Bowmanville in the Rubbertown and the girls must take the return game from Cobourg.

The junior boys took a 10-0 lead in the first half over C.C.I., but were outplayed and outscored in the last half to cut down their margin. Neither team played extra good basketball, as both missed a flock of easy scoring chances and the ball-hurdling was somewhat sloppy. P.C.I. now has won games, one from each team in the five team group to lead the league, right ahead of Bowmanville. Hall and Rogow were standouts for the winners, Hall garnering nine points and Rogow starring on the defence. Smith and Maize lead C.C.I.

The teams:

Cobourg C.I. — Corbett, Maize, O'Leary, Bennett, Smith, Bennitski, Smith, Buller, Jones.

Peterborough C.I. — Gardiner, Smith, Routley, Saunders, Richardson, Rogow, Moorhead, Hall, Gillespie.

Referee—Curly Krug.

First Reverse

The Garnet and Gray Senior Girls went down to their first defeat, although they were previously held to a 22-all tie buy B.H.S. The winners had a 10-5 margin in the opening period and were ahead all the way, holding a definite edge over the homesters over most of the route. P.C.I.'s usual good shooting was absent and their defense was somewhat listless.

Cobourg now leads the Senior Girls' section of the Lakeshore League, directly followed by P.C.I. and Bowmanville, both tied. P.C.I. made but two out of nine free throws while Cobourg made six in their eight tries for an excellent average. B. Cooper and E. Craig were best for P.C.I. and H. Gibson and F. Spooner were tops for the winning Cobourg team.

The teams:

P.C.I.—B. Cooper, J. Johnston, E. Saunders, G. Galley, E. Craig, J. Merett, A. Richardson, D. Bateson, H. Beatty, D. Glover.

Cobourg C.I. — H. Gibson, F. Spooner, C. Allen, C. Nicholls, B. Dufton, J. Dufton, M. Oulahen, J. Richardson, B. Ashdown, C. O'Connor.

Referee—Curly Krug.

P.C.I.'s powerful senior team got untracked to run up a 38-6 triumph, piling up a 15-2 lead at half time and limiting the losers to a single field goal. The winners completely dominated play almost all the way, P.C.I. passed well and broke fast, breaking through the losers defense almost at will and completely stopping the losers offensive efforts. The shooting of both teams was poor and the top heavy score and some poor ball handling slowed it down, although both teams went at top speed all the way. P.C.I. made four in 12 free throws and Cobourg four of their nine tries. Taylor, Moorhead, Johnston, Scott and Foster all played well for the winners with Guy and Drewry best for the losers.

The teams:

P.C.I., 38—Centre, Foster 6; forwards, Taylor 13, Moorhead 9; guards, Scott, Johnston 8; subs Clarke 2, McPherson, Young.

C.C.I., 6—Centre, Guy; forwards, Wilson 4, Platt 1; guards, Phillips, Hogan; subs, Drewry 1, Bennett, Jewell, Earl Bolster.

Nurmi Returns To Run In Millrose Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—It is probably his famous and familiar sense of timing that brings Paavo Nurmi back to the United States today, just in time to find a new generation of runners taking pot shots at one of the many records he put on the books.

Fifteen years ago Peerless Paavo ran in the last Millrose Games to be held in the old Madison Square Garden. He set a world record of three minutes 3.8 seconds for three-quarters of a mile. Tonight, in the 33rd annual Millrose games, in the new garden, the three-quarter mile run will be on the program for the first time since then, and Paavo and Taisto Maki, the 1940 "Phantom Finn," will be in the crowd of 15,000 or more.

Stands As Meet Record

Nurmi's 3:03.8 no longer is the world record. But it's only four-tenths of a second slower, it still stands as the meet record, and as such it will be one of the objectives for John Borican, Archie San Romani, Wayne Rideout and Tommy Deckard when Johnny McHugh cocks his starter's pistol.

The 600 yards is a distinctive race for at least one reason—there'll be a Millrose A.A. man in the field for the first time. He's Sanford Goldberg, the hard-working fireman and hard-running middle distance star, who'll go to the mark with Charlie Beetham, indoor 600-metre champ; Jim Herbert and Wes Wallace, 1938 and 1939 winners, and Bill Fritz of Kingston, Ont.

Last year Fritz, Queen's University star, led the field all the way only to lose in the last five yards to Wallace who came with a burst to win by a foot in one minute 12.3 seconds—the second fastest time in the history of the event.

The mile, marking Glen Cunningham's last appearance in this meet, will find "ole man mile" shooting for his seventh victory in eight starts.

The second Canadian in the meet, Larry O'Connor of University of Toronto, is entered in the 60-yard hurdles.

PETES BLANK OWEN SOUND TRAPPERS HERE IN EXHIBITION TILT

Local Puckists Cop 6-0 Victory Over Northern Outfit In Fast, Clean Hockey Struggle

In an exhibition intermediate "A" O.H.A. game here last night, the Petes blanked Owen Sound Trappers by a 6-0 score before a thousand fans. It was a fast, clean and interesting display between two speedy squads all the way.

The Petes had an edge on speed and, despite some nice passing plays by the visitors, earned the nod handily. They had a 2-0 edge in the first period, led 3-0 going into the third and finished stronger to ram home three goals to nil in the windup stanza. While the locals looked a bit better, the Trappers pounded in all the time to make it quite interesting and give the home goalie plenty of work.

The Buckland gang played good steady hockey, with the first line proving most effective on the attack. Starr, Kingdom and Tompkins, with Heal when he was on, pressed regularly and blasted a lot of shots at Earl McNabb—the local sub goalie who filled in for the Trappers when Dahmer had to go to a hospital here with an infection in his face from a previous cut. Kingdon and Tompkins were in on four goals each and Starr two in a fine showing. Coughlin also was dangerous all the time. The defence checked effectively, and Ray Harding was as steady as ever in goal. McNabb, Creighton, Smith and Blair were the pick of the Trappers.

Had More Shots

It was fast and fairly even for a time in the first, with the Petes later having more shots on goal than their rivals as play swept up and down the rink as the fans cheered. Kingdon banged one home at four minutes in a scramble, the Trappers protesting that Starr was in the crease when he scored, but the referee ruling that Kingdon had poked the puck in first. Blair came close and then Starr rapped in a neat one, aided by Tompkins and Kingdon, in close. The Trappers pressed for a time in a hot session and a Blair-Nichol drive made Harding jump to save near the bell.

McNabb robbed Tompkins in close to open the first and then Ellis and Tompkins pulled a fine drive. The Petes were faster and had a definite margin early in the second, with a Starr-Blewett charge nearly scoring. Creighton drove in with a hot shot and, when Ellis went off for tripping, they tore in hard. However, the Petes fought right back and scored a goal when Kingdon backhanded home a pass from Tompkins just inside defence. Blewett also pulled a nice rush as Ellis returned. Blair went off for tripping and the Petes ganged up but could not tally on McNabb. The first line came awfully close on a rebound off the balcony wall just before the bell.

Have an Edge.

Early in the third, Tompkins counted at close range on Heal's pass, but a Smith-Creighton rush almost got it back right away. It was fast and hot, with Crowe going in for a try and Coughlin later threatening as the Petes showed a margin on play. Starr scored in close with Tompkins and Kingdon assisting on a smart play. Creighton blazed away in close but was blocked and then Campbell got the finger for tripping. Drake Jopling pulled a dangerous rush and Burton went over the wall for tripping. Shears nearly scored in close but Blewett came right back to bulge the twine on Gardner's pass. Blair got right around the defence and in for a hot shot but it hit the post and the Trappers pressed the final few minutes but to no avail.

The teams:

Owen Sound: Goal, McNabb; defence, Small and Blair; centre, Creighton; wings, Nichol and Smith; alternates, Hutchinson, Mattison, Sutton, Shears and Campbell.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Burton and Gardner; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and Heal; alternates, F. Jopling, Crowe, Ellis, J. Jopling, Coughlin, Blewett and Starr.

Canoe Club Gang Beat Warsaw 6-5

WARSAW, Feb. 3.—(ENS).— On Wednesday night an exhibition tilt between Wallace Point Canoe Club and the Warsaw Hockey Club provided first class entertainment for a goodly turnout of enthusiasts.

The visitors took the fat end of a 6-5 score, but it was anyone's game up to the last second. Warsaw, after trailing for a period and a half, turned on the steam, and entered the final frame on top 4 to 3, which lead was lengthened when Joe Watts rang the gong with an eighty foot shot after a minute of play. From then on the visitors pressed, hard and their persistent passing attack led by West and Prete gained them three fast goals and the game.

For Warsaw, Ivan Watts was the sparkplug of the forward line and Ivan Payne played a splendid game on defence. The teams:

Wallace Point—Goal, King; defence, Wilson, Prete; centre, West; wings, Wildman, Connelly; sub, Taylor.

Warsaw—Goal, Digweed; defence, Payne, Drain; centre, I. Watts; wings, T. Watts, A. Watts; subs, J. Watts, Bowen, Sharp.

Man And Horse Tied

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Man and horse tied in a unique high jumping contest that featured the Finnish Relief Fund Horse Show, given by the Metropolitan Equestrian Club here last night.

The winner in the men's division was Bernard Millham, a Fordham University freshman who leaped six feet two inches from a tanbark takeoff that was far from ideal.

Two horses, without riders, also cleared that height. They were Salmo, a chestnut gelding owned by Archie Dean of Larchmont, N.Y., and Watching Royal Sandy, another chestnut gelding owned by Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Tully of Summit, N.J.

Both horses failed in attempts at six feet 7¾ inches. Salmo was awarded the prize for the fewest number of refusals.

Norwood Shades St. Peter's 8-7 In Juvenile Tilt

NORWOOD, Feb. 3 (ENS). — A last-minute goal gave Norwood a close decision over St. Peters' Juvenile squad of Peterborough on Friday evening at Norwood Arena, as the homesters copped an 8-7 win over the visitors in the first game of the distirct O.J.H.A. series.

Norwood came through with a double win last night, their Midgets gaining a 6-4 victory over Campbellford in the first game of an entertaining double-header fixture.

The visitors took the lead in the Midget struggle, Storey of Campbellford getting the only goal of the initial period. Rogers tied it up for Norwood in the middle frame, with a couple of quick goals by Johnson putting them ahead. Counters by Storey and Lytle evened the score before the end of this session. In the final period Johnson again sent his team out in front, and Hamilton notched a couple to make the count 6-3. Storey added another marker for the visitors a minute before the final bell.

Juvenile Battle.

In the Juvenile tussle, Norwood went in front at the four-minute mark, Webb tallying unassisted. Eason tied it up shortly after and St. Peters went ahead on Mortimer's goal. The count was deadlocked again at the end of this session when Puffer scored solo for the homesters.

During a wide-open second period, each team chalked up three more goals apiece to leave the score still tied going into the last stanza. Goalgetters in the middle frame were Gill and Puffer 2, for Norwood, and Routly 2 and Huurd for Peterborough.

After two minutes of the last session, Buck combined with Puffer to put the homesters out in front. A minute later Eason tied it up, and then Puffer came through with another solo effort, to which Horton retaliated for the visitors. With but one minute remaining Buck once more clicked on a combination attack with Puffer, tallying Norwood's winning goal.

The teams:

Juveniles.

St. Peter's — Goal, Hatton; defence, Scriver, Curtis; centre, Garvey; wings, Eason, Routly; alternates, Mortimer, Horton, Chimenti, Huurd, Robinson.

Midgets.

Grove Puck Team Beats St. Andrew's

The Lakefield Prep. team defeated St. Andrew's College first team at Aurora on Wednesday 3-1. The game throughout was exceptionally fast and clean. The combination and back-checking of the Grove team were main reasons for the win. The ganging plays of the Saints resulted in many break-aways by L.P.S. and Frewer scored the only goal at 10 minutes. In the second frame, S.A.C. pressed hard, Martin and Gear being especially good, but again Frewer scored in a scramble in front of the net. The pace was beginning to tell on the home team, and the Grove were continually dangerous. The defence work of Carson and Foster was steady and broke up many rushes. In the last period Herold, L.P.S. goalie, was beaten on the 12-minute mark, but with three minutes to go Roberts on a pass from Frewer settled the game 3-1. The condition of the Grove team was noticeable and they deserved their win.

Fred Apostoli Badly Beaten By Mel Bettina

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP).—They all stay too long in the fight game.

Fred Apostoli, the San Francisco bellhop, who once was considered the best boxer in the world, pound for pound, must know it today lying on a clean, white cot at Polyclinic Hospital across the street from Madison Square Garden.

He was a rugged, confidence gladiator, former middleweight champion of the realm, when he climbed into the ring last night for a 15-round duel with Melio Bettina of Beacon, N.Y.

When the gong clanged shut on the 12th round he was a shambles, staggering, unable to find his corner and looking deathly sick.

The bout couldn't have gone any further—Referee Arthur Donovan, Manager Larry White and the crowd of 12,000 all made up their minds at the same time. White also decided Apostoli wouldn't go any further on any other date, either.

Bettina Had Nine Rounds.

Weighing 173 pounds, 2¼ more than his foe, Bettina paced himself better than ever before and incomparably better than last month when this same Apostoli took a disputed decision from him in this same ring. He dominated nine of the 12 rounds and belted his foe into a helpless, pitiful pulp.

"I could have gone 25 rounds tonight," he gasped gleefully afterwards. "I found myself. I don't wanta boast, but I'll knock Conn bow-legged when I meet him again."

That was the purpose of the bout, to find an opponent for Conn in another lightheavy title test and that was the winner speaking.

But not very many persons were around to hear him. Half the population of Beacon, N.Y., seemed to be milling around impatiently outside his dressing door, but the reporters were mostly standing silently around a table in that other room where Apostoli lay moaning, 'I'm sick . . . sick as a dog . . . I can't breathe."

A doctor came, found Apostoli suffering from shock and nervous strain, and took him to the hospital to rest.

In a preliminary to the Apostoli-Bettina bout, hard-hitting Billy Marquart of Winnipeg dropped a 10-round decision to Tony Marteliano, rugged Italian-American from New York's East Side. Billy weighed 135 pounds, 4½ less than Marteliano.

Farr To Meet Irish Boxer

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP). — London's first big heavyweight boxing show since the war may bring together Tommy Farr, recently discharged from the Royal Air Force through bad eyesight, and Jack Doyle, the unpredictable Irishman.

Earlscourt Empress Hall has been fixed as the venue and February 26 as the date, but as air raid precautions restrictions in the London area insist on a 5,000 house limit other plans may be considered. This might mean the fight would be staged in the suburbs, probably at Wembley.

According to one sports writer, Farr has been guaranteed £2,500 plus 30 per cent. of the gate, while Doyle has been offered 20 per cent. of the gate but is negotiating for more.

Coming Hockey Star

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(CP)—A handsome, curly-headed lad from the diplomatic world is being groomed for stardom on the ice at Harringay Arena here.

He is Radu Tilea, 18-year-old, sturdily built son of the Rumanian minister in London.

Tilea is playing on one of Harringay's junior teams for the time being, but is being intensively coached for first-class hockey.

He skates powerfully, has an impressive shot, and, say experts, all he needs to rate a first-team is a little more experience in stick handling.

Anglicans Show Surplus At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3—(ENS).—St. Thomas' Anglican Church held its annual vestry meeting on Monday evening in the Parish Hall, with an attendance that was most gratifying, and the Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A., occupying the chair. E. H. Barnes acted as vestry clerk.

Following the opening devotions, the rector gave a synopsis of the year's work in the church, expressing warm appreciation of efficient services by faithful officers, all the organizations in satisfactory condition financially and otherwise, and with all monetary obligations met by the Church Board.

Feeling reference was made to the loss sustained by the death of a faithful member of the congregation, Mrs. A. J. Fallis, whose son, R. I. Fallis, is the rector's warden, all standing for a moment of silence in expression of sincere sympathy.

L. H. Winslow, people's warden, gave the financial report, which was very satisfactory, showing the church's missionary apportionment, as well as other claims, fully met, a nice balance on hand in beginning the new year. Mr. Winslow and Mr. Fallis were re-appointed to their positions as people's and rector's wardens, respectively, for 1940.

A fine triubute was paid to the church's secretary-treasurer, Miss Muriel Smith, for the efficient manner in which she carries out the obligations of her office and the dependable assistance she is always ready to give the church officials when required. Lay representatives to the Synod were appointed and inclue E. H. Barnes, who takes the place of Dr. H. A. Turner, resigned, and L. H. Winslow; alternates are D. R. Fowler and J. E. Allen.

New Sidesmen

Some new names were added to the list of sidesmen, these being: Walter A. Zeigler, B.A., William Asyles, G. A. Fair, and Raymond Graham. The sidesmen will meet in the near future and arrange their calendar to have two of their Number for ushers and to receive the offering each Sunday.

The auditors for 1940 are T. H. Collins and E. H. Barnes, the latter appointed in the place of G. F. Burton, who filled the office for some time, but is now deceased. Mrs. L. H. Winslow gave the report for the Women's Guild, which had given the Church Board $150 during 1939, an amount somewhat less than usually voted, but which in other respects could look back upon a successful year. A more concerted financial effort will be made during the current twelve months.

For the W.A. the presidetnt, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott presented encouraging statistics, reporting a balance on hand of $47.67, with all obligations fully met; regular meetings and an educational program along missionary lines, with an encouraging attendance, were highlights of the past year's work. Mrs. Westmacott also reported for the Junior Girls' Auxiliary, which had also met its financial obligations completely, raising its funds through members' fees, teas, and sales of home-made candy. Work and study meetings had been held alternately, and under the superintendent, Miss B. McCorry, attendance had been good and interest sustained.

The Juniors have a balance of $4.29 on hand, and eleven members enrolled for 1940. Miss B. M. Turner gave the account of the year's work for the Altar Guild, which has looked after flowers for the altar, the furnishings of the chancel, and has other important duties under its auspices; a balance of $21.53 is now on hand.

Miss Turner, as secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School, reported a successful year, with an average attendance of forty, and all financial claims fully paid up; instead of the usual hot supper to raise additional funds in 1939, as was done in previous years, a canvass of the congregation had brought in the needed money toward the support of the school.

A general discussion of various matters pertaining to the welfare of the church and its interests completed the annual meeting, which was dismissed with the blessing by Archdeacon Simpson.

A Help To Those Past Middle Age

When men and women get past middle age their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

Little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly, and, here and there, evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Now is the time when those who wish to maintain their health and vigor, and retain their energy unimpaired should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

They brace up and invigorate the system, and help stall off the decrepitude of advancing years.

Allies Getting Support From German Station

By Central Press Canadian

In the war of the airwaves which rages nightly between Germany and the Allies the later are receiving valuable support from the secret German Freedom station. This transmitter, which has baffled the entire world since it was first heard in January, 1937, sends nightly broadcasts to Germany. As mouthpiece of the German underground movement, it has long advocated overthrow of the Hitler regime.

The Freedom station is working against amazing odds. From the outset it has had the entire machinery of the German Gestapo against it. But efforts to jam it on the air find it not unprepared. It broadcasts on its usual wave-length of 29.8 metres are interfered with, it can readily switch to another wave. Nor have efforts to counteract its influence with a fake Freedom station been more effective. The station has been silenced occasionally, but never for long.

Only a few insiders know where the station is located. At one time or another it was believed to broadcast from Austria, the Sudeten territory, Russia, Spain and Luxembourg, and even from Honolulu and Iceland. Most people, however, believe it operates within Germany itself, and Gestapo, storm troopers and elite guards have tried desperately to hunt it down. Barns, boathouses, and lonely cottages from the Alps to the Baltic seacoast have been searched. One day all cars on roads leading to Berlin were stopped, following a tip that the transmitter was installed in an automobile headed for the capital. Another time all furniture vans in Wurttemberg were halted. Even barges on the Rhine have been included in the hunt.

The hunt is not only for the transmitter, however, but for its audience as well. Short-wave sets, possession of which now constitutes a criminal offence in Germany, are carefully hidden. Sets are considered fairly safe, for example, concealed on bookshelves, behind "Mein Kampf" and other Nazi writings, yet many listeners have been arrested, and to reduce the danger a new technique has been developed. Listeners form small groups. Only one member listens in each day, then informs the others.

The programs are shaped by the two chief aims of the German opposition: peace and overthrow of Hitler. Broadcasts include foreign news reports, exposures of the private lives and corrupt practices of leading Nazis, talks on exploitation of workers, on the food situation, on Germany's economic status, on strikes and sabotage acts.

Daily repetition of "Ten Commandments for Germans" impresses on listeners the necessity of fighting Nazism with all means at their command. "Work slow," the audience is admonished. "Spread the truth about Hitler and his henchmen; do not trust the Nazi press; do not deposit money in savings banks; help victims of National Socialism."

Often the station broadcasts the names of Gestapo agents posing as anti-Nazis. It encouraged anti-war activities at the time of the Czecho-Slovakian crisis in September, 1938 and again before the present war. It fought anti-Semitism by unmasking the pogroms of November, 1938, as a desperate attempt by the Hitler government to fill its empty treasury.

At the height of the crisis, on September 10, 1938, the station warned of the immediate danger of inflation. Withdrawal of savings from banks so increased after this broadcast that a government decree three days later limited withdrawals to 30 marks daily.

Reports on strikes and acts of sabotage constitute one of the station's most important features. The broadcaster comments on individual experiences, suggesting improvements on the methods used. The station claims the number of strikes has steadily increased since it began broadcasting. Lately armament workers particularly have been encouraged to sabotage production.

This month the station enters its fourth year. The war may well give it added significance, and it is not impossible that future historians will compare it to the famous Belgian underground journal which baffled the German government throughout the last war.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MARY JANE FALLIS.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3—(ENS). — St. Thomas' Anglican Church was filled practically to capacity on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. for the funeral service of Mary Jane Larmer, widow of A. J. Fallis, ex-M.P.P., for Durham county, a private service at the home of a sister, Mrs. H. Seaton, Tupper Street, Millbrook, having preceded the public gathering in the church.

Mrs. Fallis, whose death occurred on Sunday after a comparatively brief illness, was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Larmer, early and highly-respected citizens of Cavan Township, and was born and brought up on the family homestead located on the Quarter Line east of Millbrook, and bordering on the Fourth Concession of Cavan.

Mrs. Fallis was in her seventy-sixth year, and had spent practically her entire life in this vicinity Her marriage to the late Albert James Fallis, which took place almost fifty years ago, meant the union of members of two well-known and highly-thought-of pioneer families of the township, whose history has been intimately connected with that of Millbrook and Cavan over a long period of years.

Previous to her marriage, she had been brought up in the Presbyterian Church, but afterward was united in membership with St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Millbrook, to which she was most faithful both in attendance and support as long as health and strength permitted; she was also a valued member of the Woman's Auxiliary of the church, and for some time capably filled the office of vice-president, the lovely spray of flowers sent by that organization at the time of her death giving some evidence of the high esteem in which her personality and services had been held.

Mrs. Fallis was predeceased by her husband in November, 1935, the other immediate surviving relatives including two sons, Dr. Lawrence of the Ford Hospital staff, Detroit, and Reginald I., at home; three brothers R. Ormond Larmer on the homestead, I. Wilbert and J. Loftus, all of Cavan; two sisters, Mrs. H. Seaton (Zillah) of Millbrook, at whose home Mrs. Fallis was staying, following a trip to Florida with her eldest son, when her last brief illness took place, and Mrs. H. A. Earle (Annie) of Cavan, also two little grandsons and a number of nieces and nephews. Previously deceased were one brother, Charles Larmer of Oshawa, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Scott (Effie) of Brandon.

Venerable Archdeacon Simpson conducted the funeral service, and fittingly paraphrased David's eulogy of Saul and Jonathan, when he spoke from the words, "She was lovely and pleasant in her life," mentioning particularly her loyalty and devotion as a wife, her loving and wise motherhood, and her faithfulness and willing service as a friend. "Peace, Perfect Peace" was the appropriate concluding hymn.

The pall-bearers were six nephews —Lavergne Fallis, Leonard Henderson, Keith Larmer, Allen Earle, Robert and Gerald Larmer. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and interment was in the family burial plot in historic St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

MELVILLE ELLIOTT.

EAST EMILY, Feb. 3—(ENS).—Death came very suddenly to a highly-respected citizen of this district in the person of Melville Elliott, in his fifty-seventh year.

Mr. Elliott had lived on the same homestead farm all his life. On the twenty-fifth of June, 1913, he was united in marriage to Greta Bailey, also of Emily township.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing widow, one brother, James of Cavan and two sisters, Mrs. Albert Ford and Mrs. Charles Tighe, both of Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon from his late residence at 2.30 o'clock with Rev. Mr. Johnson conducting the services, both at the house and graveside. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, showing the high esteem in which he was held.

The bearers were Hubert Lowes, Eric Blackwell, Stanley Magee, Herb Lee, Arthur Jackson and Elmer Henry.

Some of those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. R. Morton and Spencer Morton, of Garden Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Bell Mr. and Mrs. Herb Lee, of Bethany; Mr. and Mrs. M. Rodney, Mr. and Mrs. R. Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. W. Franks, of Peterborough; Mr. H. Bidgood of Keene; Mr. and Mrs. H. Finley of Sonyea, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson of Oshawa.

Founder's Night Is Observed By Oddfellows

"It does seem to me that if we are to prosper as Oddfellows and follow in the pathway of Thomas Wildey we have got to study the present conditions and strive to find out what this generation requires of us," declared J. E. Anderson, K.C., of Lindsay, Past Grand Master, in addressing the Wildey anniversary banquet of Peterborough Oddfellows and Rebekahs at the Empress Hotel on Friday night.

Mr. Anderson's challenging address was the feature of a most successful function attended by 230 Oddfellows and their ladies. The attendance was so large that both dining-rooms were filled and tables had to be laid in the rotunda and in the ladies' reception room to take care of the overflow.

The affair was in memory of the founder of Oddfellowship on the North American Continent. Thomas Wildey, the young Englishman who in the city of Baltimore in 1817, longing for the fraternity of the Manchester Unity to which he had belonged in England, organized the first Oddfellow lodge in America.

Story of the Founder

Introduced by George A. Macdonald, Past Grand of Peterborough Lodge, who most acceptably discharged the responsible duties of toastmaster, Mr. Anderson told the story of Wildey's life in graphic style as a preface to his challenge to Oddfellowship to streamline itself and meet the needs of the hour. Wildey, he pointed out, was a man who got his start in life in humble circumstances, resembling in that respect other great figures in the world's history.

"There is probably not a man here who is not better equipped from an educational standpoint than was Thomas Wildey," the speaker said, "and yet without Wildey there would have been no Oddfellowship."

The movement, Mr. Anderson said, had grown by leaps and bounds until Oddfellows were numbered by the hundreds of thousands. There were reasons for that. Oddfellowship had something the world wanted, and there was the lack in society of something which Oddfellowship had. But there had come a time when the movement ceased to grow. The last year in which Oddfellowship in Ontario showed an increase happened to be the year in which the speaker was Grand Master for the Province.

Must Adopt Itself to Times.

The trouble, as he saw it, was that just as men quit work when their work was done, Oddfellows had reached a stage when they failed to realize that although the house was built, there was air conditioning and modern heating plants to be installed and other improvements to be made in keeping with the standard of the times. "I am afraid Oddfellowship has ceased to adopt itself to the needs of the times," said the speaker.

"This banquet has been a great success, but I have one complaint," he continued. "There are too many grey hairs, too many bald spots, instead of the young folk that should be here."

Mr. Anderson, pointing out that the rules of the order now permitted such activities, urged Oddfellowship to do something in the field of community service if it wanted to attract the youth of the country. "We have been leaving it all to the service clubs, to the Kiwanians and the Rotarians, the Lions and the Calithumpians," said the Past Grand Master. "The result is that young men seeking a chance to serve are inclined to join one of those organizations."

Ready to Serve.

He reminded his hearers that young Canadians were ready to serve, even to die for their country in the air, on the sea, and in the trenches, and that they would always respond to a call to service. There was no honor in being a Grand Master or a Noble Grand; it was an opportunity rather than an honor. The honor lay in how the task was done, he said in conclusion.

After the toast to the King had been loyally honored, William H. Buller, Past Grand, proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge. In so doing he referred to the enjoyment he had obtained in his 53 years of membership in Oddfellowship and to the work that had been done in Grand Lodge by the respondent to the toast, William Constable, P.D. D.G.M., Grand Messenger.

In reply, Mr. Constable spoke of the educational value of service on the Grand Lodge.

In proposing the toast to the Rebekahs, Herbert Frost, D.D.G.M., paid a tribute to the splendid assistance the Oddfellow Lodges had always had from the Rebekahs.

Mrs. Harry Beatty, in replying on behalf of the Rebekah organization, told of the launching of the ladies' degree in 1851. "We have not only shown that we could keep a secret, but we have broadcast the principles of Oddfellowship at all times," she said.

The Northrop trio, Harry Northrop, piano, Stanley Northrop, violin, and Tom Smith, 'cello, played a sparkling program while dinner was being served, and commenced the musical end of the entertainment with a much-appreciated Hungarian Mazurka.

Mrs. G. H. Culmore sang the popular "There's a Land" in excellent voice and with a full appreciation of its possibilities.

Mrs. G. F. Jackson's rendition of "In the Garden of To-morrow" was thoroughly enjoyed, and John Smith's voice was admirably displayed in the stirring number "The Gray Watch."

At the conclusion of the program a vote of thanks, moved by H. H. May, Past Grand, and Mrs. Rowe, Noble Grand of Golden Link Rebekah Lodge, was passed to the speaker, the artists who had taken part in the program, and the committee which had arranged the most successful banquet.

The gathering responded with the singing of "For they are jolly good fellows," and the giving of three cheers and a similar tribute was paid George A. Macdonald, after J. E. Anderson had urged that he should be thanked for the excellent job he had done as toastmaster.

The Chairman now called upon Mr. Picobac to say a few words.

"All I can say", began Mr. Picobac bashfully . . .

"How about a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke?" demanded a voice at the back.

"Everything in good time", replied the speaker holding up his seal-tight Picobac pouch.

"All I can say", he repeated, "we have a just and noble cause. The heart of Canada is in it. Let's do our job with a cheer." (Applause.)

"Now, my friend — answering your question — I will be glad to join you in that mild, cool, sweet smoke."

Canadians Will Not Tolerate Half-Hearted Co-operation With Britain, Kiwanians Told

No political party can stand against the rage that will arise in Canadian people if they become convinced that this country is being led into half-hearted co-operation with Great Britain and France, declared Col. B. O. Hooper, D.S.O., M.C., in an address to Kiwanians yesterday.

A distinguished soldier in World War I, Col. Hooper went overseas with the 19th Battalion as a Lieutenant and returned as commanding officer of the 20th Battalion, in which one of his officers was Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, M.C., now commanding officer of the Prince of Wales Rangers. Col. Hooper was once associated with the old Bank of Hamilton, was honorary treasurer of the Canadian Legion for seven years, is now a trustee of Ontario's Canteen Fund, a director of the Poppy Fund, a director of the Last Post Fund, a director of the League for Health and Beauty and a member of the executive of the Boy Scout movement. He was recently appointed Ontario organizer for the Conservative party.

Should Canadians feel that their war contribution is in jeopardy because of political leadership "a surge of bitter feeling will rise, and penetrate, and purge this country of ours," Col. Hooper declared.

Must Make Sacrifices

He saw the war that has now started as one in which Canadians will be called upon to make great sacrifices, as one in which they will know great tragedy. And he saw it as a continuation of the last Great War, as an upward struggle by men for freedom.

He harkened back to the days following World War I to bring home the significance of the struggle now going on, back to Ludendorff who candidly admitted that Canada was to have been the prize Germany would have demanded had she won. "We hear a lot about the unfairness of the Treaty of Versailles these days," he commented. "But let me tell you that in comparison to the treaty the Germans would have extracted had they been victors, the Treaty of Versailles was like a Sermon on the Mount."

Apple of Germany's Eye

Canada may well be the apple of Germany's eye in this war, he warned, and for that reason it behooves men of this land to fight the Nazi menace.

When Canadians look back twenty-five years to their first great sacrifice they should not consider that they fought for a myth, Col. Hooper said. "The man who says the war for democracy was a failure, lies!" he declared. "There was more accomplished for the state of mind we call democracy in those four years than for a century before. That is witnessed by the star of Finland, by a hundred social reforms since its close. No, the men who took part in that war did not die in vain."

He told that Sir Henry Newbolt had once admitted to him that the Allies were defeated three times in World War I, without having realized it. "If we were so near to being beaten at that time, how can we sit snug in the belief we are not in danger of being beaten now?" He asked whether Canadians have done all they can for the men who are going to fight now, whether as a nation Canada has done all she is capable of doing.

Real Army Needed

But, he added, "if we are faithful to our principles we have an army that even the violence of the madman of Germany will not overcome." He wanted the men of World War I, who are still physically fit and anxious to go to the front again, to be permitted such action and disclosed that he had asked Ottawa to permit him to take a Battalion of able-bodied veterans to the front once more.

"To those of us who feel deeply, the tragedy of this war is overpowering," he said. "In that tragedy we see the collapse of everything by which the hopeful spirit or the generous, has lived." He saw the youth of the country, the best citizens, pouring out their blood for their land. "It makes a mockery of our hopes and nonsense of all our knowledge, and it deadens our minds in that we no longer believe in man and even our faith in God trembles."

"All expectations are shattered. Even our science is rendered suspect because of the horror it produces."

Faith In Men

But back of that he saw that in and from the last war there grew a strong faith in men—a faith not of the present, but more a vision of the future. "You people need only to review the history of your faith to enable you to grow strong again and to be of good courage in the face of grief and disaster and tragedy."

"We live in the midst of great issues and these issues become sharpened in outline. All our irresolute littlenesses are overshadowed for the time being by the tension caused by the decision to be made. There is no time for moaning about futility because the time of action is upon us."

"The things we love and the ideals we live by have been brutally challenged or exploded and we reach out for the thing that is beyond." That, he said, is the comfort men can draw upon. "The present chaos is but an episode in the history of men. We are caught in the rough sea and are hurled about by it, but the ocean will be calm tomorrow. In its depths it is calm today. We can afford to think of that last of life for which the first was made. We can afford to think of the spirit to which we return."

First Radio Set To Ever Be Operated In Peterboro

Roy Powell, who turned to radio in its infancy and who has kept abreast of all its advances, is seen here sitting beside a 1903 model receiving set that is still together in his radio den in his home at 14 Cricket Place. Mr. Powell erected the first radio aerial in Peterborough, and it's still standing. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Peterborough's First Wireless Station Was Built By Roy Powell In 1903

The man whose ownership of a radio set goes back to the days just after the war is an unusual one, so that makes Roy Powell, Cricket Place, almost unique, for his first was in 1903.

It was in that year that he built Peterborough's first wireless station, and all its original equipment is preserved in careful order to this day in his "Radio Den."

In the opening years of the century only telegraph signals could be sent out—code dots and dashes — and no voice or musical selection had ever been heard. This was not to come until the radio vacuum tube had been invented. Code at that time was sent out by what was called spark transmitters and a description of Mr. Powell's equipment is a description of the average set in use at the time.

A transformer was used to increase the house electric supply to the much higher voltage required by the wireless set, and this voltage was sent into a series of jars with lead paper foil lining, and some with chemical solutions in them, to change it into the necessary direct current. This current was in turn used to feed into a coil which had two brass rods with 2-in. brass balls, spaced about half an inch apart, fastened on top of the coil. The electricity passing through the coil increased until it created an electric spark capable of pumping from one brass ball to the other in a hot, blue spark. This spark was sent out through coils to the aerial and on into space.

His First Key

The operator used a telegraph key to break the spark into dots and dashes—short or long sparks—to form the code letters. Instead of the professional keys used by railway telegraph operators today, Mr. Powell's first key was simply a piece of spring brass and a black wooden knob, fasted to a square wooden block.

To compare his wireless receiving set with even an earliest radio would show little in common. The crystal set is usually regarded as a pioneer, used before the vacuum tube became popular as a detector, but his set goes back even beyond crystal detectors. His detector was a 'coherer" and was simply a glass tube with a cork in each end, through which wires were inserted to allow them to make contact with the substance inside the glass tube. The substance was granules of carbon, looking very much like black sugar, or sometimes particles filed from pieces of silver and pieces of nickel bars.

Hooked Up Door Bell

Mr. Powell even used silver coins as a source for these filings and has the mutilated coins in his collection as evidence of some of his experiments. Each time a dot or dash passed through the "coherer" on its way to his earphone, the particles inside would form a path for it, but as they would remain in that one position they had to be tapped to be loosened, ready for the next dot or dash. This was accomplished by a "de-coherer" and

Railroading When Engines Burned Wood Recalled

Railway engines used wood for fuel, and passengers often helped the crews fill up the tenders with short logs piled beside the tracks when Alfred O. Tate was a boy in Peterborough and Lindsay seventy years ago.

Those were the days before the air brake was invented. Thrusting above the tops of "box" cars were iron rods surmounted by hand wheels by which the brakes were applied on down grades, the brakemen going from car to car to check and roughly control the train's added momentum on declines.

In one of the opening chapters of his book, "Edison's Open Door," Mr. Tate includes as a parenthesis a brief description of some of the railroading methods of his youth. He lives again in those lines experiences that are bright in his memory of slow-paced travel between Peterborough and Lindsay, and along the Victoria Railway from Lindsay to Kinmount with which he got his first job as telegraph operator and despatcher at the age of fifteen in the late seventies.

With the permission of his publishers, E. P. Dutton & Company of New York, The Examiner has already introduced Mr. Tate, who was born here in 1863, and as an obviously energetic and ambitious boy secured for himself a responsible railway position during an Easter holiday visit with his brother in Lindsay. And there was no turning back to continue his studies in Peterborough. Lindsay as a busy railroading centre provided him with the first tsep of a career that rapidly expanded a few years later when he became secretary to Thomas A. Edison.

His recollections of railroading in this district afford an interesting reflection of that early stage of the industry tha is hardly recognizable in is modern streamlining. They are quoted in full in the following paragraphs:

Dangerous Work

"Railroading in the seventies was an extra hazardous occupation for train crews and enginemen. A few of the more important stations might be protected by semaphores, but, others, where train crossings frequently were effected by telegraph orders, where train crossings frequentlly were effected by telegraph orders, were dependent upon the use of a red flag by day and a lantern at night, and the alertness of the men who waved them, to stop an approaching train. The main line was equipped with light iron T-rails, weighing twenty-four pounds to the yard, and on sidings the old hollow U-rail was still in place. In walking along the right of way, shredded rails frequently would be observed near the joints where wheel poundings were most severe.

All ties were laid in sand ballast and were apt to shift from the effects of frost and floods. There were no wire fences. The old wooden-rail snake fence protected parts of the right of way, but other sections were unprotected, with the result that cow chasing with frequent killings was incidental to the day's work of the engine driver.

The mushroom-stacked engines were wood burners. Woodpiles were erected at frequent intervals along the line, and when a passenger train stopped at one of these to load up, many of the more energetic male passengers would join the crew in loading the tender. Some of them were mighty proud of their skill and strength, because it required both to hurl these short, heavy logs to position in the tender, and would swagger back to their seats in the coach elated by the admiring glances of its sedentary occupants.

Derailments were of daily occur-

Peterboro Soldiers Are Pleased With Red Cross Gifts

Appreciation of the thoughtfulness of the local Red Cross organization in remembering its soldier boys away from home at Christmas time, and of the supplies and comforts which it is constantly sending overseas, is warmly expressed in letters received from boys who have enlisted from Peterborough.

In a note of thanks from Jerry Wooll, at No. 12 F.T.S., R.A.F., Granthan Lines, who was formerly the popular leader of an orchestra here, he expresses his gratitude to the members for warm socks, candy and gum, cigarettes, paper and envelopes. "This Christmas package was really appreciated," he writes, "and I want to tell you for myself and other Canadians here who have received similar packages from other organizations, how much it means to us away from home to be remembered at Christmas time.

"The people in England are very kind to us, and several organizations in London such as Lady Ryder, Overseas League, etc., are only too pleased to be able to find entertainment for us in London," he continues. "I don't know of a Canadian who didn't have an invitation to spend Christmas with some of these fine people.

"Again in closing I repeat my thanks, and want you to know that your untiring efforts to help us are appreciated, beyond your expectations." (Signed) Jerry Wooll.

Unexpected Present.

Writing from No. 6 Flying Training School, Royal Air Force, Little Rissington, Bourton-on-the-Water, Cheltenham, Glos., D. Ross Allen, A.P.O., also expresses appreciation for "thoughtfulness at Christmas time." He states that it was a pleasant and unexpected surprise to receive the Red Cross parcel, and has caused many envious comments from "my less fortunate English brethren."

A letter from the Department of National Defence (Naval Service), signed by several Peterborough boys, W. A. O'Rourke, V.P.O., I. G. Lawson, First Class Stoker; J. K. McDonnell, A.B., H. Chartren, A.B., D. K. Dorrington, A.B., extends grateful appreciation of the useful gifts sent by the Red Cross on behalf of the Peterborough boys serving in the Royal Canadian Navy. The letter says: "The gifts came as a surprise, but were more than welcome, as they made us feel 'right at home' as the old saying goes. The majority of the boys received their presents and the remainder were forwarded to the ships where the ratings are now borne."

From John Leonard at H.M.C.S., St Laurent, Halifax, N.S., also comes a letter of thanks in which is a sentence saying: "I cannot write enough praise for the wonderful work of your organization."

Inspiration To Many.

These letters should be an inspiration to the many women in the city who are engaged in war work and a spur to greater efforts on behalf of the many Canadian soldier boys who are still in need of knitted clothing and other supplies to help them through the weary days that undoubtedly lie ahead.

Soldiers' Vote For Manion Hooper Claims

The soldier vote is sure for the Conservative party, Col. B. O. Hooper, organizing secretary of the Ontario Conservative Association told members of the executive of the County of Peterborough Conservative Association in addressing them at a meeting in Gordon K. Fraser's committee headquarters Friday afternoon.

"There are too many soldiers whose dependent mothers or whose wives have had to wait months for the separation allowance and assigned pay that should have reached them promptly, if there had been any businesslike organization, for any other result", Col. Hooper declared.

"The soldier vote is there and it is ours. All we have to do is to make sure that there is no skulduggery about it", he concluded.

St. John's Choir Elects Officers

A well-attended meeting of the members of St. John's Church choir took place Thursday evening immediately following the regular rehearsal. The president, Griffin Young, occupied the chair for the business session, which included very favorable reports from all committees. Miss R. Quartermaine, as secretary-treasurer, gave very satisfactory reports on the previous meeting and also showed a substantial bank balance after having accomplished a number of financial obligations. Miss Lily Bacon also reported on the sick and visiting committee and also showed a favorable balance on hand.

Recorded at the meeting was a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burrows for their excellent work with reference to repairing church music. The rector, Canon W. P. Robertson, spoke briefly to the members, thanking them for their untiring support and assistance to the church services.

An item of great interest was the announcement by F. G. Mann that in the near future a new "Communion office" was to be dedicated to the choir and rector and would be ready to use on Easter Sunday. This is the second Communion office to be used by the choir written by Mr. Mann and is to include a "sevenfold Amen."

Hon. President—Canon W. P. Robertson.

Hon. Vice-Presidents—Rev. R. T. F. Brain, R. N. Stuart, Herbert Morphet, Chris Graham.

President—Griffin Young.

Vice-President—Fred Hooper.

Secretary-Treasurer — Miss R. Quartermaine.

Librarian—Robert Crocker.

Assistant Librarian—John Hooper.

Sick and Visiting Committee — Miss Lily Bacon, Leslie Groombridge, Roy Pitchford.

Publicity Secretary—Roy Pitchford.

Following the close of the meeting excellent refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Burrows and her committee, which included Miss R. Quartermaine, Miss Lily Bacon and Mrs. Mann.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MARY ALMIRA HEAL.

Death came early this morning to Mrs. Mary Almira Heal, widow of John H. Heal, at her residence at 509 Gilmour street, after a long illness.

It was on December 7 last that Mr. Heal, a prominent grocer and later a real estate agent, died in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Heal came to Peterborough 49 years ago and in that time became widely known throughout the city.

Born in Hamilton township, Northumberland county, Mrs. Heal was formerly Mary Almira Finlay. She was a member of Trinity United church here.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. F. Kirkendall of Toronto and Mrs. R. Brown of Peterborough.

The funeral will be on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence, Rev. G. S. Easton, of Trinity United church, officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. EMMA JANE ROSE

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3—(ENS). — Following a short illness, there passed away at her residence, William street, Lakefield, on Wednesday, Emma Jane Hendren, widow of the late James Rose, in her 71st year.

Mrs. Rose was well and favorably known here, having lived all her life within a few miles of her birthplace. She was married in 1905 and resided in Peterborough where her husband was superintendent of Jackson Park until his death in 1927; then she returned to Lakefield.

She was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and well liked for her kindness and sympathy by all with whom she came in contact.

The funeral service was held on Friday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was conducted by her pastor, Rev. James Young, assisted by Rev. George Kelly of Lakefield United Church. After the service the cortege proceeded to the Lakefield Cemetery for interment.

The pall-bearers were James Webster, W. S. Rose, A. H. Clark, Percy Spence, Herbert Girvin and Thomas Petrie.

She leaves to mourn her passing, two sisters, Mrs. B. Hunter (Minnie), Mrs. James Walton (Ella), and three brothers, John, James and George, all of Lakefield.

People of Denmark are being rationed 1 pound 5 ounces of coffee and 10½ ounces of tea a month.

DUCKS UNDER BRIDGE

True to form, ducks are once more under Hunter street bridge. Each year at about this time they make their appearance despite sub-zero weather, and stay for two or three weeks.

RUINING FRUIT TREES

Cottontails are on the land in abnormal numbers this year and are encroaching even into the city. Some residents on the outskirts claim that they are eating the bark from fruit trees and are coming to the city regularly on foraging expeditions.

REV. BOYTER IN CHARGE

Rev. C. C. Boyter of the Park Street Baptist church will be in charge of the Sunday School conducted every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the P.W.U. hall on George street. A cordial invitation is extended to unemployed not connected with other churches to attend.

BUMPED FROM BEHIND.

Donald Henderson stopped his car at George and Charlotte streets Friday waiting for the traffic lights to change and another machine, driven by George Wilson, R.R. 3, Lindsay, collided with the rear end of the Henderson car. Both cars were facing north.

TORY THEME SONG?

Kiwanians, entertaining the stalwarts of the Conservative party at luncheon Friday, sang a song that might well be taken by Dr. R. J. Manion for theme song of his National government platform in the election campaign that is upon the country. It was "The More We Are Together." The song that followed, "Jingle Bells" had possibilities too, in the line "In A One-horse Open Sleigh."

HOLSTEIN HONORS

The Holstein honor list for 1939 includes Joe Tully's junior three year old cow "Woodland Pabst Jchanna" for its production mark of 18,018 pounds of milk and 633 pounds of butter fat as listed in the latest issues of the Holstein Journal. Everett Birdsall mentioned the distinction at last night's Fair Board meeting, and extended congratulations to Mr. Tully.

CAME WRONG NIGHT.

Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson, of Lindsay, who was the guest speaker at Friday night's Oddfellows' banquet, told a good story on himself. Somehow he got his dates twisted and after turning down an invitation to address a Lindsay organization Monday night because he thought he was booked for Peterborough, made the trip to this city on Monday. He found after his arrival that he was four days early so he and Mrs. Anderson spent the evening window shopping.

FRIDAY NIGHT CLUB

At the Friday Night Club John Bradshaw delighted his fellow members with an interesting talk on "Under the Law." Introduced by Chairman H. L. Garner, John disproved several statements regarding the law. For instance the law is supposedly dry, dusty, etc. But the speaker quickly showed the club otherwise in an amusing story. The speaker also said the law was supposed to be crooked, slow and out of date, but in each instance he proved these statements to be incorrect. Doug Grant thanked the speaker for his enlightening talk and the meeting came to a close.

Police Clear Up Series Of Burglaries

Jack Woodcock, who was arrested early Friday morning after police had followed tracks from the scene of an attempted break-in to his home on Union street, changed his plea to guilty this morning in the charge against him of breaking and entering the service station of Joseph Detcher with intent to commit theft.

Woodcock's arrest, police say, clears up a series of burglaries here recently.

This morning he also pleaded guilty to breaking into the Charlotte street Mason Groceteria and committing theft in December, and also to a third charge of having robbed the Arcade store, George street, on January 25.

Wesley Zinston, another youth, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the Mason store.

At the request of Crown Attorney McElderry both prisoners were remanded until February 9 for sentence.

Asked as to whether they had anything to say, Woodcock made a plea for leniency. "I haven't much to say," was Zinston's only reply.

Caledonian Club Elects Officers

The annual business meeting and election of officers of the Caledonian Club was held in the Moose Hall on Thursday evening. W. May, the retiring president, was chairman. Social events for the balance of the month will include a whist drive next Thursday. The Caledonian orchestra will sponsor a Valentine dance for the benefit of the club on the 15th. A satisfactory statement of the Burns' supper was read by the secretary, and a vote of thanks was given the ladies' committee for the success of this function, which was largely attended.

J. Miller occupied the chair for the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Exhibition Board Lays Plans To Open Office

Rental of an office in the Toronto Savings and Loan Company's building for $150 a year was authorized by the directors of the Peterborough Exhibition last night.

Tom Brown, president, said the books and other records were accumulating in the office of Sheriff Hurstone, and had to be removed from those quarters, for which no rental charge was paid. Other records are kept by Fred Holmes and Chas. Cowling, and the Board had arrived at the necessity of finding a place of its own. Their new office is equipped with a vault and is large enough for the general purposes of meetings. The motion to rent it was proposed by Frank Kitney and R. L. Dobbin.

The separate light and heavy horse sections have been united into one committee with Thomas H. Graham as chairman, and C. G. Graham and J. O. Ball as vice-chairmen. The same union has been made with the cattle classes. J. A. Middleton is general chairman, and Lieut.-Col. E. L. Birdsall and Chas. E. Moore are Vice-chairmen.

R. Holtby Present

Robert Holtby of Port Perry, field man for the Holstein-Friesian Association, attended last night's meeting on the Board's invitation, and explained in detail the "Black and White" days that have been successfully developed by Holstein breeders at various smaller fairs, notably in this district Roseneath, Port Perry and at Lakefield last year.

This question has been previously considered, and was discussed again last night without any decision. Some of the directors are in favor of it, and other are opposed mainly on the ground that is a step in the direction of making Peterborough a regional fair. One of the rules of the Black and White day, which has resulted in attracting into show rings many breeders of Holstein cattle who otherwise pass them up, is that prize money must be evenly distributed. First prize is the same amount as the last prize whether it be fourth, fifth or even tenth, depending on the number of entries.

Mr. Holtby told the meeting that the Holstein breeders at their convention in Toronto next week are planning to make this new policy general as the basis of their grants to fairs and exhibitions, and that their contribution to Peterborough will be conditional on their money being equally distributed.

"The smaller breeders are in the majority; and I think it is going through," Mr. Holtby said.

It was understood that the cattle committee would defer their meeting until after the Holstein Association's convention, and it is also expected that they will further discuss the proposal of arranging a Black and White feature for the Peterborough Exhibition this year, and for the entire four days.

Gordon Hancock remarked that if this inovation is adopted the Exhibition automatically becomes a regional fair.

Why Angus Class?

Clarence Mann posed the question of continuing the class for Aberdeen-Angus cattle. "Edwards brothers take $200 or $300 a year out of here, and I don't see anyone in our own district starting a herd of the black beef cattle."

G. A. Brethen of Norwood, affirming his interest in the development of the usefulness of the Exhibition, returned to his contention that the local dates are at least a week too early, and that a regional fair would be of more benefit to the farmers of this district than the present status of a Class A Exhibition.

"A few years ago we had over 30 local exhibitors and last year we had nine," Mr. Brethen said, "and five of the nine were full herds. I think you have lost them partly because of the change in dates, and because the circuit exhibitors get nearly all the prize money. These exhibitors took 70 per cent of the prize money out of here last year.

They don't need your help very badly. Edwards brothers, for example, got more than $1,200 at the C.N.E. last year. But the fellows from this district who have quit showing here, they did need your help."

Not Fair To Breeders.

Mr. Brethen said that one of the comments he had heard about local breeders exhibiting against the breeders who were making the circuit of Peterborough, Ottawa, Toronto and elsewhere, was to the effect that they were not sports.

"I think our breeders are sports, to use that term, but there is a limit to it. You don't see Class B hockey teams being drawn up against Class A teams, but that suggests what you are asking the local breeders to do, enter the arena against some of the strongest herds in this country."

Mr. Brethen also said that the present policy was not developing local herds as a different classification of the Exhibition should do. Herds of cattle should be encouraged and developed here and go on to exhibit at Toronto. He said he knew of only one county exhibitor at Toronto last year and that was Norman McConkey with three head of cattle.

Finally, Mr. Brown interrupted Mr. Brethen with a remark "I have heard you preaching on this subject before . . . ."

The president was particularly critical of Mr. Brethen's urging that the dates of the Exhibition be set back.

"If you want to change the dates, put somebody else in my place," Mr. Brown said.

"I can't agree with your view of it," Mr. Brethen said.

"And I don't agree with you," Mr. Brown answered. "I have my conviction on that."

"Everyone has a right to his own opinion," Mr. Brown said.

It was a friendly exchange or clash of opposing views with acknowledgments of sincerity on both sides, but Mr. Brethen did not press his comments further.

Mr. Brown said that Board had got away from the old September dates with their uncertain weather, and had almost wiped out the debt for which the members were personally liable. Mr. Brethen remarked on that point was that he was simply advocating a week later than last year, even if it did conflict with Ottawa. D. B. Faulkner recalled that his memory of the Exhibition when he first came to Peterborough brought up recollections of some decidedly chilly and unfavorable weather.

Commercial Hogs

Discussion swung to the swine class, with arguments against giving prizes for the breeds that were unwanted for export pork.

"Why do we still have breeds such as Tamworths and Berkshires?" Joseph Tully asked, "Chiefly because dumb fairs continue to offer prizes for them."

It was stated that Gordon S. Matthews offered to renew the former extent of his contribution of prize money if the Board resumed the commercial classification of 1937.

"That is the only breed that can be sold on the British market, and I think the Exhibition should cater to it," Gordon Hancock said.

Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore enquired whether the Board would consider judging of the commercial pens of hogs partly on the rail grade basis. They could be judged on the hoof as at present and later when dressed at Canada Packers.

Mr. Hancock emphasized the fact that this proposal applied only to the commercial pens, and not to all the swine shown at the Exhibition. The idea was left to the committee for consideration.

A motion by Mr. Faulkner, seconded by Col. Birdsall, expressed the Board's appreciation of Mr. Holtby's visit and talk to the "Black and White" day plan.

Swift, Deadly Dive Bombers Protect Canada's Western Coast

Guarding Canada's western coast against enemy attacks, patrols of dive bombers, TOP, wing their way along the coast line and far out to sea in search of any enemy naval craft. These dive bombers are named because they release their bombs as they dive and then quickly rise before the resulting explosion, as their deadly missiles find their mark. A dive bomber is shown, RIGHT, diving to the attack with the resultant explosion also shown. Ground crewmen are shown, LOWER LEFT, placing one of the deadly bombs into position under a wing of one of the bombers.

rence. They never excited even mild surprise. They were expected. No special mechanical appliances were available unless the locomotive was ditched, when a wrecking car with a hoist would be sent out to lift it back on the rails. But in cases of less severe derailment the crew was highly skilled in the use of wood from the tender. They could block the wheels of a derailed car and haul it back to position on the rails in the space of a few strenuous minutes, and they never seemed to think that anything extraordinary had happened.

Coupling By Hand

Cars were coupled by the link-and-pin method, which provided plenty of slack, especially in the trains of considerable length. When the engine of one of these moved forward the pickup of the slack would be heard running back along the train length like machine gun explosions, and the last car, usually the caboose, would shoot forward with suddenly acquired momentum as though it had been shot from a catapult.

In making couplings between cars the brakeman had to hold the link up with one hand and guide it into the socket of the opposite car, above which a heavy iron pin was poised. He then had to upset the pin so that it would fall into place, and while thus engaged, exercise all his alertness to evade the side bumpers which, when coupling speed was excessive, might crush out his life.

This sometimes happened, but not often. But, injuries to the hands were common. One rarely saw in those days a train conductor, all of whom had graduated as brakeman, in possession of all his fingers. One or more had been sacrificed during his brakeman days.

Signalling For Brakes

The engine driver had very restricted control over the train behind him. He had a sandbox, and could reverse his driving wheels, but these facilities were wholly inadequate for speed control on down grades. For this he was dependent on the engine whistle. On the summit of a grade he would sound one short note on this whistle. This was the signal for "brakes." These trains had two brakeman, one stationed forward and the other at the rear. When they heard this signal they would rush to the brake wheel of the car nearest them, set the brakes by twisting the wheel with the full weight of their bodies, then rush along the tops of box cars or over the freight loadings of flat cars to set the next set of brakes in the series. When the grade was negotiated two short whistles meant "release brakes," and this scurrying began all over again.

Heavy timber trains were running constantly from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario. In cold weather these squared timbers would become coated with ice which the brakeman had to negotiate in "running" the cars to set the brakes. It required more skill than that of a tight rope walker, but that was not all. The brakeman had to become skilled in ground and loft tumbling. It was inevitable that at some time, at some place, he would skid and find himself sprawling in the ditch or in a snowbank beside the rails.

Recalls "Train Tumbler"

Train speeds were not high—from fifteen to eighteen miles an hour. If a man kept his wits about him he could call off and come out of it perhaps only slightly bruised or with nothing more serious than a sprained arm or ankle. I never knew of a fatal result from this cause. My friend Bob Stutt was the most inveterate train tumbler I ever knew. He twisted brake wheels for an average of about nine months in each year; the other three were devoted to recuperating from various injuries.

There was no way in which a man could involuntarily leave a train that Bob had not accomplished. One day, seated in the crow's nest of a caboose at the rear of a timber train which commanded a view of the forward cars, I saw Bob start to scramble acroses the ice-coated timbers of the first car ahead at the sound of the whistle for "brakes." He reached the center of the car and then began to slide sideways. I held my breath while Bob turned a graceful somersault and landed on his feet in a snowdrift. The train conductor, sitting beside me, saw what happened and pulled the bell cord. As the train slowed down, Bob came running along the track and climbed aboard as cool and collected as though he had been taking exercise for his health.

They were strenuous days, those days of early railroading. There never was a dull moment. I wish I could live them over again."

Other incidents from Mr. Tate's book will be published in a few days.

$1,765 Surplus Is Shown By Waterworks

Nearly one billion gallons of water were pumped at the city's filtration plant last year. This is one of the interesting facts mentioned in the annual report of the waterworks division of the Peterborough Utilities Commission which is published elsewhere in this issue showing a surplus of $1,765.

In the operating report the total revenue last year was $117,360.23 as follows:—domestic and commercial revenue $93,551.53; city's payment for fire protection and other water services $20,000.04; power rental $3,000; miscellaneous $808.66.

Expenditure was made up as follows:—operation and maintenance $61,455.95; interest and sinking fund charges $47,879.29; depreciation of plant and equipment $6,059.99; provision for bad debts $200; total $115,595.23.

During the year the Commission, as a result of the increased building activity, experienced a busy construction program. One hundred and twenty-nine new services were laid, making the past year the busiest year in twenty years.

Extension of Mains

The 12" cast iron main on Wolsley Street was extended from Benson to Aylmer. The 8" main on Aylmer Street was extended southerly to Aberdeen and westerly to Bethune Streets. The 6" main on Hazlitt Street was extended from Armour Road to Roger Street, and the 8" main on Armour Road extended from Douro to Hunter Street. This work will result in much better water pressures in the various districts.

A 2" galvanized iron summer service was laid on Monaghan Road from Bonaccord Street to Jackson Park, so that water can be supplied to the Jackson Park Fresh Air Camp.

A total of 960,632,000 gallons was pumped during the year, which was an increase of 26 million gallons over 1938. The average per day was 2,640,000 gallons, and the peak day was on July 27th, when we pumped 5,295,000 gallons.

The quality of the water delivered to the consumers left very little to be desired. It was absolutely free from bacteria or taste, and the color was good.

Summer Visitors

The efforts of the Commission in making the filtration plant a popular place to visit were amply repaid. During the summer season the electric fountain and natural life sanctuary proved to be a popular rendezvous for many citizens and tourists.

The Commission is happy to say that the Waterworks system has met all the demands on it, and has supplied an ample amount of pure attractive water to the consumers at a reasonable charge.

"Detained" By Hitler's Yacht

Boris Lindholm, Erne Karlssau and Helmer Gustavson (LEFT to RIGHT), officers aboard the Finnish freighter, Siggy, arriving in New York, told how they had been halted in mid-Atlantic by Adolf Hitler's personal yacht, the Azico Grille, TOP, and ordered to Stettin, Germany, where they were held for twenty-one days. They said the Azico Grille has been turned over to the navy and outfitted as a raider.

Mr. Powell hooked up an electric door bell, without the gong, so that the striking arm of the bell would be operated through a relay, and every dot or dash, after passing through the coherer, would operate the bell striker, tap the glass tube, and so loosen the particles inside, ready for use again.

His experiments were conducted from 1903 to about 1914, and by that time he had constructed many wireless parts, experimental microphones that could pick up sounds of a watch ticking, and had begun using crystal-type detectors of carborundum. He had completed a demonstration on sending and receiving set in portable form, and used these to give lectures and wireless talks to serious groups about the city. He was able to control by wireless a model electric train of his own construction; transmit the striking of his household clock by dashes; and even took his own photograph in his wireless room by flashlight powder set off when he depressed his wireless key.

Home Made Radio Sets.

After the war Mr. Powell resumed his experiments in what had by that time come to be known as radio. Early battery radios of one or two tubes had made their appearance and the pioneer of broadcasting stations, KDKA, Pittsburg, was the main stand-by, along with WGY, Schenectady. Somemade sets were the order of the day and radio fans from nine to 99 were burning their fingers with soldering irons in the race to out-radio their neighbors.

So far as is known, the first commercially-built receiver in Peterborough was owned by Edgar Worth, then a resident of Weller street. It was a 3-tube set built by the Independent Telephone company and used "honey-comb" coils—three coils protruding from the front panel of the set, and by moving them closer together or further apart, and turning two dials and a multiple of knobs, stations were brought in. This set also boasted a horn-type loud speaker.

These were the day when radio fans were buying parts and trying new "wiring diagrams" to improve reception and to get more distant stations. Many a would-be Edison stood by with bated breath awaiting the verdict on a test of his four or five six-dollar tubes, and had his worst fears realized when they were pronounced dead—victim of an erratic screw-driver with the set turned on, or the wrong battery on the right wires.

Many a guest there was who expectantly donned headphones to hear the much talked of stations, and who after long intervals of patient waiting, interspersed with ear-piercing shrieks and whistles, removed them again with nothing more than a pair of deadened ears for compensation.

The dance in the local hall on Wednesday evening was a success and the large crowd enjoyed a pleasant evening's dancing to music supplied by Miller's Orchestra.

THERE is a welcome and a place in the Fraser organization for every one who believes that gearing up Canada's war effort is the big job before the country and who knows that it can only be done by a government of action such as is offered by Hon. R. J. Manion.

Headquarters have been established at 392 George Street, with committee rooms for men and women. Everybody in the riding who wants to strike a blow at Hitlerism by helping to elect a national government that will mobilize Canada's resources to the fullest degree against Nazi dictatorship will find a welcome there at any time. Come in and enlist in the war for better government in Canada.

One more thing. Enumeration begins Monday. Make sure the names of every one in your family who is eligible to vote is on the list.

Red Shield Group Makes Plans To Raise Funds

112 Garments, including socks, wristlets, sweaters, scarves and rifle mitts, have been knitted by the local branch of the Red Shield Women's Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. N. Buckley, during the month of January, and sent to headquarters in Toronto. Already ten thousand pairs of socks have been knitted by Salvation Army women and distributed to Canadian soldiers, and more than 10,000 women of the Salvation Army across Canada are engaged in war service work. Need for knitted gloves is stressed by Mrs. Peacock of Toronto, who is in charge at Auxiliary headquarters. She states that hundreds of pairs could be used at once.

Although some money donations have come in, the local Red Shield group is always faced with a shortage of wool, due to lack of funds.

FASHIONS

If you are planning your spring wardrobe you certainly want to include an apron or two. Or, as bridge prizes the are most admired. They are so much fun to make in your leisure moments of which you will most likely have a few after the holiday season is over. The bib style is pretty trimmed with ricrac and bright cherries on the front and pocket. The princess style fits well and has an air of charm that is most welcome in the kitchen.

Style No. 3108 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. Medium size requires 2¼ yards of 35-inch material for bib style; 2½ yards for princess apron.

E-700, cherry embroidery, must be ordered separately.

As a concluding feature, all the Guides and Guards take part in a big campfire group that promises to be most entertaining, and a typical picture of Guide life. Scraps Of Chintz Are Required By Red Cross

There is getting to be a substantial pile of scraps at the Red Cross cutting room in the Public Library—bits of material that are too small for anything but quilt patches. School children are going to help convert these pieces into quilts for overseas and relief purposes, and members of the Red Cross organization are wondering if women of the city would like to turn out their scrap bags and send in some pieces of chintz or other bright material that would successfully combine with these ends, which are mainly white flannelette.

Fairly heavy chintz, which could be made up into personal property bags for soldiers, is also required, so if there are any women in the city who would like to do their bit in this way, the need is still urgent. Telephone the Red Cross rooms at the Public Library (dial 8222), or better still, deliver your bundle, and it will be thankfully received.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 4.

Sunday's horoscope promises much success and gratification for all clerical, church and intellectual interests, but in other directions there is urgent need for prudence and vigilance against deception, fraud, trickery, and intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may look for some solid achievement through diligence, hard work, and from past effort or accumulations during the year. But there is much need for discretion in other affairs, with particular watchfulness as to treachery, intrigue, schemes and plots, especially when affixing the signature to documents.

A child born on this day may be shrewd, clever, deep thinking, but quick acting. It may jump into dangerous and doubtful enterprises through schemes, sharp practice or subtlety, although it may be suspicious and over-critical.

For Monday, February 5.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a memorable and surprising development in the affairs that may be considered radical or reactionary. The mind will be quickened into strange, perhaps unique paths, demanding a complete about-face from old and effete views, philosophies and systems. This may lead to fresh fields of adventure.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year in which there may be a complete change in their lives — mentally, physically, and in associations, plans and environs. Such radical change may beget fresh or startling ideas and innovation, and bring dramatic or sensational experiences or adventures.

A child born on this day may have extraordinary talents which may be born of new and even spectacular ideas which, when applied to business methods, scientific research, invention, travel or aeronautics, may be deemed revolutionary.

Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Is Presented At Normal School

Gaily decorated, and with fine music provided by the Northrop orchestra, the Normal school was the rendezvous for a happy gathering Friday night, when the annual 'at home' of the president, officers and members of the Literary Society was held.

Dr. J. A. Bannister, principal of the school, with Mrs. Bannister, headed the important line who received the guests, with Miss Olga Johnston, dean of women, and Miss Isabel Wray, president of the Literary Society. Mr. J. Moher, vice-president, Mr. R. Rist, past president, and Mss Doris Charlton, past vice-president.

The guests of the evening included the staff of critic teachers from Collegiate Institute and Public schools and friends, with Inspector and Mrs. K. S. Wightman, Mr. D. G. H. Melton, chairman Board of Education, and Mrs. Melton, Rev. Dr. A. T. and Mrs. Bar, Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Easton, Rev. and Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt, and Mr. A. Mowat.

In the appropriately decorated assembly hall the guests were ushered to their seats by a group of girls, including Misses E. Carman, B. Brown, J. Trumpour, J. Rowe and L. Tamblyn, where the splendid presentation of H.M.S. Pinafore (Gilbert and Sullivan), directed by Miss M. R. Rannie, assisted by other members of the staff, was the feature of the evening.

The programs, presented to the guests as they entered, were gay with tiny ships riding realistic waves. These nautical decorations were carried out throughout with wave effect down the side of the hall, above which white gulls were poised. Ships, flags and lanterns completed the ensemble, forming a happy setting for the stage which had been transformed into a ship's deck with all a ship's paraphernalia, even to brass rails and portholes. The final nautical touch was when guests were invited to sign the ship's 'log.'

The well-known story of 'Pinafore' was unfolded in story, song and dance by a finely trained cast who included the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., Gerald Mutton; Captain Corcoran, Mr. Leo Copp; Ralph Rackstraw, Earl Metcalfe; Dick Deadeye, Joseph Moher; Bill Bobstay, Arthur Winter; Josephine, Teresa Perdue; Hebe, Norma Wakelin; Mrs. Cripps (Little Buttercup), Eleanor Retallick; First Narrator, Ralph Richardson; Second Narrator, Wm. McLauchlin. The pages, Dorothy Curle and Jean Clarkson.

In gracious words of welcome, Miss Isabel Wray, the president, greeted the large assembly of guests on behalf of the Literary Society and introduced this popular light opera which, owing to lack of time, was slightly condensed. In order to preserve the continuity of the story, the two narrators filled in the gaps in the plot which hinged upon the interchange of the two baby boys, with the resulting complications. Lilting music coupled with clever dialogue and acting, made this opera, which played for 700 nights in London, once more a success even with an amateur cast.

Assisting the talented young artists were the members of the chorus, representing sisters, cousins and aunts—Dorothy Anderson, Eileen Brisbin, Doris Charlton, Mary Meagher, Marjorie McDowell, Marion McCarthy, Freda Bulmer, Reta Farrell, Corona Hanbdige, Rose O'Reilly, Marjorie Douglas, Mary Dunbar, Marion Mikel, Betty Hoard, Helen Latimer. With their pretty bouffant frocks in both flowered and pastel shades, with matching bonnets, the girls created a charming picture which added much to the effectiveness of their sweet young voices.

The jolly young tars in their natty sailor suits, also did effective work in both acting and singing. Among these were B. Beckel, G. Booth, M. Gainor, E. Irwin, C. Jarvis, E. Johnston, P. Leahy, W. McLauchin, M. Rankin, R. Richardson, R. Rist, M. Robertson, A. Rowe, C. Sisson, J. Thompson, B. Woods.

A delightful dance number was the sailors' hornpipe by Miss Lorna Wright.

A charming gesture on the part of the students was the presentation of a lovely bouquet of roses and carnations to Miss Rannie for her untiring efforts in training the cast, as well as acting as accompanist throughout. The presentation was made by Miss Hilda Thompson, who voiced the appreciation of the cast, to which Miss Rannie responded, expressing her thanks for the roses and for their co-operation in the play.

Entertainment was provided for the students and their friends, who enjoyed dancing to the excellent music of the orchestra with Mr. Northrop at the piano, and games were arranged in the lower hall. Here, too, a touch of the nautical was found in the deck games, 'shuffle board' and 'deck tennis,' as well as in the tea room, where the long table was centred with a ship's model, flanked by tall red tapers in crystal holders and clusters of tiny flags.

T. H. Hooper's caterers were assisted in serving by a bevy of pretty students, convened by Nirma Paisley, Gala Rogers and Glen Allen.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the evening included, besides the president and vice-president, Miss H. Latimer, secretary, and Miss E. Retallick, treasurer. The decorating committee was headed by Ruth Trott, Marion Deviney and Rose O'Reilly.

The 1939-40 students are to be congratulated upon the fine success of their 'at home.'

Are You Puzzled by Strange Dreams?

Psychologists Explain Symbols

So perplexing are the images that occur in dreams! What does it mean when you dream of music, a pair of scissors, money?

Your dreams bridge the chasm between the unconscious and the conscious mind. Emotions, unconventional thoughts repressed by your waking self appear in your sleep in symbolic form.

Read your dreams. You may find them friendly warnings of inner conflicts. And the meanings of dream images are clearly explained by the psychologists — who have studied thousands of dreams.

Music in a dream indicates you are concerned about your self-esteem. You may secretly feel that some action you are taking is unworthy of you.

Scissors are a symbol of cutting. Appearing in a dream about a friend or an intimate, they may hint a wish to break with that person.

Do you ever dream of coins? To lose money in a dream implies a fear of losing a dear possession.

Or have you ever dreamed of a snake—or of imprisonment? These and many other typical dreams are explained by a well-known psychologist in our 32-page booklet. Helps you get clues to your true emotions, your secret self. Discusses nightmares, dreams that come true.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of THE MEANING OF DREAMS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

W.M.S. Plans Bale At Stewart Hall

STEWART HALL, Feb. 3—(ENS)—The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gordon Savigny, with twelve regular members and three visitors present.

Mrs. James Thorne took charge. Mrs. MacNaughton read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. Hatherly of Millbrook led in prayer.

The roll call was answered by a short prayer from each member.

Mrs. F. Savigny read an article on Temperance, which stated the alarming figures of the amount realized from liquor sales in Canada.

Miss E. Teasedale gave a reading, entitled "The Woman Who Gave Herself," which was the story of a woman very much interested in missionary work, but had very little money to give. Through prayer she was able to find a way to give her services instead.

A letter was read mentioning the articles wanted for the bale to be sent in June, also a letter about the World's Day of Prayer to be held February 9, and it was decided each member should attend services in Peterborough if possible.

It was planned to hold a crokinole party at the hall on February 13 at 8 o'clock. Mrs. George Hanbidge was elected third vice-president.

A quilt for the bale was put together by the ladies during the afternoon. Lunch was served by the hostess, and a social hour was spent.

Young People's Session.

The Young People held their regular meeting on Thursday night.

The worship service was led by Margaret Chambers. Miss Barbara Dawson gave a very interesting topic. The subject, "Christ to Men by Brush and Pen." It was explained how Christ was revealed to men, (a) by pen. This was through the good books, plays, poems and the well-known hymns; (2) by brush—this was explained through some of the masterpieces in art, such as "Last Supper," "The Gleaners," "The Angelus." Some of these paintings were studied.

Readings were given by Marion Patterson and Margaret Chambers.

Mrs. Irwin Hatherly of Millbrook and Mrs. R. Deyell of Probisher are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thorne.

We Noticed

....Luxurious ferns and gay decorations at the Kawartha Club rooms were an effective setting for the Nicholls Hospital Alumnae Association party last night—and for the many lovely formal gowns.

....Old-fashioned in style, but actually the very last word in modernity, was a gown of black satin with a pink chiffon top and long, full sleeves. Danty black bows trimmed the high neck and sleeves.

....Also featuring the new "covered-up" neckline was a white satin frock with a bouffant skirt and tight-fitting bodice. The sleeves were long, very full and gathered at the wrist, and the bodice was fashioned with neat little covered buttons.

Deloro Hall Filled For Party, Dance

MARMORA, Feb. 3—(ENS)—Deloro Hall was filled to capacity on Wednesday evening for the card party and dance sponsored by the Deloro ladies of Sacred Heart congregation.

The bridge prizes were won by Miss Anna Foley and Mr. Frank Leal while the euchre prizes went to Mrs. Vincent Lynch and Mr. Fred Johnston.

A delicious lunch was served after which dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by K. Doyle and Eugene Reynolds.

Under the auspices of St. Paul's Laymen's Association, a splendid series of sound pictures was shown in the Parish Hall on Wednesday through the kindness of the Bell Telephone Company.

G. W. Proctor, Belleville, district manager of the company was to have shown the pictures but through illness his place was taken by W. J. Ashline.

The pictures in interesting and graphic style depicted the history of the company and the telephone system on the Queen Mary besides which there were shorts of the section of the Royal Visit between London, Ont. and Washington, the late Grey Owl with his beavers, and comics. Unfortunately the attendance was not so large as had been hoped for, owing to illnesses in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Nickle quietly observed their seventeenth wedding anniversary on Wednesday January 31st. Their guests at supper were Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Carman and family of Eldorado.

Aids Orphans

Shown holding a sweater she knitted while en route to her estate near Paris, Madeleine Carroll, movie star, is pictured as she left New York for France. Miss Carroll has turned her estate over to 60 French orphans for the duration of the war and is taking seven trunk loads of knitted garments to them.

What a Grand Girl!
Energy, Poise and Personality

She has energy, poise and personality and is always so sure of herself. Worry and irritability are farthest from her thoughts for she is filled with the joy of healthful living.

Most any girl can have similar attractiveness if she gives proper attention to her health. Anaemic condition jangled nerves and tired, languid feelings soon give way with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. And what a pleasure it is to win back the joy of healthful living.

The foundation of all beauty is health. Creams and makeups have their uses but they cannot take the place of vigor and vitality.

For Quick Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Splendid Results. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can overcome a bad winter cough, when you try this well known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Add your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you.

IN MEMORIAM

FIELD.—In loving memory of Mrs. W. R. Field, who passed away nine years ago to-day, February 3, 1931.

We do not forget her, we love her too dearly
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream;
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.
In our home she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name;
Those who loved her in life sincerely
Still love her in death just the same.
—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

BUTCHER. — In loving memory of our dear baby Norbert, who died February 4, 1938.

There is someone who missed you sadly
And finds the time long since you went;
There is someone who thinks of you always
And tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear;
'Tis sad, but true, we wonder why
The best are always the first to die.
—Sadly missed by ,Mother, Daddy and Brother.

CARD OF THANKS

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

THE LAST Sunday in February was like an early April day. The sun, long obscured during a rainy, cold month, shone brightly, drying the sidewalks and bringing an illusion of spring. Its shafts came through the window of Fabienne's bedroom, summoning her from sleep to awake with a sense of anticipation.

She looked at the clock on her bedside table, saw that it was almost half past eight, and sprung from her bed. She went into the kitchen and plugged in the cord of the electric percolator. Then she went to the door of Ellen's room. "Get up, lazy bones. It's almost half past eight. The boys are coming at nine," she called.

Ellen said, "I'll be ready in a jiffy."

"Don t be late, darling, I don't want to miss a minute of this glorious day."

Bill was taking them up to the country. "Another chap and I have a small house—its really a shack—up in Connecticut, a few miles from Danbury. We bought it for a song and hope some day to use it for a laboratory. Up to now, we've only used it as sort of a camping out place on rare summer vacations. Some nice Sunday we'll drive up there and rough it for the day." Bill had said the night they played bridge at his apartment.

Immediately Fabienne and Nicky said they wanted to do it at once.

"Okay." Bill had given in. And so now the day had come.

Promptly at nine Bill pulled up in back of Nicky's sleek roadster in his own battered sedan of venerable years.

Nicky had summoned the girls and now Fabienne had a new picture of Bill to add to the gallery of memories—Bill in riding breeches with a leather windbreaker buttoned up to his throat beneath a firm chin.

He eyed her ski suit costume with paternal consideration. "You going to be warm enough in that outfit? We're not going to a real country house you know."

"I will," she said, embarrassed by his attention. "What in the world have you got in that huge box?"

"Wait until you see. It's fodder."

"Looks like enough for an army What time will we get there?

"It's only a three-hour drive when the roads are open. We'll have to take a road that I don't know because the pass to our place is snowed under, I'm told. I've got a road map somewhere here," he said, fishing in th seat pocket. "Who's good at this sort of thing?"

"I am," Fabienne said, getting in the back seat beside Nicky. "As a back seat driver, I'm probably the best there is. Also, once I see a map, I never forget the route.

She little dreamed how true—and how important that statement was to prove in the events that came about all because she learned the backwoods route that day.

Once clear of the maze of city traffic and on the open parkway, Bill's nondescript car ate up the miles between New York and Stamford and, with Fabienne's help, they found the back road, open and clear between fields that were still white while from the east snows, that led to Stepney, Newtown and Danbury. "Mallory's Folly is just off the main road about five miles between Stepney and Newtown. Danbury is the next big town," Bill told them.

The information fell on Fabienne's ears and was tucked away in her memory to use on a later occasion that was to make front page news in every paper in the country.

"Mallory's Folly" was a very small, very old house tucked away between two Connecticut hills, miles from any other house and forlorn indeed to the eye of the beholder.

"There it is," Bill said. "Next time we'll come in the summer. It isn't quite so bleak then."

"I'll bet it's nice inside," Ellen told him loyally. "It looks as if it might be nice and cosy."

"It is as long as the wood holds out. I'd hate to pass any time here in winter when the wood supply is low." Bill turned a rusty knob.

"Don't you lock it up?" Fabienne asked.

"No. Not even a tramp would stop here." He opened the door and stood aside while the girls went in.

Fabienne and Ellen looked and turned back to him enthusiastically, "It's grand!" they both said.

It wasn't really. But the low-ceilinged living room, with its great stone hearth and cheery Indian rugs on the walls was attractive. There were only two chairs; the twin army cots, covered with more Indian blankets, completed the seating arrangements.

Nicky came to the door with the large cardboard carton in his arms. "Where does this go?"

"Into the kitchen. The other room is shut off. We intended to use it for a lab. Come along, girls, and see the pride of the Folly."

It was an old-fashioned kitchen with a big stove in one corner and a sink in the other. A crude table stood between the two beneath a Bill opened the cupboard doors.

Bil lopened the cupboard doors. "Plenty of stores here," he said, "in case we get snowed in." There were a half dozen cans of soup, some condensed milk, a package of dried codfish and a tin of corned beef hash. There was also a complete collection of spices and herbs neatly ranged in labeled containers. "The sink doesn't work. We have to get water from the pump. I brought a gallon for an emergency."

Nicky was unloading the food, bringing out a steak big enough for a political picnic, cans and bags of vegetables and fruit, a jug of cider, a bottle of milk and various other articles.

Bill began taking logs and kindling from a pile in one corner of the kitchen. "I'll get a hearth fire started and then get the kitchen range fire going.

"I'll do that," Ellen said. 'I learned how to cook in a farmhouse kitchen.

"Maybe you did," Nicky told her with a grin, "but I'm the lad who does the steak."

"Oh, smarty!" Ellen retorted. "I'll bet you can't bake a pie. I could if I had the proper things."

Bill had come back for another armload of wood. "Let's see if you can," he said. "There's plenty of flour, sugar and all the other stuff that ought to be all right. Channing—that's my co-owner, stocked up before he went west a few weeks ago."

In a surprisingly short time, Ellen, very pretty and very domestic with a smudge of flour under her sparkling eyes, was putting a pie into the oven.

Feeling entirely too much like a lily of the fields, Fabienne wandered about, trying to find a task for herself. Like a small jealous child, she said, "I know how to make apple butter. Aunt Edna had a cook from New England who taught me how. We had apple butte rthree times a day for months. It's the only thing I know how to cook."

"With cider?" Bill asked eagerly.

She nodded.

"Boy, oh boy, have you got your work cut out for you! I loved that stuff when I was a kid. Tell you what we'll do—after dinner—Nicky and Ellen can go exploring while you and I cook up a mess of it. There's plenty of stuff here, spice and all that. We'll see how domestic you are." .

Fabienne, anxious to show off, said hesitantly, 'Well—"

"No 'wells' about it. You make me some apple butter. It was no mere accident that you mentioned it, my gel; it was nothing short of pre-destined."

Strange that he should have said it for, less than a month later, words had come to have a deep significant truth.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

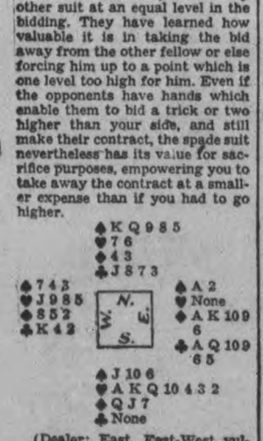
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

TRULY "THE OVERCOAT"

MANY veteran players speak of the spade suit as "the overcoat," because it can always cover any other suit at an equal level in the bidding. They have learned how valuable it is in taking the bid away from the other fellow or else forcing him up to a point which is one level too high for him. Even if the opponents have hands which enable them to bid a trick or two higher than your side, and still make their contract, the spade suit nevertheless has its value for sacrifice purposes, empowering you to take away the contract at a smaller expense than if you had to go higher.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

When the cards are so distributed that either side can make a game in its best suit, you would think offhand that somebody is almost certain to get a game out of that deal. Peculiarly, however, that is not so. Usually those hands are played at a sacrifice bid by one side or the other, the loss being much less than the deal would have cost if the opponents had made a game. This deal was an example of that.

East opened with 1-Club, South bid 1-Heart and North 1-Spade. East indicated his great strength then with the higher ranking of his two suits, calling 2-Diamonds. South rebid at 2-Hearts, North at 2-Spades and East jumped to 4-Diamonds, insisting on a game call from his partner. South, now knowing from North's rebid that the spade suit was a five-carder, bid 4-Spades, then East 5-Clubs.

Certainly this sounded to North as if East could make his contract, especially since his own four clubs to the jack lay immediately under East's suit. So he bid 5-Spades. East doubled him and set him only one trick—a lot cheaper for North than having to see his opponents tally a game.

What is the best defense against South's 4-Diamonds doubled by West, East having bid and rebid his hearts?

CBC Allows Free 12 3-4 Hours For All Parties

OTTAWA, Feb. 3—(CP).—Whirlwind election campaigns will be launched by all major parties within a fortnight and the big political guns will fire up and down the country for six weeks with the Liberal administration's war record the Opposition's chie ftarget as well as the government's main defence.

At national headquarters here, the Liberal, Conservative and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation parties are completing plans for their appeals to the electorate in the March 26 general election. Hon. T. A. Crerar, Mines and Resources Minister, flew to Winnipeg overnight and probably will start the government campaign in the west.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King is expected to make his first radio speech soon and Conservative Leader Manion will begin his coast-to-coast tour possibly in about 10 days.

The Social Credit party also is laying elaborate plans for a rapid campaign and Hon. W. D. Herridge, leader of the New Democracy, which is associated with Social Credit in the Federal arena, said last night he would announce his election plans shortly.

Free Networks Time

Broadcasting time for the various political parties on the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was decided upon yesterday and a total of 12¾ hours allotted. The Liberals will have 5¼ hours, Conservatives 4¾ hours, C.C.F., 1½ hours, and Social Crediters 1¼ hours. This network time is provided without charge and paid political broadcasts will be confined to local and provincial broadcasts through private stations.

For the duration of the campaign, the C.B.C. will not broadcast service club speeches by political figures, but some of them will be recorded electrically for broadcast following the vote.

Publication of a lengthy list of government war contracts and announcement of a wartime Fishery Advisory Board were other developments in the Capital yesterday.

The contracts were those awarded by the Defence Purchasing Board and its successor, the War Supply Board, from July 14, 1939, to December 31. They totalled $61,063,456, covering items of practically every description and brought the total announced war contracts to date to more than $80,000,000.

The Fishery Board, announced by Fisheries Minister Michaud, has 11 members under the chairmanship of J. J. Cowie, acting Federal Deputy Minister of Fisheries. Mr. Michaud said its purpose is to arrange the orderly supply of fish to the British market and at the same time reasonably maintain existing market connections.

At Scene of Shooting

Thain was at the scene of the double shooting on Thursday and mixed freely with other farmers in the district. He viewed the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Wellman with apparent calmness.

Meanwhile, the double funeral of the murdered couple was arranged for one o'clock on Sunday afternoon from Duffin's Funeral Home in Stirling, with interment at Rylestone Cemetery. The funeral falls on what was to have been the 55th wedding anniversary of the couple. All three children were to have been home for that celebration; instead, all are home at attend their parents' funeral.

Cash and Purse Found.

Motive for the murder became more obscure to-day when it was learned unofficially that although the house had been ransacked, a purse containing a sum of money, and belonging to Mr. Wellman, had been undisturbed. Similarly, a petty cash box used to pay ordinary house accounts, was not robbed. Only the grain was missing. Also it was learned, although police refused to confirm it, that a spent shotgun cartridge had been recovered from the bedroom where Mrs. Wellman had been shot.

Dr. S. N. Mooney, acting Chief Coroner for Ontario, said in Toronto last night that he believed an entirely new jury would be sworn in for the Wellman murder inquest, following arrest of Thain, one of the members of the first jury.

Finds House Entered

Police said Young told them he had returned home from a dance on the night of Jan. 11, to find that some one had entered during his absence. The door was open and there were other signs some one had been in the dwelling where Young lives alone. A checkup revealed nothing was missing and money and valuables were untouched.

When Young began to prepare breakfast the following morning, he noticed the water in the tea kettle was strangely cloudy. He found, also, that there was a strong odor of carbolic acid about a piece of cheese on the table, and that some foreign substance had been mixed with the sugar. His suspicions aroused, Young decided to forgo his lone breakfast and brought the kettle, sugar and cheese to township police headquarters. These were sent to a Toronto analyst, who reported he found styrchnine in the sugar, carbolic acid on the cheese and bichloride of mercury in the tea kettle.

Police declined to say what factors led to the arrest of Duvall. They admitted having questioned a large number of district residents before making the arrest.

No Seaway Action

The House heard from Premier Mitchell Hepburn that there is little prospect of legislation this session to implement an agreement between the province and the Dominion in regard to the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Mr. Hepburn said he had anticipated a measure this session and that a tentative agreement had been reached with regard to power development on the river. However the main treaty would have to be ratified first by both the United States Senate and the Dominion Parliament. Parliament could not reconvene in time to do this, should an international agreement be reached, before prorogation of the Legislature.

The Premier said he would be glad to confer with Conservative leader George Drew on the seaway project.

Discouragement of youths who buy correspondence school courses on the promise of a job to follow is a serious problem, Education Minister Simpson said as the House gave second reading to a bill to amend the Trade Schools Regulation Act.

The amending bill increases the penalties for the sale by unlicensed persons or corporations of correspondence school courses. Maximum penalty now for unlicensed solicitation is $100. The bill increases this to $2,000 for individuals and $25,000 for corporations.

The minister said one United States correspondence school in 1938 had 14,000 pupils in Canada whose annual fees contracted for would exceed $3,000,000.

A Flaw In The System?

Leopold Macaulay (Con., York South) wondered if the apparent popularity of these schools did not show a fault in the provincial educational vocational guidance. A lot of boys going through academic courses would be better off learning trades.

Dr. Simpson said Mr. Macaulay emphasized what the department had sought to stress—the futility of putting all boys through the same mold. A great many boys with small-salaried jobs in the city or on the farm were high-pressured into signing for correspondence courses. "The salesman practically guarantees a job," he said.

The minister said there were many reputable trade schools and they were satisfied with the Act and the proposed amendments to it.

A measure fixing at $5,000 the annual taxes to be paid on the Blue Water Bridge to the village of Point Edward was given third reading today by unanimous consent. The bill also went through committee stage today and Premier Hepburn asked for the third reading in order that litigation over the bridge taxes might be ended immediately.

Balance On Hand.

The church treasurer's report presented by Mr. Charles Roberts showed a balance on hand for the present year. The auditors' report given by Miss E. Wright was received and accepted by the meeting.

The session report presented by the clerk, B. Smith, showed that Communion had been well attended during the past year, in which a weekly Bible class and prayer meeting had also been inaugurated. The revised membership roll listed a total of 262 members, of which 27 are non-resident. Twenty persons were added on profession of faith, while there were six deaths, seven transferals and ten removals.

The Women's Association was divided into three separate working groups last year with a total membership of 100, and raised $426.53. A vote of thanks was extended to this group who contributed liberally to the committee of stewards, besides having a new platform built in the Sunday School room.

The junior choir, consisting of fifty members under the direction of Wm. Platt, raised $64 and donated a piano to the church. They are now preparing numbers for a special Easter pageant.

The Women's Missionary Society reported through their president, Mrs. A. McLauchlin, 30 members on roll and the sum of $227 raised.

There are 135 enrolled in the Sunday School, and there was an average attendance of 82 last year. The report given by Miss Edna Haig listed receipts at $12, and expenditures $22. The report from the Young People's Union also by Miss Haig gave receipts at $22.88 and expenditures $12.86.

Trail Ranger and Pathfinder groups have been organized and are now successfully being conducted under the leadership of Mr. Foy Wright.

A general vote of appreciation for the services of the different officers connected with the church was passed. At the conclusion of the meeting, a lunch was served by the ladies.

Removal of Red Cross signs had ordered by Finnish officials, who said they served as targets, but hospital authorities were said to have awaited a decision of the International Red Cross at Geneva before complying.

Apparently aimed at Finnish railway lifelines, bombs were dropped also on Pieksamaki, south-central "crossroads" of two main lines, one of which lead westward to Bkorneborg. About 44 miles north at Kuopio, on a railway line, at least two homes were reported burned by the Russian air raiders. Kotka, on the Gulf of Finland and starting point of a rail line northward, also was the target of attack, the Finns said.

At Sortavala on the northern shore of Lake Ladoga, many houses were said to have been damaged, and raids on Helsingfors suburbs caused two alarms during the day.

Parachutists Picked Off

Attempting to land troops by parachute from large planes, Soviet troops were picked off as they came to earth behind the Mannerheim Line near Viipuri, military advices said. The attempt to penetrate the Karelian Isthmus Line came as dozens of Russian tanks, pushing armored sledges, moved on Finnish lines at Summa, but were repulsed by anti-tank guns.

Opening the 1940 session of the Finnish diet, President Kyosti Kallio said, "We are engaged in the greatest struggle of our lives," and no place in the country is safe from destruction.

What Reward?

The full text of his statement was stricken from the record, and newspapers merely referred to what were called objectionable parts but, apparently, he demanded to know what reward the people have had for their sacrifices of blood and money in China.

The political tradition of Japan permits free, unrestricted criticism of the government, but the fighting services presumably are exempt, particularly during the "emergency period" which began with the Manchurian incident in 1932.

To a chorus of "no! no!" from angry Diet members, Saito questioned plans to set up a Japanese-sponsored government in China under Wang Ching-Wei, former Chinese premier, who differed with Chiang Kai-Shek. He asked whether it would have powers "necessary for its existence."

He told the House the Japanese people were "acting in accordance with the dictates of the government because they believe they will bring the affair to a satisfactory conclusion."

"If the government betrays this confidence the results would be disastrous," he warned.

6 More Weeks Winter

The scientific weatherman scoffed at the groundhog theory and said that "nobody can call a shot accurately on what the rest of the winter is due to be."

Manion Opening Campaign In Brockville

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—(CP).— Conservative Leader Manion will open his election campaign in Brockville, Ont., where he will speak in support of Hon. H. A. Stewart, Conservative candidate seeking re-election in Leeds on Feb. 8 after which he will hold a series of meetings in the prairie provinces and British Columbia, it was announced Friday from Dr. Manion's office.

The western itinerary has not been completed but probably will be announced next week. Dr. J. M. Robb, Conservative organizer, said committees to arrange for speakers supporting Dr. Manion will be set up in each province, working in co-operation with a central committee in Ottawa.

In a statement issued Wednesday Dr. Manion said: "I suggest most respectfully that in these constituencies throughout Canada where nominations have not been made for the coming electon, the National Conservative Party make a patriotic endeavor to get together the people of all groups at open conventions with the object of exploring the possibility of naming some loyal, able, high type of citizen, of whatever party, as candidate."

Several conventions are being planned for next week and the week following but party officials here stated it is too soon to say to what extent the conventions are open to voters outside the Conservative party. Last year about 90 Conservative candidates were chosen leaving 155 yet to be selected if every constituency is to be contested.

Russians Try Night Raiding To Break Finn Morale; Nazis Bomb 9 Ships, Sink 1

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 5—(AP).—A new Russian practice, night air raids on Finland's backed-out cities, was described defiantly to-day by Finns as a doomed effort to break their morale.

The night forays, a phase of intensifying Soviet air warfare, have developed during an unrelenting Red army land offensive which, so far, has found the Mannerheim line impregnable.

In another futile attempt to break through Karelian Isthmus defences at Summa, 20 miles south or Viborg (Viipuri), Finns said yesterday, the Russians lost more than 1,000 men. "Heavy" Soviet losses also were reported at Muolaajaervi, on the same front.

Two of Finland's main cities, meanwhile, were hard hit by Russian air raiders. Bomb-ignited fires burned through the night in the seaport of Abo (Turku) and in Viborg, a city of about 73,000 population at the head of the Gulf of Finland.

For the past few nights, Red army planes have been flying far behind the Finish lines. Finns, charging the Russians bombed at random on these flights, reported one of

Britain Calls Rally To Speed Up Arms, Ammunition

LONDON, Feb. 5—(CP).—Trade union leaders of the engineering industry gathered today at the call of Labor Minister Ernest Brown to help find ways of speeding up munitions and arms production.

One government objective was to increase the number of plants working around the clock. Another question was whether 1,000,000 women in the war industries would receive pay equal to that of men in similar jobs.

Meanwhile, the anger of the British press rose against what newspapers termed 'murderous" German attacks on North Sea shipping. Authorities said that nine vessels were attacked Saturday and one sunk. The 629-ton Norgeigian steamship Tempa. At least three of the Nazi raiders were shot down by fast Royal Air Force fighters.

Germany's claim that the bombers had "attacked British men-of-war an darmed or convoyed merchant ships," sinking a minesweeper, four outpost boats and nine merchantmen," was described here as "absurd." It would have been impossible for the attacking planes—12 "at most"—to have done so much damage, British officials said.

Prefer Cash

Seattle, Feb. 5 (AP)

THE DUWAMISH Indians laid claim today to the land on which the city of Seattle stands.

The city rightfully belongs to the Duwamish tribe as a reservation, Chief Peter James said. But the Indians don't want it back. All they want is $3,076,800 cash and the whites can keep the city with all of its skyscrapers.

James said the Indians based their claim on the treaty of 1850 which promised to provide the tribe with a reservation. The treaty was signed by Governor Isaac Stevens of Washington territory, but he went to war and was killed, James said, and its provisions never were carried out.

Ex-O.H.A. Prexy Slays Wife, Family, Suicides

PRESTON, Ont., Feb. 5.—(CP).—Coroner Dr. Ward Woolner of Ayr, to-day blamed mental illness for the burst of violence that caused 52-year-old Alvin Schlegel, immediate past president of the Ontario Hockey Association, to shoot and kill his wife, son and daughter and then commit suicide in their home here.

The coroner announced no inquest would be held and no examinations would be made of the bodies of the four victims of last night's tragedy, which shocked friends of Schlegel across Canada and, more particularly, Preston residents who knew the family as socially prominent and bound closely by ties of affection.

There could be no other reason than mental illness, Dr. Woolner said, for Schlegel to fire two shots into his wife's body as she lay on a Chesterfield, kill his 12-year-old son, Jack, in bed, and then fire his revolver into the breast of his daughter, Mrs. G. Bruce McCullough, 25, of Kitchener, as she entered the house. Schlegel ended his own life by firing a bullet into his head.

Daughter Wed 3 Months.

Mrs. McCullough was married only three months ago at a pretty ceremony attended by the sportsman. Only yesterday Schlegel skated with his 12-year-old son.

W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., who knew Schlegel in his 15 years as a member of the Association executive and before that as a player, said at Toronto he was "the last person in the world you would expect to hear such a thing about." Hewitt described the sportsman and business man as "the type of man who always looked on the bright side of life."

Last night the McCulloughs motored to Preston to have dinner with the Schlegels. The meal, McCullough said afterward, was without untoward incident, though Schlegel was unusually quiet in his place at the head of the table.

Afterward the McCulloughs went to the evening service at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Schlegel went to his office at the Canadian School and Office Furniture Company, Mrs. Schlegel lay down on a Chesterfield and Jack went to bed.

Schlegel spent only a few minutes at the office, according to police reconstruction of the case, and drove home, parking his automobile in front of the house. He left

Protests Huge Border Army Blocking Vital Exports; Offers Pledge Against Reds

Four Balkan Nations Sign 7-Year Deal Without Guarantee

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 5. (AP)—Rumania, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia have extended their entente for seven years, pledging continuance of their present neutral status "so as to preserve this part of Europe from the trials of war."

Ending a three-day conference last night, Balkan entente diplomats set out for their capitals, each determined to work out relations with larger powers and one another on an individual basis.

The conference was believed most foreign observers to have failed to unite the four nations except for broadly-worded decisions on neutrality, independence and promotion of trade within the entente. There were no absolute guarantees.

Rumania, caught in the Allied-German trade pincers, was seen by neutral observers as failing in her aim to turn the entente into a military alliance to assure assistance in case of German or Russian threats to her independence.

The partners, however, declared their "will to remain united within the entente" and "to watch in common over the safeguarding of the rights of each of them to independence and to national territory."

Sick Of Unprofitable Barter Idea Replies Bucharest

BUCHAREST, Feb. 5.— (CP-Havas) — The Havas news agency correspondent here was told on good authority today that Germany has asked Rumania to demobilize 800,000 troops on the ground that Rumanian industry and agriculture, flagging for want of manpower, cannot at present supply the Reich with urgently needed supplies.

The German trade commission here was reliably reported to have protested at the number of men kept from Rumanian fields and factories by military requirements. The mobilized forces also monopolize Rumanian transport to the detriment of exports earmarked for the Reich, the Germans were said to have argued.

Assuring the government that Germany is not a threat, the German commission also is said to have promised the Reich would guarantee Rumania against Russian hostility. In view of these assurances, the Havas correspondent was told the Rumanians were asked to integrate their economy more closely with that of Germany.

The Rumanian government was said to have replied that trade with the Reich, carried on by barter, is

Dominion Relief Legislation to Stand Mayors Are Told

MONTREAL, Feb. 5 (CP)—The Dominion Government plans to renew existing direct relief legislation, according to a statement today by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

This was diclosed in a letter from Labor Minister Norman McLarty to the federation in which he acknowledged receipt of a resolution urging the Dominion Government to assume the complete burden of relief costs. The resolution was adopted at a recent meeting of the federation executive at Toronto.

Mr. McLarty wrote that "it is the policy of this government to ask parliament to renew the present legislation subject to any amendment which may be necessary or desirable, and to continue to contribute on the existing basis insofar as direct relief, that is, food, fuel, clothing and shelter, is concerned."

The minister added that "on account of the tremendous outlay necessitated by the war, it is desirable that expenditures under the act be reduced to a minimum, and on this account the government may require to fixe some maximum to this expenditure."

The federation executive had suggested to the labor minister that the existing federal-provincial unemployment relief agreements which expire March 31 should be maintained without curtailment until the Dominion Government assumed the full relief costs.

The present agreements provide a three-way participation among the federal, provincial and municipal governments on the basis of a 40-40-20 participation, covering food, fuel, clothing and shelter. Administration costs and other supplementary services are borne by the municipalities.

Wellman Jury Dismissed By Chief Coroner No Inquest Held Since Arrest Been Made

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 5 — (CP). — The coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman of Harold, who were brutally slain last Wednesday and for which Fred Thain, their next door neighbor, has been charged with murder, has been dismissed, according to Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., and Dr. J. J. Robertson, chief coroner for the County of Hastings.

"This is the procedure that is now taken when an arrest has been made," said Coroner Dr. Robertson to-day.

Thain was a member of the jury. The jury dismissal means no inquest will be held.

Full evidence will be given at the preliminary hearing to be held here on Wednesday.

The preliminary hearing originally was scheduled for Thursday, but to-day B. C. Donnon, K.C., Crown Attorney, announced the change to Wednesday. Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., will preside.

Thain attended divine service in the County Jail yesterday. At the conclusion of the service he approached Major H. Alderman of the Salvation Army and said: "Pray for me."

Certain Evidence Best Forgot Witness Warned

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 5 (CP)—A youthful Windsor service station attendant, Bart Hailey, testifying at the trial of Sam Motruk of Windsor and two suspended Canadian customs officers on conspiracy charges today said he had been approached by another witness last week with the suggestion that when he took the stand that he testify he could not remember certain events.

Hailey was called by the crown to corroborate evidence of the chief crown witness, Victor Bernat, who previously had testified he had driven alcohol-laden cars through the customs here for Motruk without payment of duty. The customs officers involved and charged with Motruk are Thomas Arthur Smythe and Harry Jarvis Smith.

Hailey testified that Motruk had given him the money to pay a fine for Bernat at one time when the latter had been convicted of having illicit alcohol in a jug.

Crown Attorney Thomas Phelan then asked him if he had been approached by anyone since the trial started. Hailey declared that a witness by the name of Buckeski, who has not yet appeared, and a brother of Motruk, approached him last Thursday and asked if he had made any statement to police.

Just Dirt Slinging.

Witness said he had replied in the affirmative and that it then had been suggested that he could testify he could not remember the incident.

Defence Counsel Paul Martin, K.C., representing Motruk, said that he could not protest too strenuously against this evidence. He termed it the "worst sort of dirt-slinging."

Mr. Phelan replied that he also might have something to say along that line.

Bernat was on the stand as the trial resumed to-day. He said that on several occasions he had seen Smith and Motruk together in the front room of the latter's home.

Teachers To Vote Under Dual Residence Rule

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP)—School teachers who regularly spend their holidays at their parents' homes either may vote in the electoral district where their parents live or in the district where they teach school provided their names are on the voters' lists but they cannot vote at advanced polls, Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer stated in a memorandum to returning officers made public today.

With election fixed for the day following Easter Monday, Mr. Castonguay has received a great number of inquiries as to whether school teachers must return to the electoral district in which they teach school to vote thereby cutting short their holidays. The election act makes special provision for teachers to vote in the electoral district where they teach.

"It appears," the memorandum stated, "that a teacher has what may be termed a dual residence and she can elect whether she will vote in the electoral district in which her place of residence while teaching school is situated, or in the electoral district in which the home of her parents is situated. It goes without saying, however, that teachers in the above circumstances can vote only in one electoral district at a general election."

The same provision applies to male teachers, Mr. Castonguay said.

Ghandi Holds 24 Hours' Mediation Then Talks Democracy To Viceroy

NEW DELHI, Feb. 5 — (CP) — Emerging from his weekly 24 hours of silent meditation, the Indian Nationalist leader Mohandas K. Gandhi today proceeded to a 2½-hour conference with the Marquess of Linlithgow, Viceroy of India, regarding the Congress party's desire for dominion status for India.

After the conversation it was announced an official statement will be released tonight or tomorrow.

Gandhi's next consultation will be with M. A. Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, who is to see the Viceroy tomorrow. Gandhi and Jinnah, it was understood, will discuss points at issue between India's 217,000,000 Hindus and 69,000,00 Moslems.

Before starting his 24 hours of silence yesterday, Gandhi conferred with Sir Sikander Hyat Khan, Moslem premier of the Punjab, who had an interview with the Viceroy Saturday.

Governments controlled by the Congress party resigned in all provinces of India last December to protest Great Britain's decision not to grant Dominion status immediately.

The essence of Gandhi's argument is that Britain must extend to India the same democracy for which she is fighting on the western front. The British government, in reply, has avowed a determination to give India dominion status as rapidly as possible in view of defence and commercial problems, and the question of minorities, and the status of the states ruled by native princes.

The communique issued after the meeting between the Viceroy and Gandhi said:

"In response to an invitation from His Excellency, Mr. Gandhi today came to see the Viceroy. A prolonged and very friendly discussion took place during which the whole position was exhaustively examined.

"Mr. Gandhi made it clear from the outset of the conversation that he had no mandate from the Congress working committee and that he was not empowered to commit it in any way and that he would speak on behalf of himself only.

"His Excellency set out in some detail the intentions and proposals of His Majesty's government. He emphasized in the first place their earnest desire that India should attain Dominion status at the earliest possible moment and to facilitate achievement of that status by all means in their power.

"He drew attention to the complexity and difficulty of certain of the issues that called for disposal in that connection, in particular

On 55th Wedding Anniversary Day Murdered Couple Laid To Rest

(By Staff Reporter)

STIRLING, Ont., Feb. 5 — The largest crowd ever to attend a funeral in this district gathered here yesterday to pay last honour to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman of Rawdon township, whose lives were snuffed out Wednesday by a shotgun in the hands of a cowardly murderer.

So great was the crowd that the funeral, originally scheduled to be held from Duffin's Funeral Home, was transferred to the larger residence of Mr. Duffin. Despite that change, despite crowding of mourners and friends into every downstairs room in the large house and up the stairway, there were more people outside the home than inside. Several hundred waited outside and followed the funeral party to Rylestone cemetery, in Rawdon township near the Wellman home, where interment was made. So long was the line of cars to the cemetery that some drivers were more than an hour getting out again.

Buried in Double Grave

The aged couple were buried side by side in a double grave whose closest neighbor had been a neighbor of theirs, and a neighbor who likewise met a tragic death. He was Morley Murray, whose body was found in the ashes of his barn in 1928. He was believed to have been murdered—and still is by farmers of Rawdon township—but no one was ever convicted of the crime, if crime it was. His grave lies only a few feet from that of the Wellmans.

"I have lost a great friend in Mr. and Mrs. Wellman" said the minister, Rev. B. Beckel, of Rawdon United Church circuit, in a brief funeral message. And that seemed to be the common thought of those hundreds who stood with bared heads in last tribute to the murdered couple. For, passing among them, one heard only words of highest

MILITARY sources reported today a German attack on French advance lines in the wooded hills east of the Blies River had been repulsed with hand grenades.

These sources said the Germans were forced to retreat so quickly the French captured two prisoners.

German scouting patrols were reported active throughout the region, but fog and rain grounded aviation on both sides.

New 73,000-Pound Planes To Fly Atlantic As Service Is Resumed In Late Spring

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—(CP).—Imperial Airways' Trans-Atlantic service between Great Britain, Canada and the United States definitely will be resumed late this Spring, Neil Richardson, official of the operating department of Imperial Airways, said yesterday in an interview.

Mr. Richardson, who has been in New York making preliminary arrangements for the Trans-Atlantic service, said there has been no contraction of other services because of the war and Imperial Airways cover 120,000 miles of Empire routes weekly.

Plans have been made to resume service, carrying mail and later of passengers, from England to Canada and the United States via Eire and Newfoundland," he said. The aircraft which will be used are the new "G" class flying boats, weighing 73,000 pounds. They are about half as large again as the Cabot and Caribou, aircraft used last summer in the experimental mail and freight services."

While he is in Canada, Mr. Richardson will study airport snow removal problems in connection with experiments at the Newfoundland's airport at Botwood, used as an Imperial Airways' base.

Soviet Army Having Great Success Lifting Finn Yoke Says Moscow

MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—(AP).—An editorial in the newspaper "Red Army" said to-day there had been "great results in liberating the Finnish from the yoke of Mannerheim" —Field Marshal Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, commander of the Finnish armed forces.

The paper reported also thousands of letters have been received from Russian youths wishing to join the army before their regular period of compulsory service.

The army newspaper "Red Star" suggested that the Balkan Entent countries remain aloof from "British-French intrigues for expansion of the war." Rumania Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia should instead "join in the struggle for peace," the article said.

In another comment on current matters, the navy newspaper 'Red Fleet" depicted Japan in a "blind alley" in her war with China and declared she might take that desperate step of seizing British, French, or Netherlands colonial possessions in the South Pacific because of the need for raw materials.

Because of the war in Europe, the paper said, British and French interests now are inadequately guarded in the Pacific, and the United States is greatly increasing her defence measures there.

A bitter attack on the American, British and French press was made by the youth newspaper Comsomol Pravda, which said that "they are exceeding themselves in lying hypocrisy."

"The press of the incendiaries of war," said the newspaper, "are filled with reports of abject imaginations, mass lying and silly rumors. The so-called reliable newspapers are looking like cafe women. Their imaginations look like those of insane asylum inmates.

"The campaign of the American-British-French press is a widespread plot of the incendiaries of war."

A special Stockholm dispatch to the Communist party organ Prawda alleged today that many unemployed recruited in Sweden to fight for the "White Finns" had committed suicide upon reaching Finland and learning the circumstances under which they were fighting.

Woman Arrested With $225,000 Bogus Banknotes

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Feb. 5. —(CP).—Police said to-day that a check of counterfeit money seized last night after the arrest of Mrs. Nancy Hill of Ropyn, Que., showed a face value of approximately $225,000. Engraving plates also found were considered by police to be the work of experienced counterfeiters. Police added that the plates could be used for printing spurious United States $20 bills, Bank of Canada $50 bills and $10 bills of the Royal Bank of Canada.

She was arrested at Swastika last night after a train conductor on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad discovered bank notes on the floor.

The woman got off the Rouyn train at Swastika to await a Toronto train and had her heavy bag carried off the train. Instead of waiting for the Toronto train she boarded a motorbus for Kirkland Lake and was arrested when the bus arrived here, local police having been notified by the train conductor at Swastika.

Police claimed to have found a huge stack of false banknotes in the woman's suitcase and also a plate for manufacturing counterfeit bills hidden behind the seat that she had occupied in the bus.

Debt Reduction Benefits Up To Citizens

If citizens of Peterborough are going to get the full benefit from the reduction of capital debt they must assist the city council in keeping expenditures down by not unnecessarily demanding services, Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the City Trust Commission told the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today in giving a history of the commission.

Mr. Eastwood in his address informed his audience that in the 79 years of the commission's existence it had never had a loss or default in its investments.

Three of the other four members of the present City Trust, E. A. Peck, K.C., Rotarian George A. Gillespie and A. A. McIntyre were present and Mayor Hamilton was also among the guests.

Introduced by Rotarian Gillespie, Mr. Eastwood told of how the commission came into being in 1881 by reason of the burden of debt in which the then town of Peterborough found itself. This debt, he explained, had been largely set up because Peterborough in 1857, with an assessment of 59,000 borrowed $120,000, with the consent of the Legislature of Upper Canada, to subscribe stock in the Port Hope, Peterborough and Beaverton Railway. Next year $50,000 more stock had been subscribed but the railway eventually defaulted and finally an agreement was reached by which the town took a mortgage of $78,000 which was to be paid off at the rate of $1,200 with interest at 6 per cent. This mortage had finally been paid in full, Mr. Eastwood stated and the proceeds were represented in the present rest room on the market square.

Situation Acute

The financial situation of Peterborough at that time he said became so acute that on May 18, 1861,

$400,000 Deficit Expected From Hepburn

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—(CP).—Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature are to have complete freedom in regard to their section in the Federal election campaign. They will not be restricted in their support of Federal Liberal candidates by the action of Premier Mitchell Hepburn in leading the Legislature in condemnation of Federal policies.

What the Premier will do is an open question. It is doubtful if he has made up his mind. It is known he will not support a Liberal party led by Premier Mackenzie King. Two other courses are open to him. He may refrain from participating in the campaign. He may support Conservative Leader R. J. Manion in his National government proposals.

Over the week-end the Premier's time was given to considering his budget address—scheduled to be delivered Thursday. The Premier will not have his estimated $150,000 surplus on the current fiscal year which will end March 31, but instead will report a deficit between $400,000 and $500,000, it is reported.

Talk at Queen's Park has it that no new taxes are to be proposed in the budget. An unusual action last week was the introduction of a bill to increase the tax on corporation net incomes. Such revenue raising measures are usually announced in the budget, and the bills come later. The Premier reversed this procedure.

It is stated that the idea of re-imposing a provincial amusement tax has been abandoned.

End of the Legislature session is in sight for the end of February. The members so desiring will then be free to take part in the Federal campaign.

ROME, Feb. 5.—(CP-Havas)—Currency problems are hampering current negotiations for Italian purchases of Rumanian petroleum, it was disclosed tonight.

The Rumanian National Bank recently increased to 35 per cent the tax on foreign exchange operations, with the result that all Italian purchases in Rumania have been hampered, Fascist spokesmen said.

"But the last word has not yet been spoken," the Giornale D'Italia commented. "We must hope that the negotiations started with Bucharest will lead quickly to an agreement satisfactory to both parties."

Wood Truck Is Damaged By Fire Near Lakefield

Shortly after a wood truck owned by Arthur Lee had been involved in an accident near Burleigh Falls, Saturday morning, with an automobile owned by Gordon K. Fraser, the truckcaught fire a short distance short of Lakefield and was badly damaged.

Lee had to jump from the blazing cab to escape the flames. The first accident happened as the Fraser car driven by Theodore Wilson was coming out on the Burleigh Falls-Apsley Highway. Lee's truck, coming from the north met in collision with the other automobile and both vehicles were damaged.

Wilson sustained injuries to his back in the crash, and Mr. Fraser's son a bump over his eye.

After the crash Lee resumed his journey toward Peterborough and had just left Lakefield when suddenly flames burst through the floor of the cab. The driver jumped in time to prevent his clothing from catching fire. The front end of the truck was badly damaged before the blaze was extinguished by Lakefield Fire Brigade.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5 — (CP). — Absence of selling pressure, together with light buying attributed to export interests and a firm display at Chicago, held wheat future prices well above the previous close on Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Quotations ended, the quiet session ⅝ to ⅞ cent higher, May at 84⅝, July 85½ and October 86½ cents.

Cash wheat operations were confined to minor purchases by mills in No. 2 Garnet and No. 4 Northern. In the coarse grain pit milling interests bought some oats while exporters took a little barley.

Passengers See Sub Sunk

HALIFAX, Feb. 5 (CP)—Passengers aboard a British liner which docked at Halifax told today of how a Nazi submarine which was preparing to attack their ship was driven off, possibly damaged, by Royal Air Force bombers.

One of the passengers was Rosita Forbes, lecturer and writer, who will tour Canada under the auspices of the national council of education.

The liner, originally scheduled to sail January 12, was delayed a day because of reports mines had been sown outside the harbor. When she did get away, she crashed into a reef in shallow water and examination revealed damage that made it necessary to return to port.

Escorted by four armed trawlers, she was on her way back when the submarine appeared. Passengers summoned on deck by a siren could see the German underseas boat manoeuvring to get into position to for her torpedoes.

Suddenly two R.A.F. Bombers appeared from nowhere and dived at the sub. Their bombs churned the water, then, the onlookers reported, the sub seemed to lurch and disappeared.

The Mutual Life Assurance Company Of Canada 70th Annual Meeting

Another Year of Progress Reported by President and General Manager

Mr. R. O. McCulloch, President of The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada, in addressing the seventieth annual meeting of policyholders held at the Head Office of the Company in Waterloo on Thursday, February 1st, recalled that the Company was founded during the years when on a previous occasion the peace of Europe was disrupted in 1870-1871 by the effort of the German war machine under the leadership of Bismarck to dominate by force of arms.

Steady Growth

Mr. McCulloch remarked: "In our own Dominion of Canada we were in 1870 a country of three and one-half million people. It was not until some sixteen years later that our Eastern and Western frontiers were bound together by a transcontinental railway. Today our population has grown to over eleven million and we are fortunate in the possession of a diversified economy in which agriculture, mining and manufacturing constitute important parts developed and rendered prosperous by the most important element of all, the industrious and sterling character of our people. The growth of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada has kept pace with that of the Dominion. From the nucleus of 500 policyholders whose signatures were a necessary condition of the granting of a charter by the Legislature, there has evolved an Association of over 165,000 Canadian citizens in all walks of life. The assets of our Company for the year which has recently closed total $187,636,589 compared with $6,216 in 1871 and $24,642,314 twenty-five years ago. Insurance in force now stands at $572,110,000 contrasted with $94,477,360 in 1914."

Sacrifice Needed

The need for sacrifices and economy in government was pointed out when it was stated "Sacrifices for the efficient prosecution of the war must be made by all and I am sure will cheerfully be made, but this should not be a pretext or occasion for diverting the proceeds of such sacrifices to other undertakings of less than national scope, and the willingness to make such sacrifices will inevitably be chilled if the Government does not exhibit a determination to avoid waste and improvidence and, in its turn, to sacrifice all party and personal considerations to the energetic conduct of the war."

Policyholders Serve Their Country

Attention was called by Mr. McCulloch to the important part played in our national economy by holders of life insurance policies. "In Canada where so many of our citizens have been able to earn comfortable incomes long before they can save estate sufficient to support and preserve the independence of their families, life insurance policies providing for this in case of the unfortunate but inevitable event when the support of the earner of the income on which they rely is lost, a life insurance policy should be the most cherished possession of every head or prospective head of a family, and it should not be forgotten that this has an additional value in time of war owing to the many additional and unusual risks apart from those incurred in actual military operations. The morality losses of all the Insurance Companies increased materially during the Great War.

"Every effort should therefore be made to maintain in force, especially those policies which ante-date the commencement of hostilities. The coverage which they afford cannot be replaced today except at a higher premium to the insured. Therefore, I say to you hold on to them at all costs.

"During these days a policyholder has the satisfaction of knowing that he is not only protecting his dependents but also rendering service to the Empire: He provides for the care of his dependents, and thereby lessens the demands on the public treasury in cases where this burden would fall wholly or in part on the country. Then each premium he pays has a two-fold effect in alleviating the problem facing the Nation. His other expenses are proportionately curtailed enabling more of our productive powers to be devoted to the prosecution of the conflict, and in addition the premiums that are paid will, in part, be invested in loans to assist the Government in financing its expenditures. It has been said, and rightly so, that Insurance Companies are regarded as the great and primary source of long term money."

Optimism For The Future

In closing his remarks Mr. McCulloch sounded an optimistic note by saying "Though Government debt has in the past increased from time to time to amounts which have staggered many thoughtful citizens, particularly in times of stress and depression, I think too little emphasis has been laid on the concomitant increase in the development of the national resources and the increased financial resources of the people. This has been repeatedly illustrated in Great Britain throughout the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries as well as earlier. Debts which seemed enormous during the Napoleonic Wars look small today. Notwithstanding the difficulty, Canada was able through a terrific depression to carry the large debt which was incurred during and since the Great War, and I am sure that the development of our resources is by no means at an end.

"It is moreover most unlikely that Canadian Life Insurance policyholders have to fear that the Government will pursue under any circumstances a policy of uncontrolled inflation or debt repudiation. Our representatives may therefore continue to make known the virtues of life insurance with the sure knowledge that they are rendering a service not only to their fellow-citizens but also to their country."

Mr. W. H. Somerville, General Manager, traced in detail the changes that occurred during 1939 in the more important items of the Profit and Loss Account and Balance Sheet of the Company.

Among the salient features commented upon by Mr. Somerville were: Satisfactory Surplus Earnings of $4,765,187, an increase of $109,000 over 1938, which enabled the General Investment Reserve and Free Surplus for Contingencies to be increased by $1,044,589 to $8,817,426, after returning and allotting to policy holders dividends amounting to $3,360,634.

Mortality experience was again favorable, and a decrease in expenses of operation was reported. All assurance and annuity reserves were placed on a 3% basis, and thus in the future interest earnings of 3% will suffice to maintain these liabilities at their required levels.

Mr. Somerville explained the manner in which the $187,636,589 of assets of the Company were invested. Mortgage loans at $35,961,875 increased for the first time since 1932. New advances were made of $2,538,791, of which $1,582,560 were under the National Housing Act.

Of the increase in Assets of $8,659,366 during the year, additions to the bond portfolio accounted for $7,585,003. Dominion and Provincial obligations constituted 42% of new purchases, and first mortage bonds of Public Utility companies 30%.

The rate of interest earned on invested assets in 1939, 4.67%, was practically at the same level as in the preceding year.

The volume of new insurance issued was $45,527,051, excluding annuities, resulting in a gain in total Assurances in Force of $13,000,000 to a total of $572,110,531. In addition, Annuity Contracts in force provide for future annual payments of $2,599,555.

Debt Reductions

the sum of $100,000 was borrowed with the consent of the Legislature and a commission of five citizens, appointed for life to set up to make arrangements for the paying off of the city's indebtedness.

"That was the genesis of the present city trust," said the speaker. "There have been two revisions in it since but in the main it has carried on as originally founded."

The Original Trust

The original trust was composed of Charles Bradfield, chairman, Samuel Dickson, James Stevenson, Edward Chamberlen and William Hall.

In the 79 years of the commission's existence, Mr. Eastwood said, there had only been 28 members appointed. Of the older commissioners James Stevenson had been a member for 49 years, and Richard Hall for 38 years. The speaker himself had served for 31 years, E. A. Peck for 26 years, G. A. Gillespie since 1921 and A. A. McIntyre and W. R. Morris since shortly after that time. Col. Arthur Stevenson had been secretary for 40 years, he stated.

Mr. Eastwood pointed out that members of the commission were and always had been trustees pure and simple. Their duties and responsibilities were laid down in the Municipal Act and they might do certain things. Their chief duty was the investment of the funds levied from year to year for the payment of interest and maturity of the debts of the city.

These moneys, he said, had been invested most carefully and as a result there was a reserve of $2,000,000 invested in Dominion provincial bonds and city of Peterborough debentures.

The speaker pointed out that there had been a period in which profits in all municipalities having sinking funds had grown considerably. In those places where the sinking funds were not in the hands of separate commissions there had been encroachments made upon the funds.

A Change In Picture

Later there had come a change in the picture as the value of investments fell off. In Peterborough for some years instead of the 4 per cent anticipated the returns were only 3¼ per cent.

"In view of the substantial reserves we have set up we have no fear of our position" said Mr. Eastwood, who pointed out that there would be another reduction of $500,000 in the city's debt this year, making a reduction of $1,000,000 in the last six years.

Referring to the change in the statutes made last year Mr. Eastwood pointed out that it was provided that city trusts should levy for debts falling due this year or next. This change which had to have the consent of the Municipal Board did not interfere at all with the surplus.

Pointing out that city councils had a difficult task keeping the tax rate down because of the demand for more mechanical equipment that had arisen in recent years, Mr. Eastwood warned the citizens that they must not make too many demands for expenditures if they wanted to get the full benefit of debt reduction.

Rotarian Ald. Fred Roy in moving a vote of thanks advised Mr. Eastwood to keep a tight hold on a "good chunk" of that reserve.

Rotarian H. L. Garner called attention to the splendid appearance of the new edition of the Rotarian magazine and suggested that the club officially acknowledge the improvement that had been made.

BEACH DECORATIONS

By ALICE ALDEN

THE CUSTOM of taking the sun along with the water has resulted in picturesque beach get-ups. Gone the black bloomer suit, enter the sequin. Midriffs are exposed, throats covered with necklaces. Ankles and wrists are laden with bracelets, finger and toe-nails lacquered in keeping. Some of the newest native jewelry is pictured today, Muchacha seeds tipped with chili beads, an idea an American designer picked up from Bali. Most effective, perhaps, with a native sun dress, the set is also suggested for Palm Beach prints or home town prints, depending on location. Sea horse clips and earrings and all manner of shells are other decorative bits on the market. Better do some collecting now with summer in mind.

If Young Brides Learn the Things That Irritate Their Husbands, Don't Talk Too Much, Defer to Their Wishes and Don't Make Fun of Them, They Will Escape the Divorce Court

If I were giving advice to a bride I should say: Use diplomacy in handling of your husband. As soon as you get a close-up of the man you have married, sit down and study his little peculiarities and put up a Keep-Off-the-Grass sign on all of his little prejudices.

Don't do the things that irritate him. Don't drag into the conversation the subjects that you know beforehand are as good for a family row as a nickel is for ginger cake. Never make an unpleasant communication to a tired and hungry man or ask him for money. Wait until he is rested and fed and is in a soothed and complacent humor.

Whether he raises ructions over your mother coming to pay a nice long visit or extends her a hearty welcome, or whether you get the new car, depends upon the subtlety with which you choose the time and the place and the mood in making your communication.

Don't make jokes at your husband's expense and hold him up to ridicule. A man may forgive his wife many things, but not for making him a figure of fun. Don't boss your husband publicly. Defer to him before other people, no matter how much you henpeck him at home.

When you want anything, plant the seed of suggestion in your husbands mind. Let him think he thought of it first, and after many days you shall come back and sit in the shade of the tree of your desire. Use as much tact in dealing with your husband as you would in handling an employer if you had a good job and you will never find yourself in the divorce court.

Don't talk too much. There are foolish wives who believe that they should tell their husbands everything they do and think, and they think they think. This is a mistake. Don't tell your husband the things that would worry him unless it is absolutely necessary that he should know them.

Don't spoil his evening at home by telling him of the naughty things that the children have done and that you have promised Mary that father would give her a good scolding and tell Jimmie that father would whip him. Use your own brains and settle your own problems or you go alone.

Don't tell your husband about all the little tiffs with your family. Long after you have forgotten what you got mad with them about you will be surprised to find out that he doesn't like your people and resents the way they treated you. Don't be forever telling him that mother said you should do this and mother said you should do that. The reason that most men hate their mothers-in-law is because their wives have always thrown mother in their teeth.

And don't tell your husband of your mistakes. When you get stung on the bargain counter tuck it away on the back shelf and say nothing about it. Throw your pan of heavy biscuits into the garbage can and be mum on the subject, but when you effect a brilliant saving and your biscuits are as light as thistledown, blow your own trumpet.

Most husbands take their wives at their own valuation, and when they boast of what prizes they have won in the matrimonial lottery it is because the woman has had sense enough to boom her own stock.

And, finally, daughter, ask your husband's advice. You don't have to take it unless you want to, but it pleases him and doesn't hurt you, and it makes for peace.

Which One Loves Children Better?

DEAR MISS DIX—Which do you think loves a child the best, the mother or the father? My wife claims that her love for our child is greater than mine because she stays at home and cares for it all day. But I say mine is as great as hers because I toil all day to support it. What do you think?

GEORGE K.

ANSWER:

You can't settle a question like this except by considering the individual case. There are some men who are all father, in whom the paternal passion is developed to a high degree, just as there are some women who are all mother. On the other hand, there are both men and women who seem to have as little affection for their children as cats have for their offspring. Not every woman who bears a child has the real mother heart, and many a father is so indifferent to his children that he never even takes the trouble to get acquainted with them.

But a man proves his devotion for his children by toiling for them just as much as a mother does by caring for their bodily wants. And the sacrifices a father makes to educate and clothe his children and give them advantages are just as great and heroic as the sacrifices made by mothers. Lucky is the child like yours who has a father and mother so devoted to it that they quarrel over which one loves it best!

On Account Of Oil

If there were not so many oil wells in Rumania that little nation might be more comfortable today. but Rumania is a producer of oil and Germany wants oil; right now Germany is decidedly short on oil.

British and French capital control much of the oil property in Rumania. In the last war the Allies requested Rumania to destroy producing properties when the country was overrun by the armies of the Kaiser, and that was actually done—1,047 producing wells were put out of business. When the war was over the Allies compensated Rumania for the destruction.

Germany has imported oil from Rumania in the regular way, the Danube being the artery used, but the Danube has been frozen, and there is another complication. Just this: The Danube tanker fleet has been bought up by British money and tied up for the duration of the war.

Britain has asked Rumania plainly what the intention of the country is. The Allies are ready to assist Rumania in case of attack, but Rumania owing to its position is dangerously open to attack. On the east there is the Black Sea; north there is Russia and the section of Poland now controlled by Germany and Russia. Not a happy situation particularly when the country has oil and so many nations want that oil.

Rumania is in a tight spot looking for a protector. She can do business with the Germans and hope that in this way she may be protected from an invasion by Russia, but by doing that she breaks faith with the Allies, and Rumania knows too that the Allies might find it difficult enough to respond were it necessary to call on them for assistance.

Rumania's position is none too safe at any time, and it is actually precarious today because of the oil wells.

Cooler Heads Needed

"We have got to get the money," was the claim made when Hon. Gordon Conant was taking the Death Duties Act of this province through its various readings in the Legislature. There were in all 27 amendments put in the way but they were all knocked down. The desire of the Government is to have an Act which will enable it to go into the affairs of old estates where there is reason to believe there has been a dodging of proper death duties or inheritance tax.

Reading reports of the discussion one comes readily to the conclusion that the debating was bitter, and at other times it was evident that the measure was making progress because the Government had sufficient majority to vote down all opposition.

It may be that a thoroughly workable piece of legislation can come from such surroundings, but we are moved to doubt it. We do hope all our laws were not turned upon the anvil when there was so much heat in the room. One does not like to think of the attention of legislators being divided between repartee, a red-hot come-back to an opposing member, and calm consideration of a fine point of law which is going to affect enormously the lives and possessions of a good many people. We prefer to think of the best judicial minds we have in the country passing on such a measure, and we care not whether these minds are in the Legislature or outside of it. Certain it is a collection of frayed tempers cannot possibly produce the kind of legislation—which in turn becomes law—that this province desires.

Placing The Blame

Some weeks ago a youth of 19 years decided to leave home in Toronto. He was not moving out of the city but desired to live elsewhere. So he got a room and also got into trouble within a week, and the trouble was so serious that he died. He had been hit by a bullet when trying to escape from police after a robbery. His mother explained that "he wanted to go his own way." And he had.

The policeman who fired the shot was exonerated by a coroner's jury; it was called accidental because the youth had stumbled just as the shot was fired, and instead of being hit in the legs was shot in the head.

The Ottawa Journal does not come to any fixed decision when commenting on this case, but is moved to remark that:

"For all the police could know here was a scared youngster engaged in his first crime, and death hardly was a fitting punishment. But these things will occur as long as police carry revolvers and are instructed to use them in emergencies."

At times the Examiner has followed that old custom of clipping out reports showing where guns have been used by criminals. It is necessary to do it for only a few days before the collection of clippings grows to sufficient size to make use of them. And the use is to show to what an extent people are roaming about this country with pug-nosed automatics and other kinds of revolvers. And they are loaded and ready for action. What's more they are brought into use just as soon as the criminal finds himself in danger.

So that is the situation with which police have to deal when an armed robbery has been reported. In the case at Toronto the police cars were informed of that robbery; they knew a weapon had been used; they would probably be safe in believing that in all such cases the people they go to chase or seek are armed. So it is that business of armed robbers being abroad in the land which has forced the issue. We could not well ask policemen to go unarmed while those they seek are armed. And our spineless system of dealing with the matter has allowed the criminally-minded class to keep on carrying weapons. They apparently have no fear their rooms or their persons are going to be searched. Once they have a revolver they find it easy enough under existing laws to secure all the shells they need to stuff into the thing.

If one looks for tragedy that Toronto case supplies it. A young fellow of 19 leaving home, sitting in and planning an armed robbery, taking part in it, driving for freedom afterward and dying in a hospital from the bullet of a police gun. And all inside of a week. But when those who have been taking part in an armed robbery emerge from a car when cornered by police it is apt to be a question of which party is going to shoot first. If we desire to go back honestly to the root of the whole business it must be admitted that our soft and wishy-washy attitude toward the carrying of firearms is to blame

An Amazing Secret

The German Freeman station is nothing new in the world of radio broadcasting, but it remains the world's greatest puzzle. It is anti-Nazi, and right now is doing a good turn for the Allies. It must of course be located some place, but where? The Gestapo miss little in Germany but that particular air station has not been found.

At times there are reports it is in Switzerland, Denmark, Spain, Luxemberg, Iceland. The Gestapo have searched cars on German roads, held up and inspected moving vans; they have looked through barges, but never have they found the German Freeman station.

There have been many efforts made by powerful German stations to crowd it out by working on its wave length at the same time, but the crowding out does not last long, because this mystery station is flexible enough to turn to another length and keep on going.

It is against the law to listen to it in Germany, but something happened to indicate to what extent the station is heard. It was in September of 1938 at the time of the Munich crisis that a warning was sent out to the German people that inflation was certain to come and it would be advisable for them to get their money out of the banks. There was such a crush at the banks that an order was slapped on at once limiting the extent of withdrawals to 30 marks daily.

If Hitler and his Gestapo (secret police) could lay hands on the station and the people operating it there would be a sudden end, but for four years it has been operating. It is a sore spot with the bigwigs in Germany because the Freeman station gives reports dealing with the private lives of German leaders; it mentions the names of Gestapo agents who are posing as anti-Nazi workers and warns people to be on the lookout for them.

How the secret has been guarded so long and so well we have not the remotest idea, but it has the Nazi people worried to no end.

The Council Should Decide

Peterborough Council's Finance Committee meeting had before it something which looked like a general ruling from the Ontario Municipal Board. It had to do with the way in which local improvements would be started. There are three methods (1) by petition of the property owners, (2) by Council giving notice that the work is to be done, or (3) by Council advertising notice of the work and allowing those who object to take the matter up with the Municipal Board.

The Municipal Board prefers to have such work initiated by petition only. That refers to the laying of sidewalks, roads, gutters, curbs, etc., where the work becomes a charge against the property affected on a frontage basis.

The experience of a good many municipalities is that if there was a policy of waiting for residents to send in petitions asking that such work be started there would be a long spell of waiting. People in many homes would prefer to let things stand as they are rather than have something better for which they would have to pay. If the initiative were not taken by the city there are a good many streets which never would be improved. It cannot be urged that such work can be forced on any part of the community against the wishes of a majority of the property owners, but it has been found necessary often enough to have the municipal body make the start and indicate its desire to have the work under way.

The Municipal Board wants such work done only on petition of the ratepayers affected by the frontage charges, although the other methods are recognized and approved by the Municipal Act. The Toronto finger is placed upon one method and no other, and if that is to be the only method of doing business what is the use of the other methods continuing to be recognized by the Municipal Act?

As a rule the Examiner is ready to agree that the Municipal Board has been a useful piece of equipment. It has cleaned house financially for a number of Ontario municipalities which were in deep water and in default, and it has adopted policies which local Councils were apparently afraid to tackle on their own initiative. But this business of virtually deciding the method of getting local improvements under way hardly comes in that class. It looks quite too much like making a decision which should be left in the hands of the City Council. The method used here has been legal throughout, and if it is changed then the city may face a situation where local improvements will be a long time getting under way.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Toronto Telegram took time out to remark that Syl Apps, the hockey star, had tossed his hat into the political rink.

Our mint at Ottawa turned out 21 million coppers during 1939. The score runs up much faster when they pull the level which starts the half-dollar machine running.

The recent heavy frosts have sent the price of grapefruit up from $10 to $25 per ton in some southern states. But what's the use of the higher price if all your grapefruit were frozen.

Toronto man was arrested the night after he was married and sent to prison for four years. He was picked up in Ottawa and that seems to be a famous place for getting into trouble at present.

Since the beginning of the war and up to January 24, 7,300 Allied or neutral ships had been handled by the convoy system and but 15 of that number had been lost. And that actually works out to be about one-fifth of one per cent.

We read of a youth who took a car from outside a church during the evening service, intending to ride a while and get it back in time. The young fellow was caught because the minister preached a short sermon.

Karl Homuth, M.P., told a gathering in Galt that Mr. King dissolved parliament because he feared to "face the barrage of opposition." So? But is he not going to face the electors on March 26?

Leopold Macauley, M.L.A., himself a lawyer, said in the Legislature that the Bar Association had been asleep in recent times. And no doubt a number of people who get into trouble wish that members who attend to prosecution would continue that way.

CASH

¶ Luke's little corner grocery store, is not doing business any more, it saddened me to see; he was so deeply in the red, he couldn't well go on ahead, and so he turned the key.

¶ I saw him there the other day, just putting of some things away, and he looked rather down; there was a time when things weren't bad, and he was sure enough he had, the choicest spot in town.

¶ Luke's too good natured through and through, there's nothing that he wouldn't do, for some one in distress; folk told him all about their ills, and then began to run up bills, the rest perhaps you guess.

¶ Luke said he took them at their word, believed most everything he heard, of pay-days just ahead; he couldn't cut them off right there, a trick like that would not be fair, kids needed meat and bread.

¶ So Luke kept piling up accounts, that ran to mighty big amounts, some thousands on his books; he said he knew two months ago, that he was going to lose the show, he didn't like the looks.

¶ Luke said that all the stuff he got, it called for cash when it was bought, that's where the jolt came in; more cash going out than what returned, that's how his business bridge was burned—for they closed down on him.

Germany Lacks Sufficient Oil For Air Fleet

WHY HAVE the Germans been so cautious? It is certainly not from any merciful intent. Look at what Germany did in its drive on Poland. Warsaw was bombed as cruelly as Nanking and Barcelona. Waves of airplanes by the thousands swept over Polish towns and cities with the deliberate aim of breaking the morale of the Polish people and of destroying the support behind the lines for the Polish army. If Germany felt the same policy could be carried out successfully by similar attacks on Britain and France there would be no holding back. There are probably three main reasons why Germany has restrained her hand:

First, and perhaps most important, Germany, there is good reason to believe, is faced with a shortage of oil. At the present time she is making a desperate effort to increase her supply from Rumania. The Polish campaign used up a large part of her surplus suply. A thousand planes traveling from Germany to Britain and back would take enormous quantities of oil which Germany could ill spare. One raid alone might deplete her oil surplus. Experts estimate that if the Germans ever attempted raids on Britain the escorting new two-motor Messerschmitt fighters will each use more than 300 gallons for the trip and the bombers an even larger amount. A fleet of 6,000 planes flown only an average of two hours a day, says A. R. Ford in London Free Press, will eat up 1,000,000 tons of fuel a year. Then there is in addition the vast mechanized army.

Is it any wonder that Germany is using every effort to increase her supply from Rumania and that the Allies on the other hand are exerting pressure to prevent an increase in shipments from that country? Last December a German economic mission in Bucharest concluded a treaty by which Rumania agreed to ship the Reich 130,000 tons of oil each month—a considerable boost from the 1938 average of 100,000 tons a month.

ON THE other hand 80 per cent of Rumania's annual oil production of 6,600,000 tons is controlled by foreign countries, principally French and British. Of a total of 1,755 wells, according to Newsweek Magazine, the British own 782, producing 32,450,000 barrels a year. The French own 220 wells yielding 18,350,000 barrels. A subsidiary of Standard Oil comes next with 98 wells and an annual production of 6,385,000 barrels. Italy comes last with 49 wells and a yield of 2,950,000 barrels. With this setup actual Rumanian companies can only supply 80,000 tons a month of the 130,000 tons the Government has guaranteed the Reich. Naturally the Allies object to oil owned by British and French companies being shipped to Germany.

The war in our opinion today is at a very critical stage. It is doubtful if Germany is short of most of her economic needs. But she is short of oil and if she cannot secure oil then the war may collapse earlier than anyone anticipates. The estimated peace-time consumption of the Reich was between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 tons in 1938. Of this German wells produced only 730,000 tons. Synthetic benzol amounted to 540,000 tons and oil extracted from coal totaled, it is claimed, 1,800,000 tons. This left Germany with a peace-time shortage of almost 4,000,000 tons. The Reich's needs in war time, experts figure, might rise to 12,000,000 tons a year. The Allied blockade has cut off 87 per cent of Germany's petroleum imports. Hence Germany's vigorous efforts to secure Rumanian products. If she can fill her wants from Rumania then the war might continue indefinitely and the raids on Britain and France might start. But if the Allies can cut her off from Rumania then her capacity for waging war is reduced enormously. The diplomatic battle in Rumania is for great stakes and may ultimately drag that unfortunate country into the struggle.

KING CAROL is on the spot. His natural sympathies are with the Allies. Rumania in the last war fought against Germany. Britain and France have guaranteed to protect Rumania if she is attacked, but to defend her is difficult. Rumania is surrounded by enemies. Rumania, like all the Balkans, is desperately anxious to remain neutral.

Now for the second reason why the Germans have not attacked Britain and France. The Germans are slow to understand the psychology of the democracies, but they are not so dumb as not to realize that nothing would so speedily drive the United States into the war as the bombarding of London and Paris. Americans have visited these two cities by the tens of thousands. They regard these two great cities, and properly, as the cultural homes of Western civilization. News some morning that Westminster Abbey or the Parliament Buildings or the Louvre and Notre Dame had been shattered by bombs would so shock American people that neutrality and isolation might be forgotten over night.

Thirdly there is the danger of reprisals. Both Britain and France have warned Germany that immediately she starts war on the undefended cities of the Allies there will be retaliation in kind. German morale in any case is none too strong and if Berlin, Munich, Cologne and the cities of Germany are bombed the Germans will know that this war is real. It would bring the war home to Germany. If Hitler becomes desperate he will scare a lot of neutrals but it will be as a last resort. It would be the last fatal throw of a cornered dictator.

LEAVE THE DOOR OPEN

"I'm glad I've seen you, Sarge, because if I'm late back you'll know I'm okay, so don't wait up for me, will you?"

—Humorist.

• "Staying In After Four"

DR. SIMPSON, who is Minister of Education for Ontario, has said that in his opinion "teachers should never keep boys and girls in after school." He would limit their instruction to the fixed hours of regular classes because after school "they need sunshine and fresh air to develop healthy minds and bodies."

This is a lovely theory, but what is the unfortunate teacher to do with inattentive and lazy students? Corporal punishment, notes the Ottawa Journal, is not in favor any more with educational authorities. Home work is an accepted part of the school routine, but often observed more in the rule than its observance. Teachers, we may be sure, are not keen about after-school classes, but a half-hour of intensive work under close supervision, with the element of punishment attached, in some measure may atone for a student's neglect.

The school routine is not very arduous—a matter of about five hours of classes for five days in about 40 weeks of the year. It is not calculated to impair the health and strength of the average husky boy or girl beyond the infancy classes, and we imagine they can be "kept in," if necessary for their own good, without impairment of those priceless assets. Teachers, moreover, must have some means of enforcing discipline—the teacher must be something more than merely first among equals.

• The Germans Do Not Know Us

THE SAD TRUTH is that we do not understand the German people, nor do they understand us. It is doubtful whether they understand themselves. This is not a matter of language. It goes far deeper than forms of speech. It may be a matter of temperament, upbringing and outlook. Whatever it is, we are now faced with a militant "German people" in the form of Hitler's system and armies. They are the concrete expression of "Hitlerism," the embodiment of its doctrine.

As regards its spirit Hermann Goering is no mean authority. In the spring of 1933, soon after Hitler had come to power, Goering answered certain criticisms by saying: "As for me, I am subjective; I commit myself to my people and acknowledge nothing else on earth. I thank my Maker for having created me without what they call a 'sense of objectivity.' It would be be difficult to express the essence of Hitlerism more succinctly. It is tribal egoism in the fullest sense.

To Goering's statement may be compared that of Dr. Frank, the Nazi Minister of Justice, two and a half years later: "We are under the great obligation of recognising as a holy work of our Folk-spirit the laws signed with Adolf Hitler's name. Hitler has received his authority from God. Therefore he is a champion, sent by God, for German Right in the world."

We need to recognize that German "Right," thus conceived, stands in absolute and conscious antagonism to Western liberal civilization, and inspires a creed of unbridled power and territorial expansion. What is more: since 1933 this creed has been instilled into the German people by Hitler and his associates; while since 1933 "the German people" have been allowed to hear and to read little else.—Wickham Steed, in the Contemporary Review.

URANIUM

If science could capture the atomic energy of uranium, the tanks containing 6,300 tons of fuel oil required to propel the Queen Mary for one trip across the Atlantic could be ripped out and eight pounds of uranium would do the trick instead.

I am told the total cavalry strength of the British Expeditionary Force is at present three steeds. One is ridden, on occasion, by the Commander-in-Chief. Who bestride the other two I am not sure. BRITAIN'S OTHER WARS

ANNOUNCEMENT of awards for gallantry in action in India and in Palestine showa that the British soldiers in France are not the only ones to see action.

The Military Cross was awarded to a Captain of the Royal Tank Regiment, the Distinguished Conduct Medal to a private in the Royal Scots Fusiliers, the Military Medal to a sergeant of the Black Watch, a signalman of the Royal Corps of Signals and a private of the Highland Light Infantry; the citations speak of brushes "with the enemy" in Palestine on September 12, 18 and 20, of men fired on "by rebels."

The Commander-in-Chief in India awarded the Military Cross to a Captain of the Eighth Gurkha Rifles and the Indian Distinguished Service Medal to a private in the same regiment. Both citations were for gallantry in action on the North-West Frontier during fighting which took place on November 14 in the vicinity of Gaj Ridge, near Razmak. The fighting on this occasion was apparently more than a skirmish, since a battalion of the Leicestershire Regiment required re-enforcement and one of the company commanders of the Gurkha regiment was a casualty. The enemy in this action was not identified.—New York Sun.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And Jesus departed from thence, and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there. And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them: insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel.—Matt. xv, 29-31.

Bishop Daniels Of Montana Visitor To City

The services in St. George's Anglican Church were of a special significance on Sunday. First with the visit of the Rt. Rev. H. H. Daniels, Bishop of the Diocese of Montana, U.S.A., and uncle of the rector, Rev. T. H. Floyd; secondly, the presentation after the morning service of an A.Y.P.A. ring to Pte. Bernard King of the Oshawa Tank Regiment, Oshawa, Ont.

With the opening of the Sunday School at ten o'clock, the Bishop addressed the children, reminding them of the important part they represented in the church. Following this was the eleven o'clock service, the Holy Communion service, fully choral and most impressive. The rector was the celebant assisted by the Bishop.

For his text in the sermon, the speaker quoted part of the forty-second Psalm, "'My God, my soul is vexed within me'; it is hoped you might find in this Psalm something of courage. It is not my intention to speak to you of war. With the newspapers, radios, etc., I feel this is not at all necessary but rather dwell on this Psalm. We go to the Book of Psalms, which so humanly expresses our feelings, moods of depression, exaltation."

In closing Bishop Daniels said: "We take a look at the man who wrote this. He is a good man. The good man is suffering and having a lot of trouble. He is the kind of man who has gone to the temple in Jerusalem. I here suggest you use your church and Bible as a means of bringing you closer to God, and I ask each one of you to read with me this Psalm from which my text was taken."

Presentation Made.

After this service was concluded, members of the A.Y.P.A. and friends gathered in the church basement to honor Pte. Bernard King and also to present the A.Y.P.A. ring to him. Miss Beatrice Curtis, president, read the address, and then Bishop Daniels in a few remarks presented the gift and saying he felt it a great honor to be able to take part in such a noble presentation. He gave Bernard his own personal blessing and the spiritual blessing of the church.

Pte. King thanked the A.Y.P.A. for such a lovely gift, and said it would always carry a remembrance of his associates of St. George's Church.

The eveing service was very well attended. Bishop Daniels chose as his text the 28th chapter of the 1st Book of Chronicles, "Take heed now for the Lord hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary."

"It is very nice to see people at their best moments, to see what they do and how they act, but what is beneath this outward appearance, a better self which emerges itself once in a while.

"In the city of Jerusalem, while David was speaking, all kinds of people said, 'What is David going to do in his old age? Is he going to build?' No. David believed in the future of the church. He knew he could keep his a great nation."

This eloquent speaker in his closing sermon told the congregation of the Diocese of Montana. Montana borders on Alberta and British Columbia. It is the third largest state in the Union. I know what drought is, to have everything burned up, the grasshopper pest, the Mormon crickets which are the most destructable. He told of the Canadian West and especially mentioned the Sunday School van and of the men and women who travel the West by van. It is a wonderful way to serve God. The hardships these people, including the clergy, have to endure make them all practical Christians.

Special music by the choir was also a feature of this service. The anthem, "O Taste and See," by Caleb Simper, was sung. Flowers on the altar were given by Mrs. Jack McWilliams and Mrs. W. Rew.

Social Hour.

A social hour was held after the service in the church basement. Hymn singing under the leadership of J. Branson, with Mrs. R. King at the piano, was a feature of the hour, at the close of which the rector called upon Rev. G. J. Bousfield of St. Luke's Church to say a few words. Mr. Bousfield expressed his own pleasure at being able to be there and also join in the hour bestowed on the church by the presence of Bishop Danield. "I have met the Bishop before and I remember two years ago of his attending a Deanery meeting at Apsley. There is also a personal touch in the Bishop being here today in the church, as he is the uncle of your rector, so on behalf of St. Luke's Church I extend greetings and hope this day has been one that will long be remembered in St. George's Church," he said.

Gordon Manlece brought greetings also from St. Luke's Church and also on behalf of the visitors present.

Dainty refreshments were served by the afternoon and evening branches of the Ladies' Build under the supervision of Mrs. Jack Cooper, from a prettily decorated table, centered with lace cloth, tapered candles and spring flowers, all in corresponding colors.

O. Heapu, rector's warden, thanked the ladies for their work in preparing the lovely lunch, after which the benediction was pronounced by Bishop Daniels and a most memorable day brought to a very happy close.

1,100 Delivered

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)

UNITED STATES aircraft plants have delivered more than 1,100 warplanes to the British and French fighting forces, an authoritative compilation showed today.

The two governments together have placed orders for approximately 4,000 planes since they first entered the United States market 18 months ago. Negotiations for upwards of 8,000 additional bombers, pursuit craft and other types are underway.

These and existing unfilled orders, coupled with the pressure for speed from purchasing missions, promise to step up materially the recent delivery rate of more than 100 craft month.

More than 300 planes have been loaded on merchant ships or taken across the border since the war started. Most of the other planes were delivered last spring and summer.

$25 Given Red Cross

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5—(ENS)—A contribution of $25.00 has been acknowledged by the Havelock branch of the Red Cross Society from A. Rappaport, manager of the local Hollywood Theatre. The manager, learning of the drive for funds which was being conducted in the neighboring town offered to donate proceeds from the sale of theatre tickets to the Society and handed them a number of tickets to sell in their own district. As a result Mr. Rappaport was able to present T. P. Lancaster with the cheque which was duly handed over to the Red Cross.

Quick Campaign Coast-to-Coast Expected By King

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP)—A swift coast-to-coast election tour by Prime Minister Mackenzie King was a possibility today as political parties planned to open their campaigns this week for the March 26 vote. Much pressure is being brought to bear on the prime minister to have him appear in as many places as possible throughout the Dominion during the campaign.

It is believed he will make a quick trip from coast to coast unless circumstances associated with the war effort are such as to demand his constant presence in Ottawa. In that event, the same circumstances would require the presence in the capital of a quorum of ministers.

Mr. Mackenzie King will open the Liberal campaign with a speech over the National network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Wednesday night and Conservative leader Manion launches his party's drive for ballots by addressing a public meeting in Brockville, Ont., Thursday.

Liberals here appear particularly anxious that Mr. Mackenzie King at least visit Western Canada and his own constituency of Prince Albert, Sask. Suggestions are being made that he travel by air but this is considered unlikely.

Work With Lapointe.

Justice Minister Lapointe is expected to team up with the Prime Minister during a large part of the campaign and Postmaster-General Power and Works Minister Cardin will lead the Liberals in Quebec. In the Maritimes, it is likely that Finance Minister Ralston and Revenue Minister Ilsley will bear the large share of the government's campaign burden.

Other Cabinet Ministers will concentrate on Ontario and the west and Mr. Mackenzie King likely will speak in Toronto and several other Ontario centres.

Hon. M. A. Macpherson, former Attorney-General of Saskatchewan and section in the voting for leader at the National Conservative convention here in 1938, will speak on the hustings as Dr. Manion's chief lieutenant, visiting many parts of Canada.

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar), a chairman of the C.C.F. National committee, will provide the main campaign leadership for his party in association with J. S. Woodsworth, the party leader.

The C.C.F. campaign will start in Western Canada, according to tentative plans. It is understood local headquarters of the national committee will be moved from Ottawa to Toronto until the election.

Crippling Rheumatism

Rheumatism leaves in its train distorted joints, crooked limbs, crippled hands, and the intense pain is almost unendurable.

In the beginning rheumatism is often due to dyspepsia or indigestion, for if the digestive organs did their duty there would not be any poisonous uric acid in the blood to sow the seeds of rheumatism.

Burdock Blood Bitters invigorates the system, and helps to eradicate the uric acid from the blood which is the cause of the inflammation and pain.

Give B.B.B. a chance to help you rid your system of rheumatism.

Says Fire Bell Fit Only For School Use

HASTINGS, Feb. 5 (ENS). — Following a check-up by an inspector of the Fire Marshal's Department last week, the Fire Department came up for lengthy discussion on Friday night at the regular session of Council. All members, with exception of William McEachnie, were present at the meeting.

Fire Chief Fred Dodd told the Council the inspector reported the pumper as being in first-class shape but that he had condemned the fire alarm bell on the bridge as practically useless because it could not be heard by some people living in its locality. Mr. Dodd said the inspector termed the bell as "only fit for a school."

Reeve Lewis Kelly brought up the matter of securing a quotation on a fire alarm siren. He said if the expense was not too great, it might be well if Council considered the purchase of this more up-to-date means of sounding alarm. The Fire Chief said he had received quotations on different types of sirens from time to time and that he believed a suitable alarm could be purchased for about $25.

Council will also look into the matter of attaching a shorter pole to the pumper for greater ease in moving it by truck.

Suggests Truck Chassis.

Councillor Iden Bonds suggested to Council that they inquire into the cost of a suitable truck chassis on which the pumper could be placed for more efficient moving of it in the emergency of a fire, but Reeve Kelley said it would not matter whether the pumper was moved by truck, horse, or wings. It took a certain amount of time to get up steam and he did not believe there woud be any benefit in moving it any sooner than was now possible.

M. J. Baker, clerk, revealed to the Council that he was in receipt of a letter from Fennel Brothers, who are alleged to have been peddling meat from door to door here They suggested they could avoid the purchase of a $25 peddler's licence by soliciting orders and then drive on to the premises of the purchaser and deliver it.

Reeve Kelley, commenting on the text of the letter, said the peddlers would not be within the law and that he was sure the by-law covering this matter would stand a test case.

Councillor Stanley Stevenson told the meeting that Fennel Brothers had sold meat in Hastings after they were advised by the clerk they would have to purchase a licence.

A contract for the town printing submitted by J. C. Wilson was received and filed. Reeve Kelley pointed out that there was some doubt at present as to whether provincial laws would be put in force calling for municipal elections every two years or more. He said the printing of election material formed the greater part of their printing, and, if there would not be an election as usual next term, Council's printing would be considerably less this year.

To Buy Insurance.

The Finance Committee was left in charge of choosing a suitable insurance policy to cover the local Fire Brigade of fourteen regular men in the event of accidents.

A deed prepared for Walter Fowlds and presented to the Council in connection with a number of lots near the old radiator property was set aside for the present to be checked by the town solicitor and the Finance Committee, and if found in order to be paid for. Reeve Kelley detected a phrase in the deed which he said might prove to be controversial. The deed stated the land extended to the high water mark of the river. This, the Reeve said, was very indefinite, as the water line has such a variance between the low and high mark. He pointed out that such a restriction might prevent property owners and prospective property owners in this section from going near the river.

By-laws Passed.

The following by-laws were given their several readings and passed by the Council: Number 803, for the borrowing of $8,000 from the Royal Bank until the taxes are collected; Number 804, confirming the appointment of the several officers for the Village of Hastings for the year 1940; Number 805, allowing prepayment of taxes.

On a motion of I. Bond and Charles Lynch, Grover Kerr was appointed assessor for the ensuing term at the usual salary of $50.00 per year.

The question arose among members of the Council as to whether some of the town officials should be appointed by the month or by the year as is now the case. Reeve Kelley said there was some doubt in his mind that any of the discussed appointees could, if ordered to quit their posts, demand their full salary for the year. The matter was left over for this year, with the thought in mind to have the contracts stated for shorter periods next year.

praise for Mr. and Mrs. Wellman, and words of deepest shock at the brutal end that was theirs. It was as though few, even then, could grasp full realization of the murder. It came to the quiet, prosperous district as an act from an unknown planet, shaking to its foundations the placid, industrious residents.

Every Farm Home Represented

All the district was represented at the funeral. Scarce a farm within a radius of 20 miles of the Wellman home but had its representative and flowers were present in great profusion. All the immediate neighbors and their families were there—all save one. Fred Thain, who lived closest to the aged couple, was in jail in Belleville, charged with both their murders.

To the three physicians who are children of Mr. and Mrs. Wellman there was the added grief that Sunday was to have been their parents' 55th wedding anniversary and all three had planned to be home to celebrate it. All the extensive Wellman connection was present as well.

Thain Is Remanded

Fred Thain, 46, was arraigned in Belleville Saturday before Miss Mary Butler, J.P., and was remanded in custody until Feb. 8. He had acted on the jury empanelled Thursday to inquire into the death of his neighbors.

Blood-speckled trousers and rubber boots, along with other articles of clothing and a shot-gun, allegedly owned by Thain, were taken to Toronto yesterday by Inspector A. H. Ward, of the C.I.D., where they will be closely examined.

Provincial Police also seized a number of empty grain bags and some samples of grain found on the Thain property. Two shotgun shells were also found in his barn beneath some hay.

A third shotgun shell was found Saturday afternoon by Richard Wellman, a nephew of the murdered man, in the barn a few feet away from the spot where the body of Mr. Wellman was found. The shell was discovered by the nephew while feeding the cattle.

It is alleged that Thain purchased five shells from a store some miles from his home on Wednesday afternoon. Police have been unable to locate the cartridges. The accused, who lives immediately west of the Wellman farm, has always been considered on friendly terms with the Wellman family and has often helped Mr. Wellman on the farm.

Inspector Ward and Sergeant Thompson questioned Thain for nearly three hours on Saturday, after the charges of murder were read to him. A statement was taken by the police, but the contents were not divulged.

his pet bulldog in the car and went into the house smoking a cigar.

He killed his wife with two shots through the breast from an old-style .45 calibre revolver that dated back to the days when he was a bank clerk. He went upstairs and fired a shot into his son's chest and then another into the head, apparently as the boy tried to struggle from bed.

Meets Couple At Door

Then, police surmised, he heard Mr. and Mrs. McCullough returning and went to the front door. As it opened he pressed the revolver into his daughter's breast.

"My wife said: 'Don't do that, father—it hurts,'" McCullough recounted. "Before I could do anything he pulled the trigger and blew the side right out of her."

McCullough leaped over the verandah railing and ran to the police station a block away. Police Chief Gordon Bogle returned with him and found Schlegel dead beside his daughter, a bullet through his head. He evidently re-loaded the gun after shooting his wife and son, for at least five shots had been fired.

Schlegel, as an employee of the Imperial Bank, played hockey in his youth with teams at Welland, Kitchener, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Preston. After coming here he became secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Office and School Furniture Company and at the same time held similar positions with two other furniture firms.

In 1932-34 Schlegel was second vice-president of the O.H.A. and he rose to become president in 1936-37 and 1937-38. At the time of his death he was a member of the O. H.A. sub-committee and chairman of the advisory board.

He was known as an organizer of midget and juvenile hockey. He was a member of the Preston Rotary Club and a Mason.

Schlegel's father, John Schlegel, and his brother, Oliver, live at Kitchener. Mrs. Schlegel's mother, Mrs. Lillian Revitzer, resided with the family but was not at home at the time of the shooting.

12 Cents for Hogs Give Packers Loss On Exports

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—(CP)—In a statement on the relationship between hog prices and the export bacon prices being paid by the bacon board, the board today showed that if the packer paid $12 a 100 pounds for hot dressed carcasses at Toronto, the packer would have about $2.95 left to cover cost of buying, preparing for market and shipping.

The board explained that from a 200-pound live hog, a hot dressed carcass of 150 pounds was obtained. This shrinks to 144.75 pounds at cold weight, which yields 115 pounds of Wiltshire sides.

The board is paying at the moment $17.70 a 100 pounds of A1 grade sizeable Wiltshires at the seaboard, which means $20.35 for 115 pounds. In addition the packer gets by-products which can be sold for about $1.60. So the total return is $21.95.

If the packer pays $12 a 100 pounds for a 150-pound hot dressed carcass and adds $1 premium for select grade, he has a difference left of $2.95.

From the packing industry in Ontario, the Board learned that the cost of killing, curing, rejects, shipping, icing and transportation amount to $3.09 a hog, from Toronto. This varies by time and place, however.

Freight, Toronto to seaboard, is 37 cents a 100 pounds. The figures for Winnipeg are 83 cents and $1.21 respectively and for Edmonton $1.27 and $1.20.

The board estimates that its price for all grades of bacon works out to an average of about $17.29.

Mrs. Black Heads For Campaign Of Far-Off Yukon

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP) — Mrs. George Black, four years as a member of parliament behind her, travelled today toward her first love—the Yukon.

There was just a trace of wistfulness in her voice as she talked with visitors who found her sitting amid packing cases in her office on Parliament Hill Saturday.

"It's been a beautiful experience here," she said as she tucked away mementoes and prepared to campaign in the Yukon for her husband who will contest the House of Commons seat Mrs. Black held as an Independent Conservative.

"These years of parliamentary life have been something I shall never forget. But it is rather sad leaving all the friends you have known on Parliament Hill. I'll miss hearing about their kids."

There's another item the smiling, white-haired woman of the north is going to miss too, "the courtesy of my colleagues." Fondly she packed away a card that came with a bouquet of flowers from an admiring member of the Commons.

Before leaving for the West Saturday night Mrs. Black said she hoped to be back in the capital again. It depends, of course, on whether Captain George Black, former speaker of the Commons, retains the Yukon seat for the Conservatives. "You never can tell about elections," said Mrs. Black wisely.

CAMPBELLFORD
Board To Ask For New Furnaces

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5.—(ENS) —A lively council session is expected here Monday when the municipal body will be called upon to consider the possibility of the largest capital expenditure made in a decade. According to a motion passed at last week's school board session a delegation from that body will be on hand to take up the matter of installing a new heating system in the two buildings now being occupied by Public School pupils. Reports brought in at the board's meeting indicated the furnaces now in use since 1887 were completely worn out. Providing council agrees that the present system is too far gone to consider repairing which is not considered likely before council has had time to make a careful study of the matter, the corporation may have to spend anywhere from 10 to 20 thousand for the installation of a completely new system of steam heating for the two buildings.

Wed Two Weeks, Child Bride Of 13 Years Is Being Held

VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 5.—(AP) —A child bride from the southern Indian hills, jailed after only two weeks of married life, said today she loved her husband, and law or no law, was bound she'd stay with him and make him a good wife.

Dorothy Foster Harrell and James Harrell, 21-year-old relief project worker, married here January 21, both were in jail. The county clerk said that they lied about her age in getting the licence, and that she was only 13.

Last night Dorothy, who left the seventh grade and her father's farm to become a housewife, talked her troubles over with Sheriff Oscar Westfall—and put her foot down.

"I won't go back to Petersburg and live with my father," she said. "I won't go back to school. I just want to live with my husband. He's better to me than anybody else and I don't see why they want to take him away from me."

The reason why lay in an affidavit of County Clerk Paul Enmeier, charging Dorothy, her husband and her mother, Mrs. Leo Halmke of Picknell, with giving false information in getting a marriage licence.

The clerk said they told him Dorothy was 18. Her father, Homer Foster, and records of the court that divorced her parents 10 years ago both say she is five years younger than that. In Indiana, girls may not marry until they are 16.

The Rambling REPORTERS

NO USE FOR SALESMEN

Enumerators in the city's electoral subdivisions are encountering today some of the routine experiences of direct or house to house salesmen, the front-liners of business who go about ringing door bells and generally trying to get a hearing with fairly heavy odds against them getting asked in to tell their stories or sell their wares.

"I have no use for salesmen," was the greeting two of the Eastwood staff got this morning at a north end house.

"Well, if you don't want your name on the voters list I guess there's nothing we can do about it," one of the two men said.

Of course, that was different, and the enumerator realized that he knew the young matron of this household, her husband and an automobile salesman friend of the family. And on the strength of that collateral acquaintance he dared: "You wouldn't say you had no use whatever for that salesman I saw you driving down town the other night!" And, because the friendship was so well recognized, the remark went across with nothing more than a cordial laugh.

Rev. D. Forsythe To Address Boys

Hosts to all boys' church groups of the city, the Boys' Work Board of George Street United church will present an address by Rev. Dave Forsythe of Toronto, on Tuesday night from 6.30 to 7.30.

Rev. Mr. Forsythe, travelling representative of the Ontario Boys' Work Board, is widely known throughout Ontario as a capable speaker and will undoubtedly hold the attention and interest of an audience that is expected to fill the church.

All boys' groups in Peterborough churches are invited to attend the meeting, which is being held in an endeavor to interest other groups in the work of the board, said President Stuart Saunders of the George Street Board. He anticipated a large crowd and asked that officers of other churches make arrangements to have representatives at the meeting.

The George Street Boys' Work Board is the only one in the city at the present time and efforts are being made to enlarge the number of churches represented. The Tuesday meeting is just one of the steps being taken.

A representative from each class in George Street church, usually the president, and including such organizations as Tuxis groups, Trail Rangers, etc., is a member of the Board and each year a representative at the meeting of the Ontario Boys' Parliament. Sunday and midweek meetings are held and the Board is the most mature junior organization within the church. Problems affecting the welfare of boys' groups are threshed out and funds raised with which to carry them on.

A feature of the George Street Board's activities is the publication of "The Flash," a newspaper devoted to information on subjects and happenings within the church. It contains an editorial, news columns and advance notices. Advertising matter is soon to be added and more frequent publication will result.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM DAVID BROOKS

Death came on Saturday afternoon after a lingering illness to William David Brooks at his residence at 266 Simcoe street. He would have been 86 years old on March 6 of this year.

Born in Prince Edward County, he was a son of the late Chauncey Brooks and Jane Blakely. A cabinet maker all his life until three years ago, he came to Peterborough six months ago from Oshawa. He was a member of the United Church.

Mr. Brooks' wife died on January 3, exactly a month before his death on Saturday. Surviving are four sons, George of Bowmanville, Albert of Detroit, and Kenneth and Lyal of Peterborough; and one daughter, Mrs. John Curley of Rochester, N.Y.; also one brother, Tom H. Brooks of Peterborough; and two sisters, Mrs. C. Stevenson of Conseco nand Mrs. W. Van-Wort of Brighton.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church officiating. Interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. ELIZABETH HOOLIHAN.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Hoolihan was held from her home, 462 Sherbrooke Street, on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. E. Grant. Present in the sanctuary were Rev. J. Hoolihan of Huntsville, nephew, Rev. C. Moloney of Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough, Rev. V. McFadden of Downeyville, and Rev. J. Guiry of Port Hope, cousin, who delivered an impressive sermon on "Death." The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. E. Walsh.

Honorary pall-bearers were six former associates of Mr. Hoolihan on the Border Transit Bus Lines.

Active pall-bearers were six nephews of the deceased, Albert and Joseph Clancey of Downeyville, Andrew Mowat of Oshawa, Stephen Clancey of Sudbury, and Frank and Fergus Clancey of Peterborough.

The sympathy of a host of friends goes out to Mr. Hoolihan in his bereavement.

"Echoes" Staff Brings Honor To Peterboro

Honor was brought to the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School at the Secondary School Editors' convention in Toronto on Saturday when one of the chief awards, the Sigma Phi Trophy for the best editorial section, presented by Sigma Phi, was awarded the school magazine, "The Echoes." In making the award, judges commended the staff on having editorial copy in its own section, not mixed in with literary material; on its writing of school activities and subjects the editors understood, and on leaving the subject open at the end for the readers' decision. No other schools were mentioned, although it was explained that too many school editors confined their attentions to the Royal visit or "thank-you" expressions.

Honorable mention for individual writers who placed their magazines above the ordinary in the literary section was accorded Barrie Jack of Peterborough and honorable mention and one of the six smaller prizes presented for short stories was awarded Hugh Kenner of The Echoes on his story "The Incredible Anecdote of the Vanishing Moravian."

Writers in the prize-winning section of The Echoes were Ruth Robinson, Bob Hamilton, Catharine White and Barbara Scott. Delegates who attended the convention on Saturday were Barbara Scott, editor of this year's "Echoes"; Frank Smoke, managing editor; Ruth Robinson, last year's editor and now of St. Hilda's College, University of Toronto; Miss H. R. McGregor of the P.C.I. teaching staff, representing the advisors.

The convention was held at West Hall, University College, University of Toronto. Dr. M. W. Wallace, B.A., Ph.D., LL.D., Principal of University College, was speaker at the banquet in the evening, and remarked on the great necessity of using good English—the English spoken by a student makes a far greater impression than the clothes he wears, he said. So far as writing is concerned, he declared, the main thing is to "have something to say."

The occasion was the 15th annual gathering of High School editors. The Sigma Phi Journalistic Society usually sponsors the gathering, but was unable to do so this year due to war conditions. The Toronto editors took over, and invited the out-of-town editors as their guests.

Hamilton had a large delegation. Sarnia, Ottawa, Cobourg, Belleville, Aurora and Peterborough were others represented. Future gatherings are to be known as the Secondary School Editors' Association.

Legion Services To Be Explained

Lieut.-Colonel D. E. MacIntyre, D.S.O., M.C., assistant general manager in charge of the administration of the Canadian Legion War Services, Incorporated, will address a public meeting in the city council chamber Wednesday, February 7, in behalf of the local phase of the national appeal for funds during the week beginning February 12.

The Legion's enterprize in behalf of the soldiers of the new Canadian army has already been explained, and organization for the week's campaign is under way. Their responsibility includes education, personal work, entertainment and other features for the promotion of morale and also for the return of the men to civil life after the war, and for this work they need the generous support of the Canadian people.

Citizens generally are invited to Wednesday night's meeting, with the heads of industries, service clubs, regents of the I.O.D.E., representatives of the Red Cross and others who wish to make the Peterborough drive a success.

Chief Gimblett, as president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion, has also been asked to supervise organization for extending the appeal to Lakefield, Norwood, Marmora and Stirling.

100 Horses Examined By Humane Inspector

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Humane Society will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Thursday, March 7, at 8 p.m. A large attendance is hoped for, and refreshments will be served after the business meeting.

Among activities of the society during the month of January were the examination of 100 horses, 30 dogs brought to shelter, 20 dogs destroyed, 13 cats brought to shelter, 10 cats destroyed, 200 animals examined 16 complaints investigated, 7 wartings issued.

The inspector reported that unless owners of dogs took steps to prevent them from roaming the streets (against city by-laws), action would have to be taken.

A number of dogs are injured and others killed on the street each week, and this could be prevented to a large extent, if owners kept their dogs at home.

NOTED SINGER HERE

Albert Greenlaw, bass-baritone soloist of Detroit, appeared in Murray Street Baptist church Sunday morning and in the evening at St. James' United. In the course of his career as concert singer and choir director, he has crossed the continent several times. He said while here that it is a good forty-five years since he began to sing, and one who listens to his voice admits readily that it has lost nothing of his purity and power. "I like to sing the simple songs of the Gospel, and the songs of my own Negro people," he remarked. "Because in them there is a message which the people of today need."

Man Blames Wine For Attempted Suicide

Wine was the cause of Stanley McFarlane's attempt to hang himself with his belt in the cell block of the local police station he told the court this morning when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court for sentence on a plea of guilty to attempted suicide.

A plea for suspended sentence was not opposed by the crown and the accused was allowed to go on his own bond.

"I always have sympathy for persons accused of this act," Magistrate Langley said. "It seems to me they are more to be pitied than punished."

He reminded the accused, however, that he had pleaded guilty to what was a crime.

Accused said there was no danger of his trying the same act again.

"It was the wine in me that made me do it," he told the court.

Wonderful Opportunity is Being Passed Up To Bring Tourists Here, Alexander Says

'It can be done," write Perry Alexander from Pine Forest Inn, Summerville, S.C., in a letter to the Examiner referring to the possibilities of a concerted drive for more tourist business for the Kawartha district.

"I'm not going into all the song and dance again, as you know my ideas too well to have to do it, but every time I see mention of the possibilities I cannot help but think the Peterborough section is passing up a wonderful opportunity to bring new money from our American tourists."

Mr. Alexander was referring to a story in the Examiner that tourist revenue in the Peterborough vicinity last year amounted to $240,000.

"This recalls to me that about ten years ago in urging action on the part of our local (Peterborough) people to do something in the way of publicity for this section, I wrote a letter to Chris Graham in which I said that there was a quarter of a million dollars of new money coming into this section every season, and if we did not engage it and increase it, it was likely to pass us by.

At that time we did not have the northern competition such as the Haliburton area and ohers close by, and the places where the good roads have penetrated."

Mr. Alexander's theme is that some years ago the Kawartha roads were the end of the tourist trail; but now it leads on to the Haliburton hills, Algonquin Park. Conpetition is not only in Central Ontario, but in many other parts of Canada, strong competition, too, and unless the Kawarthas can merge their interests and work together in a well-planned publicity campaign, it is not going to hold the position it formerly held.

Fire Marshal May Decide Market Dispute

Arrangement of the tables in the market hall is likely to be referred to the Ontario Fire Marshall for a final decision following Saturday's demonstration of the familiar lengthwise lay-out and observation of the flow of business by several members of the council including Alderman McCannan, chairman of the market and property committee, with Chief Gimblett.

"I wasn't in the hall two minutes before five or six women told me how much they preferred the old way, the lengthwise arrangement," Alderman McCannan said today, "and from my impressions it seems that 95 per cent of the people are in favor of the plan. However, Chief Gimblett takes the view that setting the benches across the hall would make it easier for people to get out if ever there was a fire. He is stall of that opinion, and it was suggested that we could call in the Deputy Fire Marshall and see what he thinks about it."

Use of the space on the ground floor beside the stairways in each entrance is also being urged, but Chief Gimblett has been opposed to it because the entrance might become blocked. Market Clerk James Brown argues that there is plenty of room in each entrance for at least one producer to rent, and it is probable that this dispute will also be referred to the representative of the Fire Marshall.

Trinity Church Mission Fund Totalled $4,507

The annual congregational meeting of Trinity United Church was held in the ladies' parlor, with a good representation of the congregation present. Rev. Mr. Easton presided and opened the meeting with devotional exercises.

The minister reported that 66 new members were added to the roll during 1939—28 of whom joined on profession of faith in Jesus Christ and 38 by certificate from other churches. The total number of resident members now stands at 738.

Reports were presented covering every organization of the church. Each report told its own story of work attempted and accomplished; of lives touched and helped; of faith and hope for the future. The total amount raised by all the organizations during the year amounted to $18,399.00, of which $6,574.00 was for missionary and benevolent purposes. The amount raised for the missionary and maintenance fund showed a substantial gain over previous years. The total amount for this fund was $4,507.00, which set a new high standard for this church.

The report of the treasurer of the church revealed all obligations met and an encouraging balance with which to begin the new year.

A unanimous vote of appreciation and confidence in the work of both Mr. and Mrs. Easton was extended to them. Mr. Easton's leadership, his inspiring messages, his untiring zeal in every department of the church's work has endeared him to the congregation of Trinity Church.

The Women's Association, under the capable guidance of Mrs. Walter Stocker, as president, served light refreshments at the close of the business session. A very pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all present.

Expect Husband To Seek Place Unseated Wife

Heralds are out with hue and cry for a meeting of the North Monaghan Ratepayers' Association in Confederation School tonight, and the whole community south of the city surmises that the purpose of this assembly is to set the stage and rehearse things for the election of a school trustee in the same place Tuesday evening.

Rumor has been intimating of late that since Judge Smoke declared the election of Mrs. Ernest Ainslie null and void that the Association's nominee tomorrow night will be her husband. That is not the only bit of gossip from the township, but it will probably be sufficient in connection as a reference to the Tuesday evening event. It is expected that the accomodation of Confederation School will be jammed for both bookings.

From township official sources it was learned that Public School Inspector M. H. Park will convene the meeting to order Tuesday night, and then the balloon goes up. At least some of the neighbors expect a bit of entertainment as the tension engendered during the last month is released, but some of those who know Mr. Park are confident that the ratepayers will hew to the line of official business when he takes charge.

One of the community officials said he was thoroughly disgusted with the spirit that is abroad in the suburbs, and added that there is nothing pleasant about community service in the circumstances of the last year. "I don't care when I get out of it," he remarked to the Examiner a short time ago.

As for tonight's meeting of the Ratepayers' Association, presumably it is for the purpose of rehearsal of details of putting up a candidate for the vacancy caused by the ousting of Mrs. Ainslie.

Household Finance (formerly Central Finance) now offers a new, more convenient loan plan for employed men and women. With this plan you choose the payment schedule which best fits your own monthly budget. You may make small payments, or if you prefer, you may make larger instalments and pay up sooner.

Choose your own payment schedule.

Suppose you need $100. Find this amount in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which is most convenient for you. You will see, for instance, that 12 monthly instalments of $9.46 each will repay your loan in full. Or, if you wish smaller instalments, $7.78 monthly for 15 months will also repay a $100 loan. This is all you pay.

Perhaps you will wish to repay sooner in order to reduce the cost. Four monthly instalments of $26.26 each will also repay a $100 loan. Note that the total cost of your loan in this case is only $5.04. At Household you pay only for the actual time you have the money. Thus the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. (In all cases, payments shown in table include all charges.)

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. No credit questions are asked of friends or relatives—and you don't have to ask friends, employers or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan on your own responsibility—without delay and without embarrassment.

FAST, OPEN HOCKEY IS DISHED UP IN THE FOUR C.G.E. CONTESTS

Shop Loop Tilts Featured By Good Scores

Wide-open action featured four C.G.E. Shop Hockey League games played on Saturday afternoon before a fair number of spectators in the Brock Street Rink. Machine Shop B defeated Dip & Buff by a 6-2 count, Switchgears took an 8-5 win from Induction Motors, Machine Shop A won from Industrial Control 5-1, and Tool Room nosed out Drafting by a 2-1 margin.

In the opener, the Machine Shop Bees earned the verdict in a fast tussle, with plenty of excitement. Play was even most of the way, with the victors showing up better in around the nets. It was 3-0 for them in the first and 5-1 going into the third. Crouter scored two and aided in one as Walker tallied a pair and assisted in one, Gordon and Kinmond getting the others. For Dip & Buff, Padgett and Reid scored, as Maudsley, G. Riel and Bowen gained an assist each. Crouter, Walker and Murduff shone for the winners, with Padgett, Reid, and Bowen best for the other side. The teams:

Dip & Buff — Goal, Prout; defence, Campbell, McCabe; centre, Reid; wings, Padgett, Maudsley; subs., Bowen, G. Riel, Tobin, J. Riel, Weaver, Lloyd.

Machine Shop B — Goal, Mason; defence, Walker, Barnes; centre, Crouter; wings, Gordon, Murduff; subs., Kinmond, Collins, English.

Referee—Shrimp McDougall.

Switchgears showed a form reversal in their 8-5 win. In the first frame, Drake Jopling put the Motors in front, but Leggitt evened matters later. It was 3-3 in a hot second frame, Leggitt, Mackey and Archibald tallying, as Mowry and Leggitt aided, for the winners; and Jopling, Lawson, and Vitarelli scoring for the other crew, the latter having an assist. Switchgears ran in four in the third heat, Jobe getting a goal and two assists, as Archibald scored three, with Leggitt and Mackey aiding. Johnston counted one for Induction, Vitarelli helping. Play was fast and clean. Archibald, Leggitt and Jobe for the winners, are really starting to click. Pamfor the losers, starred. The teams:

Switchgears — Goal, Agnew; defence, Leggitt, Mowry; centre, Archibald; wings, Jobe, Mackey.

Referee—Shrimp McDougall.

Machinists Hot.

Minus "Wedge" Clarke, ace goalie, Industrial Control was no match for the Machinists. Pat Coursey turned in a fine game in the nets, but there was little scoring punch up front. It was fast and saw some neat passing by the winners, who are really starting to click. Pammett fired in three in the first, Creighton aiding on two and Nicholls on one. Pammett got another in the second with Creighton helping, and then Pammett tallied in the third, as Mortimer assisted. Crowe scored from Evans in the second for the losers' lone counter. Pagnett, Creighton and Mortimer shone for the winners, with Crowe, Coursey and Fields best for the others. The teams:

Industrial Control— Goal, Jones; defence, Crowe, Fields; centre, E. Creighton; wings, Evans, Watson; subs., Heard, Carpenter, Kent.

Machine Shop A — Goal, Coursey; defence, Pammett, Curtin; centre, Mortimer; wings, Langton, Nicholls; sub., G. Creighton.

Referee—Tom Miller.

Tool Room just nosed out Drafting in a hot tilt, both goalies being brilliant to keep down the count. Preston scored for the losers in the first with Leckie assisting. Williams evened it up in the middle go, and then Conroy banged in the winning goal in the third. It was a scrappy fray and marked by some good hockey all the way, with no outstanding individuals, except the rival net-guardians. The teams:

Drafting — Goal, Wood; defence, Palmer, Ellis; centre, Allen; wings, Hough, Dunfield; subs., Rutherford, Leckie, Preston, Edmondson.

Tool Room — Goal, Shaughnessy; defence, Ferguson, Smith; centre, McDougall; wings, Williams, Self; subs., Croakam, Conroy, King.

Referee—Tom Miller.

By HERB MARTIN

There are one or two games that stand out on to-night's program. These games may go a long way to determine who's who in the groups. On the seven o'clock draw the Fred Batten and R. Payne game will be interesting and on the nine o'clock draw the Fred Green vs. E. Tayler and C. Westbrook vs. W. Harvey games will be worth watching.

Saturday morning a rink from the Toronto office of the C.G.E. came down to play a return visit to a rink of the local C.G.E. lads. This has become an annual event. It took the Toronto boys some time to get used to playing on natural ice, and for a great part of the game they were somewhat at sea. However, they finished up only a few points down at the end of twelve ends. They were entertained to dinner at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club by the local boys.

R. H. Hopkins	F. Somerville
D. D. McAlpine	D. Davis
B. Mimms	E. R. Shirley
D. L. McLaren	W. M. Cruthers
Skip 8	Skip 16

The Saturday afternoon 'spiel fell off slightly this week-end, but those who did come out carried on as usual. The following skips were successful: E. Thomas, F. Batten, and J. McWilliams.

At night four mixed rinks came out and enjoyed a 10-end game. As one lady curler said, it was "amateur night," but we thought the curling was pretty good considering that it was the first time that some of the ladies ever touched a curling stone.

On Saturday night four local mixed rinks skipped by N. Hamley, E. Metcalfe, E. Thomas and R. Payne motored up to Lakefield for a return game. Although they were down three shots, they report having a good time.

We are glad to report that Tommy Doughty is showing improvement every day, and that S. Valentin, who has been ill with pneumonia, expects to be out in a few days.

We offer congratulations to Bob Hendry on being elected president of the Caledonian Club. Note: We believe it is a Scottish organization.)

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

WALLY STANOWSKI
Toronto Maple Leafs

By Central Press Canadian

A free - skating, shifty - hipped young defenceman, playing his first season in the National League and destined, according to most observers, to many years of stardom there, is Walter Stanowski of Toronto Maple Leafs. Two winters ago Walter was playing with the junior St. Boniface Seals in Manitoba and his dashing play from the blue line was one of the reasons the team captured the Memorial Cup. He was a sensation in the finals against Oshawa Generals and was signed by the Leafs, who farmed him out to Syracuse of the International American League last year and brought him back as one of their six defencemen this year. However, he was back in the minor league again this season, but not because of lack of ability. In the season's opening game he sustained a cut foot, and after his recovery played a few Int.-Am. games to get back in stride. Wally will only be 21 come April 23, and along with his teammate, Billy Taylor, claims youngest player honors in the circuit. Born at Winnipeg. Weighs around 175 pounds, not especially heavy for a defenceman, but he has a great physique to keep him in there in any rough going that crops up. Shoots left, and in the past has taken turns at left wing.

Prince Of Wales Beats Queen Alex

Prince of Wales remained in a first-place tie in the School Hockey League with a 4-2 win over Queen Alex at All Saints' rink on Saturday. It was a fine tussle with Jordan counting both goals for the northerners as Meredith, McDougall, Hill and Maudsley counted for the winners. Shadgett turned in an excellent performance, as did practically the whole gang on both sides. The teams:

Queen Alex: Goal, Richardson; defence, Jordan, Harvey; centre, Gaskell; wings, Blewett, Doughty; subs, Anderson, Imming, Whittaker, Watson.

Prince of Wales: Goal, Dorset; defence, Beatty, Maudsley; centre, Pammett; wings, Meredith, Hill; subs, Darling, McDougal, Plunkett, Shadgett, Seabrooke, B. Shadgett, Craig.

Sport For Canadian Soldiers

While waiting to go to the Western front to do battle with the Germans, the Canadian troops, now training in England, entertain themselves with hockey after drill periods. Teams have been organized in a sort of war league. They play at the Harringay arena where this picture was taken. It shows G. H. Perry, LEFT, of Winnipeg, Canada, having his goalie gear adjusted with the aid of a comrade in arms.

Baseball Writers Do 'Landis' Act At Banquet Make Ruth Free Agent During Fun-Frolic

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 — (AP). — Babe Ruth was declared a free agent by a shaggy, white-haired old man remotely resembling Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis last night, but it was all in fun for 1,100 guests of the New York baseball writers' seventeenth annual dinner.

The writers spared few feelings as they lampooned Landis and the game's other greats. The way for Manager Gabby Hartnett of Chicago Cubs to reduce, they let it be known, was for him to sit in the stands and watch himself manage an all-star team. The reason Ernie Lombardi remained beside the empty plate in the World Series was because he was waiting for dessert and coffee.

"Landis" made an inspection of Babe Ruth's 1922 contract, and thought it was a forgery. After he found it wasn't, he barked, "Aw, let's make him a free agent anyway."

He also freed 104 Boston Red Sox players, padlocked Fenway Park for six months, and fined Tom Yawkey $189,675.25.

And Joe DiMaggio.

"There's a fellow I'd like to make a free agent," Landis said. "Why, it'd be like the crush hour in Gimbels' basement."

There was more than fun for the diners, however.

After the writers finished frolicking, they presented a plaque to Ed Barrow, president of New York Yankees, for "meritorious service to baseball over a long period of years" and another to Bucky Walters, Cincinnati pitcher and most valuable player in the National League, as the "outstanding player of the year."

King Edward Wins Over King George

King Edward kept up around the top of the School Hockey League at All Saints' rink on Saturday by copping a 7-1 win from King George. The losers battled hard but the southenders were clicking in fine shape to tally two each in the first and second and gain a 3-1 margin in the third. Anderson and Harris led the way with three each as Close got one, the losers' scorer being Barrie. Clark went good in the East City squad's net, despite the count. The teams:

King Edward: Goal, Welch; defence, Anderson, Woodcock; centre, Foster; wings, Harris, Close; subs, Cox, Dugan, Langton.

Temiskaming Skier Captures Title At Toronto Ski Club Championships

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., Feb. 5. — (CP).—Kurt Lovegren of Temiskaming, won the combined events senior title at the Toronto ski championships Sunday, scoring the greatest total in the jump, cross-country, downhill and slalom.

Lovegren's only victory in the single events was in the jump, which he took with 213.4 points, but his second position in the cross country put him well ahead of other contestants in the all-around championship.

Louis Georges of Owen Sound, retained his downhill championship, taking the event in 1:12:06, and was also first in the senior slalom, finishing in 1:29. Paul Jansson of Sudbury, edged out Lonegren in the cross-country, finishing in 56 minutes and 17 seconds, 18 seconds ahead of the all-around titlist.

In junior competition, George Campbell of Upper Canada College Ski Club, Toronto, took the downhill and jumping events. J. McIntyre of Owen Sound, the slalom and Vilko Arkilander of Sudbury the cross country.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

They were blasting burnt biscuits into the twine with great regularity up at the Brock Avenoo arena on Saturday aft, as four C.G.E. shop puck tussles made the boys work overtime. Especially the goalies. Led by Crouter and Walker, Machine Shop Bees stung Dips & Buffs 6-2 in the opener. Next fray saw Archibald, Jobe and Leggitt spark Switchgears to an 8-5 win over Induction Motors. Pammett, aided by Jerry Creighton, was the big noise in the Machine Shop "A" conquest of Industrial Control 5-1. In a nifty windup melee, Tool Room just 2-1'd Drafting, concluding a very neat batch of hockey struggles.

Three other games were staged Saturday, but out at All Saints fresh air rink. They were school contests as the schedule nears a close. King Edward and Prince of Wales remained tied atop the pile with wins over King George and Queen Alex, respectively—and rather respectably. Scores were 7-1 and 4-2 in that order. The other joust saw Central cop an 8-5 verdict o'er the lads of Queen Mary house of learning. Queen Alex, Queen Mary and Central are all still in the hunt with one more triple-header, this trio being tied. King George is out of it now.

A Word From Eddie

Comes a letter from Eddie Lalonde, who played lacrosse here last summer. He has been playing hockey at Simcoe but was let out when protested for coming in too late and defying the residence rule. So now he's headed for Hamilton and hopes to play industrial hockey there in the same loop as Mick Magee. Some enclosed clippings show Eddie was playing fine hockey till let out, one columnistic comment saying: "Eddie Lalonde took the fancy of local enthusiasts in the Hagersville game by chalking up four points. He will remain here for the duration of the season." But he didn't. Lalonde said he likes Peterborough and would like to be back here again.

Final junior O.H.A. game of the schedule here will be run off tomorrow eve at 8.30 in the Brock, the Port Hope Ontarios tackling the local Colts. And, if it's anywhere nearly as heated a fracas as their last meeting—on Port Hope ice early this season—the Weir squad had better fetch along police protection. Coached by Dutch Harwood, who used to biff 'em in scandalous style on defence, the young Ontarios go in for a bashing style of play. It resulted in several fist fights between the battling Hopers and scrappy Colts—who don't back up, either — and even had a mob scene with fans out on the ice pounding the young Petes. Police eventually arrived on the scene. Yeah, it should be quite a puck joust here in the e'en tomorrow.

* * * * * *

To End The Schedule

The Petes play the Redmen in Bella Villa tomorrow to wind up that part of the schedule. Last meeting this year betwixt these two clubs, and final away-from-home tilt for the Buckaroos during the schedule. Trenton Fliers will be here Friday to conclude the schedule, and then group playoffs commence. The Airmen had to hustle in the third period Friday to tally all four goals in their 4-2 nod o'er the Redmen, at full strength and full of fight this fray. Referee Steen of Kingston was again on deck but, unlike his easy-going attitude of the Petes-Fliers' last fixture, he was chucking offending puckists over the boards if they merely looked as if they'd like to slash a guy.

Church hockey at All Saints' rink tonight: All Saints vs. St. John's Bantams at six, George St. Juveniles vs. Mark St. at seven, St. Paul's Juniors vs. All Saints at eight, and All Saints' Seniors vs. St. James at nine. The senior standing the other day gave Murray St. an extra win and St. James was listed with one too many losses. The game these teams did play, though listed previously as a win for Murray St., might yet be changed to a loss by the loop executive. The church circuit is rapidly heading toward the playoff whirl.

Oh, Is That So?

From Sarnia comes word that, with the passing of John DeGruchy, the Big Six grid merger talk will be revived. The report adds: "Peterborough, despite a successful season at the gate last fall, will likely feel the brunt if the Big Six goes through." And a Toronto report quotes a Big Four official as saying: "No one wanted to do anything about the league situation while Mr. DeGruchy was living because no one desired to hurt him," and 'tis mentioned that Peterborough is a doubtful factor in senior football this year, anyway.

* * * * * *

May we correct a couple of those impressions? Well, it's a blinkin' lie when any of the Big Four group suggest they didn't do anything about the Big Six, in order not to hurt John DeGruchy, prexy of the O.R.F.U. They did their darndest to get the Big Six going last year and the only things which caused a hitch were (a) the fact that Argos wouldn't let another Toronto team, Beaches, in the same group with 'em, owing to gates; and (b) there was too much bitterness between the Royals and Westmounts of Montreal for them to amalgamate. "Wouldn't hurt Mr. DeGruchy's feelings"—baloney! ! Also, the Petes wouldn't be doubtful factors except for the uncertainty last year and again this year. How can the locals import or build up or do anything when they don't know till nearly fall if they'ret going to be back in a senior grouping? We don't mind clubs pulling for a Big Six, but at least let's have the truth about the angles.

Bees And Electrics Grab Victories In City Basketball League

A runaway victory, as Bees unleashed a powerful scoring punch to massacre Dominion 64-24, and a surprising upset, as C.G.E. came to life to victimize the second-place Quaker club 36-34, highlighted Saturday's senior city cage games as the league concluded the first half of its 20-game schedule.

Jimmy Thorburn gathered in 25 of the Bees 64 scoring points to draw far ahead of the field in the scoring battle. Joe Jakafby of Quakers and Pete McArthur of the Bees running in two-three order. The standing at the end of the first half:

	W.	L.	F.	A.
Zephyrs	4	0	119	79
Quakers	2	2	117	100
Bees	2	2	135	101
C.G.E.	1	3	109	140
Dominions	1	3	99	158

The Bees turned on a potent passing sharp-shooting, fast-breaking attack to lace Dominions, running up the highest score in several seasons in the city league. They started early and ran it to 39-13 at the half-way mark, running in baskets almost at will after that. The winners' passing and shooting was far superior to the poor sniping and mediocre ball-handling of Dominions. Both teams played fast, clean basketball, as the winners made 2 free throws in 7 tries and Dominions scored 4 for 8. Jim Thorburn, Pete McArthur, Sam Rogow and Ted Ascott stood out for the winners with Harry Marsh and Don Weese starring for Dominions. The teams:

Bees, 64—Centre, Craig, 13; forwards, Thorburn 25, McArthur 16; guards, Rogow 4, Ascott 4; sub, Whaley 2.

Dominions, 24—Centre, Wolstenholme; forwards, Currie 3, Weese; guards, Grose, Marsh 1; sub, Csumrik 5, Hamill 4.

Referee—Dr. Worton. Scorer—R. Rogow.

Strong Attack

C.G.E. came up with a strong offense and steady, hard-checking defense that caught Quakers unaware and the Electrics copped an upset victory to further tighten the league standing. The winners ran up a 23-12 lead at the half before Quakers got under way. C.G.E. managed then to hang on, just scoring often enough to stay in front all the way. C.G.E. passed well and their fast-breaking offense, easily beat the slow-forming zone defence of the Quaker team. Quakers missed countless scoring opportunities and definitely had a margin in play when they finally got going in the last period. C.G.E. cashed in on 2 of their 7 free tosses and Quakers made 5 of their 8 tries. Gemmell, Galley, Holmes and Dundas were standouts for the winners with Gillespie, W. and Murray leading the losing Quakers. The teams:

C.G.E. 36—Centre, Galley, 10; forwards, Gemmel 5, Holmes 7; guards, Bradley 4, Archibald 4; sub, Dundas 6.

Quakers 35—Centre, Patterson 4; forwards, Galley 4, Ward 5; guards, Gillespie 8, Jakafby 8; sub, Murray 6.

Referee—Dr. Worton. Scorer—R. Rogow.

Central Cops Nod Over Queen Mary

Prince of Wales	4	3	1
King Edward	4	3	1
Queen Alex	4	2	2

King George	4	0	4

Central took an 8-5 win Saturday over Queen Mary in a lively open melee. It was 2-2, 5-3 and 8-5 by periods, Millen got four for the winners as Clarke counted three and Griffin one. For the other side, Mortimer bulged the hemp three times, with Dundas and McNaught having one each. The teams:

Queen Mary: Goal, Gardner; defence, Lester, Dundas; centre, Mortimer; wings, Fallen, McNaught; subs, Matthews, Beaton.

Greatly Improved Black Hawks Defeat Toronto Maple Leafs Play Overtime Draw With Wings

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

When the time comes to pick an all-star National Hockey League team and an all-star coach to go with it, the men who cast the ballots might do well in considering Paul Thompson as the "seventh man" on their mythical club.

Paul Thompson

There has been nothing mythical or mystical about the way Thompson has nursed along the Chicago Black Hawks in this N.H.L. campaign. With three months of the schedule gone by, and a month and a half left, the Hawks occupy a much loftier position than hockey followers were wont to predict for them at the start of the season.

A major share of the credit for lifting the club by the bootstraps must go to Thompson, who took over the coaching reins last year [illegible] the ousting of W. Stewart. Thompson has modelled and re-modelled so the Hawks, clicking in the best form of two seasons, are becoming a threat to the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

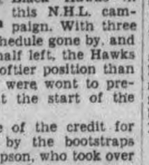
Defeat Leafs 3-2

The Hawks topped the Leafs 3-2 in a Saturday contest at Toronto and then played to a 1-1 overtime draw last night at home against Detroit Red Wings. The Hawks are eight points away from Leafs in the standing and have a game in hand.

Meanwhile, the league-leading New York Rangers and the second place Boston Bruins continued their smashing play, with the Rangers scoring a 9-10 victory over Montreal Canadiens and the Bruins trouncing New York Americans 7-1. Only three points apart, the clubs meet tomorrow at Boston with a sell-out crowd already assured.

Rookie Plays Great Game

Feature of Chicago's two games was the play of Rookie Phil Hergesheimer, who played last season with Cleveland Barons in International American League. Hergesheimer figured in all the scoring by Hawks during the week-end, getting a goal and three assists.



Phil Hergesheimer

Hergesheimer's goal came against the Leafs as another freshman, Doug Bentley, and the veteran Bill Thoms supplied the other scores. The Toronto goals went to Lex Chisholm and Nick Metz. Johnny Gottselig, with Hergesheimer again drawing the assist, supplied the Chicago goal against the Wings, who stretched their unbeaten string to six straight games on the strength of a goal by Ebbie Goodfellow.

Leading Rangers as the Blueshirts ran up the highest total for any team this season were Bryan Hextall, Dutch Hiller, Phil Watson and Kilby MacDonald. Hextall, Hiller and MacDonald each scored twice while Watson got one goal and helped in three others.

Wilfe Cude Returns

The game marked the return to the N.H.L. scene of Goalie Wilfie Cude, who was replaced as netminder last season by Claude Bourque. Cude, called up from the New Haven Eagles of Intam, found little or no protection from the Habitant defence as Neil Colville and Lynn Patrick found the Range for goals.

The Bill Cowley-Roy Conacher-Mel Hill line, so effective in the last part of the 1938-39 season as the Bruins marched to the Stanley Cup, demonstrated like prowess against the Americans as Hill picked up a goal and an assist, Cowley scored twice and Conacher helped in three scores.

Frankie Brimsek had a shutout spoiled by Lorne Carr, who fired home the puck near the half-way mark of the last period. Other marksmen for the Bruins were Herbie Cain, Bobby Bauer, Bill (Flash) Hollet, and Woody Dumart.

Scouts Pass Up Record Breaker

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—(AP).—Scouts of the 16 major league baseball clubs passed up a draft-tagged player who last season cracked a Pacific Coast League record of 26 years' standing.

The player is Brooks Holder, San Francisco Seals' outfielder. He hit 24 triples last season. The old record was 23, established jointly by Ivan Howard and Harl Maggert of the Los Angeles club and tied in 1923 by Pete Schneider of Vernon.

In 173 games Holder hit for an average of .314. He knocked in 87 runs, had 89 bases on balls, stole 14 bases, hit 16 sacrifices, five home runs and 34 two-baggers.

Young, useful and fast, Holder could have been had for $7,500; Charley Graham, president of the Seals, was more surprised over the [illegible] wasn't drafted than he would have been if Dominic DiMaggio hadn't been sold.

Weekend Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Bryan Hextall, Phil Watson and Dutch Hiller, Rangers, accounted for 11 scoring points in a 9-0 victory over Canadiens.

Phil Hergesheimer, Chicago, had a hand in every Black Hawk goal of the week-end. Hergesheimer scored once and got two assists in a 3-2 victory Saturday over Toronto and helped in the goal that gave Hawks a 1-1 draw with Detroit last night.

Mel Hill, Roy Conacher and Bill Cowley, Boston, paced the Bruins to a 7-1 victory over Americans.

Douro Loses 6-2 To North Dummer

WARSAW, Feb. 5.—(ENS)—Tuesday night saw a rather one-sided tilt on local ice when the league-leading North Dummer boys took the long end of a 9-2 score against Douro. The Irish team played their usual rugged game, trying hard every minute with W. and J. Moher turning in sterling performances, but they showed lack of practise and had difficulty trying to break up the Stoney Laker's canny rushes.

For the northerners, the second line of Ivey, Coppaway and Edgar turned in their best effort of the season. Before the hockey match, North Dummer ladies bowed to the more experienced Warsaw Amazons 4-0 in a broom ball match. The teams:

North Dummer—Goal, B. Payne; defence, L. Whetung, L. Crowe; centre, A. Whetung; wings, W. Ramsay, R. Whetung; subs, Edgar, Coppaway, Ivey, Puffer.

Douro—Goal, Coughlin; defence, Joe Hayes, R. Moher; center, W. Moher; wings, J. Moher, J. Leahy; subs, B. Delaney, John Hayes, J. Healy, O. Leahy, F. Moher.

Referee, Mark Lonsberry.

Door-mat Role

The aged Oaks continued their door-mat role on Friday night when they took a 6-2 lacing from the school. The speedy school forward lines were too good for the wily oldsters and kept the play pretty well in the enemy's territory, though the wheel-chair brigade broke loose in the occasional dangerous rush. Fred Bell being especially prominent around the school nets. Referee Lonsbery had a busy time handing out penalties of the minor sort, F. Bell and Geordie Cooper the school's stalwart defenceman, being the chief offenders.

Preceding the hockey game the fans were entertained by a spasm of broomball in which the hitherto unbeaten Warsaw ladies were subdued by the Dandruff Removers 3-1.

The teams:

Oaks—Goal, A. Payne; defence, E. Thompson, A. Darling; centre, I. Drain; wings, F. Bell, T. Davis; subs, H. Munro, A. Sharp, P. Hamblin, G. Eliot.

School—Goal, E. Clements; defence, G. Cooper, H. Dunford; center, D. Bell; wings, G. Clements, R. Payne; subs, G. Payne, E. Payne, L. Lonsberry.

Trinity broke into the scoring line in the first frame when Somerville bagged a tally. O'Grady counted for the visitors adn Somerville again scored.

In the second frame Duggan and McAvity of the School both tallied and Ross of the visitors counted.

Duggan for Trinity was credited with two goals in the third and Somerville secured his third goal of the fixture.

Zeta Psi — Goal, G. Lindsay; defence, McCall and Pentland; centre, Allen; wings, O'Grady and Ross; subs., Bell, Orr, Douglas, Crackley, Leitch, Howard, Davis, Gooderham.

T.C.S. — Goal, Erenbces; defence, Fleming and Spence; centre, McAvity; wings, Caldwell and Somerville; subs., Duggan, Cauley, Finley and Duggan.

Toronto Scottish Win

LONDON, Feb. 5—(CP Cable).—Making their first appearance on English ice, Toronto Scottish Saturday night defeated Wembley Colts, last year's winners in the London and Provincial League, 4-0.

Scoring for the Army hockey team, one of eleven teams now formed among Canadian troops, were Walter Robinson, Meaford, Ont., with two goals to his credit; and John Kemp, Oakville, Ont., and James McBeth, Winnipeg, one apiece.

Port Hope Here To Play Junior Colts

Port Hope Ontario have an O.H.A. junior "B" fixture here against the local Colts tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 8:30 o'clock in the Brock Street Rink. It is the last home scheduled game for the Weir-coached squad and promises to be full of action. In their previous joust in Port hope, game was fast, exciting and full of fist fights—including a free-for-all that brought fans out to swing on the young Petes, and making police protection necessary. The young Ontarios are a scrappy squad and put on a pleasing display.

The Wilgar-Weir outfit play brilliant hockey one game and just so-so the next time out, generally looking good for about half the game. They have speed, size and lots of fight, and should cop another win over the Hopers. But it ought to be an interesting game to wind up the O.H.A. junior schedule here. A good-sized crowd of fans is expected for the windup number, before play-offs.

Farm System Is Opposed

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—(AP).—The extra week the International Baseball League included in its 1940 schedule to make it conform with the American Association is causing it difficulty.

At a session Sunday intended to complete action on the schedule it was found that too many open dates were included.

Some consideration was given to increasing the program from 154 to 161 games and the whole matter was laid over until next Sunday, when the league will meet at Syracuse, N.Y.

The club owners Saturday came out in flat opposition to the proposals of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis fo rabolition of farm systems.

At the close of a long meeting Frank Shaughnessy, president of the league, issued the following statement:

"At its meeting the International League, with the fullest appreciation of the aims of the commisisoner (Landis) expressed in his plan under date of January 25 is, however, of the opinion that the suggestions made therein are not generally practical from the standpoint of higher classification minor league clubs.

"While certain abuses in the present farm system operation may exist, the league feels that the remedy can possibly be worked within the present successful structure of baseball—which has enabled the National Association to increase its membership from 13 leagues in 1933 to a proposed 45 in 1940, and to give employment to over 13,000 players in 1939 as against approximately 3,500 in 1933.

"This league has always operated in a manner which it felt was in the best interests of baseball and assures the commissioner of its co-operation and efforts in the future to that end."

The problem of the schedule was carried over into a second session Sunday. The opening date of April 18 and closing September 15 were adopted, allowing an additional week this year for the 154 games.

The northern teams will open in the southern half of the circuit, with Montreal at Jersey City, Rochester at Syracuse, Toronto at Newark, and Buffalo at Baltimore.

A plan for scheduling doubleheaders for each Sunday in the season was abandoned. But it was agreed informally that two games would be played on virtually every Sunday with games postponed because of weather conditions, or moved up for other reasons, used to fill in the bargain bills.

Bill Fritz Runs Second Place In Millrose 600

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. —(CP)— It seems Bill Fritz, the foot-racing man from Queen's University in Kingston, will have to be satisfied with second place in the famed Millrose 600, no matter how fast he runs.

Last year, his first on the boards on the United States indoor track circuit, the Canadian Olympian was nipped at the wire by Wes Wallace of Fordham University in what then was the second-fastest time ever recorded for the race.

Saturday night before 16,000 at the 33rd Millrose Athletic games, Fritz was second again, this time to long-striding Jim Herbert, New York University Negro who holds the world indoor mark of one minute, 11 1-10 seconds for the 600.

Herbert broke in front of the field and Fritz settled himself behind him from the gun. The slim Negro, pacing himself perfectly, had the answer when Fritz let go with his final kick on the last lap and Herbert was pulling away at the finish.

But Fritz had forced him to run the distance in 1:11.4, just 3-10 off the world mark and only 1-10 off Chuck Hornbostel's meet record.

Ran Ahead Of Wallace

There was a measure of satisfaction for Fritz in running ahead of Wallace, who beat him in Boston again last week. Wallace was caught by Sanford Goldberg of New York in the last strides and finished fourth.

Larry O'Connor of the University of Toronto, only other Canadian in the meet, qualified for the semi-final of the 60-yard high hurdles by running second to Ed Dugger of Tufts College in their heat. But in the semi-final, O'Connor broke slowly and couldn't make up the distance over the jumps, finishing third and out of the final to Jay Shields of Yale and Dugger.

Allan Tomlich of Detroit won the final in 7.3 seconds, equalling the meet record.

Chuck Fenske, University of Wisconsin grad, ran a 4:07.4 mile to take that feature by three yards over the veteran Glenn Cunningham.

Leading Trainer Threatens To Break Record

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5.—(AP).— It's a trifle early to make an outright prediction, but there's a man at Hialeah Park who may break Hirsch Jacobs' seven-year strangehold on the country's thoroughbred training championship.

He is Ben Jones of Parnell, Mo., trainer for Warren Wright's Calumet Farm, and he already has a nice jump on Jacobs this year. Jones has saddled 15 winners to Jacobs' seven since January 1.

The 57-year-old Jones is no newcomer to training renown. Two years ago he conditioned Herbert M. Woolf's Kentucky Derby champion, Lawrin.

Eight years ago Jones signed up with Woolf and trained his horses until last fall, when he took over the Calumet Farm string. Now he cares for 47 horses in the Calumet barn.

Upper Canada Wins Over Grove School

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 5.—(ENS)—In an exhibition game at the Lakefield rink Saturday afternoon the Grove first team was defeated 5-3 by Upper Canada College. A good sized crowd gathered to see the game which was fast throughout. Referee Blewett handed out only one penalty, that going to Upper Canada for tripping.

Upper Canada started the scoring when Osberne tallied early in the game. Hart put them two up at the seven minute mark. Grove first goal was scored by St. Remy who intercepted a pass from Langmuir. Englis took the puck from the face-off at the blueline to score again for Upper Canada. The score at the end of the first period was 3-1 for U.C.C.

Grove tallied first in the second when Frewer counted, Harris receiving the assist. The Grove failed to score while Upper Canada were short a man and Osberne counted an easy one which rolled in between Herold's feet. Frewer was finally awarded when he split the defence and beat Mallin. Upper Canada counted another when Hart scored just before the end of the second period. The score was 5-3 for Upper Canada.

Both teams were held scoreless in the final heat, with Grove trying hard to tie it up, they held the play for the major part in Upper Canada's end of the rink, but Mallin could not be beaten and it ended 5-3 for U.C.C.

Mallin, Hart, Englis and Osberne looked best for Upper Canada, while Frewer, St. Remy and Langmuir played good hockey for Grove. The teams:

U.C.C. — Goal, Mallin; defence, Corbett, Hart; centre, Osberne; wings, Englis, Heardaker; subs, Harvey, Grand, Edwards, Greer.

"TELL-BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

FABIENNE untied the big apron she had put on over her ski pants, hung it on a nail and surveyed four glasses of only slightly burned apple butter with pride.

"Hey, wait a minute!" Bill said, getting off the kitchen table where he had been watching Fabienne's culinary achievement. "You don't think you're done, do you?"

"You wouldn't like me to eat it, too, would you? Surely not after that dinner!"

"We've got to take it back to town. I'm going to keep it all for myself and eat it for breakfast every day—thinking about you."

"Oh!" Sometimes Bill said things he ought not to say. And did things he ought not do. Like having that newspaper picture of her on his highboy. She supposed the Tomassino child had given it to him and her'd pulled it out of his pocket and forgotten about it. But he oughtn't to do things like that, not when he was trying to woo Ellen.

A small frown puckered her brow. She wondered what Ellen was thinking of her at the moment. Bill had practically dismissed Ellen, sending her off for a walk with Nicky, while Fabienne and Bill peeled apples and stirred them while they stewed in cider at the back of the big range. Any other girl would have been jealous and showed it. Fabienne most certainly would not have taken that dismissal.

There was one small comfort, she thought, and that wa sthat Ellen and Nicky always had plenty to talk about. She'd been afraid they'd find nothing in common and she waned her friends to like each other.

It would not be hard to like Ellen, but Nicky was a different matter altogether. Fortunately, Nicky had been a different Nicky these last few weeks, since the wedding, from the old Nicky. Not only was he practically on the water wagon, but he was really setting down to work, bringing them enthusiastic accounts of what he was doing. "I'm only a glorified office boy now, but I'm getting the hang of things. Who'd think Nicky'd ever have an ambition to carry on the glorious traditions of the Bartlett name?"

Fabienne said truthfully that she was not one of them. Ellen, who was not at all surprised by Nicky's settling down, said nothing.

Walking beside him on the frozen road at the moment, she was saying, "Do you think it will last, Nicky? Do you think you'll keep on liking work when the novelty has worn off?"

"If I don't, I'll come right back to you for fresh impetus. You're the first person who ever made me feel ashamed of wasting my life."

"I never meant you to feel that way, Nicky. The only reason that I talked the way I did was because I think that people who are born with a responsibility to meet get the most out of life when they do meet it. So many people look up to a man in your position. They depend on you to carry on because when you do, they can be sure of their bread and butter and a kind of security they have always known. I mean that your father and your grandfather have built up something upon which hundreds of people depend for their livelihood. It's more than just a company. It's the Bartlett company. Understand?"

He grinned at her. "You make everything clear, Ellen. But I have a confession to make. I didn't do it for any of those reasons. I did it because I—well, Fab's been after me for a long time to go to work and now you—"

There was no cloud over the sun, but a shadow fell across Ellen's face. She said, "We'd better walk a little faster, Nicky. Fab will think we've been lost."

Fabienne saw them coming over the hill.

Bill had gone into the "lab" and came back with a cake of wax. "I told you you needed a man around the house, ma'am," he said, melting it to top the bottles.

"Sometimes I think you're right," she said somberly. "When I have to chop wood and bring in water and milk cows, I do find it leaves me little time for my beauty treatments."

Bill poured the wax over the top of a jar. "You know, Fab, you wouldn't look as funny doing those things as you think you would. You're made up of a lot of qualities—"

Nicky and Ellen came into the kitchen stamping snow from their boots, looking rosy-cheeked and radiant.

"It's getting a lot colder," Nicky told them. "And the sky looks pretty gray over in the east."

"We'd better start back early," Bill said. "This is no place to get caught in a snowstorm. Channing and I came up here one week-end last winter to do a little work. He's interested in amateur radio and went over to see Willis, a guy who has a little ham outfit in Danbury. He couldn't get back and I couldn't get out until the middle of the week. The snow piles up fast in these hills. Had to leave the car here until spring."

"How did you get out?" one of them asked.

"Caught a hitch on the state road."

"It was so nice when we left New York, I'd almost forgotten it's still winter," Ellen said when they were on the road home.

"There's plenty of winter ahead. You notice it more up here where the last snow doesn't melt before more is on top of it."

"Do we take this turn or the one to the left," Bill asked Fabienne at a cross-roads.

"This is the right one, "she told him.

"How did you figure that out?" Nicky wanted to know. It was dark in the back seat of the sedan and the overhead light was out of commission.

"I never forget a road once I've travelled over it."

"Bet you won't recognize this one the next time. In the summer, when the trees are out and the fields white with daisies, it doesn't look like the same place. That's one of the great charms of New England," Bill said.

But Fabienne was to travel over that road long before the daisies whitened the fields.

Nicky and Bill said their good-nights to the sleepy girls at the door of the apartment.

In the living room, Ellen and Fabienne sprawled in two easy chairs facing each other, talking of the day.

"It was grand," Fabienne said, yawning. "It reminds me of the sort of thing we do in Maryland. Nicky and I have often gone off on horseback to a shooting lodge in the hills and cooked our lunch over a wood fire."

Ellen could picture the scene: Fabienne, radiant, dashing in her riding clothes, going out in the clear morning, coming back facing a sunset with Nicky, laughing, easy, happy, sharing things that were familiar to both. She'd never been on a horse in her life.

"When we were in high school, Bill and I used to have summer picnics. I remember one day we went fishing and cooked the fish in a frying pan we bought from a man on the road. We roasted corn and potatoes. I never tasted anything so good."

What fun, Fabienne thought, to know how to do things like that. I wouldn't have touched a live fish.

Ellen yawned deeply. "I can't keep my eyes open."

"Neither can I," Fabienne said sleepily.

They said good night to each other and went to bed each to lie wide awake for hours. Fabienne to dream of a farmhouse, to see herself singing in a big, cool kitchen that smelled of spices, waiting for a man whose bulk would fill the doorway.

In her narrow white bed, Ellen looked into a picture that came to life in her imagination and she saw a gracious dining hall in a Maryland mansion and the face she saw across from her own above the flickering tapers was an aging face, graceful, contented, rich with the knowledge a life of usefulness had marked upon it. And it was Nicky's face. She sighed and relinquished her dream.

The junior section really have themselves a time on Saturday afternoon at Jackson Park. It's a treat to watch them and Lahring Parsons and Bob White have some prespective champions coming along. The enthusiasm and energy of these younger members is amazing to say the least. A good many of them have advanced to the point where they need better equipment, which, by the way, makes a fine birthday present.

Plans are now under consideration for the big Junior Jamboree to be held in about three weeks. Last year Nassay was the site of the junior party, but this year?? Destination unknown. We'll tell you very shortly about where it's to be. It's really goin gto be some fun, and the day will include at least a couple of the Junior Club championship events, races for everyone, prizes for everyone, and maybe we'll have some more of that very popular soft drink, but none of that seven-apiece stuff. This year we'll put you all on rations. No more than two to a person.

Oshawa Ski Club visited Bethany yesterday as guests of the Peterborough Club, and turned out sixty strong. A fine bunch they are, too, and we were glad to have them. We hope you enjoyed your stay, Oshawa, and that you'll come again.

All hills were working at capacity yesterday and the tow was working overtime all day. With a train from Toronto, a train from Oshawa, bus from Peterborough, and cars from all over the country, we estimate there were about 350 people skiing, with countless numbers of spectators apaprently enjoying every tumble to the limit.

Midland Ski Club are holding an invitation ski meet Class B next week-end, February 10 and 11. A cordial invitation is extended to all Peterborough skiers in B Class to attend. The usual four events will be held starting on Saturday at 10 a.m. Full information may be had by contacting Isabella Reid, the secretary. Entries must be in by Thursday of this week.

The editor would greatly appreciate literary contributions on skiing. How about sitting down and writing us a good poem on skiing? We must have some hidden talent in the club or even from non-members. Poems, jokes, wise cracks and screwy ski terms or expressions will be appreciated and we'll even put your name on it if you so wish. Address all correspondence to The Editor, 582 Douglas Avenue, City. Thanks. SNOW LON[illegible]

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

AVOID GIVING GIFTS

NOBODY has yet seen the player who never gives away tricks by his mistakes in the play of the cards. If such a person ever appeared, he would save so many points by avoidance of errors, that he could afford to get along without making the brilliant sallies for extra tricks which are sometimes witnessed. Many more tricks are swung from one side to the other by errors than by extreme skill. It is therefore profitable to concentrate more on the avoidance of giving gifts than upon learning how to earn tricks by fancy artifices.

	♠10 7 ♥J 3 ♦K Q J 8 3 ♣A 10 7 6

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

In either duplicate or rubber bridge, it is more profitable to set your opponents three tricks, when neither side is vulnerable, than to make a game of your own, but less profitable to set them only two tricks. That was the main point of this deal. East bid 1-Heart, South 2-Diamonds, North 3-Diamonds, East 3-Hearts, South 4-Diamonds and West doubled, guessing that he could set the contract three, considering that he had a partner who bid up to three unaided by him.

West made a somewhat unorthodox lead of the spade 2, dummy ducking and East taking with his K. East returned the heart K and heart Q, West playing first the 4 and then the 5. That should have indicated to East that West, wanted him to switch, but East paid no attention. He followed with his heart A, which the declarer ruffed in his own hand, discarding a club from dummy.

That one mistake was fatal to East and West. Thereafter they could get only one trick in clubs. Added to the three already in, plus the diamond A, it brought their total to just five, setting the contract two instead of three. If there is any one defensive mistake which usually is the worst possible, it is in leading a suit in which the declarer is blank in both his own hand and dummy.

Belmont Pioneer Mrs. J. Woods Is Laid To Rest

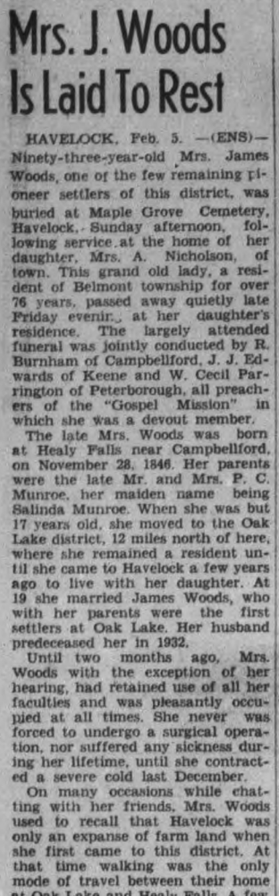
HAVELOCK, Feb. 5. —(ENS)— Ninety-three-year-old Mrs. James Woods, one of the few remaining pioneer settlers of this district, was buried at Maple Grove Cemetery, Havelock, Sunday afternoon, following service at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. Nicholson, of town. This grand old lady, a resident of Belmont township for over 76 years, passed away quietly late Friday evening at her daughter's residence. The largely attended funeral was jointly conducted by R. Burnham of Campbellford, J. J. Edwards of Keene and W. Cecil Parrington of Peterborough, all preachers of the "Gospel Mission" in which she was a devout member.

The late Mrs. Woods was born at Healy Falls near Campbellford, on November 28, 1846. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Munroe, her maiden name being Salinda Munroe. When she was but 17 years old, she moved to the Oak Lake district, 12 miles north of here, where she remained a resident until she came to Havelock a few years ago to live with her daughter. At 19 she married James Woods, who with her parents were the first settlers at Oak Lake. Her husband predeceased her in 1932.

Until two months ago, Mrs. Woods with the exception of her hearing, had retained use of all her faculties and was pleasantly occupied at all times. She never was forced to undergo a surgical operation, nor suffered any sickness during her lifetime, until she contracted a severe cold last December.

On many occasions while chatting with her friends, Mrs. Woods used to recall that Havelock was only an expanse of farm land when she first came to this district. At that time walking was the only mode of travel between their home at Oak Lake and Healy Falls. A few years later oxen were used for this journey, which took a day and a half to cover. She remembered quite distinctly also that Indians frequently were seen near their homestead. During her earlier years she used to make the material for their family clothes, picking, carding, spinning and weaving the wool into cloth.

All eight children assembled yesterday for her funeral. Members of her surviving family include three daughter, Mrs. A. Nicholson, Havelock; Mrs. R. Althouse and Mrs. A. Althouse of Healy Falls; and five sons, James of Havelock; Daniel of Deer Lake and John Herbert and Howard of Oak Lake.



MRS. J. WOODS

Special hymns sung at the service were "Fairest Of All the Earth Besides" and "Rock of Ages". Interment took place later at Maple Grove Cemetery. Pall-bearers were as follows: Clarence Althouse, Colin Althouse, and Stanley Wood, all of Peterborough; Albert Wood, Trent River; Joseph Wood and Harold Kennedy of town.

Among the host of out-of-town relatives and friends who attended were: Miss Norma L'Esperance, Miss Margaret Bulman, Mrs. E. Whitehead, A. G. Sager and Clarence Sager of Belleville; Norman Munroe, R.C.A.F., Trenton; Mrs. Colin Althouse, Mrs. Stanley Wood, Mrs. E. W. Spinks of Peterborough; Frank Bonnycastle, Mr. and Mrs. H. Abernathy, Miss Grace Keller and Mrs. A. Nicholson, Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McLaughlin, Oliver Garneau, John Garneau, John Garneau, Jr., of Trent River; Mr. and Mrs. D. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Downer, Keene; Mrs. D. Yeomans, E. Yeomans, E. Maloney, and J. Ellis of Cordova; John MacFarlane, Deer Lake; Miss Alice Varty, Peterborough.

Apple Pie Favorite Dish Of Sailors Press Women Find On Destroyer

By MARION MACINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Feb. 5 — (CP). — No ships were in sight as we sliced through a gray Atlantic swell outside this port. Somewhere ahead, the destroyer men told us, were the ships of the convoy, rolling along toward England under guard of other war craft. Astern lay this port, veiled in mist.

Before us had gone the minesweepers, carrying out their daily humdrum—and potentially dangerous—jobs of clearing the shipping track of enemy explosive. Now we had the sea to ourselves as our destroyer's 34,000 horsepower hustled us out so the party of women reporters could see what a convoy looks like with the comforting land out of sight and possible enemy ships ahead.

With a chill wind singing through the rigging, it was nice to wait below decks, look at the pictures in the Captain's cabin and sneer at those hardier souls who braved the unsheltered bridge.

So as we bucketed along, officers down below explained navy matters to us—things like gunnery ranges and calibres and knots. No holds were barred as far as questions went. What if we didn't understand all the answers?

They told us that, even as you and I, sailors get seasick too. That boys from the Prairies make good seamen, even though most of them have never seen salt water before joining the navy. And that their favorite dessert is apple pie.

Meals For 150 Men.

A brief explosure to the weather brought us up to the commissary department, where cooks were throwing together a meal for their 150 or so charges. One was cooking what seemed to me enough beets to carry a small family through a winter, but he explained they were merely to be used as a relish with a supper of cold meats.

What they told me should bake us women glad our kitchens aren't mounted aboard roller coasters. Stormy weather has the tricky habit of setting destroyer food to crawling all over the place. And it's a wise cook who decides to change the menu to sandwiches and let it go at that until things quiet down.

Up forward—ahead, to you—were the men's quarters, where they sleep in hammocks slung from the deck above. More comfortable than beds on a heaving ship, they stay in approximately the same place and let the ship do the bouncing.

Sailors sleep with one eye open anyway. One told us how he used to be bothererd at first because a spray of water shot down on his hammock every time the destroyer lurched a certain way. Now, when the vessel gives that pitch, he just twitches out of the way automatically, with out being conscious of it.

Here's a pip, by the way. If you want to open up letter-writing relations with the navy, send along a pair of knitted wristlets with your name pinned on. It's an old navy custom, they told me, for the receiver to drop the sender a line; and it's a good way to use up odd ends of wool.

While the men of Canada's navy are well supplied, there'll never be a surplus of knitted articles. I asked one seaman how many sweaters he wore when it got really cold. "I never keep track of the number after I get the fourth one on," he grinned.

Socks are in favor, too. The original issue is two pairs of socks and two of stockings, but they can stand plenty more. At sea, there is neither time nor facilities for washing and drying, so the more changes the better.

Vegetables are all a little firmer on the reports of the carry-over of supplies beginning to run short. Carrots and parsnips were $1 a bushel, onions $1.25.

George Stephens of Apsley quoted body hardwood at $7.25 a cord, the lowest price of the winter.

Norman Moncrief's apple prices were Spies at $1.50 for the best of the crop or 45c a peck. McIntosh Reds $1.25. Baldwins, Greenings and Starks $1 a bushel, Russets and Talmans, 80 cents a bushel.

On the upstairs market eggs were 18 to 23 cents a dozen, the average being 18 to 20 cents; butter was 29 and 30 cents, chickens 20 cents, hens 18 cents; several turkeys 27 cents the pound and one duck 25 cents.

Plan No Changes Fish, Game Act

TORONTO, Feb. 5.— This year, for the first time in the twenty unbroken sessions which Hon. H. C. Nixon, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Fish and Game has sat in the Legislature, there will be no Government-sponsored amendments to the fish and game laws.

"There is practically no need for changes of any kind n the act," said Mr. Nixon, at Queens Park, "and I thought we would have a holiday and concentrate all our efforts toward good administration of the law we have."

Mr. Nixon said the department so far has had no intimation of any particular demand for change from sportsmen's and outfitters' associations. The Government, as a new departure, is giving a substantial grant to the Tourist Outfitters' Association, for use in its exhibit at the sportsman's show next week at New York. The purpose, said the Minister is to stimulate tourist trade in line with the general policy announced recently in the Legislature by Premier Hepburn.

Mr. Nixon said it was interesting to note that during the open season for beaver, last December, the catch was a little over 16,000 pelts. This was an increase of about 1,000 over last year's catch, when a season was declared, except in restricted areas for the first time in many years.

Millbrook Agricultural Society Shows Balance On Year's Show

MILLBROOK, Feb. 5 (ENS).—An unusually large attendance featured the annual meeting of the Millbrook Agricultural Society held on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., in the Town Hall, with the president, I. W. Larmer in the chair.

H. A. Kerr, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, addressed the society, congratulating the officers and directors on having succeeded in paying off the last note held against them for several years past, and a few years ago amounting to over $1,900.00. Originally incurred when the new main building had to be erected on the fair grounds, replacing the old frame one destroyed by fire, the reduced gate receipts at the fair in recent years had made it a difficult matter for the society to meet the annual interest charges, and pay anything off the principal.

The secretary-treasurer, J. N. McGill, presented the financial statement, always a highlight of the annual meeting, total receipts amounting to $2858.25; total expenditures $2709.22; balance $149.03. Included in the receipts were the county grant of $147.78; township grant of $200.00; Dominion grant for the Foal Club, $2.50; cash donations of $70.00; in goods $65.00; admission fees to the fair $204.35; entry fees $67.40; booths, etc. $16.50; concert and street dance $247.15; rain insurance $69.50; insurance for grandstand destroyed by fire $499.35.

Some of the Outlays

Among the items for expenditures were included: prize money $631.55; affiliation fees, services of judges, $37.70; music and other attractions $137.00; salaries $106.00; operating expenses: meals, repairs, badges, printing, stationery, postage, etc., $221.19.

The total number of entries in 1939 for the fair in all classes was 902; total amount of prize money offered $1431.50; amount awarded by judges $937.00; amount paid in cash, but including membership fees retained for 1940, $631.55.

A general discussion of whether it would be best to let the matter of holding the annual fall fair rest in abeyance for one year; whether to carry on as usual; whether to put in an entirely new board of directors to include the younger men of the district, and let them take over the directorship, occupied considerable time; finally a nominating committee consisting of Harold Tate, I. W. Larmer, R. McCamus and H. A. Fallis, brought in a slate which included two of the younger farmers present, R. Larmer and Gerald Larmer, with ten of the former directors, P. Stinson, Robert McCamus, A. J. Henderson, H. Tate, Harry Fallis, V. R. Hunter, G. A. Fair, J. L. McCamus, I. W. Larmer and L. C. McNeil, who will form the board of directors for 1940. Any changes to be made will be considered at the next meeting, which will be at the call of the chair.

Adjournment of the annual meeting followed, and the directors' meeting came immediately afterward, when the following were elected as executive officers for the current year: President, I. W. Larmer; vice-presidents, R. McCamus and L. C. McNeil; secretary-treasurer, J. N. McGill.

The tentative dates for the fair in 1940 were set at September 26 and 27, and after certain bills presented had been ordered paid, these to include $10.00 to the band due since 1937, and $25.00 to W. H. Coombe to close his account in full, the meeting adjourned.

Eldon Township Farmer Killed Struck By Car

LINDSAY, Feb. 5.—(Special.) — John Spence, 60-year-old Eldon township farmer, was fatally injured when struck by a car driven by Maurice Sullivan of Arnprior, near Spence's home Saturday. He died in hospital here last night.

Spence had been clearing his laneway of snow and stopped to talk to a neighbor, Harold Copeland, who was passing in a car. When Copeland drove away Spence was just about to resume his shovelling when the Sullivan car struck him. Sullivan told Provincial Traffice Officer William Kennedy he had attempted to apply his brakes after he came over the brow of the hill near the scene of the accident. His car went out of control in the heavy snow and began to slew. Mr. Spence suffered serious internal injuries.

Finns Stop Five Red Charges Including 100 Tanks In Fierce Karelian Battle

1,000 Russian Troops Reported Slaughtered In Trying To Escape From Trap As Four Rescue Armies Are Bogged Down

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 6—(AP).—Red army attacks heavily supported by artillery and using more than 100 tanks were officially reported today to have been thrown back by the Finns.

The battle, which lasted from morning until midnight, occurred on the Isthmus of Karelia between Hatjalahdenjaervi and Summa, the Finnish army announced in its daily communique.

The Finns said they destroyed 22 armored cars, and that one Finnish position was attacked five times by the Russians.

The army reported that Finnish troops northeast of Lake Ladoga repulsed "continuous" attacks on the Pitkaranta Archipelago and on the shore of the lake, driving the enemy off with "several hundreds killed."

Farther north, near the Arctic Circle, the Russians were repulsed near Markajarvi in the direction of Salla, the Finns said.

During the night of February 4-5, the communique said, the Finnish air force dropped bombs "on the enemy's troops encamped around their fires."

Parachute Patrols.

"In North Finland," concluded the statement, "the enemy dropped parachute jumpers. Their landing places are known."

A decisive action north of the lake has been expected for several days since a Russian offensive was stalled and many Soviet troops were cut off from supplies, a Finnish headquarters spokesman said, but he denied foreign reports that the 18th Red Army Division had been destroyed in that region.

(However, a dispatch to the Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende went into some detail, saying the 18th Division was destroyed between Kitela and Kasnaselka, according to "reliable information." A Finnish thrust southward from Uuksajaervi toward Uomas was credited with cutting off the division, and the Copenhagen paper said 1,000 Russians who tried to escape were killed or captured.

(The Copenhagen report said the 18th Division was one of five operating north of Lake Ladoga.

No War Damages, Right To Pole, Sudeten Feature Peace Hitler Said Drafting

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 6—(AP).—The Stockholm correspondent of the Oslo newspaper Tidens Tegn said today that rumors of a German peace bid were taking shape.

The paper said reports from The Hague, Brussels and Berlin indicated some neutral state would offer the peace plan reported drawn by a committee established by Field-Marshal Hermann Goering and approved by Adolf Hitler in January.

The plan was reported to have six points:

1. No country would claim war damage.
2. Economic problems must be solved immediately.
3. The Sudeten regions of the former Czecho-Slovak republic would remain German.
4. Poland would cede to Germany all territory which was German before the Versailles Treaty.
5. A plebiscite would be held in Austria under Austrian, German, British, French control.
6. A British-French-German commission would decide upon the Czech, Polish and Slovak states of the future in order to guarantee a peaceful attitude toward Germany.

No mention was made of that part of Poland occupied by the Russians.

Explosions Rock Three Centres, Eve IRA Hanging

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP)—Bombs exploded in public buildings in London, Birmingham and Manchester today on the eve of the scheduled execution of two Irish republican army members.

Two bombs burst in mail bags in London's crowded Euston railway station, injuring four men

The Birmingham blast was in the General Post Office, where a mail sorter was injured slightly.

The two condemned I.R.A. men, Peter Barnes and James Richards, are in jail in Birmingham, awaiting execution for a bombing in Coventry last August 25 in which five persons were killed and close to 100 injured.

One bomb shook the Manchester Post Office. No one was hurt.

Police On Guard

Special operatives of Scotland Yard and police throughout Britain were placed on the alert against new bombings.

Last night the government announced its decision not to grant reprieves for the two condemned men.

In blaming today's blasts on the I.R.A., police said familiar "balloon-type" bombs had been used in the Euston blast. The bombs were in mail bags consigned to Birmingham.

The station was crowded. In it were many soldiers on leave. One of those injured was detained at an eye hospital for injuries about the eyes, while the others were treated for abrasions and shock.

Flames followed the Birmingham post office explosion, but were extinguished quickly. The blast was heard in the street and drew a large crowd.

John Dulanty, high commissioner for Erie in London, was instructed to see Prime Minister Chamberlain today to press an appeal for clemency for the pair.

A postal investigation disclosed the bomb which exploded in Birmingham was posted just after last night announcement's that Home Secretary John Anderson would not interfere with the executions.

Britain Mulling Death Decree For Tip To Enemy

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today that legislation providing for the death penalty for the disclosure or leakage of information to the enemy was under consideration.

He declared there had been no failure thus far to take vigilant precautions against leakage of information.

The prime minister's statement came as the government started a campaign against gossip with the slogan "careless words may cost lives."

The government will distribute 2,500,000 posters throughout the country, particularly in pubs, restaurants, barber shops, clubs, and mercantile marine offices.

In the first great war many lives were lost and many British ships sunk as the direct result of a few careless words dropped in conversation. The government seeks to minimize the danger as much as possible by impressing the people of the value of keeping information to themselves.

Decision Now Essential For Ontario

Major Parties Agreed; Vital If Canada To Be Empire Arsenal

TORONTO, Feb. 6—(CP).—Canada and the United States are in substantial agreemnt on the development of the St. Lawrence waterway and the way to signing of a new treaty is open, declared T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, when he addressed delegates this afternoon at the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities.

Electrical engineers from every part of the province were present and heard Mr. Hogg's review of the prospects before the electrical industry for the coming year.

Mr. Hogg declared the question of whether the international section of the St. Lawrence should be developed in one or two stages so far as power is concerned has been the subject of much expert discussion. He said it is a question of such magnitude that it must be settled very largely upon engineering and economic grounds. "Of necessity the choice must take into account a valuation of the combined influences of capital cost and operating expense and the final choice must reflect the best combination having due regard for the quality and performance of the works and for historical and sentimental values."

Cost Split the Same.

He said that assuming that the division of costs under the new agreement would not be materially different from that in the old treaty which failed to receive ratification in the United States Senate, a total cost of $45,000,000 may be taken to represent Canada's out-of-pocket expenses under the new agreement. He said that in event of a new agreement now the work in Quebec need not be undertaken until after the end of the war.

"This development can hardly be classed as a war measure," said

Meat Rations

London, Feb. 6 (CP)

FOOD MINISTER W. S. Morrison announced today that meat rationing will begin March 11.

Each person over six years of age will be allowed meat valued at one shilling, 10 pence a week. Children under six will be allowed half that amount.

Mr. Morrison explained that liver, kidneys, tongue and other such meats and manufactured meat such as sausage and meat pies will not be rationed.

Ration restrictions will be modified when desirable in the light of current supplies, he said, and restaurants for the present will be allowed to sell meat without ration coupons.

New Ration List To Keep Army Fat And Content

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 — (CP). — Defence Minister Rogers announced to-day a new scale of rations for the Canadian military and air forces calculated to modernize the dinner table of the fight forces with all the calories and vitamins.

The new ration list includes 17 standard commodities and certain alternatives. It lays special emphasis on fresh apples, milk, fish, and eggs.

A committee of scientists and experts in dietetics, upon the request of the Defence Department, through th National Research Council of Canada, drew up the new ration list.

As wel las providing a diet arranged to bring undernourished men to the pink of physical condition in a short period and maintain that condition, the minister said, the proper preparation of their food has been arranged for by the provision of cooking schools for army cooks.

The soldier of 1914-18 saw little fresh fruit, fresh milk or eggs, even when in training in Canada. Sometimes there were dried prunes, then the only alternative to jam. Now Canadian honey, corn syrup and molasses are on the list as well as fresh apples.

When these cannot be obtained, nadian apple-pie filler, and canned nadian applie-pie filler, and canned Canadian pumpkin will be available.

Plenty of Fresh Fish.

Inclusion in the new list of Canadian fish, whether fresh, dried, canned, filleted or smoked, reduces the ration of beef and other fresh meats from one pound for each man each day to 14 ounces, in order that a greater variety may be had in meals, Mr. Rogers said.

Bread is now provided on the basis of 14 ounces a day, but the cook may draw 14 ounces of flour as an alternative, plus shortening and baking powder. This enables cooks to produce pies, cakes and cookies, for the mess hall. There is now an issue of four eggs a week for every man, and three ounces of salt pork for each man, as desired, may be had in lieu of the bacon allotment.

Cereals (two ounces) and macaroni (fuor ounces) are alternative issues to the rice ration of two ounces per day. The issue of cheese is one ounce. It now is possible for the units to draw 10 ounces of fresh pasteurized milk for 50 per cent. of its strength each day and five

76 of 77 in Crew are Rescued As Beaverburn Sinks Torpedoed Off Eire Coast

Loss Is First For Dominion Line Since War; Craft On Saint John-Liverpool Run Receives Quick Assistance In Rescue Work

LONDON, Feb. 6—(CP Cable).—Seventy-six of the crew of 77 aboard the torpedoed Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverburn were reported today to have been rescued.

Canadian Pacific Steamships officials said that according to information now available it is indicated that only one of the crew is missing and that he merely may not have been accounted for in first reports.

Only one native-born Canadian was among the crew of the fast cargo vessel when it was sunk off the south coast of Ireland and it is understood that he is not the missing man.

The name of the vessel which picked up the survivors was not announced. Neither was it known whether the men would be returned to England or proceed on their journey to Saint John, N.B.

The master of the Beaverburn is a Welshman, Captain Thomas Jones.

Rescue of the Beaverburn's crew was understood to have been effected promptly.

Loss of the 9,874-ton cargo vessel, first Canadian-owned vessel to go down since the start of the war, was announced by the Admiralty last night. Canadian Pacific Steamships representatives said they received first word of the sinking yesterday.

The vessel, built at Dumbarton in 1927 and strengthened for navigation in ice, had been plying between Liverpool and Saint John, N.B., since the start of the war. Previously, since 1928, she had been operating on an express cargo service between London and Montreal.

Well-known Skipper.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6 — (CP). — Captain Thomas Jones, master of the torpedoed Canadian Pacific express freighter Beaverburn, is a familiar shipping figure in St. Lawrence River and Maritime ports to which he sailed first at the outbreak of the First Great War.

The 57-year-old skipper who went to sea as a deck-boy at the age of 14, spent part of the last war in the duty of "trooping" across the Atlantic, and on one voyage aboard the liner Metagama narrowly escaped being torpedoed.

A Welshman from Aberarth in Cardiganshire, he received his first command in 1939 as master of the Lord Tweedsmuir Suffers Concussion

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.— (CP)— The Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir fell today and as a result suffered a concussion, it was announced from government house.

Lord Tweedsmuir was said to be resting comfortably.

The fall occurred inside government house.

The Governor-General's private physician immediately examined His Excellency and it was expected a statement on the extent of his injury would be issued later.

It was emphasized, however, that Lord Tweedsmuir was quite comfortable.

A spokesman at government house who gave out the information the Governor-General had fallen, said that until a statement was issued by the physician, nothing could be added to the first report that His Excellency suffered "a concussion."

Only 50 Million Deficit On Year

OTTAWA, Feb. 6—(CP). — Total deficit in government financing for the fiscal year which ended March 31 last was $50,891,744 which is about $5,000,000 less than estimated by Finance Minister Dunning when he delivered his budget address April 25. Final figures were shown in the public accounts made public today.

Total expenditure for the year was $553,063,098 and total receipts and credits $502,171,363. Total net debt of the Dominion at the close of the fiscal year was $3,152,559,314.

Expenses for ordinary purposes of government amounted to only $413,-032,202 and ordinary revenues were $498,016,706, which would have meant a surplus of $84,984,503.

But special expenditures due to relief, unemployment, wheat marketing assistance and railway deficits brought about the deficit on total account.

Drought relief, grants in aid to provinces, works projects and provision against loss in wheat marketing took $71,896,406, to which was added $58,943,494 in deficits on government-owned enterprises, $5,424,-276 for capital expenditures and $3,-767,718 for write down of assets, bringing total special expenditures to $140,031,876.

Charge 12 In U.S. As Recruiters For Spanish War

DETROIT, Feb. 6.—(AP)— The Federal Bureau of Investigation today arrested 11 persons in Detroit and one in Milwaukee on a charge of recruiting soldiers in 1937 and 1938 for the Spanish Republican Army.

Ten men and one woman were taken into custody.

They were indicted secretly last Saturday by a federal grand jury before Judge Edward J. Moinet in United States district court here.

Announcement of the arrests was made by John C. Lehr, district attorney at Detroit.

All the recruiting, Lehr announced, was in Detroit. Penalty for conviction, he said, is two years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Those arrested were:

Philip Raymond of Detroit, candidate for governor of Michigan on the Communist ticket in 1936.

Dr. Eugene Shefarman, who as a member of the staff of the Detroit Board of Health was charged with giving physical examinations to recruits and charging the expense to the city.

Dr. Frederick C. Lendrum, formerly of Detroit, arrested in Milwaukee.

City Council Urges Appointment Of J. J. Duffus To Canadian Senate

The council sent a telegram to Premier King last night unanimously recommending the appointment of J. J. Duffus to the Senate of Canada. The resolution was proposed by Alderman Dutton and seconded by Alderman McCannan, urging the recognition of the long service of Mr. Duffus as a public spirited citizen, and also his contribution as a Member of Parliament. It was suggested that he would be a worthy representative of Eastern Ontario, and that his appointment would be a public benefit.

"I don't think I need to say anything more than this resolution contains," Alderman Dutton said. "Mr. Duffus has given outstanding public service for years, a service that has been of high quality, and we are asking that it be recognized by his appointment to a vacancy in the Senate."

Ald. Stocker's Statement

The council received two resolutions last night, both protesting against remarks made by Alderman Stocker at the last meeting of the council regarding Dr. G. Murray Fraser, who is on leave as Medical Officer of Health and is on active service with the Canadian force in England. One of the resolutions was from the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion and the other was from the Red Patch Club,

When that stage was reached, Mayor Hamilton enquired: "What are you going to do with this letter from the Red Patch Club?"

Alderman Stocker made the following statement: "In my letter to the press I expressed my position. I said nothing in this council that was of a military criticism of Dr. Fraser, either directly or indirectly,

Expect Hepburn Will Shun Election Drive

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn's budget and some inkling of his position in the Federal election campaign will be the most anxiously awaited announcements in the Ontario legislature when the succession duty act has been dealt with.

After exhaustive discussion on second reading, and rejection by the government of all opposition-sponsored amendments, the new succession duty act was due for brief treatment on third reading today.

The measure, believed by the attorney-general's department to have been made foolproof this time, is designed to facilitate collection of succession duty arrears from estates to which clearances have been given. Most contentious clause is that closing the court to appeals on the valuation of certain assets in estates.

Premier Hepburn told the house yesterday that he hoped to have the budget ready for Thursday but was not certain it would be.

The provincial treasury, of which the Premier is minister, has speeded up preparations for the budget after waiting first, without result, for the Dominion government to bring down its budget.

Monarch Honors 2 Canadians, Gives 34 Medals

LONDON, Feb. 6 —(CP)— The King awarded a posthumous medal of the Order of the British Empire today to Commander Richard Jolly, who brought the destroyer Mohawk into port after being wounded so seriously by a German bomb that he died.

His widow received the award in the first investitute at Buckingham Palace since the war started.

The citation said Jolly refused medical aid after the air attack on his ship October 16 in the Firth of Forth, replying "Let me go and look after the others" who were wounded.

Eleven Distinguished Service Orders, 31 Distinguished Service Crosses, four Military Crosses and eight Distinguished Flying Crosses also were awarded.

Lieut.-Commander Edward Bickford, 30-year-old commander of the submarine Salmon which sank a German U-boat, torpedoed the German cruiser Leipzig and badly damaged another enemy cruiser, was decorated with the Distinguished Service Order. Commander Bickford is a son of Oscar Bickford, formerly of Toronto.

Two Canadians were handed the insignia of the Distinguished Flying Cross for outstanding feats in air warfare. They were Wing-Commander John Griffiths, 34, of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Pilot-Officer Selby Henderson, 21, of Winnipeg. The awards were originally announced January 2.

City Trust Commission's Demand $61,124.37 Below That Of 1939

Announcement of a reduction of $61,124.37 in the requirement of the City Trust Commission for this year was the brightest news feature of Monday night's meeting of the city council.

The Commission's demand for 1939 was $334,701.46, and for 1940 their requisition is down to $273,-577.09, the amount to be included in the present estimates for interest and sinking fund payments on the city's debentures.

"This reduction of $61,124.37 is accounted for party by allocation from the Commission's surplus account in lieu of levies with respect to sinking funds for debentures maturing in 1940 and 1941," City Treasurer Shaver commented this morning. "And it is also partly a result of no further levies being required with respect to debentures which matured December 31, 1939."

The order of the Ontario Municipal Board last month directed that sinking fund requirements for this year on debentures that are maturing this year and also in 1941 should be paid out of the City Trust Commission's surplus. The amount that would have been chargeable on the debentures maturing this year was $15,718.47, and the other amount chargable this year on debenture maturing in 1941 was $16,329.12. And as Mr. Shaver points out, the rest of the $41,124.37 is represented by the interest and sinking fund payments on debentures that matured at the end of 1939 and were retired.

Ratepayers will recall that some years ago Alderman Gordon began a one-man campaign to enable the city council to obtain some of the money that ha daccumulated in the City Trust Commission's surplus. In the beginning his plan was so broad that it contemplated the diversion of the entire surplus to the uses of the council. Gradually that objective was reduced in the council's discussions, and also by reason of other setbacks, but the council became convinced that at least some of the surplus could be safely transferred to the city treasury, thereby reducing the tax rate, and eventually a concerted appeal was made by the council resulting in the permissive bill, introduced by A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., as an amendment to the city special Act establishing the Commission, which now enables the council to get some immediate advantage from the splendid surplus built up by the Commission. The remaining check on the council's applications is provided for in the necessity of obtaining the sanction of the Ontario Municipal Board for this year's aid and for any other withdrawals from the Commission's surplus that may be approved next year or thereafter.

Paint Maker Leaves 15 Employees His Factory Worth Millions, To Carry On Tradition

AMBLER, Pa., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Enriched by the millions left by their paint manufacturer employer, the key employee sof J. Harvey Gravell plan to carry on the traditions and business policies he fostered.

The 15 who were bequeathed the bulk of Gravell's $3,000,000 estate disclosed through a spokesman that there would be no change in the operation of the American Chemical Paint Company plant here.

Grateful for the final generous gesture of the man who one Christmas gave his workers $100,-000 to pay off their debts, the legatees said they intended to establish a permanent memorial for him.

Standing to benefit handsomely even after estate and inheritance taxes reduced the fortune, the employees, most of whom have large families, indicated the windfall would alter the course of their lives.

"I'm going to send my sons to college," said Frank Scardino after terms of Gravell's will were announced.

Quarter Million More Jobless In UK Than Start Of War, Press Protests

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP) — Commenting on unemployment figures issued by the labor ministry, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express declared today that the fact there are "nearly a quarter million more unemployed now than when the war started will give fresh arguments to those who demand a new minister to direct our economic effort."

Prime Minister Chamberlain last week rejected a suggestion made in parliament that a minister be appointed to the war cabinet to have contr l of economic phases of the war. Last night's unemployment figures showed the number of jobless had increased 157,371 to a total of 1,518,896 in January. The increase was "due almost entirely to the exceptional weather," the announcement said.

"Men without jobs — 1,518,896— that's the figure," said the Express. "This is the number of unemployed in this country. Look at it as you may, twist and turn it as you will, subtract what you can for special causes. Blame the weather, accuse the snow, condemn the frost. The fact still remains there are nearly a quarter million more unemployed than when the war started."

Move the Government's

Daily Herald (Labor) said of the economic situation: "Labor has never been an obstacle to the expansion of our industrial war effort. It is the government's job to expand the arms and aircraft production by every means in its power continuously and relentlessly.

"The country is not satisfied with what has been done so far. Least of all it is satisfied with the continued survival of the workless army at a time when ministers are calling all to fresh effort and sacrifice."

Fred Smith, general secretary of the amalgamated engineering union, said after a conference on the armaments program yesterday with Labor Minister Ernest Brown, "It is the most ambitious program I have ever seen. It means an immense new labor force will be needed."

To keep arms production in step with the calling up of new men, plans are under consideration for possible employment of as many as 1,000,000 women.

IRA Feeling High Over Death For 2 Bombers

DUBLIN, Feb. 6 (AP)—Nationalist feeling rose in Eire today following refusal of British authorities to reprieve two members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army sentenced to die at Birmingham tomorrow for their part in a bombing which killed five persons.

The British home office announced last night it saw no reason to grant reprieves for Peter Barnes, 32, and James Richards, 29, convicted of responsibility for the blast which killed five persons and injured close to 100 others in Coventry, England, last Aug. 25.

Shortly before the announcement saying the home secretary "would not be justified in recommending any interference with the due course of the law," the Dublin City Council urged the British Government to exercise what it described as "wise statesmanship" by granting clemency.

Many mass meetings have adopted resolutions calling for intervention on behalf of the condemned men—such as a Sunday night meeting in Dublin which asked for reprieve "to ayert the risk of extinguishing all hope of enduring peace between Great Britain and Eire."

Valera May Move?

An 11th-hour discussion of the case was expected at a meeting of the Irish cabinet today. Prime Minister Eamon De Valera conferred with officials after midnight.

De Valera has labored to check the I.R.A.'s program of terrorism.

The premier's newspaper, The Irish Press, said today, "It is unnecessary for us to dwell on the emotion with which the sentences of death on these men have been received in this country during the last few days.

"It has been shown that the appeal the government has made for their reprieve has the support of a great majority of people."

The Irish Times said: "We believe that from the point of view of Great Britain there can be no higher ideal than promotion of Anglo-Irish friendship, and for that reason and that reason alone we venture to plead for an act of mercy."

Mercy pleas in the Irish press found no echo in London newspapers.

The Daily Mail recalled that the Coventry explosion was "not the first crime of its kind" in the I.R.A.'s campaign of violences shortly before the outbreak of the war and concluded:—

"Two men have been found guilty of murder. They must pay the penalty."

Fear Bacon Kick May Imperil U.S. Cattle Mart

TORONTO, Feb. 6—(CP). — Demands by Canadian producers for curtailment of United States exports of bacon to Canada may imperil the growing market in the United States for Canadian cattle, Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan Agriculture Minister and chairman of the Canadian Bacon Board, said here last night in an address to the Ontario Swine Breeders' Association.

Export of Canadian hogs to the United States in 1936, 1937 and 1938 were equal in value to importations of United States bacon to the Dominion in 1939, he said. In addition the value of Canadian cattle sales south of the border have been increased by $15,000,000 yearly.

"Do we want to imperil this because 29,000,000 pounds of pork came in from the United States in 1939," Mr. Taggart asked. "The imports of pork have not impaired the price to the Canadian farmer." Any move on the part of Canadian producers to cut down imports of United States bacon might be construed as a violation of the Canadian-United States agreement boosting American imports of Canadian beef, he said.

Mr. Taggart forecast that Can-

Jail Guard Doubled.

The guard around the Birmingham jail was redoubled against any effort to save Richards or Barnes or to stage a bombing of the jail.

Special units of Scotland yard versed in I.R.A. tactics supervised a watch in key post offices for further bombings. Special precautions were taken in railway luggage rooms, where numerous bombs were planted last summer.

Feeling reached a pitch recalling the atmosphere surrounding the hanging of three Irish Republicans for the killing of a police sergeant in Manchester in 1867. The trio became known as the "Manchester martyrs."

Joseph Hewitt, 29, acquitted of murder in the Coventry blast, was freed to-day on charges of conspiracy to cause explosions, possessing explosives and causing an explosion. The prosecution offered no evidence against him.

Barnes and Richards were sentenced Dec. 14, receiving the first death penalties in the I.R.A campaign of terror, begun in January, 1939.

Among the more serious bombings was one at London's Kings Cross railway station last July 26, when one man was killed and 15 injured. There was another at Victoria station on the same day. In June several minor explosions occurred in railway stations at Birmingham and other points.

Sweden has appropriated over $7,000,000 to aid its farmers.

Troops Of India Kept Busy On French Roads

WITH THE B.E.F. SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Feb. 6.—(CP)—Within a couple of miles of the British Army's front line turbaned Indians and army mules brought from the Punjab are toiling to bolster the cobbled roads for wartime traffic.

In the cold spell just past, the Punjab wore the woollen cap-comforter of khaki, the regular army issue in India and next thing to the French-Canadian toque. But now they are back again to the trim turbans they call pagris—each made of nine yards of khaki cloth.

These hardy soldiers can stand the cold for the temperature is as extreme in the Punjab as in the north of France, but in idle moments they crowd chatering around their camp fires just as working Tommies steal moments to crowd around a gleaming brazier.

The mules and their all-metal carts are used for hauling cement, sandbags, gun ammunition and ammunition boxes and all sorts of trench stores. They are just the think for packing brushwood used for revetting trench and anti-tank ditches.

The carts came all the way from India, knocked down. They are two-wheeled affairs which fold up like a collapsible go-cart but can carry a burden of almost half a ton.

The mules may be used for packing as well as hauling to save the use of motor transport on smaller tasks which scarcely justify the necessary expenditure of gasoline. Their pack saddles are fitted with a swivel attachment which may be connected with the wagon-pole of the two-mule cart.

No Language Trouble

"We have no trouble at all over the fact that virtually all of these troops do not understand English," said the English major of the Royal Indian Army Service Corps who is in charge. "They are extremely clever at picking up ideas and once they become acquainted with the various points and the general location of this part of the country they will be quite at home."

By coincidence there are a number of officers in this area who have served for many years in the Indian Army but actually there are only two British officers and one British warrant officers in the Indian Mule Company. Officers are native Indians, one of whom — Risaldar Muhd Hussain — was in France in the last war, coming out as a sepoy in 1914.

The Punjabi are Mohammedans and they brought their own padre or moulu. They brought along also a supply of atta, or coarse ground oatmeal from which they make chupattis, leather-like biscuits somewhat in the shape of pancakes. They cover these with turkhari, a highly spiced stew of vegetables and meats.

The only meat these Mohammedans eat is goat or sheep, though the French variety is not banned. When this correspondent visited the muleteers a lonely, sad-looking sheep was tethered in the corner of a barn looking much like a fat turkey on Thanksgiving Eve. The Indians brought their own butcher to kill the meat with a short ceremony called halal.

Five times a day prayer is held and between times the Punjabi bustle about as if they figured a German attack might be making for the morrow. They seem always busy except in those luxurious moments when they pause for a "drag" at the ever-smoking huqqa or water-pipe kept available day and night.

One-quarter ounce of chocolate has been added to the list of beverages as an alternative to coffee and tea.

The dail yissue of fresh vegetables is increased from six to eight ounces for each man. Canned tomatoes are an alternative, to be issued twice a week.

3 Ounces of Sugar

Split peas and dried beans remain on the list as before. The soldier or airman still consumes three ounces of granulated sugar a day. Iodized salt, one-half ounce a day, replaces the ordinary table salt. Each soldier is alloted 1-36th ounce of pepper in his daily diet.

This brings into effect a broad variation of the 1914 ration list which was as follows: Bread one pound; meat one pound; potatoes one pound; bacon two ounces; jam two ounces; butter two ounces; white sugar two ounces; fresh vegetables six ounces; cheese one ounce; split peas half an ounce; salt, half an ounce; coffee one third ounce; tea, one quarter ounce; pepper one thirty-sixth ounce and milk powder one and a half ounces.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Japs Are Given Nazis Unfit For War Service

TOKYO, Feb. 6 (AP)—Great Britain has agreed to return nine of 21 German seamen seized from the Japanese liner Asama Maru, foreign minister Hachiro Arita announced today.

In connection with this compromise on an incident which Japanese had taken as an affront, Arita said Japanese steamship lines had been instructed to refuse to accept as passengers belligerent nationals who are "enlisted in military services and those who may possibly be enlisted."

The foreign minister expressed belief this would prevent another such incident but told the diet(parliament), "I cannot say that the case is entirely settled."

(The Shanghai office of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, one of the principal steamship companies of Japan and operators of the Asama Maru, announced today it would not accept as passengers Germans subject to military service.

(The announcement said any Germans who had booked passage on NYK ships would be subject to investigation and possible rejection even though tickets already had been issued.)

Arita declared that Japan would continue to negotiate for the return of all 21 seamen. They were seized by a British cruiser Jan. 20 about 35 miles off Yokohama and interned at Hong Kong.

Arita told the Diet that the Japanese government "cannot express satisfaction because the number of Germans to be delivered to Japanese authorities is only part of those whose extradition was demanded."

Some Not Fit to Fight.

The Foreign Minister said that Britain, in the diplomatic exchange after the incident, pointed out that seizure was legal and proper. However, an investigation showed that some of the Germans detained were "short in their military service and Mr. Hogg, "for even if it were undertaken to-morrow it would be five years at least before it could become of use. There are many people who question the wisdom of inaugurating so great an undertaking at this time. That viewpoint is understandable but there are circumstances under which action must be taken at the time when it is possible to take it.

Decision Now

"When there are four parties to any agreement and a fifth that must be considered, one of the major difficulties is securing a united opinion. The project that involves Canada and the United States, New York State and the Province of Ontario as active participants, with Quebec as an indirectly interested one, has been fraught with all sorts of difficulties, political and otherwise. It has come to a stage now where there must be some measure of compromise.

Major Parties Agreed

"Where three of the four participants are ready and the fourth believes in the soundness of the project, the occasion may be said to be opportune. If it were not for the war we should scarcely hesitate; if we wait, other even more formidable obstacles may arise."

Mr. Hogg said that his most direct concern with the St. Lawrence development is with the power aspect of the question. The Ontario Hydro Commission is not as yet dependent on early development of the St. Lawrence for additional power supplies, even though additional quickly-available Niagara power and the use of water from Ogoki and Long Lac diversions are linked with it.

"What we must know, and know soon, is whether or not the St. Lawrence is to go ahead at once. Our plans for the next five or six years will be very different in the one case from the other, and we must have a decision that will enable those plans to be laid within a very few months. This is the crux of the whole situation so far as I and my colleagues are concerned."

Mr. Hogg declared that the Ontario Hydro must plan and move in advance. "We are told that our industries are to be organized on an unprecedented scale. We are told that in a long war Canada may become the arsenal of the Empire. To what extent this may be true I cannot say. But I can tell you that Canada cannot possibly play such a part unless she can supply huge additional quantities of electric power."

CurbOn Freedom Says Manion Of Radio Gag

OTTAWA, Feb. 6—(CP).—Censorship of political speeches over the radio becafne a campaign issue today as the Liberals and Conservatives made final arrangements for launching their election drives.

Conservative Leader Manion, in a press statement last night, said he wished publicly and emphatically "to protest against the regulation which will force me and other candidates for the Parliament of Canada to submit our radio broadcasts to the censorship of the (Canadian) Broadcasting Corporation."

Freedom of speech in parliament, the press, on the radio and in public assembly is the chief hallmark of democratic freedom, Dr. Manion said.

"The whole radio proposal is ridiculous, even vicious, and, in addition, endangers all the liberties of press and speech and religion and assembly which we hold dear. It is indeed time that press and people demanded and insisted upon, their rights."

The Conservative leader said that the Defence of Canada Regulations were sufficient guarantee against disloyalty and treason and the additional restrictions were unnecessary.

First Speech Wednesday.

With the dispute over radio speeches featuring political developments, the major parties worked day and night organizing their campaigns. Prime Minister Mackenzie King makes his first speech tomorrow night over the National network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and will outline the government's position. On Thursday, Dr. Manion starts a coast-to-coast tour by addressing a public meeting in Brockville, Ont.

Apparently in reply to Dr. Manion's charges that many Canadian troops overseas were sick, Defence Minister Rogers last night said he had received a summary report from the senior medical officer of Canadian military headquarters in London regarding health of the Canadian troops at Aldershot.

Mr. Rogers said the report stated that there has been a mild type of influenza epidemic throughout the country for the last six weeks and consequently a large number of Canadians were affected.

Only six of the cases admitted to hospital were diagnosed as pneumonia, however, and there have been no deaths from disease caused by conditions at Aldershot.

"Other than influenza, incidence of disease has been very light, particularly considering weather and other factors. The health of the division has been very satisfactory," the Minister said he had been informed.

No War Council Tips Leak Out

PARIS, Feb. 6—(AP). — The French press stressed today a desire to aid Finland quickly on the heels of the fifth British-French Supreme War Council session, at which the Finnish-Russian war was reported to have been discussed.

Some newspapers carried a statement by Risto Ryti, Finnish Premier, that "the quickest aid is the most effective."

They gave no light, however, on any possible allied decisions concerning further shipments of airplanes and munitions to the embattled Finns.

The paper L'Ordre said, "If aid is going to be given to Finland in the spirit of saving her, it will be necessary to act with very great speed."

The War Council was reported by the War Ministry to have reached "complete accord" on measures "assuring the greatest efficacy of French-British collaboration."

Premier Daladier and Prime Minister Chamberlain, who arrived, characteristically, with his umbella in hand, presided jointly yesterday over the all-day session of high ranking war leaders.

A brief War Ministry communique said the council "examined in all their aspects the various elements of the present situation which interest the general conduct of the war."

It added that "the question of food stocks was notably studied," but did not mention specifically the other matters which received attention.

Dutch Preparing

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 6 — (AP).—The newspaper De Telegraaf reported to-day that the government had decided to strengthen defences in the Netherlands East Indies.

Interesting Meeting Is Held By C.W.L.

The February meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum Monday evening with Miss L. Hurley, president, in the chair. Reports of the various officers were read, and a musical program was presented. Numbers included a piano solo, Miss Doris Strickland; vocal duet, Misses Schiarizza; vocal solo, Mrs. Harold Coulson. Accompanists were Miss Doris Strickland and Miss Agnes Grant.

Rev. P. J. Kelly, LL.D., introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. J. R. Corkery, who gave an interesting address on the Peterborough Workingmens' Building and Savings Society. The Society was organized in 1889, 51 years ago, by a group of honest, farseeing men to promote systematic savings among its members. These savings are invested in mortgages on real estate and first class ssecurities, furnishing credit to its member for the purchase or construction of homes. The company is conducted on a purely co-operative basis, the net profits being distributed among the shareholders. The company's overhead expense is kept down to a minimum and as a result a high revenue is paid shareholders.

Many of the present shareholders who first joined for the purpose of buying or paying for their homes, and who have long since paid for them, are still making the monthly investment of their savings and participating in the generous revenue which is earned by the investment of the Society's funds, Mr. Corkery explained. The home-owner rarely falls a prey to the false doctrines of communism, he said.

An interesting discussion followed, and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL.

A three-story birthday cake topped by twenty candles in honor of the twentieth anniversary of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, and tall pink tapers in silver holders, decked the tea table Monday night at a special Founder's Night meeting, at which Mrs. A. B. Silcox, president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, was guest speaker. Mrs. George Helson presided at the tea table.

Daffodils, and pastel candles of yellow and blue, were lon a small table at which a candle-lighting service took place in commemoration of the date of the founding of the Home and School Associations by Mrs. A. C. Courtice. The memory candle was lighted by small Jean Smith, in honor of the founder, Mrs. Courtice; the national candle was lighted by Mrs. Spicer in honor of the National and Federal Home and School; the third candle was lighted by the guest of honor, Mrs. Silcox, in honor of the Ontario and Federal Home and School Associations, and the fourth candle, called the "Local Candle," was lighted by the president, Mrs. V. R. Henry, in honor of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association.

Mrs. V. R. Henry, president, welcomed the guest of honor and members of the Association. M. H. Park, former principal of the school, sang two fine solos, accompanied at the piano by Gwen Craw. Mrs. C. Foster also sang a delightful solo, with Mrs. Purdy at the piano.

In her interesting address, Mrs. Silcox spoke of the candle-lighting ceremony as a fitting gesture illustrating the carrying on of the light, and of the love of childhood which binds us to a common purpose and of which both parent and teacher must have in order to be a member of the Home and School Association, and stressed the importance of regular attendance at meetings, thus proving the interest of mothers in Home and School work.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mrs. Charleton McBride. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Webb and her committee.

Regrets that they were unable to be present were received from Mrs. H. E. Yenny, who is in Florida, and Mrs. F. F. M. Touchburn.

We Noticed

....Just about now, when the sun hides behind a sky-enveloping cloud and even the celan white blanket of snow had disappeared into the obscurity of gritty streets and drab little puddles, don't you feel a reckless desire to rise above dullness and at least create the illusion of spring light-heartedness by adding some rebellious dash of gaiety to your wardrobe?

... Luckily, there are numberless ways of doing just that. Seems as if fashion designers know all about that mid-winter feeling, so they have thoughtfully provided little hats, boutonniers, gloves, bags and belts in lovely symphonic pastels that look as if they have grown up with the first spring blossoms.

....The names of such delightful shades are a spring song in themselves, too, because they are identified by such alluring terms as pink mist, shell turquoise, moonlight, coral cocktail, etc.

....You can do such interesting things with them—buy several scarfs in whatever several shades you can't resist, and wind them blithely 'round your head, ending up with a carefully careless knot, loop them about your neck, or make a tri-color sash for that little dark dress you're so weary of—we'll wager the effect will lift the spirits of those around you as well as your own.

Hospital Auxiliary Has Membership Of 2,298

Delving into the past, extracting the names of pioneers in medicine, and outlining some of their achievements, Dr. H. V. Dobson was heard in a fine educational address Monday afternoon that was free from the usual medical terms so perplexing to the uninitiated. A clear picture of personalities in medicine from its known beginning, Dr. Dobson's talk was of intense interest to the members of the Nicholls Hospital Women's Auxiliary at their general meeting in Park Street Baptist church.

Rev. C. C. Boyter, pastor of the church, welcomed the organization. Dr. Dobson was introduced by the Auxiliary president, Mrs. Ivan T. Lillico ,and appreciation to the speaker, Rev. Boyter and members of the congregation for the use of the church was expressed on behalf of the Auxiliary by Mrs. J. G. Wharry.

The art and science of medicine has its roots buried in antiquity, Dr. Dobson said. Medicine is as old as man, and in its primitive stage was closely associated with religious beliefs.

Food Cause Of Ill Health.

The first applying of logical thinking in regard to disease is credited to the Greeks, and it is interesting to note that the first observations ahd to do with food as the cause of ill health, the speaker said. From the time of Hippocrates, the greatest physician of ancient times, usually designated the "Father of Medicine," and distinguished for his remarkable skill in diagnosis; through the medieval period known as the dark ages, an era when no outstanding personality in medicine is remembererd; the Renaissance period, which brought a revival in all branches of learning; the 18th Century; the 19th Century, which marked the beginning of organized medical improvement, to the day of Sir William Osler, born at Bond Head, Simcoe county, who was not only a well-known Canadian medical man, but a physician revered throughout the world, Dr. Dobson traced medical history, paying as he did so a sincere tribute to the pioneers in medicine who carried on in the fact of indifferense and narrow-mindedness— the greatest hindrance to medical progress.

The encouraging total of Auxiliary membership is 2,242 to date, Mrs. S. J. Graham stated in her membership report, 241 over the membership last year, which was in turn 100 over the first year. This does not include the 56 life memberships, which would make a grand total of 2,296 members. There are a number of members from outside points. To date Keene has 10, Lakefield 11, Bridgenorth 40, Millbrook 24, Norwood 15.

Mrs. E. V. Morphet, treasurer, gave her report as follows: Membership, $377.84 plus one $500 bond; special account, $672.81 plus two $500 bonds; fees or geneal account, $554.66. Mrs. Comstock, convener of the visiting committee, reported 380 visits made since the last general meeting and spoke of Christmas stockngs, Christmas cards and New Year's baskets of frfuit sent to the haspital. Mrs. Hill, for the Thursday Club, told of two layettes made each month for the hospital—the club meets every Thursday afternoon at the various homes of members; 915 artitcles were made, Mrs. Detcher, sewing convener, stated.

Speaker Declares "Founder's Day" Should Be One Of Stock-taking

Mrs. A. B. Silcox of Toronto, president of the Ontario Federation of Home and Schools, as guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. R. Parnell, president of the Home and School Council, at the Founder's Day meeting held at the Queen Mary School Monday afternoon.

"Founder's Day," Mrs. Silcox said, "is not a day for mourning, but rather a day of stock-taking, a comparing of our work with the high example set us by the pioneers of the movement." She stressed that the interests of the child must be uppermost with the Association in order to conform to the ideals of the founder. Love of the child binds teacher and parent in a common bond to work together for the common good of the child. The teacher gives leadership, guidance, advice, and is helpful in the choosing of vocations. Because of the knowledge gained of the child's background by contact with parents, she is better able to understand and deal with the child, particularly the difficult one. From the parent the child receives training in regularity, punctuality, self-control, respect for authority, and good citizenship.

A sense of responsibility towards his home should be taught him, continued Mrs. Silcox, and in this efficient world, where the chores once assigned to the child to make him conscious of his duty as a member of the household are done mechanically, we must cast about for other means of character building. No two children are alike, and as often as birth occurs a separate and distinct personality is born requiring spiritual and mental guidance for its own particular needs. Books and magazines in amazing variety are supplied to our children, and parents should be alert to the fact that without proper reading direction this privilege can be most harmful.

It is our duty as parents to learn the laws of our country affecting children, and to take an active interest in the Government by choosing men of integrity to represent us, Mrs. Silcox declared. Every condition that affects our community is distinctly our affair. To carry out successfully this profession of parenthood which we have accepted, we must first train ourselves. Often faults displayed by the child are a direct reflection of our own re-action to difficult situations. Above all things, she emphasized, we owe our children spiritual and religious training, without which any education, however good, is incomplete and lacking.

Mrs. L. Ingram from the chair welcomed the large number of parents, guests, officials and past presidents of the organization present, and led in the reading of the Home and School Creed.

Miss Mary Medd, daughter of the late Mrs. S. T. Medd, the first president of the Queen Mary branch of the Association, entertained with three delightful song numbers, accompanied at the piano by Gwen Craw.

The intricate maze of events which comprises the European situation was summed up by Mrs. T. J. Carley. With new developments in China and Japan, she explained, the whole has become so involved as to seem a bewildering circle.

The tea table was charmingly laid with a Point de Venise cloth and silver candelabra. The birthday cake with its twenty-two candles was centre of interest. Mrs. W. E. Conway, organizer of the first Mothers' Club, officiated at the candle-lighting ceremony. On a screen above the table a picture of Mrs. A. C. Courtice, the founder, was projected by Miss Stenton. Mrs. Charles Stanton read an inspiring prayer.

Mrs. J. Turnbull moved a vote of thanks to those who had given assistance towards the success of the occasion, and after the singing of the National Anthem, refreshments were served. Tea was poured by Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge and Mrs. J. E. Middleton, both past presidents of the Association.

DOROTHY DIX

Every Wife Should Constantly Seek to Improve Herself So That She Can Keep Abreast of Her Husband, Who Gains Much Through His More Frequent Outside Contacts.

DEAR MISS DIX—I feel that my husband is going ahead of me. He has achieved much success in business. Through the association this brings him and through travel he has acquired culture, while my care of the home and the children has kept me at a standstill. I love him dearly and do not want him to feel that his wife is a handicap to him. I am willing to do anything to keep step with him. How can I?

MRS. D. H.

ANSWER:

You are a wise woman, Mrs. D. H., to realize that you must keep up with your husband or lose him. For a man's success in business takes him into a world where he is brought in contact with educated and cultivated and worldly wise people. If his wife cannot hold her own among these, if she is dull and stupid and awkward, her husband is ashamed of her and finds some pretext for leaving her at home.

The successful man also meets brilliant and beautiful and exquisitely gowned women, and when he contrasts the dowdy looking little hen on the home nest with those strutting peacocks he is likely to forget that it was to the hen's industrious scratching that he owes his start in life and much that he has achieved. So you will do well to have the courage to face the situation and see that if you are to keep up with your husband in the race you will have to speed up.

My advice to you is to sit down and have a heart-to-heart session with yourself and determine where in you fail and what you most need to know. Perhaps you are uncertain of your grammar and pronunciation. Perhaps you were reared in a home where food was food and the only table etiquette consisted in dividing it out fairly hungry children. Perhaps you have read little.

Don't be too proud or too vain to admit to yourself your shortcomings. Then go secretly to some educated and cultivated woman who has had the social advantages that you have lacked and get her to give you lessons in table etiquette, in voice culture and to correct your grammar and pronunciation. In every community there are women who, as the phrase goes, "have seen better days," and who would be glad to earn money by taking such a pupil. If you could get some such lady to be your companion for even a few months you would find yourself perfectly at ease in any company. Then, read, read! Read the new books, the magazines, the newspapers, so that you can discuss intelligently any question that comes up. This will not only save you from being a dummy in society, but will make you an interesting companion to your husband at home.

Finally, and this is very important, improve your looks. Spend money in the beauty parlor. Go to some good dressmaker and put yourself in her hands and let her pick out your clothes for you. Don't trust your own taste. Take the opinion of an expert. Do these things and you will have no difficulty in keeping up with your husband.

Marrying for Meal Ticket Sorry Bargain

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Mother has been a widow for several years, and, as she is very good-looking, intelligent and well-to-do financially, she has had many offers of marriage. She now has one especially comfortable offer, but it is just comfortable and she is very doubtful about whether to accept it or not or to wait to meet some man who can give her a beautiful home, fine things, travel and so forth. What do you think?

A DAUGHTER.

ANSWER:

Personally, I do not see why any woman ever marries under any circumstances unless she is so much in love with a man that she feels that life without him will be dust and ashes in her teeth.

I think that the woman who marries just to get a meal ticket makes a sorry bargain, and that she would find it easier to earn her own bread and butter in a store or office than by having to work for a living in some man's kitchen and having to put up with his whims and tempers besides.

So my advice to your mother is not to marry any man unless she is so enamored of him that she feels that she cannot exist without him. As she is sitting pretty, why risk the happiness she has? She has her children for company. She has enough money on which to live comfortably. She has a perfect liberty to do as she pleases. She doesn't have to consult any man's pleasure nor put up with any man's disposition. So it seems to me that she will be a wise dame if she lets well enough alone.

As for waiting for some man to come along who can give her everything that she desires, that's taking a long shot on a good thing. Fairy Princes are not plentiful, and when they do come riding by their choice is likely to fall on some pretty young girl, not a widow with half-grown children. The men who court well-to-do widows generally have an eye on the lady's pocketbook instead of their having fat wallets of their own to offer.

Nor, even if a man gives his wife a fine house and beautiful clothes and travel, will these insure her happiness. That depends altogether on her feelings toward the man himself. Therefore, I advise your mother not to take her "just comfortable" offer, but to wait until she gets her big chance to marry some man she cares so much for that she will not consider what else he can give her so long as he gives her his heart.

Paying the Price for Too Early Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX.—I am a married man with two children. All in the world my wife cares to do is to go to dances and parties. She neglects the babies shamefully. I married when I was 16 years of age and my wife was 13. We have been married almost five years. My wife will not do her duty and the only thing I can do is to divorce her, but I do not want to do that because of the children. Is there no way in which she can be compelled to stay at home?

DISGUSTED.

ANSWER:

You poor little kids! What a price you are paying for a too-early marriage. Can't you see that nothing is the matter with your wife except that she is just a young girl, with a young girl's desire for pleasure? Why, she is only 18 now, and if you can only have a little patience with her in a year or two she will get tired of her parties and be ready to settle down. But I am sorry for you, you poor, care-burdened husband at 21! What a crime it is that the law allows children to wreck their lives by these premature marriages!

Play Leap Year Stunts at Valentine Party

"Flying Hearts" Starts Fun

Valentine's Day in Leap Year! With Cupid your ally, with a store of jolly stunts and games, what a party you can give!

Fun to pair off your guests with the romantic ice-breaker "Flying Hearts"—done Leap Year style. Give each girl a red tissue paper heart inscribed with her name. With a fan (one made of newspaper will do) she must waft her heart across the room to the man of her choice.

If she's successful, her chosen one becomes her partner, wears her heart on his lapel. But if the heart falls to the floor before reaching him, she loses her Leap Year privilege, has to wait until some man chooses her.

Grand fun, too, is "Heart Fortunes." Have ready a huge cardboard heart divided into sections, in each of which you've written an exciting fortune such as "Sudden Journey," "Beware a Rival," "Redhead Loves You." Blindfold each guest, spin him around and then let him pick his fate.

Any season of the year you give a successful party when you know lively games. Keep on hand our 32-page booklet, packed with ice-breakers, fortune stunts, brain-teasers, action games, many kinds of capers for many kinds of parties.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of PARTY GAMES FOR ALL OCCASIONS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, Feb. 6

The auguries for this day point to very definite and persistent obstacles, with deep-rooted opposition and hostility. Indulgence in fury and unrestricted impetuosity may fan the fiery flame and precipitate a devastating holacaust. But a firm grip on inclinations to violence and passion, with tact, diplomacy and strategem, may combine to avert disaster. The danger is from strife, contention and litigation. Make any change prudently.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which any sort of gain and satisfaction must be wrested from a state of hostility, fiery opposition, deep-seated impediments and a generally turbulent and malignant state of affairs. To meet violence with violence, and passion with strife, would be calamitous and probably end in fruitless litigation. Reserve, restraint and finesse, even intrigue, may win the day.

A child born on this day may be bold and enterprising, but tempestuous, reckless and ungoverned in temper and speech, thereby inciting violent opposition, hate and litigation.

Chest Wheezing Means Bronchitis

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied with a rapid wheezing and feeling of tightness across the chest.

There is a rising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light color, but as the disease progresses becomes yellowish or greenish, and is sometimes streaked with blood.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucus, and help nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

A Family Wiped Out

Alvin H. Schlegel of Preston was 45 years of age. He had lived in that town for 25 years, coming there in the employ of a bank and later accepting a responsible position with a furniture company. He was secretary-treasurer. He had taken a prominent part in community enterprises, had been president of the O.H.A. He was married, and had a son 12 years old and a daughter who had been married in November.

Sunday evening the married daughter and her husband had been at his home for dinner. Schlegel appeared quieter than usual, but that was all. After the daughter and her husband left for church Schlegel secured a revolver from his office, went home and shot his wife and son. He waited until the daughter returned and shot her, after which he turned the gun on himself and the family was wiped out.

It is reported there will be no inquest, and it may be that if an inquest were held there would be little made known. Certainly nothing could be done to repair the damage. Schlegel had been consulting a doctor in recent times and one report from Preston says he was regarded as having been mentally ill. That is a mild way to state the case as the man was undoubtedly violently insane. Whether a doctor not skilled in mental disorders could have correctly diagnosed such a case is open to a good deal of doubt. Had he been able to read symptoms accurately he would not have allowed the man to have retained his liberty.

It is not worth while trying to find out what went wrong with the man's mind. All the psychiatrists who could be assembled would not agree. They would be dealing with a man, normal and healthy, who had for years followed the routine of self-preservation, and he had extended that feeling to his wife and children. He cared for them, loved them and protected them, and he was normal and sane. Then he changed, and if he had given evidence of that change to the doctor whom he consulted then he should have been deprived of his liberty at once. But there we are speculating because we do not know what was revealed to the doctor.

An Act Carefully Written

The Workmen's Compensation Act has been in force in Ontario for 25 years and the men who framed that piece of legislation were wiser than was admitted at the time. Their wisdom has become apparent in the years in between because the cost of administration is as low as 6.56% of the benefits paid. Mr. C. A. Salmonsen of the Canadian General Electric Peterborough branch, when addressing a recent dinner meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association in Toronto, said similar Acts elsewhere were reported to have an administration cost equal to the amount of the benefits paid out That is, if there were $100 paid in benefits there would be another $100 paid to those who administered the Act. In Ontario the administration costs would be $6.56.

Mr. Salmonsen admitted the Act was well administered, but he went back 25 years to pay tribute to "the uncanny prudence in the foresight of the writers of the Act. With unbelievable wisdom between the lines the Act was written in such a way that administration costs can be kept at a minimum, and right there was injected a feature which cannot be over-estimated."

Mr. Salmonsen puts a finger on the place where costs of this Act could have been touched into large dimensions. This way: "It would not have been difficult to provide only for travelling courts, or a small army of inspectors to gather facts and evidence at exorbitant expense. It would not have been unreasonable to have a host of Government inspectors floating through the province from one end to the other."

Admittedly the Act is fair to employers and they approve of it. They can without ill-will or suspicion make investigation of all claims lodged against them, and in so doing they can become more assured of the wisdom of keeping their work-shop in such order that accidents will diminish to the vanishing point.

The point made by Mr. Salmonsen can be extended to a good many other enactments in this province and in the Dominion. The careful writing of the measure in the first place precluded a large array of new servants being added to the public pay-roll. The result is that benefits go to those who are injured rather than to those who might spend much time finding out why they were injured. And as Mr. Salmonsen so clearly indicated, right there is one of the major reasons why the Workmen's Compensation Act is in such good repute after having stood the test for a quarter of a century.

The Squirrel Starts Trees

In a note forwarded to the Examiner a reader who likes to point a moral now and then explains that the squirrels are living through the winter on what they gathered during the fall. "I live in a place where we know our squirrels. I see them day after day storing material and they know where it is kept when they have need of it."

We doubt whether that is entirely correct. The squirrel has not a good memory, and perhaps that is what was intended because the same failing runs through the entire family. The squirrel probably has a good store house some place but often enough he stops here and stops there to bury a nut of some sort. He does it hurriedly and digs out only a little hole in the ground, and that is how a good many trees get their start. The squirrel does not remember where it did that particular piece of temporary storing because his memory is not good. This is going on all over the country and squirrels are actually doing more work in reforestation than is generally credited to them.

Selling Farm Produce

Some years ago the marketing of anything which a farmer produced was a simple enough business. But today the thing has become complicated; it moves in great volume or it does not move at all. Just recently there have been two examples. The Canadian Horticultural Council was in session at Ottawa and what to do with apples was the topic under discussion. War conditions have caused the usual channels of export to disappear, and the outlook for 1940 is described as being none too good.

At the Ottawa meeting it was explained that an orchard is a 15-year investment before there are no returns from it, although 10 years will bring returns in some varieties. It is not a business which can be stepped up hurriedly for any one year. Some of the speakers were afraid that with a poor market there would be a tendency to allow existing orchards to deteriorate, and little encouragement to begin new ones, and in that way the industry as a whole might be injured. Nova Scotia and British Columbia were referred to as the places where the greatest commercial orchards existed and therefore they were most likely to be affected.

The cure suggested for the present situation is that the Dominion Government hand over sufficient money to make certain that the industry shall exist until conditions become normal.

The other meeting which had a problem was the Manitoba Poultry Pool in Winnipeg. W. S. Patterson said the price set by the British Supply Board at 32.4 cents per dozen to the consumer was too low. The cost of selling Manitoba eggs in Britain would be 38 cents per dozen made up this way:

Price at Winnipeg	17c
Deliver to Liverpool	14c
To the wholesaler	5c
British retailer	2c

So there is another problem in a business which now moves in a big way, is organized, and trusts to some central organization to take the produce from the farm and sell it.

If things are going well then it would undoubtedly be a good way for the producer to approach world markets. His sales problem would be pretty much attended to for him in some central effort, but when something goes wrong or is not satisfactory it backs up on the entire membership, and may adversely affect thousands of individual farmers.

The system is entirely different to that employed for selling farm produce a generation or so ago. Eggs were gathered until the day when some one would be going to the nearest market. In hundreds of cases the eggs went to the general store, where they were traded out for groceries, etc., and if there were a balance it was paid for in cash. Apples were not a major crop on Ontario farms then and they were disposed of by each farmer as he saw fit. He would sell some in town; a few people in advance of the rest shipped to a city firm. Some of the apples went to the cider mill and others were pitted for use during the winter. But each farmer was attending to his own eggs and apples and everything else.

We are not urging that the old plan was the best one, because it wasn't. It made possible a system whereby each farmer was competing with every other farmer. The only advantage it had was that it was simple and direct and called for no expenditure to maintain a central organization.

The one danger is that with a number of these central bodies coming into existence, they may each in turn appeal to the Dominion treasury for aid when selling conditions in the large scale are not working properly or when abnormal conditions interfere with business. Farmers today are more interested in sales problems than in anything else and their desire is to have the business so managed that the selling costs are not driven to the point where they take the benefit away from the individual producer.

The Country School Children

A reporter of the Stratford Beacon-Herald was visiting a school in West Zorra, where he apparently asked the children to write a short composition for him, telling what they did before they came to school in the morning and again after they went home. There were fifteen who recorded their habits of the day, boys and girls of nine to twelve years, and they all came from farms.

And it does look as though living on a farm had not changed much, because the young folk who gather at this West Zorra school for instruction have all worked before they start the day's schooling. Just about every last one of them. And when they go home from school they work some more.

They milk cows, pulp turnips, put down hay, clean out stables, milk cows, gather eggs, wash dishes, split wood. One lad of nine years claims he helps wash the dishes in the evening, and we take it sisters may be scarce in this home.

The distance which the children travel to school is also noted, and it ranges from half a mile to two and a-half miles, and apparently they all walk.

There is something else which all seemed to consider worthy of mention; that is that they washed after getting up in the morning. Only one pupil mentions anything about cleaning shoes, but the amount of scrubbing and personal renovating done by Kenneth Walker, a lad of nine years, is detailed this way:

"Before I come to school I wash my hands, face, neck and ears, clean my teeth and then get dressed."

This lad adds that he comes to school "a mile and a-half around the road or a mile and a-quarter through the fields." But they all have something to do before they start out in the morning, and when they leave school they know there are chores waiting at home, and right there one encounters an advantage in farm life. The child is part of it, a participant in the daily routine, and at an early age is made to feel a sense of responsibility. As a time of training it is better than the experience of the average child in a city, where a number of the children are even granted the privilege of riding to school and are deposited at the school door.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There has been quite a slip since the days when one famous school in Russia used to send to the world nearly all its famous violinists.

Finland has decided to continue with its exhibition at New York fair in 1940. There's nerve, courage, high hope and optimism for you.

Every time the Finns capture a Russian they find it advisable to give him a bath and some new underwear. Possibly more necessary than advisable.

The official communique issued by the French the other morning was just this: "Nothing to report." And on such a day a good correspondent would get busy and knock out a couple of columns of good war news.

Chatham News thinks our Canadian winter went stylish and took a trip South this year. And it did it in such a clever way that here in Peterborough we managed to have 19 below-zero nights during January.

DIET

(BY A.R.K.)

¶ I live by diet rather strict, and now and then I know I've kicked, and wandered to one side; and when strange things I up and take, not long before I have an ache, and troubled much inside.

¶ But when I go to see Aunt Phoebe, 'tis then I worry on the feed, because she cooks a lot; when she sets table at her place, she hardly leaves a vacant space, put piles on quite a lot.

¶ And everything she's made herself; she knows it's good for people's health, the cake three layers high; and at the end she always carves, as though I look like one who starves, a wedge of two-inch pie.

¶ Before that she brings on the soup, I eat it with a hungry scoop, till there's no more to sup; that seems to tell my good Aunt Phoebe, of victuals I am much in need, as hungry as a pup.

¶ And then she brings on chicken pie, and spuds and carrots piled up high, and pickles she has made; and hot tea biscuits and some jam, she glories filling up a man, until I grow afraid.

¶ And I'm half scared to say I'm through, I know just what Aunt Phoebe will do, she has a pleading touch; I must try some of this and that, and by the time I get my hat—I've et three times too much.

Hitler Hoped To Take Canada, Also The States

More fantastically amoitious than Napoleon. More bloodstained than Catherine de Medici. More ruthless than Genghis Khan. More temperamental than Sarah Bernhardt. More cynically crafty than Frederick the Great. More cruel than Lucrezia Borgia. More bedevilled by demons than the two Mad Mullahs combined.

Neither honest man nor decent woman but something monstrous, menacing, massively Machiavellian.

Such is the fuehrer of the third reich as seen in HITLER SPEAKS (Nelson, $3.50) through the observant eyes and the retentive ears of his willom confidant, Hermann Rauschning. At the time when the intimate conversations here recorded took place, the author was head of the government of Danzig, which Hitler then envisaged as the future Antwerp of the Baltic, a city of teeming millions at the heart of a greater German empire which would sweep across Europe and Asia and submerge all nations under its irresistible, avalanche-like advance.

Canada Among Objectives

Nor was Nazidom's mighty sway to end in Europe, even with the conquest of England. Rauschning recalls: "Hitler's imagination ranged over the entire world. He would attack Britain in all its weakest points, India no less than Canada. He planned the occupation of Sweden as well as holland. The latter country, in particular, seemed to him a valuable jumping-off ground for air and underwater attacks on England. 'In less than eight hours we shall break through to their coast,' he told me in a tone of malignant triumph."

Turning to America, the fuehrer declaimed. "We have a right to this continent." The United States he would Nazify, Mexico he would crucify, Brazil would be transformed into a new Germany and Argentina would then be enslaved.

Enslaved, that's the word. For not only would subjugated nations be reduced to helotry and serfdom but even in Germany itself whole classes would be liquidated and the survivors would be divided into Herrenmensch and Herdenmensch—on the one hand the ruling Nazi overlords, the beautiful blond beasts of Nietzche, and on the other the herd, the masses, eternally disfranchised, enjoying nothing save "the blessings of illiteracy," following the prompt anolition of universal education, that "most corroding and disintegrating poison."

Siberia For The Czechs

Under his tutelage, said Hitler, a youth would grow up before whom the world would shrink. These young "aristocrats" would be "violently active, dominating, intrepid, brutal," devoid of tenderness, for in their eyes the fuehrer wanted to see "the gleam of pride and independence of the beast of prey."

As for the fate of the serfs, he would remove whole races. "The Czechs and Bohemians we shall transplant to Siberia or the Volhynian regions.... The Czechs must get out of Central Europe."

Scant wonder that Rauschning calls the fuehrer and his gangsters "the apocalyptic riders of annihilation," describes Nazilam as this century's St. Vitus dance and adds that Hitler's god is Hitler himself.

Or that Hitler's one-time crony and co-conspirator, Capt. Ernst Roehm, the debauchee who was happily murdered in the blood purge of June, 1934, cursed and said. "Adolf is a swine.... What he wants is to sit on the hilltop and pretend he's God."

But, living though he is in a world of feverish phantasms, deluded as he is by his will-o'-the-wisp visions, the fuehrer knows at heart that he is neither divine nor immortal. He feels that he is marked down by death, that he will meet a martyr's end. His anguished cry is "Too little time" as, like a mad King Ludwig of Bavaria, he realizes that his magic castles are crumbling about him, toppling over to crush him.

Foiled And Thwarted

And perhaps the most encouraging feature of this book is the opportunity for a comparison between Hitler's gargantuan but categorically outlined objectives and their frustration thus far in this war.

He had planned to "poison" enemy populations, before the conflict even began, by having "harmless" commercial travellers scatter deadly bacteria. Then, in the midst of peace, German troops would suddenly appear in Paris, wearing French uniforms. They would march to the headquarters of the general staff and to other key points, capture the brains of the army and of the world political. "The confusion will be beyond belief," Hitler predicted.

Once the plunge into blitzkrieg had been made, one of his first moves would be to seize the Swedish iron mines, industrial centres and seaports, for, while Germany "needed the French coast, Flanders and Holland," above all it had to have Sweden.

In the west, Hitler said, "I shall manoeuvre France right out of the Maginot Line without losing a single soldier. How to do it is my secret."

"Napoleon Failed, I'll Succeed

He would endeavor to inherit England's "disintegrating empire" peacefully. "But," he added, "I shall not shrink from war with Britain if it is necessary. Where Napoleon failed, I shall succeed." Indeed, as early as 1934, he frankly admitted that Germany's rearmament was in anticipation of an inevitable war in western Europe.

UNDERSTAND?

"Now be fair, Tompkins. What do you think I've got 'priority' on my car for if I don't get first pick of the lady drivers?"

—Humorist.

• Has He Very Much Of A Job?

Leonard W. Brockington, K.C., former chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Commission, is receiving $9,000 a year as recorder of Canada's war efforts. In addition, Mr. Brockington gets a living allowance of $12 per day, "while he is absent from his customary place of residence in the performance of his duties." His customary place of residence is Winnipeg and he is at present living in Ottawa, where he is attached to the office of the prime minister, so that he presumably draws this $12 a day most of the time.

Mr. Brockington is a very able man and a brilliant lawyer. Undoubtedly in his practice he could make this amount. It is not clear, however, why, in the first place, he retired as chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Commission. It surely was not because he had a disagreement with certain Canadian publishers? There are rumors that he was too independent for Hon. C. D. Howe, under whose department the commission technically falls. If the commission is to be directed in future by the politicians the whole original idea of the commission is lost. It was created in order to take radio out of politics.

Then having retired, it is not clear why Mr. Brockington was reappointed by the Government to the present post as "recorder of Canada's war efforts" at this handsome salary and allowance.

If we need a day to day record of what Canada is doing in the war—and it may be wise for future generations—surely there are lots of capable, working newspapermen, trained for such a job, who would gladly undertake the task for half the salary or less. Mr. Brockington is one of the reasons why Parliament should have met before it was dissolved, in order that there could be official explanations in the proper way. — London Free Press.

• Foretold War and Rise Of Foch

I WAS GREATLY interested in what Coulson Kernahan had to say about Lord Roberts predicting the world war at the time of his visit to Quebec in July, 1908. As I was present I wish to tell you what Lord Roberts said and where he said it.

On the evening of July 29 at the Chateau Frontenac there were present W. L. Richardson, editor of the Winnipeg Tribune, George S. Robins, Chicago Daily News, Louis Marsh, Toronto Star, Edward Corbeau, L'Evenement (Quebec), and four other newspapermen. Mr. Richardson asked Lord Roberts if he had any message for the people of Canada.

"Yes," Lord Roberts replied, "I have formed a profound impression of the unity existing between the two distant races here in Canada, the French in Quebec and the English in the other seven provinces. There does seem to be that bond which is only to be found in the most happy family. I am also greatly impressed by all the good will shown between Canada and this great nation to the south (the United States of America); this is in my opinion all for the good."

Then Lord Roberts continued: "I wish I could say as much for the Continent of Europe. They refuse to believe me when I tell them in England that we are asleep under a false security. I want to tell you now that in my opinion Europe is heading straight into the most terrific war in history. But no one that matters believes me."

Here several newspapermen asked: "What will be Britain's opponent?"

"Germany," Lord Roberts replied, "and that will cause the same unity of purpose between Britain and France as now exists between this Province of Quebec and the rest of Canada."

Questioned as to when this war might break out in Europe, Lord Roberts said: "Just the moment Germany is ready, which, all things considered, will require four to six years."

"So that would be 1912 to 1914?" Mr. Richardson asked.

"Yes! 1914 at the latest," said Lord Roberts, "and let me add that England and France will have the most trying experience of their existence. They will, in fact, come so near defeat that they will be fortunate to maintain their democratic status."

"You do not envisage this defeat with yourself as Commander-in-Chief?" his hearers asked him.

"I shall not be in it at all," was the reply. "I've had my day, but as a prophet I make one more prediction. There is today in the Ecole Militaire in Paris a professor by the name of Foch who is destined for everlasting fame in military history. He is a man who will see us on the side of victory, what little victory there remains when it is all over. But Foch, I do know, is years ahead of his time."

"In what way?" Lord Robert was asked.

"In strategy," was the answer. "In the formation of military plans, in organization; and last of all and the greatest asset is—he is a natural-born leader of men."

The Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec was announced at this time and the interview ended.

A BOARDING PARTY

AT THE SAILING of the Manhattan on Saturday we discovered that the officers and crew were all looking forward to the vessel's arrival off Gibraltar. They wanted to find out for themselves whether Secretary Hull's protest to the British Government has had any effect.

From one of the junior officers we heard that the business of being boarded by the patrol off the Rock isn't half as fearsome as it sounds. In the first place a boarding patrol is forbidden to bring arms with them and such arms as they carry are left behind. The boarding patrol consists of two officers and two men. The officers go aboard, apologize in their very best British manner for the intrusion and go to the purser's office. There they have a spot of whisky, explaining the while: "Sorry, old boy, have to do this. Orders, you know."

They then look over the ship's manifests to the accompaniment of a couple of more spots and after that go to the bridge to present their compliments and chin awhile with the skipper.

The entire business is carried on in the best of English garden party style but, as our informant reminded us, they get what they come after. —Robert Winder, in New York Sun.

AGE NO BARRIER

ASKING the question "should industry scrap its old men?" the Simmons Co., bedding manufacturers, in a full page advertisement published in Chicago, also answers it and in the negative. Stating that "today, a man's years hang heavy over his head," the advertisement says "We, the Simmons Company, believe there is no good reason why a man's age should be his cross. The only time a man is too old to work for us is when he loses interest in his daily life." Some 50 per cent of the firm's employees, it said, have been with Simmons more than ten years, many of them for twenty, thirty and forty years. Explaining why it went to such an extent to lay so much stress on security and high wages, the firm says "the answer is simple. You have good people working for you....under good conditions....and for good wages."—New York Herald Tribune.

CAMPAIGNS TOO LONG

OUR ELECTION regulations were devised in what are commonly called "the horse and buggy days." Many districts had not been opened up by railways. The automobile had not arrived. Daily newspapers were few. Of course, there was no radio, therefore, the Prime Minister and his cabinet ministers and other speakers had to have plenty of time to visit as many constituencies as they could across the Dominion.

Hence it was necessary to allow plenty of time to get in contact with as many people as possible.

Now, with fast and complete railway coverage, automobiles, daily newspapers within reach of the vast majority of homes, and the radio, which the vast majority of homes also have, the Prime Minister, Opposition leaders and every other speaker can be heard or read in every home from coast to coast. More people can hear an address in one night than during two months of campaigning in the horse and buggy days.

Future elections could and should be shortened by half. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

HE'S A DIPLOMAT

WE should not be surprised to see Charlie McFie, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Middlesex South, wind up in a diplomatic post. Mr. McFie was one of the Liberals who voted against Mr Hepburn's resolution censuring the federal Government's war effort. Interviewed as to the part he would play in the federal election campaign, Mr. McFie replied: "My action in the forthcoming election may be interpreted by my action when the campaign gets under way." — Kingston Whig-Standard.

GOOD-BYE GENERAL

EVERY SUNDAY, when he took a weekly walk with his daddy, the five-year-old son of a well known Chicago attorney insisted upon being taken to the monument of Sheridan on his prancing steed, which stands at the head of the road named for him. There the little boy would stand in reverent admiration before the huge statue until it was time to go home. Last week the family was getting ready to move to the South Side and the youngster begged to be taken to say good-by to his favorite statue.

"You like General Sheridan quite a lot, don't you, son?" remarked the father to his worshipping offspring.

"Oh my, yes! He's such a beautiful horse," sighed the child. "But, daddy, who's that sitting on him?"—The Advocate, Chicago.

TAXES BY THE MONTH

In Vancouver the City Treasurer is working out a system by which taxes will be paid monthly as other recurring bills are paid such as rent and telephones. Perhaps ten monthly payments, omitting January and December, would work out well and help people not only to pay their taxes but to maintain their budgets. It might even work here.'— Niagara Falls Review.

SOCIAL CREDIT'S WAY

(Lethbridge Herald)

At a time when the Aberhart Government is using special warrants to vote $23,000 out of public funds to print party propaganda for the Social Crediters to use in the 1940 election campaign, the relief department of the same government was chiselling $20,542 of the Edmonton city's relief bill on the ground that certain persons on relief are "unemployable." This sum covered the Edmonton relief cheques from June to October inclusive.

LOOKS FOR LONG WAR

(St. Catharines Standard)

There was no optimism from Lloyd George yesterday as to a war of brief duration. He called upon the government to conscript every foot of tillable ground in the Old Land and it was the most constructive criticism he has yet delivered on the war effort in the United Kingdom.

New Vote Sought If Bridge Exceeds $10,000

Affirming that only 968 of the 4,826 qualified ratepayers voted on the by-law authorizing expenditure of $10,000 on a foot bridge aoove the Quaker Oats dam, residents of Waterford street sent a petition to the council last night requesting that if the bridge is to cost more than that amount approval of the ratepayers be obtained before the work is begun.

Some of the residents who signed the petition were Roy B. White, A. Shearer, Wm. Langford, Jennie Cathcart, L. W. Copp, Eleanor Martyn, W. H. Girven and others. It asserted that the bridge would be a convenience to "very few people," that 't would increase land values on the Ashburnham side of the river and decrease values on the west side in the Waterford street neighborhood.

When a by-law authorizing the issuing of debentures to borrow $10,000 to pay for the work was being considered, Alderman McCannan asked, "if it costs more than $10,000 what will be done?"

"You have no power to spend more," Alderman Gordon remarked, "and according to the estimates it should cost less."

Debentures for this work are to be issued on the instalment plan, instead of the sinking fund method, the annual payment for interest and principal being $1,202.41 for ten years. The question raised in the discussion of the by-law was when the levy for this annual payment would begin. As the work will not be completed probably until June, and the tax rate will be fixed long before the job i finished, it was decided that the annual levies should not begin until 1941.

Pumper Purchase.

Another by-law introduced by Alderman McIntyre confirmed the city's agreement with Bickle-Seagrave Limited of Woodstock, to buy a pumper for the Fire Department costing $9,450.

The city's relief bill for January amounted to $10.481.36 as reported to the council by City Clerk Armstrong. The details of the disbursements were:: Provisions, $4,931.59; milk, $663.25; fuel, $2,214.22; clothing $422.27; medicine, $12.99; rent, $1,756.09; doctors, $481.95.

Fire Loss $3,248.

Chief Gimblett reported fire loss in January of $3,248 from eight fires. Of that amount $1,823 represented damage to buildings and $1,425 to contents. There were altogether 59 alarms during the month.

W. B. Gordon gave notice of a claim for damages from an accident to Mrs. Bert Lucas, 294 Reid street, on the south side of Charlotte street at Bethune street on January 20, fracturing her left arm. It was referred to the legal commttee.

H. C. Benson, 356 Burnham street, complained to the council that soot from chimneys of the Quaker Oats Company is caused by the reported daily burning of tons of chaff. The soot can be shovelled up by the pail full around his residence, Mr. Benson wrote. "It may save fuel, but it should not be achieved at the expense of neighborhood cleanliness." The council asked City Engineer Parsons to interview L. E. Cutting, general manager of the Quaker Oats Company, regarding Mr. Benson's grievance.

$26,183.18 Requisition.

The Catholic School Board notified the council that its appropriation for this year is $26,183.18, to be raised by a levy of 10.75 mills on an assessment of $2,435,644.

Proposal for Future.

A recent proposal to set up depreciation accounts was referred to a special committee whose report was authorized by Alderman Ovens as follows: "That for this year the purchase of machinery which the council considered necessary for the Board of Works, and the fire pumper, be provided for in the year's estimates, and that further consideration be given to this subject in the future."

Democrats Pick Chicago For Convention

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(AP).—The scrap for the Democratic party's Presidential candidacy was on in earnest today after the party's national committee picked Chicago for the nominating convention and authorized Chairman James A. Farley to fix the date.

Advocates of a third term for President Roosevelt hailed the choice as an initial victory over the forces of Vice-President John N. Garner, believed to have preferred San Francisco or Houston. Mr. Roosevelt favored the Chicago site.

Mr. Roosevelt, described by party leaders as wanting to have an important part in picking the party's candidate for the United States Presidency if he does not run himself, told reporters at Hyde Park, N.Y., while the national committee was in session here yesterday that he was getting tired of answering queries as to whether he would seek another re-election.

He added that when anything was to be said about the question, he would say it himself—at a time of his own choosing.

This did not stop talk of a third term in the Capital, however.

Charles Sawyer, committeeman from Ohio, said the President "by all odds is the most popular candidate in Ohio," he added, however, that he did not believe Mr. Roosevelt should commit himself now "if he doesn't want to."

Suppression Of Midnight Shows Receives Ministers' Approval

The thanks of the Peterborough Ministerial Association will go to the managers of the Regent and Centre theatres here for suppression of Sunday midnight movies.

At their meeting this week ministers heard a letter read in which the Local Council of Women thanked them for co-operation in their effort to bring such movies to an end. The association then decided that managers of the two theatres, who closed the shows of their own accord, should receive the thanks of Peterborough ministers.

The Ministerial Association met in the Y.M.C.A. with Rev. F. W. Craik, president, in the chair. Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt introduced the business of the day.

A vote of appreciation was expressed to Dr. Northcote Deck of Toronto for the service he had rendered during the Week of Prayer early in January. A similar vote was passed to the city editor of The Examiner for the courtesy and hospitality of the paper towards this effort.

The secretary reported that a trophy had been secured for the Church Hockey League and will be awarded soon.

United Supper Meeting

Rev. R. T. F. Brain reported on arrangements for the United Men's supper meeting to be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Monday next, at which Rev. Canon W. W. Judd, social service secretary for the Anglican Church, will speak. Key laymen in every congregation have been appointed to interest the members and a large gathering is expected.

A letter was read from the Rev. George Webber, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, asking for week-end facilities for the secretaries of that organization; these were granted for the first week-end in March or April.

It was decided that owing to special services during the Lenten period in the various churches, the war intercession services will be discontinued after next Friday night until Eastern season is past. The services for the Holy Week were left to each congregation to arrange, with two united services to be held on Good Friday, these to be arranged by the chairman and secretary.

Treasurer Rev. T. J. Floyd reported that the offerings for the Week of Prayer services amounted to $84.31, with one collection still to come. This amount will leave a small balance when expenses are paid.

Background of Gospels.

Rev. H. R. Howden of Lakefield was the speaker and took as his topic the background of the Gospels. This consisted first of all of the pagan setting. Augustus had made an empire with a uniform respect for law, the protection of troops, and fellow feeling. Evangelical effort by the dispersion of the Jews and the Greek language, which was almost universally known; and the restless religious instinct of the pagan world.

The Jewish background appears in the brave defence of the Maccabees. Persecution forced several vital issues to the front from the years 63 B.C. to the end of the first century. The apocalyptic writings show that the apostles and others had a burning faith that God would intervene in human history. The belief in personal immortality and bodily resurrection first appears in these writings.

This period in history shows us a small handful of Christian men standing out against a great world force and defying the power that be. It should be a stimulus to us in war time, Mr. Howden said.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Young and Rev. M. C. Parr thanked the speaker for his inspiring, scholarly address. It was arranged tha Mr. Howden should return at a later date.

The following ministers were present: Rev. M. C. Parr, Rev. George Murray of Keene, Rev. E. W. Rowland, Rev. C. C. Boyter, Rev. R. T. F. Brain, Dr. E. W. Young, Rev. F. W Craik, Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, Rev T. H. Floyd, Rev. H. B. Howden.

Breaking Down Of Restrictions In Sunday Observance Reported

The Ontario Lord's Day Alliance held its annual meeting in the Anglican Synod Board Room, Toronto, on Friday, with Rt. Rev. C. R. Beverley, Anglican Bishop, in the chair. There were present representatives of the various Protestant churches, Father Magrath of Toronto represented the Roman Catholic Church.

The chief item of the session was the report of the secretary, Rev. George G. Webber. Law enforcement, he said, was their chief problem. There was an outmoded system of police supervision, in fact there were 26 separate bodies for law enforcement in the city of Toronto. The Attorney-General refuses to take action in connection with the Lords Day Act except when application is made by the municipality. Tourist centres create problems in Sunday selling. We are not through yet, he said, with the demand for commercialized sports on Sunday. The theatres were encouraging Sunday meetings of all kinds in order to break down the restrictions. In Windsor some theatres open at 2:30 on Sundays.

The Alliance took action regarding the practice of the provincial leaders to flout churches when they brought forward moral issues, and appointed a committee to organize a united front amongst all the Christian communions. It was reported that one christian man in a county council, aroused the interest of the other councils in Ontario regarding Sunday games and helped the churches to gain a notable victory.

Dominion Alliance

The Dominion Alliance met in the Synod's board room. Capt. J. Forneret reported that a branch has been formed in Quebec and that the R.C. church there had founded a "Sunday League" which was willing to co-operate with the Alliance. They realized that liberty had been turned into licence.

The general secretary reported conferences with leaders of industry in Toronto who were anxious to cut down work on Sunday to the minimum. Attention was called to the advertising carried on over the radio in Sunday broadcasts. The CBC has authority over private stations. In some cases church service programs were cut off in order that league baseball games might get place, it was reported.

British Bombers Better Armed Than Nazi Craft

LONDON, Feb. 6 — (CP Cable). —Air observers in Great Britain are becoming increasingly convinced that Royal Air Force bombers possess superior armament and manoeuvrability to Nazi bombers and that this is the reason why German fighting planes have been making such a poor showing against them.

British fighter planes have been successful in driving off Nazi bombers as a result, observers said, of new tactics being adopted by the Royal Air Force, but the man on the street has been wondering why German fighters are unable to make as good a showing against British bombers.

Builders of the German fighters are said to have concentrated chiefly on speed and the planes are unable to withstand the withering fire from Britain's bombers.

Strategy of British fighting planes in the early weeks of the war was to aim at the enemy's gasoline tank on the theory that once a bullet lands in the tank the plane is done for.

The Germans have rendered that form of attack useless, however, by installing a self-sealing tank. Now R.A.F. fighters aim at the engines.

One Engine Ruined.

The effectiveness of attacking the plane's engines is shown in a fighter pilot's story in one of Saturday's coastal encounters. He said; "As the enemy aircraft disappeared into a cloud, I saw a heavy black smoke and bits of metal coming from the starboar dengine."

The defence planes have been increasingly successful in dealing with Nazi raids. When the Germans launched their large-scale attacks off the East Coast on January 29, the Royal Air Force drove off the raiders, but none was shot down. One bomber was downed and another disabled on January 30. Three Heinkels were downed and a fourth landed in damaged condition during the week-end.

In addition to manoeuvrability and superior armament, the British bombers fly in such formation as to eliminate the blind spot which exists for every aircraft, and so minimize the possibility of a successful enemy attack. Bombers fly in packed formation designed to enable them to cover one another with crossfire.

May Stay Out.

Reports around the Legislature had it that the Premier may stand aloof from the Federal campaign altogether To campaign along the lines of the criticism he levelled at the Dominion government's war effort in the Legislature last month, he would have to join forces with the Conservatives or make an independent or third party move.

Both those possibilities were only possibilities, political observers felt. An added obstacle to any desire by Mr. Hepburn to leap into the Federal political field is the fact that taxation and other treasury problems have been increased many times by the war and demand most of his time.

Second reading of the bill increasing the taxes on corporations will be called after the budget is presented, the Premier told the House yesterday.

After adjournment, Mr. Hepburn said he was not disposed to grant the petitions of those who have asked elimination from the stepped-up corporations tax bill the clause that makes the increases retroactive to Jan. 1, 1939.

A measure for the closer control of trade and correspondence schools through making it a more serious offence for an unregistered school to solicit pupils, went through committee stage without debate.

The measure increases the maximum for unlicensed solicitation of pupils to $2,000 in the case of an individual and $25,000 in the case of a corporation.

Alderman Stocker said it would have been gracious of the Mayor to have received the letter from the Red Patch Club, and that included the Canadian Legion's protest.

"No," Mayor Hamilton answered. "We must remember that the set up and the ideals of the Legion and the Red Patch Club are high, and they should be treated with consideration."

Apparently speaking generally, and in reference to the fact that the night's business was at end, Mayor Hamilton added: "If you wish to let it go at that, I think that is all I have."

ada's hog production will hit a new high this year after a record production in 1939.

Russell Templar of Burford was elected president of the association.

Better Breeder Stock.

Distribution of breeder stock throughout the province to increase production and improve quality was proposed at the annual meeting of the Ontario Yorkshire Club.

W. R. Reek, Provincial Deputy Minister of Agriculture, said his Department urged the distribution plan and was ready to co-operate with the breeders to carry it out. The resultant increase in production would help the Dominion meet the increasing wartime demand for bacon and improved quality would strengthen Canada's position in the British market in the event of an early peace. The club approved the idea and instructed S. J. Gallagher, of Alliston, newly-elected president of the club, and his officers to proceed with the distribution plan.

W. P. Watson, secretary-treasurer of the club, said there was a market for 1,000,000 more hogs this year than last and suggested an increase of sow-breeding in March and September rather than June and December. Watson emphasized quality and remarked that hogs produced in eastern and southwestern Ontario in 1939 were below the average quality for Canada.

adaptability," Arita said. Apparently he meant that some of the 21 Germans were ineligible for war service.

The seamen, part of a group of 40 being repatriated by the Standard Oil Company, sailed from San Francisco Jan. 6. They had been employed on tankers in South American waters.

A foreign office spokesman had termed the seizure "disagreeable" because it occurred so close to Japanese shores. The Asama Maru was halted with a shot across her bows.

Arita told parliament that Great Britain's reply to Japan's protest expressed regret that Japanese public sentitment had been aroused but said that the seizure was legal under international law.

Article 47 of the London declaration of 1909 states that a person liable to military service found on board a neutral vessel may be made a prisoner of war.

Saying the dispute centred around interpretation of this article, Arita said "the British view holds no conviction for the Japanese government."

According to Arita, the British government replied yesterday that it reserved legal rights in connection with the case but, to effect an amicable settlement, it was "ready to deliver nine Germans to suitable Japanese authorities at a date and place to be agreed upon later."

A Face-Saver.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—(CP).—Great Britain's decision to turn over nine of 21 German seamen seized from the Japanese liner Asama Maru was regarded to-day in informed but unofficial quarters as a step toward a "face saving" compromise with Japan without sacrifice of British belligerent rights.

Britain was regarded by these sources as having gained a major point in the Japanese announcement that Japan's steamship lines had been instructed to refuse to carry belligerent nationals liable to war service.

R.C.A.F. Chief Strong On Discipline Used It In Vain Escape Try Last War

OTTAWA, Feb. 6—(CP).—Discipline, ever the foundation stone of the fighting forces, took on even greater significance in the Royal Canadian Air Force today with the appointment of Group Captain Harold Edwards as personnel chief.

The group captain, "Gus" to his closer acquaintances, has known discipline over a considerable strech of time. It always served him well.

And Saturday, after his appointment as the new air member for personnel of the Air Council had been announced, the group captain told newspapermen discipline is as important to an air force as fuel is to an airplane.

Shot down and captured behind enemy lines in the first great war, Group Captain Edwards drew upon strict discipline in an escape adventure as a prisoner of war. Captured April 14, 1917, he was sent to prison camp at Kolmar. A cake of soap was traded to a guard for hacksaw blade. Maps and tiny compas swere smuggled in by friends.

As an armed German sentry paced around three sides of the wing of the university that served as a prison, the group captain sawed at the window bars. His own sentries, placed at other windows, relayed the position of the sentry to him. He stopped sawing when the sentry approached.

One At A Time

With the bars cut through, discipline came into play. Eager as the three British prisoners were to escape, only one at a time slipped through the window to freedom. As each one left, the bars were put back in place until the sentry paced his rounds.

Just as a military column would move through hostile country, so the fugitives filed silently through the night. The centre man or "main body" held maps, compass and food. One man scouted ahead and the third acted as a rear guard.

For 10 days the trio tried to reach a neutral country. They travelled swiftly by night along the side of the road, slept all day in the underbrush. Unfortunately, the escape attempt failed.

Three days of heavy rain left the fugitives, cold, wet, hungry and dispirited. Their caution relaxed and they started moving too early one night and walked around a corner into the arms of a military provost marshal.

They were unsuccessful in trying to convince their captor that they were Russians heading for home.

"He bought us beers in the nearest pub," chuckled the 47-year-old Lancashireman who grew up near Halifax." Then he turned us over to his colonel, who bought us dinner and had the local jail carefully swept out for us."

The prisoners, back at Kolmar, were punished by two weeks' solitary confinement, but tried a second escape by digging from their cell into the cellar. They were caught before leaving the building.

Mrs. Mahood was born Edna McWilliams, daughter of the late Thomas McWilliams and Catharine Fitzgibbons, in Otonabee township. She had lived all her life in this district and was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

Her husband, Frederick Mahood, died in November 1938. Surviving are two sons, Robert and Earl; two daughters, Mary and Eileen; three brothers, Thomas, John, and William. All reside in Peterborough. Also surviving is one sister, Mrs. Eliza King of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence at 136 London street. Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Church at Cavan Reviews 1939; Shows Progress

CAVAN, Feb. 6 — (ENS). — The annual meeting of Cavan United Church in the church on Thursday evening was well attended.

After the devotional period, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. N. E. Honey, reports of the church and its various organizations were given.

The Sunday School, under Superintendent R. A. Sutton, had a good year. The church secretary-treasurer reported the current expenses of the church paid and a balance of $18 in the treasury.

The W.M.S., whose president is Mrs. R. Matchett, reported the amount paid to the W.M.S. Presbytery slightly more than last year.

The W.A., under the presidency of Mrs. D. J. Hunter, had a good year, with a balance on hand.

A pot luck supper was served by the ladies and a social time enjoyed.

IT all boils down to this. Canada is at war, menaced by a brutal and powerful enemy. The country must be mobilized effectively against the peril that threatens. It is futile to look for clear-sightedness, vigor or energy from the King government, which dozed while the war clouds gathered. The King administration has mishandled the war both before and after the beginning of hostilities and must be replaced by a government of action.

"—even Alexander Graham Bell could hardly have visioned my amazing future—certainly not on the evening of March 10th, 1876, when the human voice was first heard over a wire."

Four years later—April 1880—the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was formed.

It was a new domain of public service but the Company's founder, the late Charles Fleetford Sise, was confident that a painstaking, courteous service, always improving as new apparatus and new methods evolved, would in time develop into one of the major enterprises of Canada. He saw that telephone service was worth so much more than its cost to the user that the future of the business was assured.

The principle that Bell embodied in his first crude telephone has persisted to this day. The principles of Charles Fleetford Sise for the conduct of a great public service are reflected in the continuous progress of the Company he founded.

Within these sixty years the telephone has broken down the barriers of space and time and vastly promoted human understanding. In Canada the telephone is used more than in any other land.

Re-appoint Peck As Member Of City Trust

E. A. Peck, K.C., was re-appointed a member of the City Trust Commission for five years by the council last night on Alderman Stocker's motion, seconded by Alderman Cotton.

The Board of Health will have two new members as recommended at a recent committee meeting, the personnel for this year being Aldermen Dutton and Ovens and David G. H. Melton, representing the Board of Education. Alderman Ovens and Mr. Melton replace Aldermen McCannan and Stocker. Mayor Hamilton is an ex-officio member of the Board.

M. H. Gainey remains a member of the Suburban Area Commission. On Alderman McIntyre's motion, seconded by Alderman Wilson, he was re-appointed for five years last night. The county council has already renamed Morley E. Smithson as its representative, and it is understood that the practice in completing the Commission is for these two members to appoint the third. In the event of their failing to agree, the appointment is left to the Department of Highways. Incidentally, the council received a resolution from the county council last night expressing appreciation of its harmonious relations with Mr. Gainey as the city's member of the Suburban Commission, and recommending that he be appointed again. Mr. Gainey is now beginning his sixteenth year as a commissioner.

Swapping Property.

Another by-law introduced by Alderman McCannan authorized exchange of property by which the city is trading the lot on the north side of Charlotte street, west of Monaghan Road, used this winter as a skating rink, for the lot at the south-east corner of Sherbrooke street and Monaghan Road owned by Alex K. Milne.

The council's intention is to eliminate the sharp corner at Monaghan Road and Sherbrooke street, making it into a sweeping curve and also widening the street as a traffic improvement.

And the list of by-laws included on that sanctioned purchase of 300 cords of hardwood from the Peterboro Lumber Company.

Motor Vehicles Are Damaged In Crashes

At the intersection of Charlotte and George streets shortly before noon Stanley Scott, 487 Chamberlen street had stopped his [illegible] three other vehicles that had been stopped waiting for the light to turn when another truck driven by [illegible] Gishman, 191 Charlotte street, collided with the rear of Scott's machine. Gishman's truck bore the brunt of the impact, $100 damage being done to the grill, hood and headlights.

Arthur Lefebre, 183 Bethune street driving east on Charlotte street stopped at the Park street intersection and another automobile driven eas by Bryer Clysdale, R.R. 1, Warsaw, ran into the rear of the standing machine, damaging the tire rack.

Lewis Downer, R.R. 7, Peterborough, was driving north on Armour Road Sunday when his car [illegible] on the icy surface and collided with a fence opposite the home of Bert Withers, breaking off a post. The front of the car was damaged.

PICTURE OF 1940 COUNCIL

"Every member should get his picture taken as he is today and not as he was fifteen years ago, that is if we are going to get new groups taken," Alderman McCannan suggested last night when Alderman Cotton moved that a picture of the 1940 council be taken.

"Some of the members are perhaps a great deal better looking now than they were fifteen years ago," Alderman Gordon remarked, but Alderman Cotton dissented from that opinion.

"They come in here looking fresh, and in a year or so they begin to show wrinkles and grey hair, from worry and care," Alderman Cotton said, mainly in jest.—T.

Best War Planes Flow Steadily To Finn Forces

LONDON, Feb. 6 — (CP Cable).—Modern high-speed fighting planes are reaching Finland in a steady stream, and there is every expectation here that the Finns will have a sufficient number by April or May to hold the air arm of Stalin's Red Army in check.

Britain and France are sending the bulk of the planes to the far northern battle arena, with smaller quotas from the United States and Italy. These contributions will not give Finland air parity with Russia, but the superior skill of Finnish pilots, combined with definite inferiority of Soviet planes, will be a big factor when the immobilized Red Army swings into action again as the snow melts.

Red Aircraft Obsolete.

Russia started the Finnish War with a first-line air strength of 5,000 planes and a reserve strength estimated at 30 per cent. But many of her planes, particularly bombers, were obsolete in design or approaching obsolescence. On the other hand Finland had only sixty planes, fighters and bombers, but by January 20 Finland had destroyed 240 Russian planes, 181 by aerial combat, and had lost only fifteen.

There is a disposition in some quarters here to regard Russia's vast air strength as definitely overrated. There is no evidence that modern types are under construction to take the place of the obsolete machines.

Russia has relied largely on foreign designs in the past, mostly American, and Russian mechanics lack the skill to adapt these designs successfully to keep abreast of developments in this rapidly changing industry.

Russia has plenty of aerodromes and seaplane bases close to Finland, but so far her planes have not done anything approaching the damage that might be expected from her air superiority.

Reports reaching London from Helsinki indicate the morale of the Finnish people remains undisturbed by incessant bombing of towns and cities, and despite the number of bombers used by Russia, material damage is relatively small.

There are several reasons advanced here to explain Russia's lack of success in the air. One is lack of experience in the High Command, which dates from the army purge of 1937. Another is the relatively short period of training for pilots, particularly in night flying. It is reported that many crews lack navigational skill, and that when a squadron leader is shot down the whole formation often breaks up.

Finally, there are two other explanations, perhaps the most important of all. The first is that adverse weather conditions facing the Russians are making air operations exceedingly hazardous. The second is the inferior quality of Russian equipment and maintenance due to the lack of technicians and skilled factory workers.

Dominion May Issue Bonds For Little Man

OTTAWA, Feb. 6—(CP). — With the first loan of the second Great War now in the hands of the Canadian public, the government is considering the issuing of some form of small investment bonds or certificates offering a continuous opportunity to small investors.

A promise that this procedure would be instituted was given by Finance Minister Ralston when he gave a public address January 21 expressing satisfaction at the manner the first war loan was received.

It is understood the government may adopt a system whereby war savings certificates in denominations as low as $5 or $10 may be purchased at post offices by those whose means do not permit them to participate in larger issues.

These certificates would be sold at a slight discount and redeemed at par after a certain period, thus providing a small profit to the holder.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 6 (CP)—Peter Ferraro, 23, found about $1,300 hidden at a Clinton street house and proceeded to dig into the money. He made it in three trips but he went once too often. As a result he appeared before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge in court today, and pleaded guilty to two theft charges.

Wellman Stock To Be Sold At Auction Sale

HAROLD, Ont., Feb. 6—Staff Special).—Pul limport of the tragedy that befell a family when a murderer snuffed the life from an aged couple, came to the farmers of this district today when they learned that the Wellman farm is to be sold—lock, stock, and barrel—on Thursday, the day after Fred Thain comes up for preliminary hearing in Belleville, charged with double murder.

Little can remain at the home that was their parents' pride for three children to cherish. In their minds the farm can have only tragic memories, and they have decided to sell it and everything that it contains, it has been learned. To farmers of the district this last erasing of the name of Wellman, for half a century a name that has been associated with everything good that has been accomplished in the community, came as a deep shock.

Meanwhile the preliminary hearing of Thain, father of four children, has been advanced from Thursday to Wednesday. Two developments occurred yesterday in the case when the coroner's jury, of which Thain originally was a member, was dismissed, and police came into possession of a third shotgun shell.

The shell was found by Dick Wellman, cousin of the slain couple, in the barn of the Wellman farm. It was picked up only 20 feet from the stall where the 77-year-old farmer was found dead last Thursday. Police now have three such shells.

Police have learned that Thain bought five shells on Wednesday at a general store in the hamlet of Harold. He said at the time he was going fox hunting.

Certain articles taken by police from the Wellman farm house, along with a pair of trousers worn by Thain at the time of his arrest were taken to Toronto for examination by Dr. E. R. Frankish medico-legal expert of the Ontario Attorney-General's department.

With New Vitamin For Flowers, John A. Smith Plans To Give His Roses A "Ball" In 1940 Shows

On the strength of all the prizes he has won with his Benson Avenue roses and sweet peas and other glories of his wee bit garden, it might reasonably be said of John A. Smith that when bigger and better roses are grown he'll grow them.

Now, that's not exactly a Smith moral slogan for 1940, a blast rolling out to Young, East, Gracie and Company. It is actually an essay in precaution inspired by Mr. Smith's first move in preparedness for a season that will produce its beauty and loveliness—in this country—in spite of all the heavy feet and the sprawling machines of war abroad.

The glimpse of Mr. Smith's plans for the season, with a long valley of disappointment for all his rivals, is inspired by the arrival in his shop yesterday of a little bottle of potency and pepperino, soluble vitamin B1 that does all kinds of fabulous and generally incredible things to plants and trees and humble vegetables, to such an extent that if the news gets abroad about this horticultural stimulant the world and its gardens are going to be bulging with overgrown things, as if size were first of the attributes of pansies and pinks and petunias.

There's a doctor down in Washington, D.C., who from observing what vitamins do for teeth began applying some form of it to his flower garden, and in one of the better homes and gardens prints he relates that he had to get a twelve foot ladder to cut mammoth blooms from his dahlias.

That's one for George Downer to think about. It is also said that this Vitamin B1 makes daffodils grow bigger than salad plates, and five inch rose buds are commonplace. Apparently there's going to be tropic verdure around the Benson Avenue house this coming summer, a tall tangle of lillies and roses and sweet peas that will have to lean on the Smith roof if they get tossed about by the Smithtown breezes.

Distillation of vitamin magic for application to plants, four or five drops to a bucket of water, is hardly to be wondered at after all the alphabetical armory of what's good for you has gone to the new generation. At least it is said that the young people of the vitamin generation are taller, are better looking, have bigger feet, clear skins, brighter eyes, better teeth, everything in fact but more brains and intelligence than their parents, and it may be that eventually this sag and deficiency along the vitamin front will be broadly corrected and be made to bulge out on the charts of such things with protruding graphs indicating four-square supermen and women. And, then heaven help us!

But, that is digressing from Jack Smith and his bigger and better roses. When you read the magazine stories about this new shot in the arm for "Mildred Grant" and all her lovely sisters, cousins and her aunts of the rose garden, and you regard them the way John Smith does, you are bound to run up to the post office and catch the first air mail out of Toronto for a bottle of this elixir, and wait impatiently for Spring.

From the foot notes it seems that if Bob Abbott were to sprinkle a dash of this new Vitamin on his Perry street pinery they'd grow so fast over night that he'd have to cut his way into the factory with an axe the next morning. And as for that graceful tracery of geraniums and creepers or something you see in the windows of the C.G.E. offices, Carl Salmonsen had better leave them just ordinary modest plants decorating the outline of the big windows. If they got some of the Smith vitamin they'd probably sprawl all over the glass so that nobody could look out into Park street, even if they wanted to.

And as for Percy Blade and his greenhouse, he'd better forget this new idea unless he is prepared to put another story on his greenhouse. And if Walter Stocker sprinkles that flower bed up Water street with the new preparation no one will ever see the lagoon again until next winter when all the lushness is prostrate.

The possibilities of this vitamin are highly impressive on paper, reading about it under the spell of February anticipation of the season that will arrive after the elections, and with a small bottle of it as reinforcement it looks like another big year for John A. Smith.

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt is already proposing that they handicap the Smith entries in the 1940 shows if he's going to "give them a ball," as they used to say at the race tracks, before sending them to the wire for the prize money.

Instal Furnaces On Floor Of Armouries

Members of the Prince of Wales Rangers are going to have warm parades in the near future, for three big furnaces with blowers are being installed on the floor of the drill hall and are expected to be in operation within the next two weeks.

Erection of the furnaces will give the Armouries the appearance of the days of twenty and more years ago when the old 93rd Battalion was quartered there. For four furnaces were in use then to keep the huge room's temperature well up to the 70 mark, although they were not as efficient as the present three.

Cement bases are being installed at the present time and the new furnaces will be placed on them, just slightly raised from the parade floor level. Fans will be installed to blow the heat to the centre of the room from corners in which the furnaces are to be installed.

Two furnaces will be installed at the north-east corner, and will have four projecting elbows from which heat will be blow out in several directions by electric blower. The other furnace, with two projecting arms, will be in the south-west corner.

The furnaces must be installed by the 16th of the month, and will probably be in operation even sooner.

For the past two months floor drill has been limited of necessity because the big drill room has been ice-cold. Most Tuesday and Thursday night workouts have been done in the smaller, warm rooms of the Armouries.

Archie Hoover Passes Away

A conductor on Canadian National Railway trains for the past 35 years, latterly on the Peterborough-Lakefield run, Archie R. Hoover died at his home at 273 Charlotte Street on Monday. He was in his 57th year and had been ill since last July.

Born in Markham, Ontario, he was a son of the late Benjamin Hoover and Emmeline Ramer. Mr. Hoover came to Peterborough from Lindsay about 15 years ago. His wife predeceased him about five years ago. Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Edith Jones of Richmond Hill.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United Church officiating. Interment will be at Riverside Cemetery, Lindsay.

Giant Finn Trapper Bound Home To Fight

MONTREAL, Feb. 6—(CP).—The Russians won't welcome the return to Finland of Erik de Munsterhjelm, on his way back home to take up a commission in the Finnish coast artillery.

The young Finn, who will become a lieutenant when he reaches Helsingfors, stands six feet, six inches and weighs 220 pounds. And he's all brawn after nine years spent trapping and prospecting for gold in Lake Athabaska district.

When the war started the adventurer left the northland and travelled to Calgary to join the Canadian army. But he was told recruiting was complete so he returned north.

He set out once more when he heard of Russia's invasion of Finland and now he says there's no turning back until he helps his people see "this emergency" through.

De Munsterhjelm a nephew of Hjalmar De Munsterhjelm noted Finnish painter came to Canada in 1928 shortly after his graduation from the Finnish State Military College.

Dr Munsterhjelm will stay in Montreal until Tuesday and then will go to New York with other Finnish volunteers on their way to the defence of their homeland.

Kingston Liberals To Choose Rogers

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 6—(CP).—Preparations were made today for the convention of the Liberal Association of Kingston here tomorrow night when Defence Minister Rogers will be again selected as the Liberal candidate in Kingston.

The name of Mr. Rogers will be the only one proposed at the meeting.

Alderman A. E. Ross, a member of the City Council, has announced he will oppose Mr. Rogers as an independent candidate. He told council last night that he will ask them to urge the Dominion Government to consider his plan for conscripting physically-fit young law breakers. He said he had decided on this plan after he had heard cases of non-support before the social welfare committee. His motion to seek Dominion approval of the plan will be discussed by council on February 19.

A Worthwhile Thing

"THEY HAVE made a sacrifice to comply with responsible public opinion in this city," Alderman Dutton said in moving a resolution, seconded by Alderman Roy, at Monday night's meeting of the council expressing appreciation of the action of the management of two local theatres in discontinuing Sunday midnight shows.

The council's appeal to the theatres was prompted by a petition from the Local Council of Women. Alderman Dutton said it was gratifying to know that men were big enough to subordinate their own interest in order to make a contribution to the public good. "They have done a worth while thing, and it will be generally appreciated in Peterborough," he added.

Canadians Are Poor Haters Rotarians Told

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 6.—(ENS)—Canada's greatest need is not just emigrants but emigrants who will come to this country, leaving behind them their old world class and racial prejudices, according to Earl A. Bell who gave a thoughtful address on the subject before Rotarians here on Monday. He said that in his opinion Canada was the world's poorest nation of haters despite the fact that there have been times when certain selfish interests in this country have tried to stir up these feelings.

Two things Canadians should be most thankful for are that first, there are no class distinctions and secondly no titled people here. He felt that heriditary titles were a detriment to the life of any country and recalled how a few hundred years ago the cry of 'down with the privileged classes' echoed throughout Europe.

"We in Canada have no such thing as class distinction which can bar anyone who has the right qualifications of brains and ambition from reaching the top." He drew attention to some of the leading millionaires of the country, defending their position by pointing out that everyone had the same right to do as they had done and accumulate the same amount of material wealth.

There are many social reforms which can and will be instituted to alleviate the conditions of the poore people in the country but these can only be brought about after the country is ready for them. It is impossible to institute a radical social reform such as Social Credit which will be but a panacea for all the ills of the people until the people are properly adjusted for it. He gave as an example of this the proposal to turn over all the forest and mineral wealth of the country to the people claiming that if this were done it would very soon be exhausted of its wealth and few having anything to show for it. Under the present system the forests as in British Columbia are growing 10 times as fast as they are cut.

Turning to unemployment, he held that the causes must be found before any cure could be affected. The speaker felt that insurance was certainly not a cure but instead merely a means of temporarily alleviating the situation.

Rotarian Bert Taylor reported the net proceeds of the ice carnival were $88.75. Guests at the luncheon were Messrs W. A. Fraser and James Cox both of Trenton.

Case Is Enlarged When Witness Ill

The absence of a material witness through illness today made it impossible for the trial of Jack Webster, Toronto youth charged with stealing $10 from J. K. Hughes from going ahead.

Webster protested at the delay. "I am enlisting in the Air Force," he told Magistrate E. A. Gee. "I have to be in Toronto tomorrow for medical examination."

The medical board sits almost every day, doesn't it?" asked the magistrate.

The case was finally enlarged until Tuesday of next week by which time, Crown Attorney McElderry said, the missing witness would be available.

Bail was fixed at $200 but Webster said that there was no one in Peterborough to furnish bail for him.

Leap To Safety

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—(CP).— A mother clutching her 17-month baby jumped to safety through a ground floor window as fire swept their east-end home to-day.

Hospital officials where they were taken for treatment said Mrs. Stanley, stockless and the baby, both severely cut when they crashed through the window, were not in serious condition.

Of undetermined origin, the flames had blocked off all exits in the dwelling when the woman was awakened by smoke. Holding the baby in her arms, she smashed the window pane and jumped.

FOR SAILORS' ORPHANS

Hastings Boy Overseas Rejoins Family

HASTINGS, Feb. 6.—(ENS). — The leaving of Canadian troops for overseas meant the parting of members of some families, but to Private John Butterworth from Hastings of the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment, it meant going home. In a letter received here Monday, John revealed his home-coming while on leave from Aldershot camp. A section of his letter reads: "Of course I spent my leave at home with my relations and was received with bells and tears. You can imagine the shock I gave them by "just walking in" after being missing for six years."

Private Butterworth had been in Canada for probably ten years but he lost contact with his relations six years ago and he had heard nothing more from them until his surprise visit in the uniform of the Canadian Active Service Force.

His letter dated January 16 continues: "We haven't seen anything that looks like real war yet except soldiers and trucks. There have been no air raids yet and no sign of any, so we just rest and be thankful. It's not that we are dying to see anything like that but it's a wonder."

All Canadian troops have spoken of the beautiful scenery in Scotland and Private Butterworth has described the countryside in these words: "We sailed up the Clyde at sunrise and I believe I have never seen such beautiful scenery anywhere, even in summer time. It was as though it were painted in technicolor. Those Scotchmen really have something to blow about. If it is like that all the time, I can't see why anyone should ever leave Scotland."

Continuing another part of the letter, he said: "On landing we were all eyes and didn't miss much as we travelled through to the station. The rest of the country was in fog and blackout all the way, so most of the time was spent in grabbing souvenirs. I think some of the boys have a button off every uniform made except the admiral's."

Two Horses Rescued From River Bog

Only the timely arrival on the scene of Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons, prevented a mare and yearling colt from being drowned near the mouth of the Indian River at Keene Monday.

Overseer Lyons was scouting around the neighborhood in his motor car looking for signs of illegal fishing when he noticed four horses on the ice. A little later he saw that two of the animals had broken through the surface of a bog at the mouth of the river and were floundering around unable to extricate themselves.

The Fish and Game official hurriedly summoned help and the mare and colt were rescued just in time.

Anti-Smoke Bylaw Bring Lawsuits

Clap an anti-smoke bylaw on the city and see the shower of lawsuits, Aldermen Cotton and Ovens suggested last night when Alderman Gordon proposed that something should be done to check the daily precipitation of soot that falls on the sidewalks and is carried into stores and offices and apartments.

Alderman Dutton said he opposed a former resolution, but he believed that conditions needed some attention.

The Board of Works was given the idea to mull over it with the proviso, as suggested by Alderman Gordon, that his proposed bylaw should not take effect for six months after passing.

ACCIDENTS

Almost daily we read about someone being injured or badly shaken up because of an accident.

It is almost impossible to get a bad jar or twist without causing a strain to the spinal column.

This may produce a slight derangement of spinal joints or tightness of spinal ligaments and muscles which will result in nerve constriction.

PAIN

stiffness, backache, stomach trouble or headache may develop.

These discomforts are frequently the direct after-effect of an injury and it has been our experience that spinal treatments do afford genuine relief.

JUDGE SMOKE ELECTED PRESIDENT LOCAL LAWN BOWLING CLUB

Officers Named On Club For '40 Season

(By Herb. Martin.)

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Company Judge S. Smoke was unanimously elected president for the 1940 season, H. G. Walker vice-president, and F. M. Brown, secretary-treasurer.

In electing Judge Smoke to the office of president the directors made no mistake. He has been connected with lawn bowling since 1911 and is thoroughly conversant with all the phases of the game. That his long experience will be of great value to the club, there is no doubt. He is a good worker, and is willing to co-operate with each and all in the interest of lawn bowling.

Although born in Toronto he spent practically all his life in Paris. He graduated from Osgoode Law School and practised law in Paris until he came to Peterborough a few years ago.

Joined the Club.

On coming to Peterborough he immediately joined the club and the same year was elected vice-president—a position he held for two years. He was the prime mover in putting over the Canadian tournament, and was chairman of that committee for two years. So successful has that tournament been that in the short space of two years it ranks as one of the best in the province.

He is chairman of the Advisory Board of the local Red Cross Society and was instrumental in helping the club raise $184.00 for that society last fall.

He plays the game for the sake of the game and is interested in nothing but clean sport—and the directors made a good choice in selecting Sheldon Smoke as president.

The officers are: President, Judge S. Smoke; vice-president, H. G. Walker; secretary-treasurer, F. M. Brown.

Board of Directors: Judge S. Smoke, H. G. Walker, J. T. Braund, B. Chesler, F. H. Dearborn, E. L. Sackville, and E. Smith.

Chairman Games Committee — F. H. Dearborn. Chairman Membership Committee—J. T. Braund. Chairman Tournament Committee, E. L. Sackville. Chairman Greens and Property Committee — B. Chesler.

St. James' Seniors Beat All Saints

St. James' Seniors kept in the Church League playoff hunt at All Saints' rink last night by copping a 2-1 win over All Saints, having an edge on play. Livingstone got the first counter, but St. James ran in two in the second, W. Shea and Lackey scoring. Shea was the main scoring threat in a good game, with both goalies being brilliant all through. K. Meredith and Platt also looked good. The teams:

St. James— Goal, T. Shea; defence, K. Meredith, Lackey; centre, Leggitt; wings, W. Shea, Lawson; subs, Grahagn, Saunders.

All Saints—Goal, King; defence, Williamson, D Meredith; centre, McDougall; wings, Livingstone, Platt; subs, Abraham, Prout, Deering, Callons.

Farr To Meet Louis

LONDON, Feb. 6—(CP)—Tommy Farr, British heavyweight, said today he had accepted terms for a return fight with Champion Joe Louis in the United States.

"I do not know what date, but I expect it will be sometime in June," Farr said in announcing he had telegraphed his acceptance to Mike Jacobs, New York promoter.

Bruins Need Win To Shift Rangers Off Top

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 — (AP). — The simple, main reason why Boston Bruins are trailing the first-place New York Rangers in the National Hockey League standings is that they haven't beaten them all season.

The Rangers invade Boston tonight with a record of four victories in five meetings with the second-place Bruins. In their first collision of the season, the two clubs played a tie.

If the Bruins had turned just one of those losses into a victory, adding two points to their own total of 46 and taking two away from the Rangers' total of 49, they would be in first place.

Each team has played 33 games, or one more than three-quarters of its schedule.

So at this crucial point, making a stand on home ice where they have been notably successful against other clubs, the Bruins will seek again to solve the intricate passing style and quick-closing defensive system of the Blueshirts.

The night's other game involves Detroit Red Wings and the Americans at New York. By winning the Americans can climb into a fifth-place tie with their opponents.

Church Juveniles Wind Up Schedule

Church League juveniles ended ther schedule at All Saints' rink last night when Mark St. made the third playoff slot with a neat 1-0 win over George St. Ralph's counter late in the second being the only tally. George St. had a good share of play, with Smith a big offensive threat . The well-balanced East City crew showed better team play, however. Armstrong, one of the most improved players in the loop, and the two goalies, were the stars. The teams:

Referee, M. Williamson.

Junior Squads Tie

The old tie-game rivals, All Saints' Juniors and St. Paul's resumed last night at All Saints' rink with a 2-2 Church League draw. Both are in playoffs, All Saints' in second place and St. Paul's in a tie for third with Park St., and possibly George St. It was a tight tilt with all scores being in a hot third heat. J. Easton and Dundas scored for St. Paul's first, but L. Abraham and Reid evened it up late. Both goalies starred and the rival clubs were well balanced. A bevy of fair supporters cheered St. Paul's. The teams:

All Saints': Goal, Spooner; defence, D. Smith, Lacheur; centre, Deering; wings, D. Abraham, Prout; subs: Reid, Hill, L. Abraham.

St. Paul's: Goal, McBride; defence, McMillan, Dundas; centre, J. Easton; wings, A. Lockington, Morrow; subs: Ferguson, Moorhead, G. Easton, S. Lockington, Dunford.

Referee, H. Conlin.

HASTINGS

Goal Judge Is Badly Hurt In Free-For-All

HASTINGS, Feb. 6 (ENS). — In a triple-header hockey session at Riverside Rink here on Monday night, Separate School girls handed the Public School girls a 9-0 shellacing. In the two men's games which followed the Wildcats defeated the Tigers by 5 to 3, while the Cubs gave Roseneath a 12 to 5 drubbing. In a quarrel during the closing minutes of the last period of the Wildcats-Cubs game, Oscar Scriver, 15, goal judge, was hit over the back with a hockey stick, inflicting an external wound and causing injuries to the ligaments of his back. He was removed to the office of Dr. W. N. Campbell in a semi-conscious condition.

A free-for-all between spectators and players near the finish of the last game between Roseneath and Cubs added more excitement to an already hot game, but netted but one penalty for Pacey of Roseneath.

A goodly attendance of fans were on hand for the night of hockey.

In the first game, Separate School girls proved their superiority over their rivals. For girls' hockey, it must have made the managers of some of the men's teams take notice at the type of playing both sides displayed for their first game. Goal getters for the wniners were; Olive Coughlan 3, Flora MacDonald 4, Isabel Herrington 1.

The teams:

Separate School — Goal, Colleen Daly; defence, Olive Coughlan, Anne Wilkins; centre, Flora MacDonald; wings, Isabel Herrington, Mary Crowley; alternate, Susan Condon.

Public School—Goal, Eileen Dodd; defence, Caroline Scriver, Sylvia Kirke; centre, Muriel Oliver; wings, Edith West, Bessie Turner; alternates, Rosebud Calberry, Dorothy Scriver.

Fairly Clean Game.

In the Tigers-Wildcats game, rivalry between both teams, who hail from the same roof at the Tannery, put much action into the affray, but the game was fairly cleanly playeu. Gerrard Scriver netted the opening goal of the game in the first period for the Tigers. In rapid succession, Paul Coughlan scored two for the Cats in the second frame. Thompson, also for the Cats, counted two more to make it four to one. Faux, for the Tigers, opened scoring in the third, which was immediate cause of the quarrel resulting in Oscar Scriver's injury . Thompson, mintes later, scored for the Cats and Reg. Scriver banked one in for the Tigers to end scoring of the game, with the Cats ahead 5 to 3.

The teams:

Cats — Goal, R. Scriver; defence, Turner, McCoy; centre, Aubrey Scriver; wings, Coughlan, Thompson; alternates, McKee, Brownell.

Roseneath Beaten.

The luckless Roseneath crew went down to defeat again as they have on each visit here this winter. Reinforced by the versatile and experienced Hill and Stevenson, the Cubs had much of their play in the visitors' end of the ice and Armour in th nets for Roseneath had a busy time stopping what shots he saw. In the first frame, Hill scored twice with single goals by Edwards and Petticrew to count four while Arber for Roseneath counted once. Petticrew, Hill and Jones added three to the Cubs' count in the second while Tucker scored for the visitors. The period ended 7 to 2 for Cubs. In the third period, Petticrew counted twice, with single goals by Hill, Stevenson and Boyle for the Cubs, while Jack Pacey for Roseneath did the hat trick and scored three for the visitors. The game ended 12 to 5 for the Cubs.

The teams:

Cubs — Goal, Bonds; defence, Mouncey, Stevenson; centre, Hill; wings, Petticrew, Boyle; alternates, Edwards, Crowley, Jones.

Roseneath — Goal, Armour; defence, Arber, Tucker; centre, Carew; wings, Halstead, Anderson; alternates, J. Pacey, F. Mouncey, and H. Mouncey.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We had an idea that after last night's schedule games we would be able to have a pretty good idea of the possible group winners, but with the downfall of so many contending rinks we are now more at sea than ever before. There are altogether too many "ifs" connected with it. The race for group honors, in the schedule, is by far the best for a long time. There are three or four rinks in each group that may upset all guesses.

Weather permitting the Canada Packers Bonspiel will be tomorrow. The first draw will be at 9 a.m. Three 10-end games played and good prizes will be awarded the winners. It's not too late to enter a rink.

The rinks for the annual "Leads and Seconds" Bonspiel have been drawn up and are posted on the notice board. Players are asked to acquaint themselves with the draw so as to be ready when the bonspiel will be called.

The final game in the "Waddell" Trophy was played yesterday afternoon with the above result. It was a mighty good game and well played and at the sixth end the score was all even. Miss Munro's rink from there on took the lead and won out by six points. Several ladies and gentlemen looked on from No. 8 and stayed through the entire game.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

It's Port Hope Ontarios versus the Peterborough Colts here tonight at 8.30 in the Brock St. bump emporium. Final O.H.A. junior "B" scheduled fray of the season for the young Petes at home. They journey to Cobourg later in the week and then get set for the playoffs 'gainst Oshawa Bees. Tonight's tussle should be a good tune-up for the Weir-Wilgar steppers, if they don't get into too many battles. Last time these teams clashed, there was the dickens to pay—fist fights, major penalties, mob scene and finally retirement to the dressing-rooms till police arrived to keep order! So goodness knows how the young scrappers will act when they meet again this eve.

* * * * * *

Bob Strickland won't be back in the lineup this game, and Bob Parnell may be out, also. Cournyea will be guarding the gas pipes once more, with Beggs, MacDonald, Mason and Vitarelli likely parked on the back fence to slap over enterprising rival forwards. Up front, it'll be Rochetta between Craig and Nichols—unless Parnell is back to hold down a wing spot. Other line has Wade with Foster and Pammett. Readying up for the serious Oshawa threat, the Colts are finally getting serious and should be fairly flying tonight against Dutch Harwood's husky Hopers. It promises to be a wide-open, scrappy sort of struggle and should interest a lot of junior hockey fans here.

* * * * * *

Some Diamond Dust

Just to slip in a wee whisper of summer activity: Oshawa is somewhat interested in re-organizing the senior ball club there this year, though it's merely a thought as yet. A recent local inquiry brought a promising response, the indication being that the GM-men might return to the diamond wars provided the Petes could line up a coupla more clubs to make a four-team C.O.B.L. again. If Kingston would consider a return, things would start to move a bit—but chances aren't very bright yet, and anyway it's pretty early to talk ball at this time of year.

* * * * * *

Since it's too early to talk baseball, we'll skip over to autumn—it's the County Clare in us!—and mention football. Some of the opponents to a Big Six senior merger argue that the grid season is too short unless the conference plan is adopted. This is used much in the States, and they've partly adopted it in Western Canada. A case of invitation schedule to suit each squad. Trouble is that it doesn't suit every squad, especially when the number of clubs in senior competition is limited. Each club wants to play only a top-notcher which will draw well. Argos, Trinstance, would sooner have Rough Riders as guests than Tigers or Imps. Or even Peterborough. Oh, well, they'll soon have a Big Four meeting to discuss all angles.

* * * * * *

Along Bash Blvd.

All quiet these days along Bash Boulevard here. But the boxers meet at seven tonight in the "Y", and they hope then to get definite dope on their training gym. Meantime, some of the ossifers aren't toting their load of organization work, though late employment has kept some busy. The mitt game re-organization requires a lot of study—in fact, one should have his geometry to know all the angles—and not the least problem is the financial one. We can well appreciate this, having served one hectic season as treasurer of the highly exclusive club sporting the name Jolly Robins! But the boys along Bash Blvd. will get going shortly and in real swing along about the time Lent breaks up.

* * * * * *

Oshawa Bees ended their junior "B" schedule at home last gloaming with a 6-4 win over Lindsay Midgets, which was an A-1 showing by the "C" club on a large sheet of foreign ice. Oshawa is scheduled to play in Lakifeld yet, but has defaulted that tussle—pointing out that the game would not affect the standing and would simply mean added expenses. Which is okay with Lakefield, this team also having a postponed tilt in Oshawa—which is now defaulted. The odd thing is that Lakefield has the only junior win over the Bees this year, even tho' via the default route. So it'll be Oshawa vs. Colts in three-in-five "B" playoffs, whilst Lindsay and Lakefield have a two-game "C" group semi-final, and Port Hope and Cobourg do ditto. Dates will be announced shortly.

* * * * * *

Gone With The Wind

Intermediate Lakefield puck squad—in the O.H.A. "B" group with Sutton and Oakwood—has folded up for the season. Despite the fact that Lakefield is practically positive of a group playoff berth with Sutton, and the club is a little ahead financially. They've cancelled their tussle tonight in Oakwood and are ge-finished. Yep, Coach Chubby Blewett and his Lakefield and local lads will take the rest of their hockey this cold spell in spectators' roles. Lack of interest at workouts—and in the last game—is the cause. Four of the players preferred to view the Owen Sound-Petes' fray here last Friday to taking part in the Sutton-Lakefield melee, and a later practice saw only Chappell on hand. It's too bad.

* * * * * *

Best crop of Church Hockey Loop goalies harvested in years may be seen this season at All Saints' rink. Half a dozen real smart young net-guardians coming along, and three league games last eve again demonstrated it. St. James Seniors beat All Saints 2-1, St. Paul's and All Saints' Juniors went to another 2-all tie, Mark St. Juveniles nosed out George St. 1-0, while All Saints' Bantams took a 14-4 win over St. John's. The juvenile Mark St. crew now meets All Saints Thursday in the semi-final game of that series.

Lakefield Teams Break Even In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 6—(ENS) Campbellfor dand Lakefield met in a double-header interscholastic feature here on Monday with honors being evenly divided as the boys trimmed the visitors to the tune of 5-3 while the local girls took an 8 to 3 lacing from the Lakefield squad.

In the boys' section the local took an early one-goal lead but Lakefield succeeded in tieing it up at the end of the first and second periods. Play was even throughout the winners clicking better on their combination plays.

Dunk notched the opening tally for Campbellford early in the initial stanza and as the visitors tore in to get the equalizer the spectators saw plenty of action. It was in the dying minutes of the frame that Nichols registered tieing up the score at the end of the period on a nice pass from Carvette.

Take Lead Again

The locals took the lead again in the second when O'Sullivan slapped one past Birch on a pass from Farrell and the team worked hard to lengthen their lead but found stiff resistance from the Lakefield rear guards Stewart and Jackman. During a scramble in front of the net Tanner slipped one past Metcalfe who was down on the ice, following a rush by the winners.

Lakefield fought gamely during the final stanza ganging up in the locals' territory and peppering Metcalfe from all angles. It was their offensive tactics which left their goal-tender unprotected and twice gave O'Sullivan, who dominated much of the play for locals, an opportunity to skate through and tally. He added two more during the frame while Maxwell and MacGregor teamed up for one. Lakefield was playing wide open when M. Crowe bulged the twine for the final counter.

Girls' Game

B. Lampman on the Lakefield girls' team was the outstanding members of the visitors' first string line figuring on four of the eight goals during the two periods. The visiting squad played superior hockey to the locals outplaying and outskating them during most of the game. The Lakefield squad walked into the lead early in the first with the Bullock, Lampman, Wheaton line having little trouble in penetrating the locals' defense. They had a five to two lead at the end of the first and stretched it to eight to three at the final bell. For Campbellford, C. Wilkens, I. Fowlds and June Burgess gave a nice exhibition at centre ice while R. Jones in the net had little chance during the ganging attack of the visiting ladies.

Lakefield: Goal, M. Hunter; defense, J. Orr, B. Lake; centre, I. Bullock; wings, B. Lampman, N. Wheaton; alternates, H. Geraldi, C. Lampman.

Campbellford: Goal, R. Jones; defense, C. Lucy, R. Peloquin; centre, C. Wilkens; wings, I. Fowlds, J. Coughlan; alternates, A. Menzies, M. Keating, June Burgiss.

Conn Still Aims To Paste Louis On Jaw

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Trying to talk Billy Conn out of the idea that he is destined to whip Joe Louis and return the heavyweight boxing title to the white race is a waste of time. The kid has made up his Irish mind.

"He'll still be around when I'm ready for him," he insisted. "Sure, he's big. But he doesn't like to be hit, and just wait until I lay this right on his jaw."

The 175-pound champ is working out in a gymnasium, starting to get read' for his title fight with Gus Lesnevich here on Feb. 28. Having whipped Lesnevich once in New York, Bill doesn't seem much interested in that phase of his future. The man he wanted to talk about was Joe Louis.

"You've seen how he looks when he gets hit," he persisted. "He looks like a big cry-baby, doesn't he? Hell, he doesn't know anything after he gets one on the jaw."

But how does Billy think he will bear up under a consignment of Louis' rights and lefts?

"He would have a lot of trouble hitting me," said Conn, soberly. "That's part of this game—not to get hit. But I can take a punch. I won't be scared of that guy when I get in the ring with him, like these other palookas have been."

Billy is the one man all the crtics agree they would love to see in the ring with Louis, providing he could weigh in at 185. Some think Conn could spot Louis 25 pounds and whip him.

Colts-Port Hope Battle Tonight

With two regulars, Strickland and Parnell, likely absentees from tonight's lineup, the local Colts may be given a strenuous scrap by the battling Ontarios of Port Hope. It is an O.H.A. junior "B" tilt at 8.30 this evening in the Brock St. Rink, the local scheduled match, with playoffs commencing next week.

Apostoli Packs His Bags; Career Mystery

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 — (AP). — Fred Apostoli packed his bags today and made ready to pull out of town, leaving behind the wreckage of his fistic career and the biggest question mark in the fight game since Dave Barry counted over Gene Tunney in double talk one September evening in Chicago.

Whenever the boys in the fight mob parked their hats, there were a million-and-one guesses as to just what happened to make Freddy nose-dive almost overnight from one of the really fine fighters in ring history to what seems now a "washed up" warrior.

Larry White, the former world middleweight champion's manager, disclosed that while Freddy was in a hospital during the week-end (he was taken there immediately after he was knocked out on Friday by Mello Bettina) he had been given a thorough going over and the physician had found him "O.K."

Apostoli is quiet and shy. His only dissipation is an occasional glass of beer. Yet, after skyrocketing to a world's championship with such "class" that many labelled him the best boxer, pound for pound, in the game, he suddenly doesn't click any more.

It all started with two of the greatest fights ever seen in Madison Square Garden, between Fred and Conn early in 1939. Both bouts were bristling and loaded with action. The second was as close as the type to this paper, and Conn drew the nod of the officials. After that Fred met several opponents whom he could have put in his hip pocket at his peak, yet he had trouble winning over them.

White insisted he was going to have Fred quit the ring for good this time. But Apostoli, on leaving the hospital yesterday demanded another chance.

The tussle promises to be another speedy, wide-open and scrappy fray as these same teams engaged in several furious fist fights in their last meeting and are not likely to be in any more gentle mood tonight.

Coach Weir's squad is in second place now, while Coach Dutch Harwood's Hopers are down in the standing in fifth place, but both sides will battle it out just as hard as ever. The classy colts are pointing now to the playoffs with Oshawa and beginning to click in true form, and they hope to hurdle the Port Hope gladiators here this evening, but expect something of a struggle doing it. The game should get a fair-sized crowd of junior puck fans.

Blood transfusion is being tested in South Africa as a cure for leprosy.

NORWOOD CONTINUES WINNING STREAK BY BEATING STIRLING

Elgin Lambastes Westwood 4-2 For First Victory

NORWOOD, Feb. 6 (ENS). — Their first win of the current E.P.R.L. schedule, Elgin last evening handed the Westwood squad a 4-2 setback, in a strenuous tussle at Norwood Arena.

The game was fairly fast and clean throughout, with only three penalties being administered by Referee K. Pollock. "Red" Lobb, the winners' net custodian, was the chief reason for their victory over the speedier Westwood team. Lobb's blocking was sensational on numerous occasions.

Elgin took the lead early in the initial period, when Lumsden took a pass from Murphy in enemy territory for their first marker. At the six minute mark, a sustained attack by Elgin on the Westwood cage resulted in their second counter of the night, J. Richardson doing the scoring with E. Preston and G. Richardson also in on the play. A badly cleared puck, in front of Elgin's net, gave Gill a chance to notch Westwood's first goal unassisted. This ended the scoring for the initial period, in which J. Chaplin received the only penalty for tripping E. Preston on Elgin.

Shearer of Westwood was gated for tripping as the middle frame opened. Westwood tied the count 2-all when Gill passed out to Buck from behind the Elgin net.

After eight minutes of the final frame, E. Preston slammed home Rusaw's rebound to give Elgin the lead once more. Immediately following this Lobb dived headlong out of his cage to intercept the puck as Buck and Gill were breaking in alone on him. Elgin managed also to stave off a series of attacks as they were short-handed, with Metcalfe in the penalty box for tripping Gill. With Metcalfe back, and Westwood playing every man up, Lumsden of Elgin sped down the ice on a couple of neat breakaways, the last one resulting in a goal.

Lobb was outstanding for the winners, but Lumsden, Rusaw, E. Preston, and G. Richardson were also good. For the losers Holmes, Gill, Green, Buck, Mortlock, and Sargent went best.

Albions Trounce Trent River 3-1

HAVELOCK, Feb. 6.—(ENS)—The Havelock "Albions" gained undisputed leadership of the East Peterborough Rural Hockey League race, last evening, by virtue of their 3 to 1 victory over Trent River, in a rather spotty session at the Norwood arena.

The Albions who have yet to drop a decision in the current schedule, were consistently better on the play last eve, their strength being especially noticeable on the defence and much of the praise for the local victory goes to Joe Peters for his standout performance in the Albion net.

Havelock took the lead after four minutes of the first period, with Brunton notching the opening goal on a passout from Hagerman, with Pollock also taking part in the play. H. Hamilton tallied their second counter nine minutes later to end the scoring for the initial stanza with the Albions enjoying a 2-0 lead. Hamilton also drew the only penalty of this session for tripping VanVolkenburg.

Less than two minutes had passed in the middle frame, before Jim Brown accepted a pass from George Brown inside the Albion blue-line and drove a hard one past Peters for the Riverites one and only counter of the game. Gordon intercepted a solo effort by Jim Brown about the halfway mark to notch Havelock's third and final marker unassisted, with a blazing shot from well out. For the remainder of this period and throughout all of the third, both sides continued to press the attack but no more goals were forthcoming. Heavy bumping featured the final canto.

The teams:

Trent River—Goal, D. Hill; defense, A. Brown; VanVolkenburg; centre, Jim Brown; wings, G. Brown, C. Chaplin; alternates, Jamieson, Hamilton, Parcells, E. Stevenson, Jack Brown.

Castilloux Halts Gomer Sweep In 10-Round Win

TORONTO, Feb. 6.— (CP).—Oh the say-so of the men he conquered, Dave Castilloux, king of Canada's featherweights, can rule the world in that division if he so choses. But the Montreal boy's latest victim—Charley Gomer of Baltimore—stressed the "if" as he explained how he thought Castilloux could become a boxing champion.

Castilloux, weighing 133¾ pounds last night, punched out a clean-cut decision over Gomer, 133½. He pounded the Baltimore battler into helplessness in the last minute of their 10-round bout and broke Gomer's record of 19 consecutive fights without defeat.

I have to rate Dave better than any man I have yet faced," said Gomer as he sat in his dressing room after the fight, his mouth swollen and eyes badly bruised. "If he fights the way he did against me this time and gets a crack at Joey Archibald (world featherweight champion, he'll knock him out."

"Dave fought just as we had planned and it worked out fine," said Paul Godbout, the Montreal's manager.

"In New York he found out that Gomer was a tough fellow and we decided to let the first half of the fight go before opening up."

Gomer Sets the Pace

The fight went much the way Godbout said he planned it and for the first five rounds, the fans didn't like the way Dave let Gomer set the pace. Castilloux led but seldom in the early exchanges and his blows didn't seem to bother Gomer.

From the sixth round on, the French-Canadian came out of his crouch to fire both fists steadily at Gomer's head. Gomer tired badly in the ninth and was reeling helplessly as the bell sounded to end the fight.

A newcomer to Toronto fight circles from Vancouver, Frenchy Beaudin, 136¼ impressed the crowd as he decisioned Toronto's Joey Bagnato, 134¾. Holder of the Western Canada welterweight title, Beaudin gained a wide lead in the first three rounds and held Bagnato even the rest of the way.

Fans Join Fight When Contest Becomes Too Hot

STIRLING, Feb. 6 (ENS)—Angry fans and players staged a free-for-all as a finale to a rough encounter between the Norwood "Hornets" and the Stirling "Shells" last evening at the Stirling arena, when the visitors grabbed a close 3-2 decision over the home team.

The fireworks started immediately as soon as the players started to leave the ice at the conclusion of the game. The home town fans were hot after referee Ennis' scalp for serving Armstrong a major for fighting in the dying moments of the game, while Rothwell escaped with a minor. It was while both men were parked in the cooler that Aboud tallied for the Hornet's winning marker with less than a minute to go, on a rather lucky shot. Shooting from the blue line, Aboud's drive looped high, to drift lazily overhead and drop down behind Fox, the bewildered Stirling netminder, who had apparently lost track of the puck in its flight.

Starting off the second half of the schedule with a win, Alex. Kempt's "Hornets" thus regained top honors in the Trent Valley Hockey League race, Campbellford having lost out to Madoc last night. Norwood has one game in hand and lead Stirling by a one-point margin. On Wednesday evening the Madoc "Micmacs" will visit the Norwood arena, and on Friday Tweed will encounter the Hornets on the latter's home ice.

Last night's game was anything but a good exhibition of hockey. Slow ice had much to do with putting the squads off their usual stride. The Hornets minus the services of O'Leary and Mickey Puffer were lucky to grab off a victory.

It was a scoreless first session, with fairly rough tactics being used on both sides, although no penalties were handed out.

Hill opened the scoring for Norwood at the eight minute mark in the middle frame, combining with Rothwell and Pep Rogers for this counter. Four minutes later, Aboud notched their second goal on a solo effort. Trouble first started in this canto, when Rothwell barged into Armstrong with fists swinging, after the latter had crosschecked him. Rothwell drew a major and Armstrong a minor for his part in the incident. Only other penalty of this period went to Aboud for charging.

Down a pair of goals going into the final stanza, the Shells tried persistently, and their efforts were finally rewarded when Fraser combined with Armstrong for their initial tally, about the four minute mark. Walker picked up a pass from Jones shortly after to notch the equalizer and both squads then turned it on in desperate attempts to break the 2-all deadlock.

With a couple of minutes remaining, Rothwell and Armstrong again decided to mix it up, with Armstrong being the aggressor on this occasion. A major to the latter and a minor to Rothwell sent them both away for the rest of the game. With about 50 seconds to go, and overtime looming close, Aboud grabbed the puck at the Stirling blue line and drifted a shot towards Fox which was to spell victory for his squad.

The teams:

Stirling: Goal, Fox; defense, Walker, Jones; centre, Armstrong; wings, Fraser, Mayes; alternates, Morton, Ingram, Dainard, G. Walker.

Norwood: Goal, McMaster; defence, R. Webb, Rothwell; centre, G. Puffer; wings, N. Rogers, Hill; alternates, Richardson, Brady, Davis, Aboud, W. Webb.

Referees: R. Innis, Norwood B. Hulin, Stirling.

Terry Uncertain Of Giants' Hopes

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—New York Giants are shot full of problems and "can't honestly be picked for the pennant" in the National Baseball League, said Manager Bill Terry today, but if they fit together this season they'll be right in the middle of the scramble.

Terry isn't kidding himself this year like he did last spring when he said his Giants looked like the best he'd ever handled.

"I don't know where we'll finish," he said, "but I figure we'll be better than last year. The Cardinals are going to be tougher than the Reds. After that it's anybody's horse race and I think our pitching and our infield both will be better.

"I expect a lot of Hub (Carl Hubbell). In fact, I think he'll win 18 games, based on the way he finished last fall. Five of my pitchers, Hub, Hal Schumacher, Cliff Melton, Harry Gumbert and Bill Lohrman, can step up there and take their regular turn. We've got good relief."

Prowler Scares Girls In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Feb. 6—(ENS).—Following complaints by two young ladies, Lindsay police are searching for a man believed to be a pervert who has been molesting girls in the South Ward on recent nights. On each occasion, the description of the culprit has been the same so police believe the same man responsible for all offences.

A young lady, returning home at 10.30 p.m. late last week was struck about the hips by a man as she passed him on the street. She hurried on and, after she had travelled half a block, she discovered the man immediately behind her. She ran into a nearby house in a very nervous condition.

The latest complaint occurred Sunday night when a prowler on Simcoe Street frightened a young lady on her way home alone.

Sam Fountain, an employee at the smallware factory in Haliburton, had several fingers severed when his hand came in contact with a cutting machine Saturday morning. It is believed all the fingers of his right hand are either severed or will have to be amputated.

Captain J. P. Sloan of the Salvation Army in Haliburton has been transferred to Lansing, Ont. Captain Sloan had been in Haliburton only five months.

Clifford Truax, an employee of the Stabdard Handle Company, Fenelon Falls, suffered a fractured hip while working Saturday morning. He was working from the top of a ladder repairing a broken pulley belt and fell to the floor. He is in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay.

George Goodwin of Lindsay is in receipt of a letter from Prime Minister Mackenzie King, expressing sympathy following the recent death of William Goodwin in his 100th year.

St. John's Puckists Are Eliminated 14-4

St. John's, defending Church League bantam champions, bowed out of the picture last night at All Saints' rink when All Saints' pounded in a 14-4 victory. The husky winners slammed home four in the first three minutes through a porous defence with all the victors being in on the scoring. Clark and Frank shared the losers' scoring. Hill did some fancy sniping for All Saints'. The teams:

All Saints': Goal, Panter; defence, Edgar, Shadgett; centre, McDougall; wings, Jones, Baxter; subs: Menzies, Outram, Hill, Padgett, Mason.

St. John's: Goal, Currie; defence, Frank, Hooper; centre, Clark; wings, Howard, Logan; sub., Grey.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR.

"Nicky! Such a bad boy!" There was affectionate reproach in Gertrude de Ligne's voice as she swept into her drawing room in a swirl of black chiffon and bore down on Nicky who kissed the slender hand she held out to him.

"Should have paid my party call. May I be forgiven?" he pleaded, not too fervently. Gertrude, he saw at once, had sent for him either to ask something of him or to find out something she wished to know.

"Wasn't it a lovely wedding? But I've been so lonesome, Nicky," she said pathetically, distributing the folds of her gown over the edge of the amber brocade chair. "To have both of my children leave me! You're lucky that you'll never be a mother and know what it is to lose your children."

"You've still got the twins," he pointed out.

"But they're in school in Switzerland," she said sadly. "And now Dick is so far away and Fabienne ....oh, dear, Nicky....what am I to do about Fabienne?"

He shrugged and offered her his cigarette case. "What's the matter with her?"

"That's what I hoped you could tell me. You and I are closer to Fabienne than anyone else, darling. Sometimes I think you are much closer than I am. I've let my little girl get away from me. But your beautiful attachment goes on without interruption."

Morton came in at that moment with a tray of cocktails and saved Nicky from making the reply Gertrude obviously expected.

He shook his head when Morton brought the tray to him. "On the wagon," he explained.

Gertrude wrinkled her brows quizzically, but she smiled at him. "Not really? Why, Nicky?"

"Working," he said. "The Bartlett Company discourages morning-after headaches. An office boy has to keep his wits about him."

"Working! You?" Gertrude forgot her picturesque pose.

"That's right. A guy's got to settle down some time."

Gertrude relaxed. She said delicately, "Then you and Fabienne—"

"Sure. We've both settled down to work. It gives us both a kick."

Gertrude, annoyed at the way he'd turned the conversation, took it firmly in hand.

"Nicky, you've got to help me about Fab. I'm not at all happy about her. In the first place, she's practically made me a laughing-stock. Everybody knows what a cruel blow it was to find that grandfather had left the old Willoughby house to a settlement organization. And then for Fab to boldly espouse the same cause.... well....it's pretty obvious, isn't it, that she did it for no other reason than to—to make me unhappy?"

"I don't think you do Fab justice," he told her quietly.

"Justice! Justice! When I am trying to save her from her own folly I'm ambitious for my daughter, Nicky, and it hurts me to see her doing something she can only regret later. Fab wasn't meant for the sort of thing she's doing."

"She seems to like it. She useful, she's—she's swell. She's only waiting for a chance to go back to the full-time job she had before."

"Oh!" Gertrude said, her train of thought arrested. "You mean she's not working at the settlement house?"

"Only on that little theatre thing. Bill Mallory doesn't think she's strong enough to take on a full load."

"And this Dr. Mallory," she said casually. "Do you think Fab is interested in him?"

"I think she's head over heels in love with him. If it comes off, you're to be congratulated."

Gertrude had other ideas. She said, "Nonsense, it's only an infatuation. You're the only person she ever really cared for, my dear." Gertrude was too wise in such matters to embarrass Nicky any further, so she hurried on to say, "If you could only get her away from that wretched place where she lives!"

Nicky's expression chilled. He said, "Have you ever seen it?"

"No, but I don't have to. I met that little Miss....what is her name? ....Oh, yes, Chapman. She was at th wedding. You remember? Would you say that she was the sort of person that Fab is? So common, Nicky."

Nicky got up. "I've got to run along, Gertrude, but I want to say one thing before I do. It's this—Fab is getting to be the sort of person Ellen is. And a good thing! Ellen is a girl in a million."

For a long time after Nicky left, Gertrude sat calmly, studying her folded hands, thinking of the disclosures Nicky had made. "So that's the way the land lies," she said softly. "Fabienne is falling in love with a penniless doctor and Nicky finds the little Chapman 'a girl in a million.' I'll have to do something about such a ridiculous situation.

When the Comtesse de Ligne made up her mind to do something, she seldom lost any time going about it. At eleven o'clock the next morning her long tharoon limousine stopped before the professional building where a small sign in a long list of similar signs read, J. W. MALLORY, M.D.

The community waiting room, so unlike the handsomely furnished waiting rooms where Gertrude had visited her various physicians, was sparsely furnished with plain wooden chairs and a single library table with a lamp on it that made her shudder delicately. Dr. Mallory probably slept on a cot in his office, she thought.

Dr. Mallory appeared suddenly in the doorway and was enormously surprised to see her. He came across the room to her at once.

She held out an expensively-gloved hand and said, "Surprised, Doctor? I'm not a patient. I've come to talk to you about my little girl."

"Wont you come in?" he invited at once. He pulled a chair out for her and sat at his desk waiting for her to speak.

"Dr. Mallory, you've been taking care of Fabienne since she's been ill and I wondered if you'd noticed anything . . . well, peculiar about her?"

"Peculiar?" he repeated and was again silent.

Gertrude laughed a little uncertainly. "Fabienne is a peculiar child, Doctor. She's so used to having her own way. She goes to rather unusual lengths to get it. It's all my fault, of course. I should never have opposed her when she wanted to marry Nicky in the summer. She may have told you why she threw herself into this work for which she is not suited."

Bill did not answer and Gertrude went on:

"Of course, that's why she is doing it! Now, Doctor, I want you to help me. I want you to find some way to keep her from going back to Willoughby house. I want her to come back to me. The work there is too hard for her."

"I've been telling her that," he said.

"Then you will help me! And you'll not let on about this little visit? Naturally Fabienne doesn't believe that I—I—have her—"

"Best interest at heart," Bill finished in a cold, professional voice that masked his sarcasm. "You may depend on me, Comtesse, to do what I can."

Seven patients cooled their heels while Bill sat morosely staring at the telephone. For the second time he said, "Well, that's that, Mallory," and pulled the telephone toward him. He thought he knew a way to meet the demands of both Fabienne and her mother. He dialed Fabienne's number, and when he heard her voice, he felt a funny heaviness under his necktie k "Fool!" he said. "What would doing with a lump in my throat? Must be getting a cold."

Honeymooners Die In Plane Smash

HAMMOND, La., Feb. 6—(AP)—An airplane honeymoon trip ended in death last night for a newly married couple and three other persons flying from Denver to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras celebration.

The five-passenger cabin biplane crashed in wooded, swampy country in a thick fog six miles east of here after the pilot tried desperately to find his way into the New Orleans airport, 50 miles away.

Don Craig, 30, of Denver, was the pilot. The passengers, prominent residents of Colorado, were Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerhacke, bride and groom of a day; Mrs. Elizabeth Powell, owner of the plane and a cousin of Zimmerhackel; and Michael Hinderlider, Jr., 28, son of the Colorado state engineer.

Zimmerhackel, 56, Denver lawyer and business man, once was a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator from Colorado. His bride, 43, was the divorced wife of Erl Ellis, Denver attorney.

NOT SO WELCOME

MOST PLAYERS are ticked to death when they pick up a hand chock full of top cards. Yet such hands, which are so strong that your partner is unlikely to hold much of anything, are among the most difficult of all to handle deftly in the bidding. It is sometimes almost impossible to find out whether the few cards of rank possessed by the player opposite you are really of any value at all.

South bid 2-Clubs to open this deal in a rubber game. North responded with the conventional 2-No Trumps. Then South bid 2-Spades, North 2-No Trumps and South 3-No Trumps. After East led the heart 3, South put down his hand with pride, expecting North to be more than pleased with such an immense dummy.

Poor North could count only six positive tricks, however, his only good chance for extra ones being in clubs. After taking the first trick, he cashed the club tops and led a third club to East. When in again with the heart K, he led another club to East, who cashed his heart Q and put declarer on the board again with a spade to the A.

Thus a total of seven tricks were taken by the declarer, his six top tricks plus one more in clubs. Had North held even the queen and another club, with the suit dividing evenly, game would have been made. But how can a bidder find out such things?

Unhappy experiences with hands of this type have caused more and more players to prefer opening them with a minimum bid, in this case 1-Club, to find out if the partner has enough for a response.

Japs Hunt Ghost Gen. Moh Shan

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6—(AP).—Japanese reported their "ghost" chase advancing today, with Chinese forces in inner Mongolia in flight from several lost strongholds.

Advices from the far northern front said the Chinese had been driven from Wuyuan and Linho. They said Japanese forces were pursuing the Chinese toward the border between inner Mongolia and Ninghsia Province, about 25 miles distant.

The "ghost" the Japanese are hunting is General Ma Chansan, Chinese leader who they reported killed eight years ago, but who has been a thorn in their side several times since.

Since the Japanese have reported his "death" to the Emperor—and in Japanese belief anything told him becomes "irrevocable"—army leaders are attempting to destroy his forces.

British And Maori Of New Zealand Held Shining Example For Nazis

LONDON, Feb. 6 — (CP). —The "shining example" of New Zealand where two races, the British and the Maori, live side by side in amity was recommended to Germany today at a reception held at the Royal Empire Society's headquarters here.

The reception celebrated the centennial of New Zealand. Guests were received by the New Zealand High Commissioner, W. J. Jordan, and Mrs. Jordan, and Major-General Sir Frederick Sykes, chairman of the Council of the Society, and Lady Sykes.

Recalling that it would be 100 years to-morrow since the Treaty of Waitangi was signed by the Maoris and British settlers, Sir Frederick said:

"To-day when racial hatred is preached and racial persecution has reached new standards of frightfulness, there is the shining example of New Zealand of how two utterly different races live side by side in perfect friendship with mutual advantage.

"Here is a striking but by no means singular disproof of the Nazi theory of exploitation that the British Empire provides. New Zealand will crown her first century with a crusade for right and freedom that will make her achievements still more memorable."

Mr. Jordan expressed the pride of New Zealanders in the part the cruiser Achilles played in the battle against the Graf Spee—the Achilles belonged to the New Zealand division of the Royal Navy—and spoke of the Dominion's growing war effort.

He said the Maoris, who numbered 50,000 a century ago, totalled 86,000 now and had a force under arms. The Dominion has 20,000 men training and will have more.

"During the last war," he said, "New Zealand sent 100,000 overseas and will do so again if necessary."

Rescuers Find Lad Half Frozen Lost On Mountain

LITTLETON, N.H., Feb. 6—(AP). —Rescued after being lost 28 hours on blizzard-swept slopes of lofty Mount Washington, Webster Jones, 19-year-old Harvard sophomore and son of Carneigie Tech's Director of Engineering, was given a "good chance" today of recovering from the ordeal. A preliminary examination showed that his toes were seriously frost-bitten and that he was suffering from shock and exposure.

Meanwhile, Karl Sax, 20, of Boston, a Harvard senior and young Jones' companion on the attempted climb of the section's highest peak, was under treatment at a Harvard infirmatory in Cambridge, Mass. There was a possibility, physicians said, that he might lose several frost-bitten fingers.

It was Sax who tumbled out of the snow-covered mountains on Saturday to spread the alarm of Jones' plight. The youths had been trapped and separated in the blinding storm as temperatures tumbled below zero.

Young Jones was found yesterday wrapped in blankets and half buried in snow by two members of a band of snowshoe-equipped mountain rangers, highway patrolmen, and Civilian Conservation Corps boys. They were forced to give up the hunt once because of intense cold and a 90-mile-an-hour gale.

A ski trail led to the spot where he was huddled only a few feet off Crowfard Notch Trail and not far from where Jones and his companion made camp on Friday night.

ANOTHER GRATEFUL MAN PRAISES SYNTONA HIGHLY

Relieved Stomach Trouble, Dizzy Spells and Pains in Back and Shoulders — Felt Nervous, Rundown.

GEORGE VAN NORMAN

"I can plainly see why so many people are talking about Syntona and I am now convinced that it actually does all that is claimed for it," said Mr. George Van Norman, well-known resident of Millgrove, Ontario, in a recent statement:

"For the last four years I have been feeling miserable. I suffered with stomach trouble and constipation. Such awful dizzy spells came over me that I would have to stop wherever I happened to be. Then pains set into my shoulders and back. I couldn't sleep well and I would arise in the mornings feeling dumpish, nervous and irritable.

"Syntona seemed to be helping so many people out our way, so I began taking it, too, and it has proved to be just what I was needing. Now I enjoy my meals and my food digests without any trouble. The pains have all gone from my back and shoulders, and, best of all, I am free of those awful dizzy spells. I sleep better now and I get up in the mornings feeling rested and happy. If anybody cares to ask me, I will gladly tell them personally, just what Syntona has done for me."

The reason such good results are produced by a medicine that is compounded to act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels at the same time is simply this: The organs of assimilation and elimination are so closely related in their functions that when one becomes ailing, it so often affects one or more of the others. Food that should provide energy and resistance, only ferments in the stomach. Excess acids and poisonous waste matter is fed into the bloodstream and soon the whole system is rundown.

Every weak, ailing, rundown man or woman in Peterborough or vicinity, is cordially invited to go to Elliott's Drug Store and find out all about Syntona. The chances are that you, too, will say it is the best medicine you ever had the good fortune to use. (Advt.)

Mine Shatters Crack Mail Liner

200 Passengers, Crew Saved, 20 Hurt On Run To Ireland

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(CP). — The crack Irish mail steamship Munster, 4,305 tons, sank after an explosion presumably due to a mine early to-day on her run between Liverpool and Ireland.

The ship's 200 passengers and crew reached land safely, although 20 were injured.

The Evening News said a mine struck the forward part of the fast motorship and that the radio aerial was blown away, making it impossible to send radio distress signals.

The captain was knocked off the bridge but was uninjured.

Most of the survivors from the Munster, a British vessel, were brought ashore by a tramp steamer.

An official said that "no one from the Munster has been lost."

One survivor, able seaman Allan Clue of Liverpool, said the explosion occurred this morning accompanied by "a blue flash and a terrific blast."

Clure said another vessel about eight miles away, quickly answered the ship's distress signal and took many aboard.

"Women and children were among the passengers and everyone behaved perfectly," he added.

A member of the crew said the fore part of the ship was "hurled into the air and dropped back into the water with a thud."

"When I last saw her, she was well down by the bows with her propellers out of the water.

"We were in a lifeboat about three hours before we got alongside a collier. As the last man jumped aboard our lifeboat sank."

Alsatian Leader Is Shot As Spy

NANCY, France, Feb. 7—(CP Havas).—Dr. Karl Roos, leader of the Alsatian Autonomist Movement, was shot here today as a spy.

A soldier named Lobstein, convicted with Roos as an accomplice, received a last-minute reprieve. His sentence was commuted to one of life imprisonment.

Dr. Roos and the soldier were sentenced on October 26 by a military court and several appeals have since been rejected by the civil courts.

On last October 29 Roos was reported to have been shot, but actually the execution had been delayed pending action on his appeal.

Roos went before the firing squad on the garrison parade grounds.

Sending Planes

London, Feb. 7 (CP)

RICHARD BUTLER, undersecretary for foreign affairs, asked in the House of Commons today if the government would consider sending bombers and crew to Finland, replied that Britain already was sending planes and that he understood fliers were available in Finland.

The House cheered Sir Alfred Knox, Conservative, when he asked if every possible step was being taken to send aid quickly to Finland, who, he said, was fighting for the whole of civilization.

Weygand Checks Egyptian Defence Lines

CAIRO, Feb. 7 (CP) — General Maxime Weygand, commander-in-chief of the French Army in the near east, arrived by airplane today from Beirut, Syria. He was accompanied by staff officers.

The general will spend three days inspecting Egyptian desert and coastal defences with General Sir Archibald Wavell, commander-in-chief of British forces in the near east, and Egyptian army chiefs.

Egypt, which severed diplomatic relations with Germany last Sept. 3, began three years ago to develop her army with the aid of a British military mission. Training has been intensified since the war began.

The Egyptians are spending more than £7,000,000 ($31,150,000) for defence this year, including £500,000 on military works required under the Anglo-Egyptian treaty.

Elect Bert May To Vacancy On School Board

By a majority of four votes, Bert May was elected trustee of School Section No. 2, North Monaghan, for three years, defeating Ernest Ainslie by 50-46 at a meeting of the ratepayers of the section in May's School last night.

The decision was arrived at by a recorded poll of the ratepayers, after declaring a tie, 44 for each candidate on a standing vote.

According to the regulations of the Public Schools Act, the poll was to be pronounced closed ten minutes after the last recorded vote. At 9.23 o'clock, H. B. Rye, chairman, announced this procedure. A few minutes before the first period of ten minutes was ended, four ratepayers from the May's School neighborhood arrived and cast their votes. Their incoming necessitated a further wait of ten minutes, and shortly before 9.43 o'clock, Mr. Rye declared the poll closed. Two minutes later four young women arrived out of the night too late to get their names on the list. They were greeted with laughter from many of those assembled in the crowded class room, and retired immediately as quickly as they had entered.

When Mr. Rye informed the ratepayers of the result of their poll-

Belleville Court Is Packed By Rawdon Farmers For Preliminary Hearing

Woman's Sobs Break Silence Of Courtroom Jammed With Rawdon Neighbors Of Brutally Murdered Wellman Couple

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 7.—(CP) —Preliminary hearing of Frederick Thain, charged with the murders of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman, whose mutilated bodies were found in their home at Harold, 22 miles north of here, last week, opened today.

Thain and the Wellmans were neighbors and before he was arrested Thain had been a member of the coroner's jury which began inquiry into the double tragedy.

A crowded courtroom, tense with expectancy grew suddenly hushed as Frederick Thain entered. The low hum of voices of those unable to obtain admission, who milled in corridors was plainly audible. A woman's muffled sob broke the silence.

Thain, smiling, looked around the courtroom as he entered with Constable Adair. He turned and spoke to Dr. E. A. Carleton, Stirling physician, who sat near a press table. Thain was dressed in a grey suit, blue shirt and blue tie. He was clean-shaven and sat with folded arms, awaiting the opening of the hearing.

Conversation grew to a low hum after the accused entered.

Every Seat Full

Rawdon farmers, neighbors of the accused and the slain Wellmans, formed the greater part of the courtroom audience. Seats were filled to capacity. People stood in ranks against the side and back walls.

Charles McCulloch of Porter Payne and Arnott appeared for the accused, with County Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan conducting the hearing.

Thain stood up as the charges of murder of Arnold and Nancy Wellman were read by the crown. He rested his arm on the bar, an interrogatory expression on his face. He nodded when told to sit down.

Charles Mott, Belleville City Engineer, identified plans of the location of the murders on Concession Nine of the Township of Rawdon, surrounding roads, and the house and barn in which the shootings occurred.

Several photographs depicting various scenes pertaining to the crime, house, barn and cow stable, etc., were identified by Godfrey Scott and Arthur Cole, press photographers.

Appears Uninterested

Thain appeared to take little interest in the proceedings. He sat quietly in the dock, his hands clasped in front of him. At times his eyes drooped and once he nodded sharply as if drowsing.

Once his eyes swept rapidly around the scene in front of him. He passed a hand over his face and looked at the ceiling, an interrogating look knitting his brows.

Vernon Runnells, Harold farmer, told the court he had seen Arnold Wellman on January 31, when he asked for employment. He was to start work cutting wood on Friday. He did not see Mrs. Wellman.

Robert Fleming, Springbrook flour and feed merchant, had done grain grinding for the slain man on the afternoon of January 29. He left for home at two p.m. He had 12 bags of wheat and oats and brought them with a horse and sleigh. It was bagged in light cotton sacks and four jute sacks.

No Military Pact With Russia Nazis Declare

BERLIN, Feb. 7—(AP).—Authorized German sources declared today that no military agreement whatever exists between Germany and Soviet Russia.

This statement was made to counteract reports that military or technical aid was being given Russia in the war against Finland.

"The Reich never has been asked for military assistance or technical aid of a military character and no agreement exists for extending such help," these sources said.

Reports received here had indicated that part of the Russian strategy was to frighten the Finns by holding up the prospect of German intercession on the Russian side.

Yesterday authorized spokesmen said the German Government had decided there was no basis for mediation in the Russian-Finnish conflict. This decision, it was stated, was reached after the German envoys to Moscow and Helsingfors had returned here to make personal reports on the situation.

Supplies For Neutrals

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A campaign to supply Allied arms to any neutral country drawn into war by Soviet Russian or German action got under way today on the heels of a swift-moving drive in parliament for greater military aid to Finland.

Jean Fabry, writing in the newspaper Le Matin, said France and Great Britain must be prepared "to arm all neutral countries that Russia or the Reich may throw into the war."

Western powers must be ready to "utilize powerfully any battlefield which may open up," Fabry added.

The writer declared it would "back up the conscience" of each of the neutrals if the Allies could say, "there are the arms—we have forged them for the defence of liberty."

Glasgow, Scotland, Feb. 7 (CP)

SIR Archibald Sinclair, opposition Liberal leader in the House of Commons, said today the "dangerous enemies of freedom" in Great Britain are not Fascists or Communists, but "those intolerant of the rights of others."

Speaking at Glasgow University, where he was installed as lord rector, Sir Archibald called freedom of the press and publicity the "best antidote to corruption."

He declared strong currents of controversy in parliament and the press would result in a "more vital, progressive and robust national life."

Witness Faints In Kitchener Murder Trial

KITCHENER, Ont., Feb. 7—(CP) —William Podge of Galt collapsed in the witness box to-day after testifying he saw Reginald White of Hespeler cross a field toward the barn of John and Annie Milroy last August 19 a few hours before discovery of the bodies of the aged brother and sister. White is charged with murder of the Milroys.

Podge was assisted from the courtroom and given stimulants, while the court called other witnesses.

Alexander Grant, employee of the Milroys on their farm near Branchton, testified he saw White on the Milroy farm a week prior to the murders.

"I'm quite sure of this," Grant said. "He passed within 30 yards of me as I was at work in the field."

"When did you first hear about the reward offered in this case?"

"Monday, after we got the paper."

"That was after the time you informed the police about the car, wasn't it?" Mr. Justice Makins said.

"Yes," the witness answered.

Saw White Walk By.

Henry Spekine of Hespeler reported that he saw White about 11.50 a.m. walking towards the centre of town. He said his house was about seven or eight minutes' walk from Bechtel's Bush— where the Milroy car was found—and he was sitting on the verandah when White walked past him coming from the direction of the bush.

400,000 Children In Danger Areas Ordered Back To School Classes

LONDON, Feb. 7—CP). — The British Government served notice on 400,000 British school children today that their wartime holiday must end.

Earl De La Warr, president of the Board of Education, announced in the House of Lords that school attendance for children still living in the so-called danger areas will be made compulsory.

The new policy was announced in reply to a question from the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Out of nearly 1,250,000 children now in the danger areas—those from which children were removed early in the war to places safer from air raids—about 400,000 are getting no schooling, Lord De La Warr said.

The Minister said that whatever the risks of air raids—and he said he thought they still were great—"we must see that every child goes to school somewhere."

"If parents are not willing to send their children to the comparative safety of reception areas, then they must send them to school in town," he said. "The moment the children can be accommodated, attendance must be enforced."

Full-time schooling is the objective, Lord De La Warr said, but a half-time provision for all children by April will be an acceptable minimum.

Efforts are to be made to have school buildings commandeered for war purposes returned, and in some cases the same buildings may be shared by schools and civil defence organizations.

Kenneth Lindsay, parliamentary secretary for the Board of Education, made the same announcement in the House of Commons today as parliament discussed the plight of the British children who have had little or no education in nearly six months.

Debate centred on a question by the Archbishop of Canterbury as to how the government proposed to solve the education problem caused by the removal of children from large cities to places of safety from air raids.

An informed source predicted renewal of compulsory school attendance in "safe" areas, suspended at the outbreak of the war.

More than half of the children removed from cities at the start of the war have returned because bombing of British cities has not yet materialized.

The Times said that "if children are allowed to assemble in cinemas, run in the streets in the blackout, work at errands and in shops at 13, there seems to be no good reason why they should not run the risks of assembling in schools with teachers who look after them."

The newspaper quoted many teachers as saying the risk of air raids was preferable to the "damage now being done by neglect."

Bomb Recipient Brings It To Police Station Kills Officer, Wounds Self, Score Others

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Feb. 7 (AP)—A Swiss counter-espionage agent was killed and another detective and a German were injured severely today by the explosion of a package which the German brought into the Lausanne police headquarters.

Detectives said the German apparently was slated as the victim in an espionage ring's settling of accounts.

The German, whose name was not disclosed, dashed into the police station with the package and said it had been delivered at his hotel by a messenger.

"I think it is a bomb," he was quoted as saying.

Inspector Arnold Jacbud, active in counter-espionage work, took the package to deliver to a police chemist. It exploded while the German was speaking.

Jacoud was killed, Police Brigadier Samuel Clot and the German suffered severe injuries. A score of police employees suffered mihor injuries when the blast knocked them down.

Two Terrorists Sent To Gallows

Heavy Guards Posted; Dublin Quiet Atmosphere Tense

BIRMINGHAM, England, Feb. 7. —(CP).—Two members of the outlawed Irish Republican army died on the gallows in fog-shrouded Winton Green jail to-day for their part in the terrorist bombing which took five lives and wounded close to 100.

As a clock chimed nine, the hour of execution, those in a throng outside the prison bared their heads. There was no sign of a demonstration.

The crowd watched silently, when, seven minutes later, a prison official tacked up notices of the execution on a small door in the centre of the prison gate. The notices disclosed that the men, James Richards, 29, and Peter Barnes, 32, went to death at the same moment.

Thousands of police reinforcements were held on overtime duty in London and other large cities on the possibility that the execution might signal a new outburst of terrorism.

Extra guards had patrolled the prison grounds and Birmingham police the nearby streets. All vehicles were stopped some distance from the prison. Officers forced the waiting throng of several hundred persons back into side streets.

An Irish Call

Dublin, Feb. 7 (CP)

THE "Mansion House Committee," which attempted to gain reprieves for the two Irishmen executed at Birmingham, issued a call to "Irishmen throughout the world" today to put an end to "English aggression."

The committee declared "England has shown that she cares nothing for the good will of Ireland and is equally contemptuous of the opinion of all sections of the Irish people."

States Seeking Improved Tie With Italy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — (AP). —The United States has taken a step toward improving relations with Italy, officials said to-day, by agreeing to remove penalty tariff duties from Italian silk.

The penalties were imposed last August 12, but since Italy recently modified its purported subsidies on the products, the Treasury has reconsidered its action. The Treasury is said to have approved, in principle, the cancellation of the duties, and is expected to announce the decision as soon as various formalities are completed.

Although Italian silk shipments to the United States never were very large—amounting to $3,349,000 in 1938 and less in 1939—the penalty, or countervailing, duties were resented by Italy, and the State Department was reported to have been anxious for adjustment of the dispute.

Need More Sheep Is Dewan's Tip To Farmers

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (CP)—Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, told members of the Ontario Sheep Breeders' Association today "it would appear that there is room for increased sheep production."

The minister pointed out that 15 years ago Ontario had more than 2,000,000 sheep while the whole Dominion today has only about 3,400,000. Of this number about 850,000 are in Ontario, the largest sheep-producing province.

Start of the war, he said, had found a shortage of wool. He emphasized that everyone appreciated there was a greater demand for wool during war than in peacetime. But he believed there was room for expanded production.

Mr. Dewan considered it not likely that sheep values would be more than doubled as they were during the last war but he said the raising of sheep could well be increased, "for they provide both food and wool, two commodities of special value in days of war."

Quick Cash Returns

Also, he said, sheep and wool furnish quick cash returns. Sheep are easy to keep. They are economical to feed and assist materially in the eradication of weeds and in clean farming.

Pleasure was expressed by the minister at the maintenance of the sheep business in Ontario during the year. While prices were not unduly high the market for commercial lambs has remained fairly level without any great fluctuations.

"This," he said, "stands to the credit of the sheep farmers of Ontario who have done so much to

Red Ski Battalion Wiped Out Kuhmo Front

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 7 (AP)— Today's Finnish army communique stated the Russians have lost 1,500 dead in the last few days in fighting at Kuhmo in north Finland, where the invaders have been making repeated efforts to advance.

Northeast of Lake Ladoga, the Finns said, the defenders dispersed an entire Russian Ski battalion, killing 300 men.

It was estimated unofficially in Helsingfors that the Red Army has suffered well over 20,000 casualties on all fronts during the past week, with at least 5,000 killed and wounded in the Summa sector of the Karelian Isthmus, where the Russians launched a new offensive a week ago.

On the Karelian Isthmus, said the communique, the Russians failed yesterday in attempts to carry infantry troops into battle on sleds drawn by tanks. The Finns said they destroyed or put out of action 20 tanks during the day.

The Russians were reported to have attacked between Hatjalahti and Summa, with all attempts unsuccessful.

"The enemy launched four attacks during the day, supported by tanks,

Chute Patrols Keeping Finns Uneasy

Fear Russians Plan Mass Invasion Behind The Lines

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 7—(AP).— Possibility of attacks by parachuting machine-gunners, loosed far behind the lines, was advanced today as the Finns noted mysterious scouting activities by Soviet Russian planes over territory suitable to such a manoeuvre.

The Finns have reported the scotching of previous attempts on a small scale by marksmen who killed the parachutists in the air.

If great numbers should be dropped, however, it was said they might prove troublesome to the rear lines of the Karelian Isthmus defences and divert Finnish troops from the southeastern fronts where they have been holding the Russians at bay since the invasion began November 30.

The Soviet aerial scouts were sighted yesterday over the vast Saimaa Lake system, a sparsely-settled area north of Viborg (Viipuri).

Some military observers believed the Russians might try to drop sizeable detachments on the stretches of ice in this wild countryside where the chances of landing alive would be enhanced.

The Finnish army communique yesterday reported:

"In North Finland the enemy dropped a few parachute-jumpers. Their landing places are known."

Surprise Attacks.

It reported also that the Finns were employing an aerial innovation, bombarding Red army infantry encampments at night by the light of the Russian camp fires.

Couriers from the Karelian Isthmus front said Russian infantry was massed heavily in the Summa sector, 20 miles southeast of Viborg, and that, due to inadequate shelter, the troops were forced to build open fires which served as beacons for the night-flying Finns.

French Get Past Nazi Outposts

PARIS, Feb. 7 (CP Havas) — French patrols, filtering deep behind the German lines, were credited today with having gathered highly important information regarding German military positions in the sector to the west of the Saar River.

According to army quarters, the French patrols succeeded in worming their way past the German outposts without being detected and returned to their own lines without firing a shot.

Activity increased yesterday along the Western Front with the return of comparatively good weather. In no case, however, did operations extend beyond the limits of patrol work. Air operations were kept to a minmum on both sides.

This morning's official communique again advised that there was "nothing to report."

Lots Of Room In Flying For Canucks Says Federal Transport Official

TORONTO, Feb. 7—(CP).—J. R. K. Main, inspector for the civil aviation branch of the Department of Transport, Ottawa, said last night that young Canadians interested in aviation need not be deterred from choosing this as a vocation for fear of overcrowding.

There are many improvements that need to be made, and plenty of unsolved problems to challenge the ingenuity of those who want to make aviation a life study, he said. At the first annual banquet of the newly-formed Aeronautics Club at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Main substituted for J. A. Wilson, controller of civil aviation, whose plane was unable to leave Ottawa for Toronto in time for the meeting, owing to heavy weather conditions en route. Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, head of the British air mission to Canada, was a guest.

"The first problem facing the aviation industry," said the speaker, "is to interest the public in flying.

"The second is to gain the confidence of the public by maintaining a clean, accident-free record." In this respect, he said, trans-Canada Air Lines is making a "notable contribution."

Fool-Proof Planes.

"The third great need is for a fool-proof flivver," he declared.

Fourthly, gasoline will have to give way to diesel power as a safety factor.

"The fifth great need is for more and better airports.

"More air freight has been carried in Northern Canada by 'bush fliers' in recent years than in all of Great Britain, France, Germany and the United States combined," while 14,000 Canadians formed "almost 60 per cent. of the R.A.F. in the Great War," he told the young aeronautics students.

Members of the Aeronautics Club which Mr. Main addressed compose the first graduating class of the new two-year course in aerial navigation inaugurated at the University of Toronto two years ago."

50 Lumberjacks Trust Lone Shotgun To Fix Clawy Owl, Thief Of 19 Hats

NORANDA, Que., Feb. 7 — (CP). —A lone guard kept watch to-day for the mysterious Rogers Lake bird that has threatened to disrupt the normal day-to-day working of a Northern Quebec lumber camp.

As hardy lumberjacks, some with patches of sticking plaster marking their faces and many wearing borrowed caps, went about their jobs, J. A. Charlebois, Canadian International Paper Company guard, awaited with a shotgun the appearance of a screech owl.

One well-directed shot, Charlebois believes, will solve the mystery. For he and Provincial Policeman Georges Lortie who accompanied the guard on an investigation trip to the camp 55 miles from here are convinced a screech owl has been the source of all the trouble.

Lortie returned here yesterday with new tales to add to those which previously had reached the company's offices.

The 50 lumberjacks, who make their winter headquarters at Rogers Lake, have been the victims of attacks from the air since last fall. The attacks have been so fierce and so insistent that some of the men have threatened to leave their jobs. Others have expressed the belief that "the devil is after them."

Striking when the light is poor, in the early morning or at dusk, a bird has swept down suddenly on the men and variably has left its mark.

Nineteen men have lost their caps and a number of others have been clawed.

Rene Mercier, a pulp-cutter, clung to the bird for a moment, but received only a clawed eye for his pains. Antoine Boudreau, in charge of the camp and victim of seven attacks, once fired a shot into the semi-darkness and brought down a few feathers.

Traps have been set, tree traps, ground traps and, in some instances, rat traps. All have failed. Some of the more ingenious lumbermen tied flashlights to their heads hoping to keep the bird away.

The attacks were brought to the company's attention when a number of the workers threatened to quit their jobs. That was last week and Constable Lortie and Boudreau promptly set out for the camp, covering part of the snow-covered road from here to Rogers Lake by dog team.

British Fliers Get R.C.A.F. Pay In Canada

OTTAWA, Feb. 7. — Officers and airmen of the Royal Air Force transferred to Canada to assist in instructing fliers under the Commonwealth Air Training Plan will be paid on exactly the same basis as members of the Royal Canadian Air Force. The officers are now being issued commissions in the Canadian service for the duration of their stay in the Dominion. Their wives and dependents, if they remain in England, will be paid allowances according to the British scale. If they come to Canada, however, Canadian rates will apply.

Reports that British officers already here were under the handicap of being paid a lower rate than officers of the same rank in the Canadian force were denied by officials. Pay on the Canadian basis started the day they landed in the Dominion.

It is difficult to secure a fair comparison of the rates of pay in Britain and in Canada, as the British flier received allowances of a type not paid in the Dominion.

$7 a Day For Flying.

A Canadian flying officer if he is on the general list gets $7 a day, but only $5 if he is on the non-flying list. A British flying officer gets 18 shillings and 2 pence a day but after two years of service is raised to 1 pound 10 shillings.

After Honor-Trouble

do sometimes," P. A. Taverner, ornithologist of the National Museum, said to-day.

He said he did not think lack of food was the cause of the bird's sorties, which have had camp workers in a dither with its repeated attacks on them.

The ornithologist did not believe the attacker was a screech owl — it's about the size of a robin — for there were none in Noranda district. He said it likely was a great horned owl or probably a snowy owl from the far northern regions.

Owls usually attack only when their nests are threatened because they are timid creatures—the same as many other birds, he said. He related humorously how he was attacked several times by owls while near their nests "and they would have scratched my bald head if they had a chance."

The possibility of attacks by parachuting machine-gunners far behind the lines was advanced as the Finns noted mysterious scouting activities by Soviet planes over territory suitable for such a manoeuvre.

LONDON, Feb. 7 — (CP). — A large German mine exploded against a pier on the East Coast today, destroying the structure's central portion. Scores of windows in nearby resort hotels were shattered.

Another mine was washed ashore three miles away. A guard was placed around it pending the arrival of Admiralty experts. A third mine was washed ashore near a town on the southern coast.

At the time of his trial, French newspapers published pictures of the heavy-set Roos in a Nazi uniform. Such a photograph was reported to have been found in his home. He was arrested February 7, 1939, almost seven months before the war started.

He was accused of having furnished information to German agents on the movement on French troops in March, 1936, when Germany reoccupied the Rhineland and in September, 1938, during the crisis over Germany's claim to the Czecho-Slovak Sudeteniand.

Back To The Farm

VICENNES, Ind., Feb. 7—(CP). —The father of Dorothy Jean Foster Harrell, 13, was expected here today to take her back, against her wish, to the farm she fled for two weeks of married life with a 21-year-old relief project worker.

Homer Foster of near Petersburg told authorities he would see that his daughter resumed her seventh-grade school work.

Judge H. M. Robbins yesterday ordered her into his custody. Prosecutor Oscar Oexman said he would not press a charge that the girl gave false information in obtaining a marriage licence.

No Need to Conscript Man Power of Canada Gardiner Assures Prairie Electors As He Assails Lack Of Clothing For Troops

MARKINCH, Sask., Feb. 7 — (CP). — More men are willing to enlist in Canada's Army to-day than authorities can take care of and necessity of conscription of man power can be dismissed, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Agriculture Minister, assured electors of Melville constituency.

When the call for recruits went out the response was so great an immediate supply of sufficient clothing and boots was impossible and large numbers of enlisted men had to be sent home temporarily.

This shortage of clothing for soldiers was subject of the only criticism levelled at the Liberal Government in connection with the call for men for the First Division. Mr. Gardiner said yesterday in addressing meetings at Markinch and Dysart as he opened his campaign in Melville riding where he is Liberal candidate for the March 26 Federal election.

The Liberals, he claimed, were the "in-between" group of those in Canada with opinions as to the best method of prosecuting the war.

One group, including the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, urged conscription of wealth. Another group, including the Conservatives, opposed conscription of men to be sent out of Canada, but did not oppose conscripting men for home defence.

The Liberals had taken a definite stand against conscription of men or wealth, but proposed to provide men and money for the war effort.

The Liberal election victory in Quebec Province last autumn had been a clear indication that the people, in Quebec at least, approved the Liberal policy.

Mr. Gardiner said Prime Minister Mackenzie King had no intention of calling a general election without discussing the war effort with Parliament for at least a month.

Possibility of a big offensive on the European war front at the end of March or the beginning of April, need for a parliamentary vote on estimates before March 31 and criticism of the Federal Government by Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, however, had combined to force an appeal to the people. German propagandists had used the Hepburn "blast" Mr. Gardiner said, telling the German people, "The President of Canada had rebuked the Prime Minister for entering the war."

The Crown here offered a grain bag marked with A. Wellman's name. Witness had seen similar bags brought to his mill by Wellman, he said. Cross-examined by defence counsel, witness could not identify bags as one brought by Wellman to his mill.

Took Mail Into House

Edward Falconer, mail courier, testified he took mail occasionally into Wellman's home at request of Dr. Ilona Wellman, daughter of the slain couple, "because they both had heart conditions."

Wellman had two cows, three calves, two sows and three horses. He last saw Mr. and Mrs. Wellman at 10-10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 31. Mrs. Wellman was in bed. He had talked with both.

Wellman did his evening chores between 3:30 and 4 pm. because he did not like to use light in his barn. He (the witness) walked into the house on Tuesday morning and saw the pantry door open.

He walked to the bedroom door of Mr. Wellman's room, and saw nothing. He looked at Mrs. Wellman's bed and saw her apparently asleep. He did not notice anything unusual except the house was cold.

He went to the barn, where he heard cattle bawling. He went to the west corridor of the basement and saw a milk pail in the cow section of the stable under a cow. He turned away, then looked back and saw boots, one below the cow and the other behind it.

"Then I saw Mr. Wellman, he looked to be dead."

"I then went to the house and called Dr. Carleton and told him I thought Wellman was dead. I called Mrs. Reed, a neighbor, and then Dr. Robertson of Belleville, because he was a friend of the family.

Mrs. Reed discovered Mrs. Wellman's body in witness' presence, he said.

"She said something about waking her up, then she said she was dead."

Witness said bodies were not touched until police arrived. Witness said Wellman's grain when ground was always left on the wagon until used.

Strands of hair found on the broken rung of a chair from the home of the Milroys "are similar" to the samples of hair taken by police from the head of Reginald White, Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Attorney-General's Department, testified.

Dr. Frankish was permitted to give evidence over the strenuous objection of defence counsel, J. K. Sims and R. M. Meyers. The latter said that the samples of hair from White's head had been taken by Jail Governor E. G. Langridge without the permission of the accused.

"A man cannot be made to incriminate himself," Mr. Myers argued.

The lawyer then endeavored to prove this contention by reading a man could not be compelled to submit his feet for comparison with section of law that ruled that a foot prints.

"I can't rule that," Mr. Justice Makins said.

"If the hair test were detrimental this might be used against the defendant," said Mr. Meyers.

"We are objecting to the method that was used to get the sample of White's hair.

Behind The Finns

PARIS, Feb. 7 — (AP). — Premier Daladier's Radical Socialist Party to-day adopted a resolution calling upon the government "to take all necessary measures to permit Finland to continue to fight and win" her war against Russia.

The Radical-Socialist parliamentary group, meeting in the Chamber of Deputies, linked the outcome of the war in Finland with that in Western Europe.

The resolution said the party considers "the definite defeat of the Soviet aggression against Finland will hurt our enemies in their military power as well as in prestige."

Severe storms destroyed nearly two-thirds of Argentina's wheat crop.

THE WRECK of the British minesweeper Sphinx was found upside down on a beach on the northeast coast today. Twelve miles to the north the bodies of two naval men were recovered.

The 875-ton Sphinx, after being crippled by German air raiders Saturday, sank as she was being towed to port yesterday, the 24th British naval loss since the start of the war.

Fifty-four of the 100 men aboard were feared lost and five were known definitely to have been killed by the bombers.

Allen's Sentence Is Lengthened

TORONTO, Feb. 7—The appeal by the Attorney-General's Department of sentences passed on three men implicated in an armed hold-up near Lindsay in December was heard in Osgoode Hall. The three men were sentenced by Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay on December 29 and an appeal was brought in by the Attorney-General since it was believed the sentences were inadequate.

Daniel Berry, an Omemee man, was held up and robbed on the highway between Lindsay and Omemee and three men, Sydney York, Ernest Allen and George Gault, were subsequently arrested in Lindsay. At the trial, York was sentenced to nine months definite and nine months indefinite on a charge of armed robbery and a similar concurrent term for breaking, entering and theft. Ernest Allen received six months and George Gault a term of three years for armed robbery and a similar concurrent term for breaking, entering and theft. C. R. Magone, K.C., represented the Crown and W. R. Strike acted for the accused men.

The decision of the appeal judges, Robertson, C.J.O.; Masten and Henderson, J.J.T., was that the sentence of York be the same as Allen. In each case the time during which the appeal has been pending will count as time served in the two-year period. Gault's sentence was not interfered with; time that has elapsed will count in the terms of imprisonment.

War Bulletins

MELBOURNE (CP-Reuters) — Defence Minister Geoffrey Street announced today that after March 2,400 men will be enrolled monthly to reinforce the Australian Imperial Force of 20,000 which is shortly to embark for service overseas.

LONDON — (CP). — Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced in the House of Commons today that special measures would be taken to protect lightships as the result of German air attacks in which some members of lightship crews have been killed.

Lightships, Mr. Churchill said, were never specially protected in war before and had always been regarded by civilized nations as outside the scope of bombing, consequently immune from attack. He declared light floats would replace ships in certain cases.

LONDON — (CP Cable). — Joe Hermanewski, of Toronto, had lost contact with a brother he left behind in Poland 13 years ago. Attending London's Polish Catholic Church, he was told by a priest that his brother, Ted Hermanewski, also was in England.

They met—Joe a uniformed member of the Canadian Active Service Force, Ted a uniformed Polish sailor. Ted's destroyer, escaped from the Baltic, is now attached to the Royal Navy.

Red Gives Croll's Opponents Council Victory

WINDSOR, Feb. 7 (CP).—Opponents of Mayor David Croll held the upper hand in Windsor City Council today, thanks to the turnover of a Communist alderman.

When Alderman Thomas Raycraft threw in his lot with the insurgent group at last night's council meeting, the Mayor saw that his hold-out campaign no longer was feasible and granted the rival faction the main point of its bitter fight for majority rule.

Mayor Croll allowed his nine opponents and Raycraft to vote suspension of the by-law whereby a two-third vote was necessary to carry any measure before the council. The Croll faction of five was powerless to withstand that development.

Then the council suspended rules of procedure and gave first, second and third readings to a new procedure by-law that made only a majority necessary to carry a council measure. The goal the insurgents had sought since the 1940 council took office had been achieved without resort to another court appeal.

Alderman Raycraft told the Mayor before the meeting that he intended to swing behind the move

McGill Students Break Up Anti-War Rally

MONTREAL, Feb. 7 — (CP). — Declared dissolved at an impromptu meeting of a group of McGill University undergraduates, the McGill Committee of the Canadian Student Assembly was prepared today to present its case before an open meeting of the University Students' Society.

A meeting called yesterday by the committee to discuss the "full facts" of the assembly's recent national conference at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., was broken up by a group of protesting students before it could get underway.

At a subsequent meeting of the protesting students in another hall a block away, a resolution that the C.S.A. be dissolved at McGill was adopted as was a motion calling for a special meeting of Students' Society "for the purpose of disassociating ourselves from the C.S.A. and to vote on such motions as may be necessary to remove the C.S.A. from McGill."

The resolution calling for dissolution of the C.S.A., which followed one declaring the executive of that body "out of the office," added that "McGill students meeting as the Canadian Student Assembly, the former activities, resolutions and
